SAWYER, KNOWN AS 'FINGER MAN' KIDNAPER, TAKEN

THREE STILL SOUGHT

Alvin Karpis, Harry Campbell And Volney Davis At Large

NEW ORLEANS, May 4.—(AP)—Harry Sawyer, 44-year-old underworld character and 230-pound alleged "finger man" in the kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, wealthy St. Paul, Minn., banker, more than a year ago, was locked in the federal jail here today after his arrest last night near Pass Christian, Miss., by department of justice agents.

The federal operatives who have been scouring the country for months in a roundup of alleged Bremer kidnap conspirators, struck quietly and swiftly last night in apprehending Sawyer. The arrest was made as the fugitive sat in his parked automobile in front of a gulf coast gambling establishment. He offered no resistance and readily admitted his identity.

Sawyer, alias "Sea Lion," alias "Omaha Harry," alias "Harry Sandlovich," alias "Harry J. Porche," was rushed to New Orleans immediately after his arrest along with his wife, Gladys, who accompanied the federal agents here voluntarily and without charge.

Announcement of the capture was made this morning simultaneously in Washington by Edgar Hoover, director of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice, and in New Orleans by David W. McGee, head of the bureau of investigation here.

Arraigned before United States Commissioner R. H. Carter, Jr., Sawyer said he fully understood the charge against him and expressed a desire to be returned to St. Paul immediately. Carter fixed the amount of his bond at $100,000.

"Do you wish to make bond," the commissioner inquired.

"I haven't a chance to make any bond," Sawyer replied with a half grin.

"You will be removed to St. Paul as quickly as possible," Carter told Sawyer as a brace of federal agents, heavily armed, started their prisoner to the federal jail.

It was explained that Sawyer cannot be removed until his indictment is received here. Commissioner Carter said it had been mailed at St. Paul this morning and should reach here within the next day or so.

Sawyer's capture resulted from information given department of justice agents by two Harrison county, Miss., peace officers, William Simpson, a deputy sheriff, and A. C. De Mertz, Pass Christian motorcycle officer.

Simpson and De Mertz reported to federal operatives here that Sawyer appeared on the Mississippi gulf coast last November as a perfect stranger. They said he established a home for his wife and himself at Long Beach and soon attracted attention by his lavish spending.

Some months later he erected a frame structure which he converted into a negro gambling and dance hall. The hall was operated under the names of two local persons, but the backing, officers said, came directly from Sawyer.

With this information, McGee assigned agents to "shadow" Sawyer. He was easily identified, McGee said, by a smashed forefinger on his left hand and through photographs. The only material difference in Sawyer's appearance from the time he was last photographed was a 45-pound gain in weight.

With three operatives, McGee swooped down on Sawyer as he was seated coatless and hatless, in his car. He offered no resistance.

Sawyer's arrest, according to department of justice records, reduced to three the number of alleged chief conspirators in the Bremer abduction still at large. They are Alvin Karpis, sought as the ringleader of the kidnap gang, Harry Campbell and Volney Davis.

SNOW, RAIN BREAK DUST STORMS' GRIP

AMARILLO, Texas, May 4.—(AP)—Farmers whistled today and housewives sang as they swept, their thanks for snow and rain which broke the grip of dust storms on thousands of southwestern acres.

The carnival spirit which infused four-fifths of the dust belt even spread into western Kansas, the only one of five affected states failing to receive moisture. There, as low hanging clouds held a promise of rain, Red Cross officials abandoned plans to set up more emergency hospitals because of improved health conditions.

The rare sight of fields muddy or snow-covered had an electrical effect upon the hitherto dust-plagued residents of the Texas and Oklahoma Panhandles, eastern New Mexico and southeastern Colorado.

D. P. Trent, Oklahoma director of agricultural extension, saw the possibility of a feed and row crop for northwestern Oklahoma. For two months the gloomy word was "everything's ruined."

At Dalhart, Texas, where farmers even tried to "make rain" by bombarding the sky with explosives, two inches of snow swirled down.

HUNDREDS PLAN TO ATTEND FARM MASS MEET HERE

Session To Be Held To Protest Cotton Program Curtailment

Hundreds of farmers from 15 parishes of northeast Louisiana, as well as many other persons who are interested in the nation's cotton program, are expected to attend a mass meeting to be held Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at Central grammar school, across the street from the parish courthouse here. State speakers will discuss the cotton program and will give facts farmers ought to know in connection with the situation.

Ben F. Young of St. Joseph, chairman of the state cotton control committee and a member of the national advisory council, is urging cotton farmers from every parish within convenient traveling distance from Monroe to attend the meeting. While the session is intended primarily for farmers and others interested in the cotton program in northeast Louisiana, farmers from any section of the state will be welcomed.

A state-wide meeting of a similar nature will be held at Alexandria Saturday at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. At that time Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, will deliver an address which is expected to be of interest to all farmers in the cotton producing states.

Principal purposes of the meetings, it was stated, are to protest against abandonment or curtailment of agricultural adjustment administration processing taxes and to select representative farmers who will go to

SOLONS AWAIT HIGH COURT NRA RULING

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(AP)—Congressional leaders, split widely over NRA's future, today looked definitely toward the nine secluded justices of the supreme court for guidance in determining how long and how powerfully the new blue eagle will reign.

Signs appeared that if the austere high court, in a burst of speed, ruled on NRA's constitutionality before recessing for the summer early next month, congress would withhold its final say on the extension measure until this measuring stick was available.

Such celerity on the part of the court would be unusual in a case of this importance. It would not be unprecedented, however, and there were some who believed that the court, at its regular private meeting this afternoon, had opened a discussion of the Schechter live poultry code case.

SOLDIERS BONUS IS EXPECTED TO PASS IN SENATE

Democrat Chiefs Concede Full Cash Payment Will Be Voted

FIGHT IS CONTINUED

Decision On Nature Of Measure To Adopt Is Not Yet Made

WASHINGTON, May 4. (AP)—Democratic leaders conceded privately today the senate would vote full cash payment of the soldiers bonus next week, despite open warnings of a presidential veto.

Still planning to continue their fight over the week-end for the Harrison compromise, which the president is reported willing to sign, the administration leaders today apparently gave up hope of mustering sufficient strength to win.

The only question seemed to be whether the senate would favor the inflationary Patman bill, already approved by an overwhelming house majority, or the American Legion sponsored Vinson measure, providing for payment of the certificates out of ordinary revenues.

Back of the bonus measure, a log jam of administration legislation is pending in the senate. Democratic chiefs, with congress in its fifth month and with only one major Roosevelt measure — relief — enacted, appeared anxious today to get rid of the bonus proposition.

They predicted, however, a veto of the Patman bill would be sustained in the senate. But they were doubtful whether they could uphold a veto of the more conservative Vinson measure.

For that reason, they were considering throwing their strength to the inflationary bill as a strategic move.

Republican leaders, who are supporting the Vinson plan, flatly predicted it could be passed over a veto.

Once the veterans issue is out of the way, administration leaders said, congress would get to work on the legislative program recommended by the president. They plan to call up the vital NRA extension resolution immediately after passage of the bonus, probably Tuesday or Wednesday. Monday, the senate finance committee will begin work in executive session on the big social security bill, which next to NRA legislation is considered by democrats the session's most essential piece of legislation.

DREADED SPIDER HITS MISSISSIPPI

Child Fights For Life After Being Bitten By 'Black Widow'

JACKSON, Miss., May 4.—(AP)—The dreaded "black widow" spider has struck in Mississippi.

His victim is little Jo Anne Coward, two and one-half year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Coward of Pearson, Rankin county.

The child is confined at a local hospital, waging the bravest battle of her young life against the poisonous effects of the deadly spider, whose bite is described as "worse than a tarantula," and more feared than that of a rattlesnake.

Two out-of-state deaths have already been attributed to the "black widow," and physicians are waging a fight here to avert a third fatality.

Little was known of the "black widow" spider in this section until recent stories appeared in local newspapers warning of the deadly insect.

In fact, Jo Anne's parents were not certain what troubled their little daughter Thursday afternoon when she ran to her mother screaming, saying that something had bitten her as she played about the yard of the family home.

The child was bitten on the leg. Swelling immediately set in, and she

WIFE PLEADS FOR BERGDOLL

Mrs. Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, wife of the fugitive accused as America's arch slacker during the World war, has arrived in this country from Germany to plead for his pardon. She and her four children are shown as their ship arrived in New York. Attorney General Cummings said there would be "no clemency from the department of justice" for Bergdoll, who fled the United States 15 years ago to escape a jail sentence as a draft dodger. VOLCANIC THREAT HEARD RUMBLING AT MOUNT ARARAT

Violent Earthquakes Cause Activity Where Noah's Ark Landed

ISTANBUL, May 4. (AP)—Violent earthquakes spreading death and destruction over Turkey today were reported to have started Mount Ararat, the 17,000-foot Armenian peak where tradition says Noah's ark landed, rumbling with volcanic activity.

Reports said two more violent shocks in the series of quakes racking that region had raised the estimated toll of dead and injured to 2,000. A total of 1,600 houses were said to have been destroyed, with 25 villages completely wiped out.

(A Tass (official Soviet) news agency dispatch to Moscow quoted reports from Teheran, Iran (Persia), that 500 persons had been killed, with many injured and at least three villages destroyed in Mazanderan province by quakes continuing for several weeks.)

Word that snow-covered Ararat, culminating point of the Armenian plateau, was displaying volcanic activity was said to have spread new terror through the entire quake-stricken area.

The volcanic activity was noticed, according to the reports, after the first of seven major shocks in the Kars region near the Turco-Russian border. In addition, many minor shocks have been reported.

Increasing the panic in the area was the unusual phenomenon of red water rushing through fissures in the earth, some of them said to be 30 feet wide, opened by the quakes.

ACTION IN CHINA IS THREATENED BY JAPS

TOKYO, May 4.—(AP)—Japan has threatened "drastic action" in north China, alleging Chinese violations of a demilitarized zone, the Rengo (Japanese) news agency reported today from Hsinking, Manchoukuo.

The Japanese army, "because of an insincere Chinese attitude has come to a serious decision," the agency reported. "It cannot permit such actions as the flouting of the Tangku agreement and must take drastic action unless Yu Hsueh Chung reflects and mends his ways."

General Yu Hsueh Chung, chairman of the provincial government at Hopei, China, was accused of moving soldiers into forbidden areas of the demilitarized zone April 30.

District Court Will Open Here Tomorrow

The spring jury term of the district court will open here tomorrow morning with the following cases set for trial during the opening day:

Ollie Brandon, negro, murder.

Another Victim Of Fatal Accident Is Los Angeles Resident

SAN DIEGO, Calif., May 4.—(AP)—John Coogan, father of Jackie Coogan, former juvenile film star, and two other persons, one of the reported to be Junior Durkin, child actor, were killed late today in an automobile accident 55 miles east of here.

The body of the third victim was identified as that of Robert Horner of Los Angeles.

Previously the possibility that Patricia Ellis, film beauty, may have been the third victim of the mishap was expressed in Hollywood by Toby Wing, screen actress.

Miss Wing said that the actress was in the Coogan party when it left here early today for the Coogan ranch at Pine Valley in the mountains back of San Diego. Jackie Coogan, fourth member of the group, was injured, but how seriously was not immediately known.

BUSCHE BROTHERS THOUGHT TRAPPED

Two Missouri Bandits Believed Hiding In Woods In Arkansas

SEARCY, Ark., May 4.—(AP)—A posse of officers late tonight believed they had trapped Clarence and Freddie Busche, Missouri bandit brothers, in a woodland 20 miles west of here after the fugitives abandoned their stolen car when Sheriff T. C. Plant and deputies opened fire on them.

Sheriff Plant quickly summoned sheriffs and officers from surrounding counties and converged on the area where the brothers fled into the woods on the edge of White county.

The car abandoned by the two men Sheriff Plant identified as the fugitive Missouri brothers wanted for murder, was said to have been the coupe two robbers stole from three Conway women in a highway holdup two weeks ago.

Sheriff Plant of White county and Deputy R. L. Smith were on the lookout for the fugitives after they sped through Little Rock earlier in the day and escaped toward El Paso to

Lost German Plane Is Found Wrecked

BERLIN, May 4.—(AP)—A big Junkers passenger plane missing for four days was found crashed near the Czech border with all seven of its occupants dead, the air ministry announced tonight.

Among those killed in the crash was Major-General Hoering of the German reichswehr (regular army), his wife and child.

The ship apparently lost its bearings in fog April 30 and cracked up against the Schneeberg mountain in the Fichte chain, the ministry reported.

The plane, which was en route from Stuttgart to Breslau when the accident occurred, was an air ministry service machine used in conveying officials in

SHREVEPORT HIT BY HEAVY RAINS; DAMAGE UNKNOWN

Many Families Forced To Leave Homes Inundated By Water

POLICE HELP IS ASKED

SHREVEPORT, La., May 4.—(AP)—J. W. Cronk, U. S. meteorologist here, at 9:30 p.m. issued the following warning for Red river:

"If the five-inch rainfall reported today at Sherman is general in that section, Red river will be at flood from Denison, Texas, to Fulton, Ark., during the next three to five days."

Rainfall in Shreveport tonight totalled about two inches within five hours and it was still raining hard at 9:30. The precipitation was so great that, despite recently completed drainage projects, many streets and a few low spots were under water several feet in depth.

The stage of Red river here was 21.6 this morning. Flood stage is 39 feet, so there is no apprehension here. The stage at Fulton, Ark., this morning was 22.4 feet and flood stage there is 25 feet.

Mr. Cronk earlier today issued the following flood warnings for Little and Sulphur rivers:

"Little river—Flood warning: Indefinite rise at Whitecliffs for about three days, depending on rainfall.

The Sulphur river already is at flood, the reading being 26.9 feet this morning at Naples, Texas, where flood stage is 22 feet.

Torrential rainfall here this afternoon and night caused unestimated property damage, forcing many families to leave their homes and crippled transportation in three sections of the city.

Police were beseiged with calls from several sections. The "St. Paul bottoms" near the downtown district, was inundated in some spots by as much as six feet of water.

The city boat club on Cross lake was asked to assist refugees in several marooned neighborhoods. Texas street and other downtown thoroughfares witnessed water extending over the curbing.

LEVEE PROJECT CONTRACT GIVEN

Work Order On West Monroe Dyke System Is Being Awaited

J. D. Jones of Jones and Bland, successful bidders for the three dirt projects in West Monroe, which will constitute the remainder of the dirt work to be required for the West Monroe levee, Saturday had received formal notice of the awarding of the contract. Bids were opened in April by the government engineers' office at Vicksburg, but approval by the war department at Washington was required before formal announcement of the contract could be made.

Work on the contract must start within 20 days from the time notice to proceed is received. The contracting firm has not yet received this notice, but is making preparations to begin the work.

The amount of the three contracts was slightly less than 50,000 and the number of yards of dirt to be moved was placed at 221,000. Practically the entire amount to be spent will be for labor, as little material will be required for the dirt levees.

Thus far the only portion of the levee that has been constructed on the west side is that lying to the south of that town, which protects it from water which would back up into the bayous during flood periods. Another

Public Reception Planned At Local Institution Monday

An official visit by Dr. James Monroe Smith, president of Louisiana State university, to Northeast Center Monday will focus public attention on the local educational institution which since last October has been operated as an important unit of L. S. U.

A public reception in honor of the university president and Mrs. Smith will be held in the gymnasium at Northeast Center. Lieut.-Governor James A. Noe and Mrs. Noe will assist Dean C. C. Colvert and Mrs. Colvert in receiving the guests, who will include prominent city and parish officials and leaders in business and civic activities throughout the area. The reception will begin at 8 o'clock and will continue until 10 o'clock.

During the day President Smith will pay a visit to all the departments of the college, and will meet the various members of the faculty.

Though the occasion marks the first official visit of the president to Northeast Center since its incorporation in the state university system, Dr. Smith is no stranger to Monroe.

As an incident to the coming of the president, Dean Colvert announced Saturday plans for expanding the educational service Northeast Center is designed to give its students who come mainly from this section of the state. Beginning next term, which will open in September, a course in business administration will be added to the curriculum. Another added department will be that of journalism. The first two years' instruction in these subjects will be available to students at Northeast Center. Graduates in these courses

GASSAWAY TO FLAY HUEY LONG AGAIN

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(AP)—Oklahoma's cowboy congressman, Percy L. Gassaway, is going to invade New York City next Tuesday to "burn Huey Long down again."

"I have accepted an invitation to address the Motion Picture club of New York and I mean to burn Huey Long down again," the former district court judge who brought his ten-gallon hat and boots with him to congress, said. "I don't know yet just where I'll strike him this time but I'll have plenty to say."

Gassaway recalled this will be the first opportunity he has had to attack the Louisiana senator's share-the-wealth plan since his radio address four weeks ago. At that time he facetiously referred to Long's plan to give every person "a lousy $5,000" and suggested twice that amount.

SEVEN INDICTED FOR ATTEMPT TO CORRUPT JURORS

NAMES ARE WITHHELD

Accused Persons Had Allegedly Caused Murder Case Mistrial

JENA, La., May 4.—(Special)—Sheriff L. M. Davis said tonight that seven persons were indicted at a special session of the LaSalle parish grand jury on charges of attempting to corrupt petit jurors and witnesses in the murder trial of Louis Hamilton, 29-year-old Tulane medical student, Floyd Miller and "Buck" Shepard.

Names of the persons indicted were withheld pending their arrest by the sheriff's department. Sheriff Davis said he would not be given warrants for their arrest until Monday, and that the arrests would be made on that day.

The only statement regarding the identity of the indicted persons that the sheriff would make was that all of them do not reside in LaSalle parish.

Five of the accused persons were indicted on charges of attempting to bribe petit jurors. One was indicted on a charge of attempting to corrupt petit jurors, and one was charged with attempting to prevent witnesses from testifying before a grand jury.

Charges in the cases arose from a mistrial declared in the district court here last Monday when Judge Wiley R. Jones sustained a motion by District Attorney Harry Fuller. At the time the mistrial was declared, ten jurors had been accepted after four days of examination of talesmen.

The district attorney alleged in his motion that attempts had been made to bribe and intimidate prospective jurors.

In sustaining the motion and discharging the jury, the judge gave the state and defense attorneys until Friday noon to file a motion for a change of venue, and May 13 was set as the date for holding the trial. No motion for a change of venue was filed, and the case will be tried here on the scheduled date.

Called into a special session by Judge Jones, the grand jury began work Thursday morning to investigate the charges of attempting to bribe and intimidate jurors. The report of the grand jury was rendered at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The murder trial involved the three defendants in connection with the death of young Hamilton's father, Dr. Fred Hamilton, former LaSalle parish coroner. Dr. Hamilton's charred body was found in the remains of his combination office apartment building June 10, 1933.

RUSSIA'S MILITARY STRENGTH REVEALED

MOSCOW, May 4.—(AP)—Russia's full military strength in the air was officially revealed for the first time today.

The Soviet now has more than 3,000 military planes, it was announced, with more than 800 concentrated in the far east.

Participating in May day maneuvers were the formidable far eastern concentration, 800 bombers, fighting planes and pursuit ships which roared back and forth across Red Square in Moscow, 350 ships at Leningrad, 350 at Minsk near the Polish border, 300 at Kiev, 170 at Kharkov and 100 at Rostov-on-Don in the north Caucasian area.

The May day demonstrations revealed further that the Soviet's oft-vaunted strength in tanks was no empty boast.

Thousands paraded at key Russia cities, 500 at Moscow, hundreds in the far east and 2,030 at eight other key Russian cities.

Youth Confesses Strange Mania For Starting Fires

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP)—Every time he suffered a disappointment, Francis McHugh told police today, he would assuage his feelings with a few drinks and then set somebody's house afire.

McHugh, 20-year-old high school student and philosophy reader, was held on a charge of arson after he told of setting 20 fires during his five month "career as a pyromaniac."

The youth approached two detectives watching firemen extinguish a small blaze in an apartment house this morning and said:

"Gentlemen, take me in. I'm the man you want for this fire and I can't go on any longer. I'm afraid I'll kill someone."

The detectives recalled they had questioned him about a fire several weeks ago. McHugh said they were as nice to him then that he wanted them to be credited with his apprehension.

Although only one of the blazes he claimed to have started gained serious proportions, Fire Marshal Brophy termed the youth "the most dangerous sort of firebug," because of his alcoholic tendencies.

The student said his first fire was set last December.

He had gone to Greenwich Village with another young man to call on a girl, he said, "but his companion left him outside, and he felt so downcast about it that he had a few drinks and then set the place on fire.

It gave him a "devilish sort of happiness," he said, so he set fire to two other buildings before going home.

"Then, gentlemen," he told the police, "my career as a pyromaniac was launched."

Brothers Declare Cotton Picker Ready For Action

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 4.—(AP)—Two brothers, with memories of tired backs and sore knees from picking cotton on a farm back in Texas, stood beside a 2,100-pound machine today, and announced, "she's ready."

The brothers—John D. and Mack D. Rust—smiled as they announced a dream come true—a mechanical cotton picker they believe will do the work of from 50 to 100 men.

Experimental models have been shown by the Rust brothers before—at experiment stations and at their business here—but the new model, practically the same as it will look when it is placed on the market in 1936, will make its debut for the general public during the national cotton show here next week.

The machine consists primarily of an endless belt carrying several hundred smooth wire spindles. As it passes over the row of cotton, the rotating spindles automatically moistened, penetrate the plants. The moisture causes the open cotton to adhere to the rotating spindles and be wrapped around them and pulled from the burr. The cotton then is stripped from the spindles and delivered by a suction fan to the container.

The machine will cover about an acre per hour, the new pull-model can be pulled and powered by an ordinary row-crop farm tractor, being hitched or unhitched, freeing it for other work.

John D. says that it costs approximately one-fourth of the value of cotton to pay for its harvesting by hand and that often thousands of bales are left in the fields because of lack of help. The new machine, he says, can be operated at a cost of 50 cents per acre.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May 4. (Special)—I don't know which was the littliest in the U. S. Chamber of Commerce versus Roosevelt argument. The president he got sore, and the "leading industrialists," they got sore. And it ended in a tie that brought no glory on either one. Mr. Roosevelt should have kidded 'em, for they left a great opening.

NO ACTION TAKEN HERE ON LETTERS

Any Move Must Be Made By U. S. Attorney, Says Inspector

Any action that might be taken in Monroe toward prohibiting the use of the mails in furthering the "dime-letter" chain which has poured into this town like a flood must originate with the United States attorney for this district, who has his headquarters in Shreveport, in the opinion of L. W. Davis, postal inspector. Thus far no ruling has been received here on the legality of the chain, although in some sections of the country government officials have started investigations.

It has been pointed out that anyone who participates in the chain to the extent of sending such letters through the mails might be held technically guilty in a ruling by federal authorities, but that the originators of the chain, or anyone using "dummy" names, with the intention of getting all the money from several successive progressions, would be more likely to be charged with using the mails to defraud.

Arrests of two persons were reported Saturday in San Antonio, Texas, and investigations were also said to be in progress in Fort Worth.

Meantime, the ever-widening wave of letters continued to increase and it was estimated at the postoffice that between 2,000 and 3,000 additional letters were received Friday. Because of the fact that the postoffice closed at noon Saturday the number that had been received for that day could not be obtained. The number of chain letters received Friday was more than twice the number received Thursday. There appeared to be every likelihood that by Monday the postoffice will be deluged with such mail.

Chains in which only a dime is enclosed to the person whose name is at the top of the list will pay $1,562.50 for the investment of not more than 25 cents if the continuation remains unbroken. Dollar chains similarly, of course, would pay more than $15,000 for the investment of $1.

WORK RENEWED ON CHURCH PROJECT

Building operations were renewed on the educational building of the First Baptist church the past week and outside columns have been poured. These are to serve as supports for the tabernacle roof. Six huge all-steel bow-string trusses are to span the building and support the roof.

Work was halted when finances ran low late last year but now with all bills paid and a small balance in the treasury, it is possible to proceed with construction, stated Frank Masling, chairman of the building committee. The sum of $3,500 is required for the contruction contemplated in order to roof over the second floor and make it suited to the holding of services each Sunday throughout the summer.

Today, as the first Sunday in the month, is designated as "cash day," and a large sum of money is expected to be raised which will be used to pay for the immediate construction which will require about one month to complete.

The New York state assembly has passed a bill providing for compulsory use of illuminated license plates on automobiles.

INFANT PIONEERS IN DISPUTE

Woman, Aged 106, Learns To Drive An Automobile

Learning to drive an auto at the age of 106 years, and having now reached the age of 108, is the unusual record of Mrs. Margaret E. Hartfield, residing near Purvis, Miss., who has just returned from a visit paid her granddaughter, Mrs. Nettie Beach of 1217 South Second street, Monroe. But this is not the only claim for unusual distinction possessed by Mrs. Hartfield, for she has been the mother of 19 children of whom 17 are now living.

Mrs. Hartfield was born on April 25, 1827, near Purvis, Miss., not far distant from her present home. She married as a young woman and her husband was later killed in action in the Civil war. Years later she married a second time. Her second husband died about four years ago.

Mrs. Hartfield's home is 12 miles from Purvis and she found it necessary often to make a trip to town, and her children and grandchildren were not always able to drive her when she desired to go shopping or visiting. This led her two years ago to learn to drive a car, the intricacies of operation of which she mastered almost as easily as a woman much younger, and it is said to be a no uncommon thing for her to drive the 12 miles to town and back by herself.

Speaking of her grandmother, Mrs. Beach stated that she has always been possessed of an unusually robust constitution and that she has never been so ill as to keep her in bed. She weighs about 155 pounds and is rather heavy-set for her height. In general appearance she does not look older than a woman of 65, Mrs. Beach said.

"Grandmother's birthday and mine are the same, April 25, and she always endeavors to spend that day with me. That is why she came to Monroe this year," Mrs. Beach explained. "After a visit here she went to El Dorado and visited and then returned to her home."

There is a wide gap in the ages of the two women as Mrs. Beach is now but 40 years old. Mrs. Beach's mother, Mrs. Melissa Slade, did not live to the age of her mother, her death occurring when she was 65 years old.

"Grandmother seldom uses glasses to read, and she writes long and interesting letters," Mrs. Beach said. Her memory is excellent and she can recall events that happened as far back at 1831, and is said to be an interesting entertainer. She is popularly known in and about Purvis as "Grandma."

Mrs. Beach stated that there are six living generations in the family at this time, but she said that while her grandmother was well aware of the number, she would not disclose how many grandchildren she possesses. In fact the aged woman is averse to publicity and when she suspected that her granddaughter was seeking information that might later be published in a newspaper, she refused to talk further about her family.

Jonesboro

The Women's Missionary society of the Methodist chuch met at the church for a stewardship program. Mrs. Carmen Thomas presided at the meeting, and the following program was presented:

Song, "More Like The Master;" prayer, by Rev. G. A. Morgan; scripture readings, "Stewardship of Substance," by Mrs. Cecil Garrett; "Stewardship of Service," by Mrs. George Littlefield; "Stewardship of Self," by Mrs. Carmen Thomas. A vocal duet was rendered by Mrs. S. Kirkland and Mrs. H. W. Ayers.

Mrs. A. E. Woodward, conference leader from Ringgold, then gave an address on stewardship.

The entire Methodist auxiliary of Hodge and several ladies of Jonesboro and Ringgold were the guests of the Jonesboro organization. The young women's circle acted as host.

The Baptist W.M.S. met at the church for a social hour, with good attendance. The program was rendered by the following members: Mrs. P. H. Key, Mrs. N. H. Mailhos, Mrs J. L. Dodge, Mrs. T. B. Pardue. The songs "Where the Gates Swing Outward Ever" and "When They Ring Those Golden Bells" were sung as special requests.

After the program delicious refreshments were served by the social committee of the church.

The Thursday evening auction bridge club met with Mrs. Tom Cox as hostess. The reception room of Mrs. Cox's home was resplendent with roses and a profusion of spring flowers. In the games of bridge Mrs. H M. Gatlin received a lovely box of dusting powder for her high score prize. M. Paul Stinson won a shaving combination set as the gentleman's prize. Mrs. Cox served strawberry shortcake topped with whipped cream and punch to the following members of the club: Mr. and Mrs. S. Kirkland, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Bass, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Gatlin, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stinson and Mrs. O. A. Gaar.

The members of the Jonesboro Art Club held the regular weekly meeting with Mrs. D. D. McDonald as hostess. The club planned a picnic to be held in the near future, and have as guests their husbands and other invited guests. During the social hour the hostess served sandwiches, cookies and tea to the guests and club members: Mesdames. Charles Patison, Walter Braswell, Terrell Ben Johnston, Stewart Martin, H. W. Ayers, George Littlefield, W. P. Miller, David Jefress, Stanley Lewis and Paul Stinson.

Mrs. Nelson Michaud entertained the members of her Wednesday afternoon contract bridge club in her home in Hodge. The prize for high score went to Mrs. W. C. McDonald, Jr. Mrs. Michaud presented her guest, Mrs. John Kelley, with a package of rare soap and powder. A delicious plate luncheon was served to the following ladies: Mesdames, Charles Moore, John E. Kelley, Lila Dickson, Steve Michaud, Douglass McLean, John Michaud, W. M. McBride, Tom Dennis, Clark Rankin, Clark Rankin, A. G. McKenzie, M. L. Dickerson, Tom Carlin, W. C. McDonald, Jr., Charles Kelley and T. D. Callaway.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS VISIT POWER PLANT

Forty Camp Fire girls, Saturday morning left for Sterlington. The trip was made in a bus of the municipal street railway loaned through courtesy of the management of the company in order that the girls might continue their Saturday trips to nearby points in pursuance with the program of Camp Fire designated as "Know Your Town."

Arriving in Sterlington the girls spent many hours in the plant of the Louisiana Power and Light company, where officials assigned guides to show and explain the workings of a concern of this kind which provides a large part of the lights and power for three states.

After their inspection they enjoyed a picnic lunch in a grove of trees near the plant.

The return was made late in the afternoon.

Great Britain's recent reduction in motor car taxes has resulted in giving a substantial export business U. S. automobile manufacturers.

For Highway Robbery!

YOUR WORN OUT SPARK PLUGS

Millions of car owners are being robbed of gas, oil, power and smooth engine performance by old, worn out spark plugs. The Champion Spark Plug dealers in your neighborhood have organized a Committee of Vigilantes to put these modern highway robbers on the spot. They will inspect, clean, and test your spark plugs and show you why all spark plugs, even Champions, should be changed every 10,000 miles or once a year.

DICK TRACY

"CUTIE", I THINK YOUR SYSTEM FOR PREVENTING THE BULLS FROM SURPRISING YOU IN THE NIGHT IS GREAT.

SURE! I LIVE IN MY HOUSE IN THE DAYTIME, AND SLEEP IN MY WILDCAT-GUARDED CAVE AT NIGHT.

CHESTER GOULD

GEE, I'M ANXIOUS TO SEE HOW IT WORKS AGAIN.

YOU SEE, WE CAN SLEEP IN PERFECT SAFETY IN THE CAVE BECAUSE THE ONLY ENTRANCE IS THROUGH THIS DOOR.

LOOK AT THOSE BABIES! EACH A REAL MAN-KILLING OZARK WILDCAT, OR BOBCAT, AS SOME PEOPLE CALL 'EM.

THE BARS ON EACH SIDE ALLOW US TO WALK THROUGH TO THE SLEEPING ROOM OF THE CAVE.

THEN WHEN I'M INSIDE, I REACH UP AND PULL THE ROWS OF BARS RIGHT BACK LIKE THIS, SEE?

NOW ANYBODY THAT COMES INTO THIS ROOM BACK HERE HAS GOT TO WALK THROUGH THAT ROOM OF WILDCATS FIRST! VICIOUS KILLERS THEY ARE TOO. I KEEP 'EM HALF-STARVED SO THEY'RE GOOD AND HUNGRY.

"CUTIE"- IT'S GREAT! IT'S ABSOLUTELY PERFECT!

YOU'VE GOT BETTER PROTECTION THAN IF YOU HAD THE MARINES OUT THERE, "CUTIE"!

BUT THOSE CATS! HOW CAN YOU SLEEP WITH THEM SNARLING AND JUMPING OUT THERE?

MEANWHILE, LET US GET BACK TO DICK TRACY, PAT AND YELLOWPONY.....

OUR SPLITTING UP AND SCOUTING THE COUNTRY IN THREE DIFFERENT DIRECTIONS WAS A GREAT IDEA! NOW WE KNOW WE'VE GOT OUR QUARRY SPOTTED.

AND YELLOWPONY WAS THE LUCKY ONE. HIS TERRITORY WAS THE ONE THAT YIELDED FRUIT.

FOR HOURS ME LAY ON BELLY WATCHING THE HOUSE. FIRST, NO SEE ANYBODY-THEN SOON YELLOWPONY SEE ARSON, HIS SISTER, AND ANOTHER WHITE MAN-THEY GO IN THAT CAVE OVER THERE IN HILL... ..NO COME OUT!

MAY 5:

HOUSE EMPTY- NOBODY IN ROOMS. ME TAKE RIFLE FROM BEDROOM.

SEE, TRACY! YELLOWPONY'S RIGHT. THEY MUST BE IN THAT CAVE.

WE MUST BE CAREFUL BOYS - IT MAY BE A TRAP.

WELL-THEY MAY BE IN THERE.. BUT IT LOOKS SCREWY TO ME.

HEY IN THERE.. COME ON OUT IN THE NAME OF THE LAW- UNDERSTAND? HEY-YOU IN THERE!

LET'S PUSH THE DOOR DOWN!

YELLOWPONY GO IN - SHOOT 'EM OUT.

TAKE IT E-A-S-Y, BOYS - TAKE IT EASY!

LAWYERS TACKLE RELIEF PROBLEMS

Legal Knots Said To Be Delaying President's Big Work Plan

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(AP)—Lawyers in half a dozen government divisions sought today to loosen legal knots said to be delaying President Roosevelt's four billion dollar works program.

Some of the problems at which they were said to be working included:

Determination of a method by which the rural electrification division can keep its work from being restricted to those dozen states that have set up rural electrification authorities.

Fixing definite policies to be followed by the rural settlement division in buying lands and moving persons from farms that are not fertile to others that will produce.

Drafting executive orders which will clothe the applications, allotment, progress, rural electrification and grade crossing elimination divisions with proper authority to carry out their duties.

Definite figures to show the amount to which each state would be entitled under complicated formulae laid down for distribution of funds for highway and grade crossing elimination work.

Pending development of these questions and a wide variety of policies still to be laid down, most officials shut themselves into their offices to work. Morris L. Cooke, head of the rural electrification division, paused long enough today to outline a few of the objectives of his section.

They called for: Building 100,000 miles of power lines to give electricity to from 750,000 to 1,000,000 farm homes; giving an outlet for the power generated at federal plants in the Tennessee valley at Boulder dam, Grand Coulee, Bonneville, Fort Peck and elsewhere; making the projects pay for themselves in 20 years and keeping them out of private competition so far as possible.

OUTLINES WORK RELIEF PROGRAM

Sounding a new note of optimism, President Franklin D. Roosevelt outlined his work relief program to the nation in a speech pledging "no sectional, no political distinctions" in distributing the $4,000,000,000 fund. Speaking from the oval room of the White House in one of his fireside radio chats, the president said that never since his inauguration had he felt so unmistakably the atmosphere of recovery as he does now. City Briefs

Little 19-months-old Joe Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Brown of West Monroe, who underwent an emergency appendicitis operation at St. Francis sanitarium recently, has been removed home.

Six members of Teflis Grotto, headed by Monarch Henry C. Ray, Jr., left early Saturday for Shreveport where they boarded a special train with members of the Grotto of that city, for Beaumont, Texas. In Beaumont the spring ceremonial is being held over the week-end.

Mrs. Berney Oakland underwent a successful operation in a New Orleans hospital on Friday, according to word that was received in Monroe. She was taken to that city earlier in the week.

All who raise vegetables for the market in Ouachita parish are urged to attend a public meeting to be held Monday at 7:30 p. m. at the courthouse, when it is proposed to form an association. A similar meeting was held recently but without positive results. This time it is planned to complete the organization of this group.

H. J. Fernandez, manager of the Monroe Traffic bureau, will leave tonight for New Orleans to attend the two-day session of the Louisiana public service commission. Hearing on the proposed higher rates for freight on railroads in the state will be held.

Luther Reed announces that he will call a meeting some day this week for the formal organization of the Monroe Real Estate board. An informal meeting was held a fortnight ago. It is proposed to admit realtors from Rayville, Bastrop and Ruston to the Monroe organization.

Announcement is made by the First Baptist church that Mrs. D. C. Pate, of Shreveport, will come to Monroe on May 27 as approved worker for the vacation Bible school of Louisiana and will lead workers in their preparations for the opening of the school on June 10. A week's training course in Sunday school work will be conducted and it is confidently expected that the largest attendance ever will be present.

Mrs. W. D. Combs has returned from Little Rock, where she has been visiting relatives and friends for the past three weeks.

Delbert Evans, who has been an operator in marionette shows in the west, has returned to his home in Monroe for a short visit. His engagements took him as far west as Los Angeles, where he appeared two weeks ago.

Woodrow Wilson, former employe of the Paramount theater, now a student in Louisiana State university, spent a short time in Monroe Saturday, coming up from Baton Rouge on a business trip.

The city council of West Monroe will meet in regular session on Monday night. Usual routine business will occupy the attention of the members and other business matters are to be considered.

No decision has as yet been made as to the purchase of land near Major McGuire park, West Monroe, by the Ouachita Parish Fair association. Rev. George H. Dierlamm, manager of the fair, stated that a decision will be reached shortly, so that in case the land is purchased, there will be sufficient time to complete necessary buildings before the fair is held this fall.

BAG FIRM TO GIVE CONTRACT MONDAY

The Bancroft Bag company in West Monroe, which is to contruct a large new plant located in the Ransom addition, West Monroe, near its present building, will award the contract for the cement work on Monday, it was stated Saturday.

This will call for construction of footings, foundations, floors and all other cement work. The contract for steel has been awarded to the International Steel company of Evansville, Ind., it was stated.

When the second contract is awarded, construction will be started and will proceed rapidly toward completion.

The new building will give four greater floor space and will enable the company to use the present plants as a warehouse for storage.

Cotton Week

Fashion favors COTTON for Spring and Summer for every occasion

This week the world's most fashion-conscious nation pays homage to COTTON . . . the King of the Southland . . . and Queen of fashion for Summer. Here are just a few of our cotton fabrics. What a bold, bizarre, colorful, fascinating picture they present. It should inspire any woman to an entire cotton wardrobe. When you look over the bolts and bolts of cottons here—you'll see these particular bright stars—seersuckers, vibrant with color . . . gorgeous eyelets in beautiful shades—the loveliest organdies you've ever seen that will dance under summer moons. We could go on and on to show you that cotton and charm and chic have more in common than just beginning with the letter "C"—but you'll want to see them for yourself and here they are.

in sheer, medium and regular weights

Unusual color combinations, bold stripes; plaids and checks is the fashion story of these imported and domestic seersuckers, full yard wide and color fast. All three weights are suitable for summer and there's nothing smarter for sports or street wear.

Wisdom Not Enough

It is widely admitted that King Solomon, the wisest man of the world, failed. His domestic life was far from what should be an example to human beings then or since. He got his kingdom into a terrible financial mess. When he died he left his crown to the heathen son of one of many idolatrous forbidden wives.

Yet King Solomon was wise. The indisputable evidence of his wisdom is to be found in the marvelous advice that he left to the world.

But King Solomon did not follow his own advice. He prayed constantly for wisdom, and he received wisdom, but he did not live according to his wisdom. He knew his stuff, but he was not guided by it.

What, then, was the matter with King Solomon? Why did a man so astonishingly wise do so many things so astonishingly foolish?

It takes more than knowledge, understanding and wisdom to make one shape one's affairs and govern one's acts according to the great fundamental principles of life.

King Solomon knew better than to do some of the things he did. Nevertheless, he went ahead and did them.

The trouble with Solomon was that he placed too much faith in wisdom. He overlooked the fact that wisdom merely tells you which way to go. But it takes more than wisdom to make you go that way.

The man who goes down town and gets drunk, wastes his wages and gets locked up over the week end, knows better. His judgment tells him that such a course is no proper course to pursue. Nevertheless, he pursues that course. He has knowledge, but he does not use it. He has wisdom but he does not employ it.

"I know I ought not, but I can't help it." "I know I ought to, but I just can't do it." You have heard those expressions. You have thought those thoughts. King Solomon did likewise.

Where King Solomon failed was that in praying for wisdom—that he might know which way to go—he failed to pray sufficiently for spiritual insight, spiritual strength, spiritual fidelity that he might go fearlessly and faithfully the way his wisdom told him to go.

Wisdom by itself is weak. A book may be filled with wisdom. You may memorize the book. Then you will be filled with the book's wisdom. But a book has no strength of character and you will have no strength of character either, if all you have inside of you is the wisdom of the book.

To employ wisdom, you must have strength of character. And strength of character comes with spiritual insight, spiritual stamina and spiritual fidelity.

Very few persons who do wrong are satisfied to do wrong. They had rather not do wrong, but they lack the spiritual equipment to keep them from doing wrong—just as did King Solomon. That is why such persons fail. That is why King Solomon failed.

A word to the wise is of itself not sufficient. Sturdiness of soul is also required.

Strive not only for wisdom but also to make your soul sturdy and rugged. Then you can use your wisdom to go places.

Be Thankful For Cotton

Celebration of "Cotton Week" throughout the nation this week serves again to emphasize the importance of the fleecy staple as the foundation of the south's agricultural, industrial and commercial progress.

No matter how much we may argue the necessity for diversified farming in an effort to make rural communities more self-sufficient, we must recognize that cotton must always have the chief place in our agricultural system. Cotton always will be the money crop of the south, because it is, in spite of everything, the most dependable and stable product of our soil.

The problem offered by cotton is not one of production but, as has been emphasized over and over again, it is essentially one of consumption. It is this phase of the industry on which public attention is being focussed this week. Merchants and manufacturers are making special efforts to demonstrate to the people at large what cotton means in the economic life of the nation, how widely diversified are its uses and how it may be employed in contributing to the welfare of the people.

Take a look at some of the exhibits of cotton goods that are being shown this week in local stores so that you may appreciate more fully what a large part it plays in modern life and living. And then—be thankful for cotton!

More Truth Than Poetry

LINES TO A HOT DOG

After reading of the improvements that have been made lately in their structure and flavor.

You're now a thing of beauty,
Your figure gleams and glows,
Your color's rich and fruity
And mighty like a rose.
Men gaze on you with wonder,
Their greedy eyes agog,
And murmur, "What in thunder—
Can that thing be a dog?—
A mere provocative of thirst,
A comon little wienlewurst?"

You're hardly a confection
But still you have a "flair,"
A keen and close inspection
Without a qualm you bear.
You're better and you're bigger,
And, though I may be wrong,
You seem to have a figger
Of pleasing embongpong.
A highly fitting thing you are
To grace a picnic or a bar.

You have your own rare flavor
Of many, many things,
You have the kind of savor
That makes you fit for Kings.
You're sapid and nutritious,
Though outwardly you're plain,
And who could be suspicious
Of what you may contain?
I've tasted ortolans and frogs,
And still my preference is dogs.

Keep Your Eyes Open

By BRUCE CATTON

We have been watching so long for that famous "corner" which must be turned before we pass from depression to prosperity, that our eyes may be getting a little glassy. It is entirely possible that we may get 'way past it before we even see it.

All of which is just another way of saying that a business revival could easily steal upon us unawares. It cannot come overnight; there will be no abrupt transition from depression to boom. Instead, the pick-up must begin a little bit here and a little bit there. Then, one day, we might look around and make the pleasing discovery that things were a lot better than we had thought.

Bearing all that in mind, it is worth glancing at a size-up of the situation just made by the National Industrial Conference Board. This presents a picture which, while somewhat spotty, is preponderantly bright.

The auto industry, for instance, continues to expand. Auto production for the first quarter of 1935 reached a higher level than any in the last eight years with the exception of 1929.

Steel production, on the other hand, slipped nearly five per cent from February to March, although it remained 6.5 per cent above the 1934 level. Bookings of fabricated structural steel, meanwhile, rose 34 per cent from February to March, and machine tool orders jumped sharply, giving the first quarter an average 18 per cent above that for 1934.

Another encouraging factor is to be found in the fact that building and engineering contract awards rose in March by more than the usual seasonal amount. Residential contracts, in particular, made a gratifying gain.

Electric power production in March declined slightly from February, but the decline was somewhat less than seasonal and the March output remained four per cent above that for March, 1934. Bituminous coal production was up in March—possibly because of fear of a strike—and department store sales rose.

On the other hand, textile production in March fell off by more than the usual seasonal amount, security prices sagged, and wholesale commodity prices dropped slightly—although these latter remained 7.6 per cent above the level recorded a year ago.

It is hard to add all this together and get anything very definite. In the main, however, it may said that the picture is encouraging.

A slow current of business expansion seems to be at work. How far it will carry us may be another question; but for the moment, at least, we seem to have genuine grounds for optimism.

New Deal In Washington

By Rodney Dutcher
(World Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON.—NRA knows how to be honest with itself—but not with the rest of us.

Congress would like to know whether, as Senator Borah has always said, NRA has had the effect of fostering monopolies, monopolistic practices, and monopolistic prices.

There's plenty of evidence that it has and the evidence is to be found in NRA's own files. But investigating senators, considering new legislation, will have to dig a lot deeper before they get it.

Operating with NRA codes, monopolistic industries have frozen high prices solid. Even federal, state, and city governments, despite a special exempting order by NRA aimed at correcting the evil and saving the taxpayers a lot of money, can't get discounts on their large-scale purchases of many types of supplies.

You can read about it in the NRA research and planning division's study of the effects of executive order 6767, issued last June to permit bidders on public contracts to quote prices not more than 15 per cent below those allowable to private purchasers under their codes. (If you can get a copy! Very few are available.)

"Fire" Is Suppressed

But you'd never imagine the true state of affairs if you merely read the official report on the study, prepared and addressed to the president after Senator King had asked for it.

It isn't clear just who wrote it, but it's signed by Acting Chairman Donald Richberg of NRA and seems to have been prepared with the dominating idea of suppressing the strong language and sensational conclusions in Research and Planning Director Leon Henderson's summary of the study.

Executive order 6767 was an answer to a great howl from federal, state, and city purchasing agents who claimed taxpayers were being soaked by a flood of tie-bids (identical bids) on public contracts.

It was a assumed lower bids within the 15 per cent margin would be submitted by supply industries and that there'd be a greater variance of bids.

But look at a few excerpts from Henderson's summary of findings:

". . . the preponderance of obtainable evidence indicates that executive order 6767 was only sporadically effective in increasing competitive auction bidding upon contracts to be let by public purchasing agents.

Many Bids Increased

"Out of a total of 85 sets of contracts studied (a total including practically all purchases of the procurement division of the treasury and the bureau of supplies and accounts of the navy), 41 showed an increase in the amount of tie-bidding after the order was issued, 10 showed no change, while 34 showed a decline.

"The percentage of tie-bids increased notably in such industries as iron and steel, paper and pulp products and building materials. It remained about the same in such industries as automotive, paint and varnish, chemical and glass containers, and decreased substantially in such industries as asbestos, scientific apparatus and cement . . . .

". . . practically no evidence was found that the order secured to the public exchequers even a fraction of the potential savings which it was hoped a 15 per cent discount upon government purchases would achieve. Almost universally bidders upon public contracts failed to offer a discount . . . . . .

Monopoly Unbroken

"Finally, the order has not served to loosen at all the grip of strongly organized industries upon the prices and upon the consumers of their products. So far as the evidence obtainable for this study is concerned, monopolistic competition has continued and has even been stabilized in many respects by the codes.

"The evidence that is here to be had shows overwhelmingly that these monopolistic or quasi-monopolistic groups have cartelized under the codes to such extent as to bring about increased rigidity and gradual petrification in the price structure. . . .

"A realistic and factual analysis can scarcely have any other outcome than to pose emphatically the question: How can the codes and the NRA be welded into a device which, by promoting fair competitive practices, price flexibility, and industrial stability, thereby brings about increased industrial production and increased real social income?"

All of which was considered too hot to pass on to the public. The official report on the study is full of weaseled phraseology. It even says tie-bids chasing agents will shrdlu etaoin eet "may indicate the closest kind of competitive bidding," to which purchasing agents will merely reply:

"Oh, yeah?"

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE MESSENGER OF DEATH—In 1520 Panfilo Narvaez, Spanish conquistador, landed on the coast of Mexico with a crew of 900 men for the purpose of capturing Hernando Cortes, who was then in the Mexican interior. On learning of the land, Cortes swiftly descended upon Narvaez' forces, defeating them in battle and making Narvaez his prisoner. Narvaez' soldiers were incorporated in Cortes' army. Among the new arrivals was a cabin boy, Juan Nepomucen of Santo Domingo. Juan was sick with smallpox and carried this dreadful disease into the country. As a result, more than 3,000,000 Indians died of smallpox within a short time. Some authorities state the number of victims as 3,500,000 to 6,000,000. Entire tribes of Indians were annihilated, with not a single representative spared to tell the tale of their extermination. Smallpox was long known in India, whence through Egypt it was carried into the south of Europe about 600 A. D.

MOHAMMET'S MOUNTAIN—In 1879, the Judge Ordinary of Dooly county, Georgia, purchased a heavy safe for the safeguarding of the county records. While being carted from the railway station of Montesena, the wagon carrying the 9,000 pound safe broken down about 17 miles from the county seat, and the cargo became mired in the mud. The big box was immediately turned into an office, and a price of $150 was offered for an idea as to how to bring the safe to its destination. The winning suggestion, which was immediately acted upon by the authorities, was that if you cannot bring the safe into the county, the county ought to be moved to the safe. The legislature is said to have extended the county lines to include the safe, but fortunately, some handy soul constructed a vehicle in the meantime, on which the safe was finally moved to the courthouse. The courthouse was found to be too small for the huge safe, and so it was torn down and a new one built around the safe.

Lights Of New York

By Paul Harrison

NEW YORK.—The boondoggling scandals, in which it was revealed that unemployed persons were hired with relief money to learn interpretive dancing and to twiddle the strings on puppets, have brought a boom in anecedotes about relief administration.

A courier has just loped in from Harlem with an account of the plight of a Mr. Hinkty Davis, who went around to the welfare people and asked for aid. Althought built like a stevedore, Mister Davis admitted under questioning that his profession was gambling. But a man couldn't gamble if he couldn't find any body with money to gamble with.

The bureau executive to whom he talked—a spunky little trick recently out of college—said she could give him a temporary job loading and unloading relief supplies in one of the city's storehouses. Mistuh Davis sighed reproachfully, said he didn't feel fittin' for any work harder than tossin' a pair of dice.

"Have you got some dice?" asked the young lady, with a gleam in her eye. Mistuh Davis produced them. "Will you shoot to see whether you go to work or whether I give you some food tickets and rent money?" Mistuh Davis would. They did, and the girl won. She won the next week, too, and the next. . . . Lift dat bar'el, tote dat bale! . . ." Hinkty says he's cured of gambling.

Recompense

No sceptic in matters pertaining to the circus, I wouldn't think of questioning Mr. Dexter Fellows' story of the grateful Ringling elephant. To go back to the beginning, it seems that a young American doctor was a member of a scientific expedition traveling in India in 1925. One of the riding elephants got a thorn deeply lodged inside it's trunk, suffered for days, then stood without a whimper while the physician cut it out.

The scene shifts to the present, and Madison Square Garden. The grand entry is under way, with much noise and tinseled trappings. Suddenly one of the elephants (THE elephant, of course) trumpets happily and breaks ranks. Suffles over to the rail, hoists the physician out of a cheap end seat and deposits him gently in one of the $3.50 boxes.

From Hollywood

Dorothy Parkerism relayed from Hollywood: At one of those large and practically interminable parties, Miss Parker found herself in the company of a boorish fellow who plainly wanted her and all the world to know that he was an up-and-comer in the movie business, and that he had an uncanny skill in picking new talent.

"I know a dozen obscure people," he bragged, "who will be stars one of these days and will have me to thank for their recognition. There's H. X. Blank, for instance"—and he mentioned the name of a socially unpopular actor who had a few secondary roles lately. "He was one of my discoveries."

"Where had you been looking?" asked Miss Parker. "Under rocks?"

Peke Abroad

A certain wealthy and over-stuffed matron owns two dogs—an old, favorite Pom named Tootums and a young Peke named Wicky. The lady sailed for France the other day, and during her feverish preparations for the voyage somebody asked whether she'd take Tootums with her.

"No," said the matron, "I won't. Tootums has been abroad six times, all over the continent from Brussels to Rome, and even on a Mediterranean cruise. I think I own it to Wicky to take him along this trip."

France replies: "Not long ago you Germans were saying 'Paris in five days.' You are not there yet and you never again will be there."

THE WAR OUTLOOK is not cheerful. Hitler and Goering evidently feel that they have their military reputations to make, and must attend to that. This country should not be too busy with other things to realize that war may be next on the program.

France suggests that an "anti-terrorist," or "penal court," that would punish any aggressor.

RUSSIA and France are "getting ready." Russia agrees to keep 450,000 men on its western border, close to the German line. Each agrees to fight for the other when and if the other is "invaded," not otherwise. Bombing a city from the air without troops marching on the soil, would probably constitute "invasion."

STATESMEN that witnessed the May day military demonstration in Moscow were impressed especially by the great number of high powered tanks, or "land battleships," enough of them to travel over the country in solid rows, like old fashioned cavalry or infantry, but ten thousand times more efficient.

Our army which talks about "continuing the use of cavalry" and similar nonsense, ought to investigate that.

HERR ULRICH FLEISCHAUER has fresh news. As a "Nazi expert," he says the League of Nations was planned by Jews, "to unify the language, money and religion of Israel." Also, Herr Fleischauer discovers that Jews "gain their ends by starting revolutions." Believe it or not, they started the Russian revolution, have [illegible] Archduke Ferdinand at Serajevo, thus starting the World war.

The German discoverer does not explain why Trotzy, head of the Bolshevik army, one of the ablest of the Bolsheviki was expelled from Russia, if that was a Jewish revolution. The Nazi fanatic seems not to know that it is possible to be too silly?

One English town will celebrate the king's jubilee by distributing free beer. Might it not be a good idea to make light beer part of the regular food supply of men in this government's CCC camps?

Minus government tax it would cost little, keep men contented, abolish, or diminish, complaints of some workers spending their small supplies of money with bootleggers.

THE U. S. CHAMBER of Commerce groans, while "big business" views with alarm, but here and there sunshine breaks through the clouds. For instance, the Hudson Motor Car company, for the first quarter of 1935, reports the largest profit for any quarter since 1931.

With eight million dollars in cash and no current bank loans outstanding, the company feels cheerful. Roy D. Chapin, president of Hudson Motors has been back on his real job for two years, after giving up time to hard government work in Washington. That may account for it.

FEDERAL PAYROLL IS GIVEN NOTICE

989 Salaries Of $10,000 A Year Or More Are Paid By U. S.

(Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The biggest organization of its kind in history—the United States government—pays 989 salaries of $10,000 a year or more, and 7,223 of between $5,000 and $10,000.

With public attention dwelling sporadically on large salaries in private industry, as shown by reports to the securities commission, the federal payroll also gets notice on capitol hill.

The civil service commission's "official register of the United States" is the chief source of information on the treasury pay checks.

Although private compensation for a year's work has in instances run into six figures, the president's $75,000 tops the governmental list.

Second is the $20,500 paid the chief justice. Eight associate justices receive $20,000.

The next ranking salary is that of Governor General Frank Murphy of the Philippine Islands at $18,000.

Vice President Garner, Speaker Byrns and members of the cabinet rank alike in pay at $15,000.

Governor Blanton Winship of Puerto Rico and Vice Governor J. R. Hayden of the Philippines receive $10,000, along with Governors Joseph B. Poindexter of Hawaii, John W. Troy of Alaska, and Julian L. Schley of the Panama Canal Zone.

Dr. Paul M. Pearson as governor of the Virgin Islands receives $8,500.

Harry L. Hopkins, FERA director, is listed at $10,000, while Robert Fencher gets $12,000 as head of the CCC.

The railroad coordinator, Joseph Eastman, is paid $12,000 as an interstate commerce commissioner, along with the ten other members. But freight service director John R. Turney of the ICC and regional directors Victor V. Boatner of Chicago and C. E. Weaver of Atlanta, Ga., get $15,000. Counsel Leslie Craven and J. M. Batshs of Chicago, are paid the same as Eastman.

Tallulah

Mrs. Arnold Shields, a bride of the past month, was the honoree at a delightful bridge party given by Mrs. Leo Shields at her home at Alsatia. Quantities of spring flowers in attractive arrangement decorated the reception rooms where the tables were placed for the games. The high score prize was awarded to Miss Katherine Ward, consolation to Mrs. Steve Voelker and low to Mrs. Albert Sherwin. Mrs. Shields was presented with a souvenir of the occasion. Delicious refreshments were served at the close of the games to the guests, who were Mesdames Arnold Shields, M. T. Young, Ed Adams, R. L. Moncrief, E. B. Stribling, Steve Voelker, H. W. Lee, R. R. Taylor, Will Harvey, Will Sevier, Jr., John Payne, Alnut Cason, Will Adams, Hugh Montgomery, Ray Dickinson, Albert Sherwin, A. L. Sevier, R. L. Baily, George Yerger, Jr., Maxwell Yerger, Misses Jessica Greene, Jane Johnson, Georgette Ziegler, Katherine Ward. Tea guests were Mrs. Will Harvey, Sr., and Mrs. Tom Bomer.

The Friday Night club met with Dr. and Mrs. J. Roy Medlin, who entertained with a supper bridge. The high score prizes were awarded to Mrs. J. A. Gilbert and Mr. A. H. Hurd. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Spigener, Mr. and Mrs. Davis Whitfield, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Hurd, Mrs. Paul Barber and Miss Hazel Jean Moberley.

The quarterly meeting of the women's church organizations of Tallulah was held at the Baptist church with a representative attendance from the Episcopal, Presbyterian, Methodist and Baptist auxiliaries. A program on "The Church" under the leadership of Mrs. L. Westmoreland, of the Baptist church, was rendered. Rev. Scardon D'Aubert, rector of the Episcopal church, gave the devotional, emphasizing Christ as the head of the church. Mrs. R. K. Boney spoke on the fellowship of worship; Mrs. J. L. Coleman, the church, the champion of justice; Mrs. T. W. Jackson, a lighthouse of truth; Rev. C. K. Smith, of the Methodist church, the stronghold of righteousness; Mrs. D. H. Allen, a builder of character; Rev. H. N. Alexander, of the Presbyterian church, the herald of salvation and a summary of what the church has done for the civilization of the world. Miss Annette Beers. A musical number was given by Mrs. W. A. Gilpin.

Rev. L. A. Materne was called to Rocky Mount, Virginia, this week by the illness of his brother, who has lately been reported to be slightly improved.

The Saturday club was entertained by Miss Jane Johnson at her attractive home at Tendal. Miss Jessica Greene was the fortunate winner of the high score prize. Delicious refreshments were enjoyed after the games by Mrs. Will Sevier, Jr., Miss Jessica Greene, Miss Katherine Ward, Mrs. R. L. Baily, Mrs. Will Adams, Mrs. Maxwell Yerger, Mrs. Hugh Montgomery and Mrs. Faye Conroy.

Miss Lela Tomlinson, of Baton Rouge, assistant supervisor of home economics for the state of Louisiana, visited the high school home economics department Wednesday and was the guest of honor at the annual reception and exhibit on Wednesday afternoon.

The series of services conducted at the Presbyterian church here during the last week in April by Rev. S. E. McFadden, of the Ruston Presbyterian church and Rev. G. M. Smiley of the Durant, Miss., Presbyterian church, were a source of inspiration to the appreciative congregations. The consecrated presentation of Bible messages and worshipful song services were most helpful.

St. Joseph Society To Crown May Queen Today

The St. Joseph Junior society will stage its second annual May day program tonight at 8 o'clock at the Columbus Social club.

The feature of the program will be the crowning of Miss Rose Embanato as the 1935 queen of May by Sheriff Milton Coverdale. Leo Ticheli will preside as king.

Miss Rose Correro, who was nominated queen last year, will have the honor of being the queen's first maid.

The public is cordially invited.

FEW FIRE ALARMS

April was a quiet month for the Monroe fire department, as far as extinguishing fires was concerned. The monthly report of the alarm room revealed that the department received only 14 alarms. Fire damage during the month was negligible. The alarms were listed as follows: three business; five residence, three grass; two automobile; four miscellaneous.

Let the CITIES SERVICE POWER PROVER stop your gasolene waste!

49 out of 50 motorists are wasting gasolene! Probably you are too. The Power Prover will tell you in thirty seconds.

Get a 30 second power test and know your motor's efficiency

You're wasting money every time you drive your car! But we've found a way to stop this needless waste!

A new instrument, the Cities Service Power Prover, will tell you quickly and precisely the amount of gasolene that is coming through your exhaust pipe—wasted gasolene. The Power Prover analyzes the unburned, wasted gasolene and records its findings in per cent of combustion efficiency on an easily-read dial...in less than a minute. Then your car is tuned accurately and scientifically by an expert mechanic, using specially designed precision tools, to bring it up to maximum efficiency.

Your car emerges from the Tuning Routine with surprising new energy—new power—new pick-up—new smoothness—saving you money on gasolene and oil.

CITIES SERVICE POWER PROVER

Will be available in

MONROE, LA.—MAY 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10

All Loreco Service Stations

Make an appointment now to have your car tested on the Power Prover. The combustion efficiency reading will cost you nothing; a complete tuning of ignition, timing and carburetion only 50 cents per cylinder.

The Power Prover has improved the performance and cut gasolene and oil costs of more than 250,000 motor vehicles. What it has done for others it can do for you.

Drive in today and let us tell you the complete story about the Power Prover

Fleet owners and bus operators are especially urged to investigate Power Prover Service. It has brought improved performance and greater economy to more than 4,000 fleet operators.

RARE CUP OWNED BY LOCAL PRIEST

Father Gremillion Has Duplicate Of Cathedral Chalice

An elaborately beautiful gold communion cup, modeled from an original which dates back to the eleventh century and which was used for centuries in the communion services of the kings of France, is the prized possession of Rev. M. R. Gremillion, assistant pastor of the St. Matthew's Catholic church.

The beauty of the cup, or chalice, is so great that upon first glimpse it is little short of awe-inspiring. Into the making of the original, which is duplicated in its minutest design by the medal, was introduced the finest arts of goldsmiths and jewelers of the mediaeval world. The original was conceived and created for use in the majestic setting of Rheims cathedral. In that famed edifice the original has remained until today, although the ancient paten or breadplate, was lost in some manner years ago.

Reverend Gremillion's model was cast in Italy of gold gathered in this country. The jewels with which it is encrusted were also gathered in this country. The enamels were made in Italy. Artisans of Florence, Milan and Rome combined in the making of the cup.

The rare chalice is inlaid with approximately 150 pearls, about 75 precious stones of various kinds, and about 30 pieces of enamel.

The height of the cup is approximately six and one-half inches. The bowl and base are each about five and one-half inches in width.

Gold filigree, or fine lacework, is a part of the ornamentation of the cup. The node, or spherical part of the pedestal, is entirely covered with the filigree. The labor of a goldsmith in its making and in the making of its paten required four months of continuous work.

The base bears the following inscription: "May each elevation of this chalice, O Lord God, be of profit to those who seek thy glory. Flat. Amen."

Reverend Gremillion had the cup made in 1932. He is now 27 years of age. He is a native of Alexandria and has served as assistant pastor of the St. Matthew's church for about a year and a half.

Washington to make personal appeals to their representatives in congress.

Two special trainloads of farmers are expected to leave Louisiana May 12, so as to arrive in Washington on May 14, simultaneously with similar delegations from Texas, Mississippi, Alabama and other southern states.

The following statement was issued by Mr. Young regarding the meetings and the action to be taken:

"The vicious attacks made on the AAA by interests antagonistic to the farmer have been increasing and unless farmers are willing to fight to maintain the advantages they have gained under the present administration, there is danger that the entire farm program may be defeated.

"Our congressmen and senators are anxious to do what they can to help us, but if they continue to hear only one side of the story they may decide the farmers are dissatisfied and wish the AAA program to be defeated.

"Thousands of letters and telegrams have been sent and now it is up to us to add vocal protest to these unwarranted attacks against us by going to Washington and presenting our mass protest against abandonment of the processing tax at this time."

Arrangements for the meeting are being made by E. R. Strahan, agricultural agent, who will cooperate with the state speakers in giving the farmers the facts. Agricultural agents from practically all of the other 15 parishes of this section of the state are expected to lead delegations of farmers to the meeting here.

SCORES SLAIN IN PHILIPPINE CIVIL CLASHES

Bloody outbreaks in an uprising against the projected new Philippine commonwealth have brought death to more than 50 persons. Forty-seven were killed at Cabuyao, two at San Ildefonso and five others were reported dead at Santa Rosa. The map shows the locations of the fighting. The uprising was started by extremists known as Sakdalistas who want immediate freedom for the islands and are opposing the leadership of Manuel Quezon (right) president of the Philippine senate. Quezon, now in New York, adheres to the independence act passed by the United States congress, which specifies the islands must pass a 10-year transitional period before obtaining freedom. STORM DAMAGED AREA INSPECTED

Red Cross Secretary Returns After Visiting Union Parish

Mrs. W. C. Holstein, executive secretary of the Ouachita parish Red Cross chapter, returned Saturday night from an all-day trip of inspection in Union parish where damage was wrought by a tornado Thursday afternoon, help being asked from the local chapter. She stated that only six houses were affected, two being destroyed and four unroofed and otherwise damaged in the North Randolph community of Union parish.

Still more damage was done in Lockhart community, located on both sides of the state line of Arkansas and Louisiana, Mrs. Holstein said. Relief will be administered by the Arkansas Red Cross in this instance, it was reported.

SOLDIERS BONUS IS EXPECTED TO PASS IN SENATE

troversal Omnibus bank bill was concluded in the house today and the measure will be taken up Wednesday for amendments and final action. It faced further long hearings, however, on the senate side.

When the senate meets Monday it will face a vote on substituting the Vinson bonus bill for the Harrison compromise which was only averted by leaders yesterday with a sudden adjournment to give them a chance to reform their lines.

PROBE LAUNCHED OF 'LIVING DEAD'

Mississippi Authorities Investigate Life Insurance Racket

JACKSON, Miss., May 4—(AP)—Investigators of the state bureau of vital statistics are probing reports of the "living dead."

Reported falsification of death certificates for the purported purpose of defrauding insurance companies today brought a statement from Dr. R. N. Whitfield, head of the bureau of vital statistics of the state board of health, asserting that insurance companies have been defrauded of "thousands upon thousands of dollars" in Mississippi.

The "insurance racket," as it was described by Dr. Whitfield, has been practiced largely by negro mortuaries, in co-operation he said, with unscrupulous insurance salesmen.

Dr. Whitfield said the disclosures of "fraud" had been first made by the Memphis police department, who arrested two negroes, Jones Taylor and Emil Taylor, the alleged proprietors of the Orange Mound Undertaking company of Memphis, who he said had admitted falsifying death certificates to defraud insurance companies.

Dr. Whitfield said he had been informed by Inspector W. T. Griffin of the Memphis police department that the activities of the "insurance racket" gang extended into Mississippi. He said policy applications gave incorrect information concerning the ages of negro applicants.

In one case, he said, a policy was taken out on the life of a 65-year-old patient of the state insane hospital, and when she died, an effort was made to falsify the death certificate to make her age correspond to representations in her application for insurance.

Dr. Whitfield said there were also cases where "insured" negroes had been reported officially dead, who are still alive.

The vital statistics chief and state Insurance Commissioner George D. Riley said an intensive investigation is to be made of suspected fraudulent undertaking establishments which falsify death certificates.

WINDSTORM INSURANCE DOES NOT INCLUDE DAMAGE BY HAIL

Actual Photograph of Methodist Church at San Antonio After the Hail Storm
(Note Broken Windows and Beaten In Roof)

In the San Antonio hail storm the damage amounted to over a million dollars and it was found that every class of roof was seriously damaged. One thing that prevented a far greater loss was the fact that very little rain accompanied the hail storm.

Members of the Ouachita Insurance Exchange call your attention to the importance of including DAMAGE BY HAIL with your windstorm insurance.

This important insurance can be included with a small additional premium. The cost is nominal, being only 10c per hundred dollars insurance.

Call your agent today and he will be glad to indorse your windstorm policy to include this coverage.

will be given full credit on entering L. S. U. or any other university in the American association that students may select.

"The continued growth and expansion of Northeast Center," Dean Colvert said, in making his announcement, "is due in a special sense to the warm interest shown by President Smith in the development of the institution as one of the significant phases of higher educational opportunities for the young people in this part of the state."

Dr. Smith's concern for the educational future of northeast Louisiana, Dean Colvert pointed out, is based on more than an academic interest.

"President Smith comes by his interest naturally," the dean said, "because this is his native region. He was born in Jackson parish, but close enough to the Ouachita line to look upon this parish as his own. When he was but a small child his parents moved to this parish, where he grew up and went to school. He has always had an especially warm spot in his heart for this section of Louisiana."

Dr. and Mrs. Smith will arrive in the city today from Baton Rouge, and will probably return to the capital Tuesday.

OBITUARY

FREED HUTTO

PINE BLUFF, Ark., May 4.—(Special)—Funeral services for Freed Hutto, wealthy planter, business man and assistant secretary to Governor Futrell of Arkansas, were held yesterday at England, Ark., and interment was made at Morrelton, Ark. Mr. Hutto was well known here, at McGehee and Monroe, La.

MRS. D. H. GARLINGTON

JONESBORO, La., May 4.—(Special)—Funeral services for Mrs. D. H. Garlington, 55, who died at a Ruston sanitarium Thursday after a three weeks illness, were held Friday at the Chuch of God, a few miles south of Quitman, with Rev. Miller officiating. Interment followed in the Antioch cemetery.

The deceased was born and reared in the Quitman community. She is survived by her husband, D. H. Garlington, and five daughters and three sons, Mrs. Lenora Glathary, Ruston, Mrs. Mary Belle Andrews, Quitman, Mrs. Zula Loe, Quitman, Mrs. Lillie Neal, Bastrop, Mrs. Evelyn Collins, Quitman, and J. E. Garlington, Quitman, D. F. Garlington, Longview, Texas, and Glen Garlington of Quitman.

M'LEMORE RELEASED

Bond of $100 was posted yesterday for the release from the city jail of G. D. McLemore, barber charged with drawing and displaying a dangerous weapon, a knife, in connection with the stabbing recently of Edward J. Quinn, inmate of the transient bureau.

It is estimated that 99 of every 100 automobiles need wheel steering alignment twice a year.

HOW MANY OF THESE FILM STARS OF OTHER DAYS DO YOU RECOGNIZE?

Joys and glories of past days were lived over again when this happy group met once more after seven years, in one of Hollywood's most unusual reunions. The dazzling dozen shown here are former famed movie actresses, members of "Our Club," organized in 1923 by Helen Ferguson and Mildred Davis, now Mrs. Harold Lloyd. The gathering was held in the film capital home of Anita Stewart. In addition to the reunion, the event was a reception for Laura LaPlante, a visitor in Hollywood from London, where she now makes her home.

was rushed to a local hospital as a precautionary measure.

Suspecting the "black widow," physicians asked the parents to bring specimens of spiders about the Coward premises to the hospital.

The doctors' worst fears were confirmed today after an examination of one of the spiders revealed that it was in reality a "black widow."

Little Jo Anne was suffering from a high fever this afternoon, and attending physicians would hazard no prediction as to the outcome of her fight for life.

WAR IS DECLARED ON 'BLACK WIDOW'

NEW ORLEANS, May 4.—(AP)—A poison spray treatment to combat invasion of the "black widow" spider, prevalent in New Orleans, Louisiana and other sections of the south, was under consideration today as a campaign was laid to exterminate the death dealing pest.

The bite of the legged insect, about the size of a human thumb, is described as fatal unless the proper treatment is administered promptly.

Yesterday an entire family in New Orleans deserted their Lakeview section home pending extermination and today callers streamed through the offices of the state conservation department to report spiders or to get a description of the "black widow."

Dr. James Nelson Gowanloch, chief biologist of the state conservation department, who is in charge of the campaign against the invasion of the "black widow," declared war today on the venomous insect.

Two deaths in the southern area have been attributed directly to the bite of the "black widow" and others whose diagnosis has been undetermined may be traced to it.

The spider, according to the experts, appears to migrate from soggy logs and swamp areas.

Those in charge of the campaign against the pest appeared today inclined to adopt the poison spray method of extermination.

The conservation department communicated with the United States health bureau in Washington for assistance and advice in the campaign of extermination.

The "black widow" can be identified by its blackness of back and redness of stomach.

Two Men Are Jailed On Larceny Charges

Accused of stealing a quantity of brass owned by the Louisville Cooperage company, Philip Alonzio, 304 Carolina avenue, and Paul Correro, 2812 Jackkson street, were arrested by police Saturday morning. Later in the day they were transforred to the parish jail.

Rufus Darringer, negro, was arrested and lodged in the city jail charged with the larceny of $14 from Lonnie White, negro.

Rebecca Starr, negro woman, was takekn in custody and placed in jail charged with stealing a dress valued at $5.88 from the J. C. Penney store.

section of levee will be laid in the south end of town and the remainder will be along the river bank.

Along portions of the river lying too close to the street to permit the construction of dirt levees the government will build levee walls. In West Monroe the levee wall will lie between the end of the traffic bridge and Claiborne street.

Awarding of this contract was one of the most important developments of the week in the way of construction in the Monroe area. Because of heavy rains during a large part of the week comparatively little progress was made on the several construction projects already under way, including the construction of an overpass at Sicard, widening and extending Louisville avenue and work on the bridge across the Ouachita river.

No new steel was placed on the bridge by Vincennes Bridge company and a comparatively small amount of work was done by Central Construction company, which has done most of the work of completing its contract. Central Construction company forces were engaged in building concrete hand-rails on the west end of the bridge. The bridge company did some riveting work and began putting the first span of the bridge on the west side into condition for laying concrete.

JOHN COOGAN IS KILLED IN CRASH

Coroner Dave Gershon here, said that the elder Coogan had been the only one identified among the dead.

Later a telephone call from Pine Valley said that Junior Durkin also had been killed. Durkin and John Coogan, it was reported, died instantly.

Jackie Coogan was taken to a Pine Valley store by M. E. Magee, El Centro, a passing motorist. His injuries were described as not serious.

Magee said Jackie told him he was riding in the rumble sent of the car and was pinned in the wreckage when the car crashed into a pile of rocks and plunged down an embankment, rolling over four times and finally coming to rest right side up.

Other occupants, Magee said Jackie related, were thrown clear of the plunging machine with such force that their injuries were almost immediately fatal.

An unidentified car, Jackie told Magee, forced the Coogan vehicle off the highway and into the rocks. Magee said he did not learn who was driving the youthful film star's car.

Durkin was born in New York City in 1915. His last screen appearance was in "Little Men."

Durkin's mother was Florence Edwards, stage actress. He made his stage debut at the age of 2 1-2 years as Cupid in "Some Night," a musical comedy. At the age of 5 he played the son of an Indian girl in a revival of "The Squaw Man." He later appeared in the stage production "H. M. S. Pinafore," "Poppy," "The Lady," "Clouds" and "Courage."

He came here in 1930, making his talking picture debut with Belle Bennett and John Halliday in "Fame." Afterwards he was in "Spanish Acres," "Recaptured Love," "Tom Sawyer," "Hell's House," "Devil's House," "Secrets of the Blue Room," the revived "Perils of Pauline" and "Man Hunt."

May 31 Last Day To Sign Sheriff's 1934 Poll Book Of Voters

Voters who fail to sign the sheriff's 1934 poll book by May 31 next will be ineligible to vote at the elections next year. Congressional, state, parish and city elections will be held in 1936, and every voter must be able to show his poll book receipts for 1934 and 1935. The poll book for 1934 will be kept open until May 31, to permit all voters an opportunity to sign. Poll books for 1935 may be signed up to December 31, but a receipt for this year's book will be valueless in next year's elections unless the voter has also signed the book for 1934. And May 31 is the last day!

Thirty or 40 officers were reported at the scene to aid in the hunt for the fugitives late tonight with bloodhounds called from Tucker to track down the fleeing pair. The scene of the hunt was near Vilonia, 14 miles east of Conway.

The abandoned car was said by officers to have been the same in which the Missouri slayers were seen in near Grapevine, Ark., where they were identified as the killers of two men at a dance hall this week. The windshield had been shot out by pursuing officers.

Another fine-car feature in the low-price field

NEW FORD V-8 CONVERTIBLE SEDAN

THE Ford gives still greater value to motorists by introducing the Convertible Sedan—a distinctive body type usually available only in expensive automobiles. The Ford brings it to you at a low price, together with many other exclusive features of fine-car performance, safety, comfort, beauty and convenience. Each new feature of the Ford V-8 makes it more than ever "The Universal Car."

The New Ford V-8 CONVERTIBLE SEDAN combines the advantages of an open and a closed car. The attractive tan top folds flat and is covered by a neatly fitting boot. Windows are Safety Glass and are carried in chrome-plated frames, which can be lowered out of sight inside the doors. The door pillars are removable. The seats are upholstered in a choice of genuine leather or Bedford Cord. The back of the rear seat pulls forward, giving easy access to large luggage space. Wide front seat is adjustable.

TWO OTHER NEW FORD V-8 BODY TYPES FOR 1935 ARE THE TUDOR AND FORDOR TOURING SEDANS

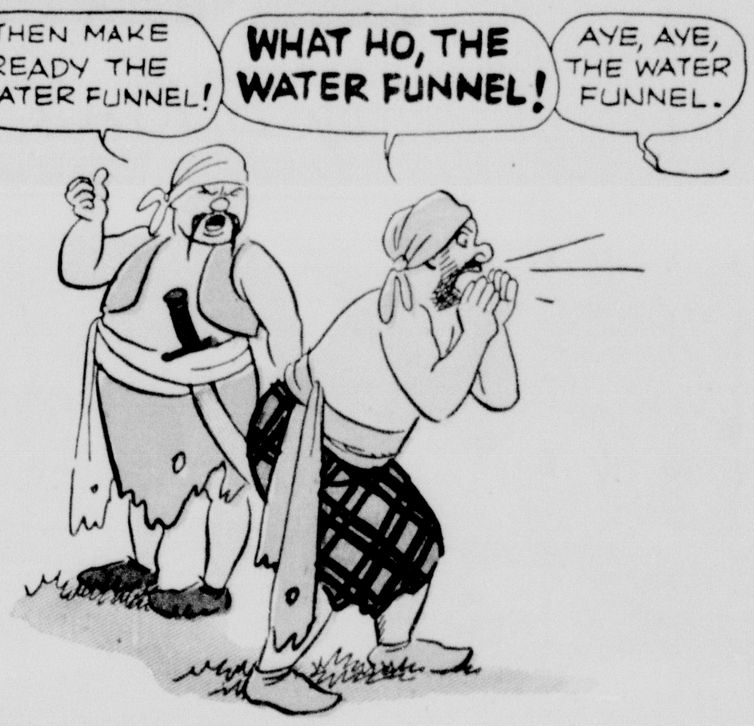
SOLDIER OF FORTUNE

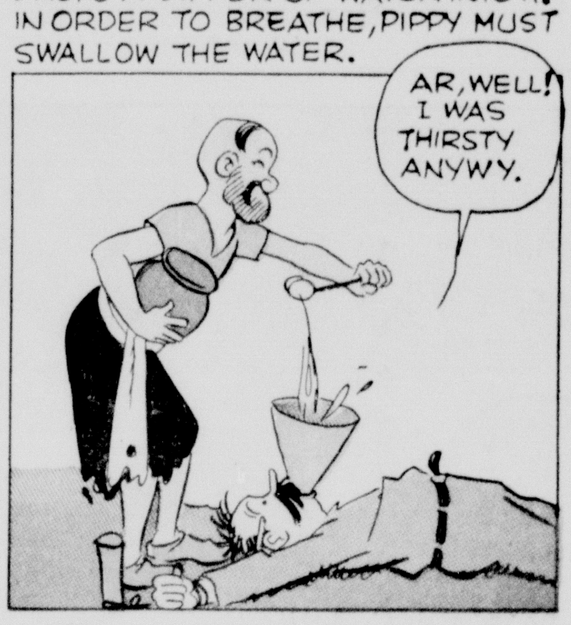
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

by ROY CRANE



PIPPY'S NOSTRILS ARE CLOSED WITH COTTON. HE IS SPREAD-EAGLED TO THE GROUND, AND RAZOR-SHARP SPLINTERS OF BAMBOO ARE PLACED SO THAT HE CANNOT TURN HIS HEAD.

THEN A GRINNING PIRATE THRUSTS A FUNNEL INTO HIS MOUTH, AND DROPS A DIPPER OF WATER INTO IT. IN ORDER TO BREATHE, PIPPY MUST SWALLOW THE WATER.

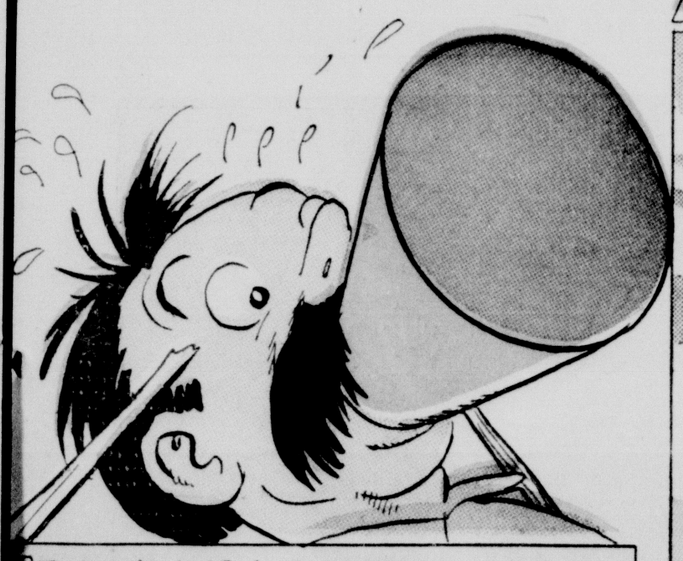


AT REGULAR INTERVALS, WATER IS POURED INTO THE FUNNEL, AND EACH TIME PIPPY SWALLOWS IT.

HALF AN HOUR LATER, THO, HIS CONFIDENCE IS GONE. HE'S ALARMED! HE'S SWALLOWED NEARLY TWO GALLONS OF WATER, AND CAN HOLD NO MORE.

FOR THE LIFE OF HIM, HE CAN'T SWALLOW ANOTHER DROP. HE GASPS FOR BREATH, AND BY DOING SO, INHALES THE WATER.

AGAIN AND AGAIN THIS HAPPENS. POOR PIPPY IS DESPERATE! TERRIFIED! SLOWLY BUT SURELY HE IS DROWNING. THE AGONY IS HORRIBLE.



STILL CHOKING AND GASPING, ANOTHER DIPPER OF WATER GURGLES DOWN THE FUNNEL. AGAIN HE CAN'T SWALLOW, AND MUST TAKE THE WATER INTO HIS LUNGS.

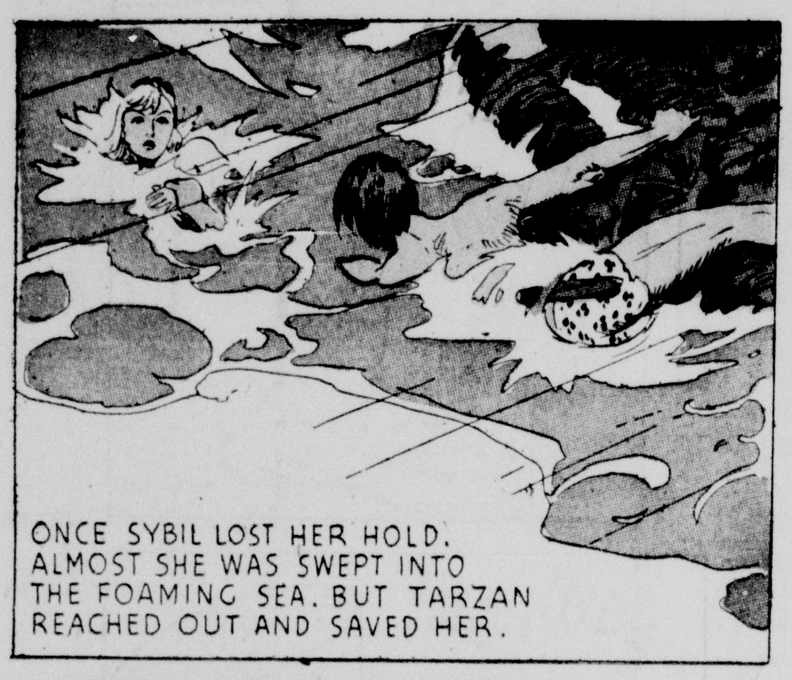
BOHGDU'S MADNESS

THE STORM ROLLED SWIFTLY OVER THE HORIZON AND WHIPPED DOWN FURIOUSLY UPON THE FRAIL RAFT OF THE THREE FUGITIVES.

THUNDER CRASHED, LIGHTNING SPLIT THE LEADEN SKIES, AND MIGHTY WINDS SET THE SEA A-BOILING.

THE PUNY RAFT WAS TOSSED DIZZILY FROM CREST TO TROUGH OF TOWERING WAVES WHILE TARZAN, SYBIL AND BOHGDU HUNG ON DESPERATELY WITH ACHING HANDS.



ONCE SYBIL LOST HER HOLD. ALMOST SHE WAS SWEPT INTO THE FOAMING SEA. BUT TARZAN REACHED OUT AND SAVED HER.

THE APE ROARED IN A FRENZY OF TERROR. THOUGH HE WAS BRAVE IN BATTLE, FEAR OF THE STORM WAS IN THE BLOOD OF HIS RACE.

THROUGH THE LONG DAY AND THE FEARSOME NIGHT THEY WERE EVER NEAR TO DEATH. THEN THE STORM BEGAN TO ABATE.

BOHGDU, NOW MADDENED BY HUNGER AS WELL AS TERROR, STARTED TO GNAW THE VINES THAT HELD THE RAFT TOGETHER.

HIS MASTER CUFFED HIM SHARPLY, AND THE REASONLESS APE SNARLED. "POOR FELLOW," SAID TARZAN. "ANYWAY WE SHALL ALL STARVE TOGETHER."

SYBIL SMILED WEAKLY AND DREW SOME FRUIT FROM HER POCKETS. "I GATHERED IT WHILE YOU WERE BUILDING THE RAFT," SHE SAID PROUDLY.

HALF OF IT SHE DIVIDED EQUALLY AND RESTORED THE REST TO HER POCKETS. BOHGDU GULPED HIS SHARE AND CRIED FOR MORE.

SYBIL MADE A NEGATIVE GESTURE. BOHGDU UNDERSTOOD, AND NOW HIS EYES BLAZED WITH MURDEROUS FURY. HE WAITED HIS CHANCE.

THEN AS TARZAN TURNED TO TIGHTEN A VINE, THE MAD BEAST SPRANG AT SYBIL AND CLUTCHED HER THROAT IN HIS POWERFUL PAWS!

SAWYER, KNOWN AS 'FINGER MAN' KIDNAPER, TAKEN

THREE STILL SOUGHT

Alvin Karpis, Harry Campbell And Volney Davis At Large

NEW ORLEANS, May 4.—(AP)—Harry Sawyer, 44-year-old underworld character and 230-pound alleged "finger man" in the kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, wealthy St. Paul, Minn., banker, more than a year ago, was locked in the federal jail here today after his arrest last night near Pass Christian, Miss., by department of justice agents.

The federal operatives who have been scouring the country for months in a roundup of alleged Bremer kidnap conspirators, struck quietly and swiftly last night in apprehending Sawyer. The arrest was made as the fugitive sat in his parked automobile in front of a gulf coast gambling establishment. He offered no resistance and readily admitted his identity.

Sawyer, alias "Sea Lion," alias "Omaha Harry," alias "Harry Sandlovich," alias "Harry J. Porche," was rushed to New Orleans immediately after his arrest along with his wife, Gladys, who accompanied the federal agents here voluntarily and without charge.

Announcement of the capture was made this morning simultaneously in Washington by Edgar Hoover, director of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice, and in New Orleans by David W. McGee, head of the bureau of investigation here.

Arraigned before United States Commissioner R. H. Carter, Jr., Sawyer said he fully understood the charge against him and expressed a desire to be returned to St. Paul immediately. Carter fixed the amount of his bond at $100,000.

"Do you wish to make bond," the commissioner inquired.

"I haven't a chance to make any bond," Sawyer replied with a half grin.

"You will be removed to St. Paul as quickly as possible," Carter told Sawyer as a brace of federal agents, heavily armed, started their prisoner to the federal jail.

It was explained that Sawyer cannot be removed until his indictment is received here. Commissioner Carter said it had been mailed at St. Paul this morning and should reach here within the next day or so.

Sawyer's capture resulted from information given department of justice agents by two Harrison county, Miss., peace officers, William Simpson, a deputy sheriff, and A. C. De Mertz, Pass Christian motorcycle officer.

Simpson and De Mertz reported to federal operatives here that Sawyer appeared on the Mississippi gulf coast last November as a perfect stranger. They said he established a home for his wife and himself at Long Beach and soon attracted attention by his lavish spending.

Some months later he erected a frame structure which he converted into a negro gambling and dance hall. The hall was operated under the names of two local persons, but the backing, officers said, came directly from Sawyer.

With this information, McGee assigned agents to "shadow" Sawyer. He was easily identified, McGee said, by a smashed forefinger on his left hand and through photographs. The only material difference in Sawyer's appearance from the time he was last photographed was a 45-pound gain in weight.

With three operatives, McGee swooped down on Sawyer as he was seated coatless and hatless, in his car. He offered no resistance.

Sawyer's arrest, according to department of justice records, reduced to three the number of alleged chief conspirators in the Bremer abduction still at large. They are Alvin Karpis, sought as the ringleader of the kidnap gang, Harry Campbell and Volney Davis.

SNOW, RAIN BREAK DUST STORMS' GRIP

AMARILLO, Texas, May 4.—(AP)—Farmers whistled today and housewives sang as they swept, their thanks for snow and rain which broke the grip of dust storms on thousands of southwestern acres.

The carnival spirit which infused four-fifths of the dust belt even spread into western Kansas, the only one of five affected states failing to receive moisture. There, as low hanging clouds held a promise of rain, Red Cross officials abandoned plans to set up more emergency hospitals because of improved health conditions.

The rare sight of fields muddy or snow-covered had an electrical effect upon the hitherto dust-plagued residents of the Texas and Oklahoma Panhandles, eastern New Mexico and southeastern Colorado.

D. P. Trent, Oklahoma director of agricultural extension, saw the possibility of a feed and row crop for northwestern Oklahoma. For two months the gloomy word was "everything's ruined."

At Dalhart, Texas, where farmers even tried to "make rain" by bombarding the sky with explosives, two inches of snow swirled down.

HUNDREDS PLAN TO ATTEND FARM MASS MEET HERE

Session To Be Held To Protest Cotton Program Curtailment

Hundreds of farmers from 15 parishes of northeast Louisiana, as well as many other persons who are interested in the nation's cotton program, are expected to attend a mass meeting to be held Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at Central grammar school, across the street from the parish courthouse here. State speakers will discuss the cotton program and will give facts farmers ought to know in connection with the situation.

Ben F. Young of St. Joseph, chairman of the state cotton control committee and a member of the national advisory council, is urging cotton farmers from every parish within convenient traveling distance from Monroe to attend the meeting. While the session is intended primarily for farmers and others interested in the cotton program in northeast Louisiana, farmers from any section of the state will be welcomed.

A state-wide meeting of a similar nature will be held at Alexandria Saturday at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. At that time Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, will deliver an address which is expected to be of interest to all farmers in the cotton producing states.

Principal purposes of the meetings, it was stated, are to protest against abandonment or curtailment of agricultural adjustment administration processing taxes and to select representative farmers who will go to

SOLONS AWAIT HIGH COURT NRA RULING

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(AP)—Congressional leaders, split widely over NRA's future, today looked definitely toward the nine secluded justices of the supreme court for guidance in determining how long and how powerfully the new blue eagle will reign.

Signs appeared that if the austere high court, in a burst of speed, ruled on NRA's constitutionality before recessing for the summer early next month, congress would withhold its final say on the extension measure until this measuring stick was available.

Such celerity on the part of the court would be unusual in a case of this importance. It would not be unprecedented, however, and there were some who believed that the court, at its regular private meeting this afternoon, had opened a discussion of the Schechter live poultry code case.

SOLDIERS BONUS IS EXPECTED TO PASS IN SENATE

Democrat Chiefs Concede Full Cash Payment Will Be Voted

Decision On Nature Of Measure To Adopt Is Not Yet Made

WASHINGTON, May 4. (AP)—Democratic leaders conceded privately today the senate would vote full cash payment of the soldiers bonus next week, despite open warnings of a presidential veto.

Still planning to continue their fight over the week-end for the Harrison compromise, which the president is reported willing to sign, the administration leaders today apparently gave up hope of mustering sufficient strength to win.

The only question seemed to be whether the senate would favor the inflationary Patman bill, already approved by an overwhelming house majority, or the American Legion sponsored Vinson measure, providing for payment of the certificates out of ordinary revenues.

Back of the bonus measure, a log jam of administration legislation is pending in the senate. Democratic chiefs, with congress in its fifth month and with only one major Roosevelt measure — relief — enacted, appeared anxious today to get rid of the bonus proposition.

They predicted, however, a veto of the Patman bill would be sustained in the senate. But they were doubtful whether they could uphold a veto of the more conservative Vinson measure.

For that reason, they were considering throwing their strength to the inflationary bill as a strategic move.

Republican leaders, who are supporting the Vinson plan, flatly predicted it could be passed over a veto.

Once the veterans issue is out of the way, administration leaders said, congress would get to work on the legislative program recommended by the president. They plan to call up the vital NRA extension resolution immediately after passage of the bonus, probably Tuesday or Wednesday. Monday, the senate finance committee will begin work in executive session on the big social security bill, which next to NRA legislation is considered by democrats the session's most essential piece of legislation.

DREADED SPIDER HITS MISSISSIPPI

Child Fights For Life After Being Bitten By 'Black Widow'

JACKSON, Miss., May 4.—(AP)—The dreaded "black widow" spider has struck in Mississippi.

His victim is little Jo Anne Coward, two and one-half year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Coward of Pearson, Rankin county.

The child is confined at a local hospital, waging the bravest battle of her young life against the poisonous effects of the deadly spider, whose bite is described as "worse than a tarantula," and more feared than that of a rattlesnake.

Two out-of-state deaths have already been attributed to the "black widow," and physicians are waging a fight here to avert a third fatality.

Little was known of the "black widow" spider in this section until recent stories appeared in local newspapers warning of the deadly insect.

In fact, Jo Anne's parents were not certain what troubled their little daughter Thursday afternoon when she ran to her mother screaming, saying that something had bitten her as she played about the yard of the family home.

The child was bitten on the leg. Swelling immediately set in, and she

WIFE PLEADS FOR BERGDOLL

Violent Earthquakes Cause Activity Where Noah's Ark Landed

ISTANBUL, May 4. (AP)—Violent earthquakes spreading death and destruction over Turkey today were reported to have started Mount Ararat, the 17,000-foot Armenian peak where tradition says Noah's ark landed, rumbling with volcanic activity.

Reports said two more violent shocks in the series of quakes racking that region had raised the estimated toll of dead and injured to 2,000. A total of 1,600 houses were said to have been destroyed, with 25 villages completely wiped out.

(A Tass (official Soviet) news agency dispatch to Moscow quoted reports from Teheran, Iran (Persia), that 500 persons had been killed, with many injured and at least three villages destroyed in Mazanderan province by quakes continuing for several weeks.)

Word that snow-covered Ararat, culminating point of the Armenian plateau, was displaying volcanic activity was said to have spread new terror through the entire quake-stricken area.

The volcanic activity was noticed, according to the reports, after the first of seven major shocks in the Kars region near the Turco-Russian border. In addition, many minor shocks have been reported.

Increasing the panic in the area was the unusual phenomenon of red water rushing through fissures in the earth, some of them said to be 30 feet wide, opened by the quakes.

ACTION IN CHINA IS THREATENED BY JAPS

TOKYO, May 4.—(AP)—Japan has threatened "drastic action" in north China, alleging Chinese violations of a demilitarized zone, the Rengo (Japanese) news agency reported today from Hsinking, Manchoukuo.

The Japanese army, "because of an insincere Chinese attitude has come to a serious decision," the agency reported. "It cannot permit such actions as the flouting of the Tangku agreement and must take drastic action unless Yu Hsueh Chung reflects and mends his ways."

General Yu Hsueh Chung, chairman of the provincial government at Hopei, China, was accused of moving soldiers into forbidden areas of the demilitarized zone April 30.

The spring jury term of the district court will open here tomorrow morning with the following cases set for trial during the opening day:

Ollie Brandon, negro, murder.

Another Victim Of Fatal Accident Is Los Angeles Resident

SAN DIEGO, Calif., May 4.—(AP)—John Coogan, father of Jackie Coogan, former juvenile film star, and two other persons, one of the reported to be Junior Durkin, child actor, were killed late today in an automobile accident 55 miles east of here.

The body of the third victim was identified as that of Robert Horner of Los Angeles.

Previously the possibility that Patricia Ellis, film beauty, may have been the third victim of the mishap was expressed in Hollywood by Toby Wing, screen actress.

Miss Wing said that the actress was in the Coogan party when it left here early today for the Coogan ranch at Pine Valley in the mountains back of San Diego. Jackie Coogan, fourth member of the group, was injured, but how seriously was not immediately known.

BUSCHE BROTHERS THOUGHT TRAPPED

Two Missouri Bandits Believed Hiding In Woods In Arkansas

SEARCY, Ark., May 4.—(AP)—A posse of officers late tonight believed they had trapped Clarence and Freddie Busche, Missouri bandit brothers, in a woodland 20 miles west of here after the fugitives abandoned their stolen car when Sheriff T. C. Plant and deputies opened fire on them.

Sheriff Plant quickly summoned sheriffs and officers from surrounding counties and converged on the area where the brothers fled into the woods on the edge of White county.

The car abandoned by the two men Sheriff Plant identified as the fugitive Missouri brothers wanted for murder, was said to have been the coupe two robbers stole from three Conway women in a highway holdup two weeks ago.

Sheriff Plant of White county and Deputy R. L. Smith were on the lookout for the fugitives after they sped through Little Rock earlier in the day and escaped toward El Paso to

Lost German Plane Is Found Wrecked

BERLIN, May 4.—(AP)—A big Junkers passenger plane missing for four days was found crashed near the Czech border with all seven of its occupants dead, the air ministry announced tonight.

Among those killed in the crash was Major-General Hoering of the German reichswehr (regular army), his wife and child.

The ship apparently lost its bearings in fog April 30 and cracked up against the Schneeberg mountain in the Fichte chain, the ministry reported.

The plane, which was en route from Stuttgart to Breslau when the accident occurred, was an air ministry service machine used in conveying officials.

SHREVEPORT HIT BY HEAVY RAINS; DAMAGE UNKNOWN

Many Families Forced To Leave Homes Inundated By Water

POLICE HELP IS ASKED

SHREVEPORT, La., May 4.—(AP)—J. W. Cronk, U. S. meteorologist here, at 9:30 p.m. issued the following warning for Red river:

"If the five-inch rainfall reported today at Sherman is general in that section, Red river will be at flood from Denison, Texas, to Fulton, Ark., during the next three to five days."

Rainfall in Shreveport tonight totalled about two inches within five hours and it was still raining hard at 9:30. The precipitation was so great that, despite recently completed drainage projects, many streets and a few low spots were under water several feet in depth.

The stage of Red river here was 21.6 this morning. Flood stage is 39 feet, so there is no apprehension here. The stage at Fulton, Ark., this morning was 22.4 feet and flood stage there is 25 feet.

Mr. Cronk earlier today issued the following flood warnings for Little and Sulphur rivers:

"Little river—Flood warning: Indefinite rise at Whitecliffs for about three days, depending on rainfall.

The Sulphur river already is at flood, the reading being 26.9 feet this morning at Naples, Texas, where flood stage is 22 feet.

Torrential rainfall here this afternoon and night caused unestimated property damage, forcing many families to leave their homes and crippled transportation in three sections of the city.

Police were beseiged with calls from several sections. The "St. Paul bottoms" near the downtown district, was inundated in some spots by as much as six feet of water.

The city boat club on Cross lake was asked to assist refugees in several marooned neighborhoods. Texas street and other downtown thoroughfares witnessed water extending over the curbing.

Negroes were taken from the Brem-

LEVEE PROJECT CONTRACT GIVEN

Work Order On West Monroe Dyke System Is Being Awaited

J. D. Jones of Jones and Bland, successful bidders for the three dirt projects in West Monroe, which will constitute the remainder of the dirt work to be required for the West Monroe levee, Saturday had received formal notice of the awarding of the contract. Bids were opened in April by the government engineers' office at Vicksburg, but approval by the war department at Washington was required before formal announcement of the contract could be made.

Work on the contract must start within 20 days from the time notice to proceed is received. The contracting firm has not yet received this notice, but is making preparations to begin the work.

The amount of the three contracts was slightly less than 50,000 and the number of yards of dirt to be moved was placed at 221,000. Practically the entire amount to be spent will be for labor, as little material will be required for the dirt levees.

Thus far the only portion of the levee that has been constructed on the west side is that lying to the south of that town, which protects it from water which would back up into the bayous during flood periods. Another

L. S. U. HEAD

Dr. James Monroe Smith, president of L. S. U., who will be honored at a public reception to be given at Northeast Center Monday night.

Public Reception Planned At Local Institution Monday

An official visit by Dr. James Monroe Smith, president of Louisiana State university, to Northeast Center Monday will focus public attention on the local educational institution which since last October has been operated as an important unit of L. S. U.

A public reception in honor of the university president and Mrs. Smith will be held in the gymnasium at Northeast Center. Lieut.-Governor James A. Noe and Mrs. Noe will assist Dean C. C. Colvert and Mrs. Colvert in receiving the guests, who will include prominent city and parish officials and leaders in business and civic activities throughout the area. The reception will begin at 8 o'clock and will continue until 10 o'clock.

During the day President Smith will pay a visit to all the departments of the college, and will meet the various members of the faculty.

Though the occasion marks the first official visit of the president to Northeast Center since its incorporation in the state university system, Dr. Smith is no stranger to Monroe.

As an incident to the coming of the president, Dean Colvert announced Saturday plans for expanding the educational service Northeast Center is designed to give its students who come mainly from this section of the state. Beginning next term, which will open in September, a course in business administration will be added to the curriculum. Another added department will be that of journalism. The first two years' instruction in these subjects will be available to students at Northeast Center. Graduates in these courses

GASSAWAY TO FLAY HUEY LONG AGAIN

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(AP)—Oklahoma's cowboy congressman, Percy L. Gassaway, is going to invade New York City next Tuesday to "burn Huey Long down again."

"I have accepted an invitation to address the Motion Picture club of New York and I mean to burn Huey Long down again," the former district court judge who brought his ten-gallon hat and boots with him to congress, said. "I don't know yet just where I'll strike him this time but I'll have plenty to say."

Gassaway recalled this will be the first opportunity he has had to attack the Louisiana senator's share-the-wealth plan since his radio address four weeks ago. At that time he facetiously referred to Long's plan to give every person "a lousy $5,000" and suggested twice that amount.

SEVEN INDICTED FOR ATTEMPT TO CORRUPT JURORS

NAMES ARE WITHHELD

Accused Persons Had Allegedly Caused Murder Case Mistrial

JENA, La., May 4.—(Special)—Sheriff L. M. Davis said tonight that seven persons were indicted at a special session of the LaSalle parish grand jury on charges of attempting to corrupt petit jurors and witnesses in the murder trial of Louis Hamilton, 29-year-old Tulane medical student, Floyd Miller and "Buck" Sheppard.

Names of the persons indicted were withheld pending their arrest by the sheriff's department. Sheriff Davis said he would not be given warrants for their arrest until Monday, and that the arrests would be made on that day.

The only statement regarding the identity of the indicted persons that the sheriff would make was that all of them do not reside in LaSalle parish.

Five of the accused persons were indicted on charges of attempting to bribe petit jurors. One was indicted on a charge of attempting to corrupt petit jurors, and one was charged with attempting to prevent witnesses from testifying before a grand jury.

Charges in the cases arose from a mistrial declared in the district court here last Monday when Judge Wiley R. Jones sustained a motion by District Attorney Harry Fuller. At the time the mistrial was declared, ten jurors had been accepted after four days of examination of talesmen.

The district attorney alleged in his motion that attempts had been made to bribe and intimidate prospective jurors.

In sustaining the motion and discharging the jury, the judge gave the state and defense attorneys until Friday noon to file a motion for a change of venue, and May 13 was set as the date for holding the trial. No motion for a change of venue was filed, and the case will be tried here on the scheduled date.

Called into a special session by Judge Jones, the grand jury began work Thursday morning to investigate the charges of attempting to bribe and intimidate jurors. The report of the grand jury was rendered at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The murder trial involved the three defendants in connection with the death of young Hamilton's father, Dr. Fred Hamilton, former LaSalle parish coroner. Dr. Hamilton's charred body was found in the remains of his combination office apartment building June 10, 1933.

RUSSIA'S MILITARY STRENGTH REVEALED

MOSCOW, May 4.—(AP)—Russia's full military strength in the air was officially revealed for the first time today.

The Soviet now has more than 3,000 military planes, it was announced, with more than 800 concentrated in the far east.

Participating in May day maneuvers were the formidable far eastern concentration, 800 bombers, fighting planes and pursuit ships which roared back and forth across Red Square in Moscow, 350 ships at Leningrad, 330 at Minsk near the Polish border, 300 at Kiev, 170 at Kharkov and 100 at Rostov-on-Don in the north Caucasian area.

The May day demonstrations revealed further that the Soviet's oft-vaunted strength in tanks was no empty boast.

Thousands paraded at key Russia cities, 500 at Moscow, hundreds in the far east and 2,030 at eight other key Russian cities.

Youth Confesses Strange Mania For Starting Fires

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP)—Every time he suffered a disappointment, Francis McHugh told police today, he would assuage his feelings with a few drinks and then set somebody's house afire.

McHugh, 20-year-old high school student and philosophy reader, was held on a charge of arson after he told of setting 20 fires during his five month "career as a pyromaniac."

The youth approached two detectives watching firemen extinguish a small blaze in an apartment house this morning and said:

"Gentlemen, take me in. I'm the man you want for this fire and I can't go on any longer. I'm afraid I'll kill someone."

The detectives recalled they had questioned him about a fire several weeks ago. McHugh said they were so nice to him then that he wanted them to be credited with his apprehension.

Although only one of the blazes he claimed to have started gained serious proportions, Fire Marshal Brophy termed the youth "the most dangerous sort of firebug," because of his alcoholic tendencies.

The student said his first fire was set last December.

He had gone to Greenwich Village with another young man to call on a girl, he said, "but his companion left him outside, and he felt so downcast about it that he had a few drinks and then set the place on fire.

It gave him a "devilish sort of happiness," he said, so he set fire to two other buildings before going home.

"Then, gentlemen," he told the police, "my career as a pyromaniac was launched."

Brothers Declare Cotton Picker Ready For Action

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 4.—(AP)—Two brothers, with memories of tired backs and sore knees from picking cotton on a farm back in Texas, stood beside a 2,100-pound machine today, and announced, "she's ready."

The brothers—John D. and Mack D. Rust—smiled as they announced a dream come true—a mechanical cotton picker they believe will do the work of from 50 to 100 men.

Experimental models have been shown by the Rust brothers before—at experiment stations and at their business here—but the new model, practically the same as it will look when it is placed on the market in 1936, will make its debut for the general public during the national cotton show here next week.

The machine consists primarily of an endless belt carrying several hundred smooth wire spindles. As it passes over the row of cotton, the rotating spindles automatically moistened, penetrate the plants. The moisture causes the open cotton to adhere to the rotating spindles and be wrapped around them and pulled from the burr. The cotton then is stripped from the spindles and delivered by a suction fan to the container.

The machine will cover about an acre per hour, the new pull-model can be pulled and powered by an ordinary row-crop farm tractor, being hitched or unhitched, freeing it for other work.

John D. says that it costs approximately one-fourth of the value of cotton to pay for its harvesting by hand and that often thousands of bales are left in the fields because of lack of help. The new machine, he says, can be operated at a cost of 98 cents per acre.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May 4. (Special)—I don't know which was the littliest in the U. S. Chamber of Commerce versus Roosevelt argument. The president, he got sore, and the "leading industrialists," they got sore. And it ended in a tie that brought no glory on either one. Mr Roosevelt should have kidded 'em, for they left a great opening.

Governor Laffoon of Kentucky: I wish I could be there watching the great Kentucky Derby, but this dime letter mail that Jim Farley invented to boost his business has just got me swamped. I have received everything in the world but a dime. Kentucky stay with Bradley.

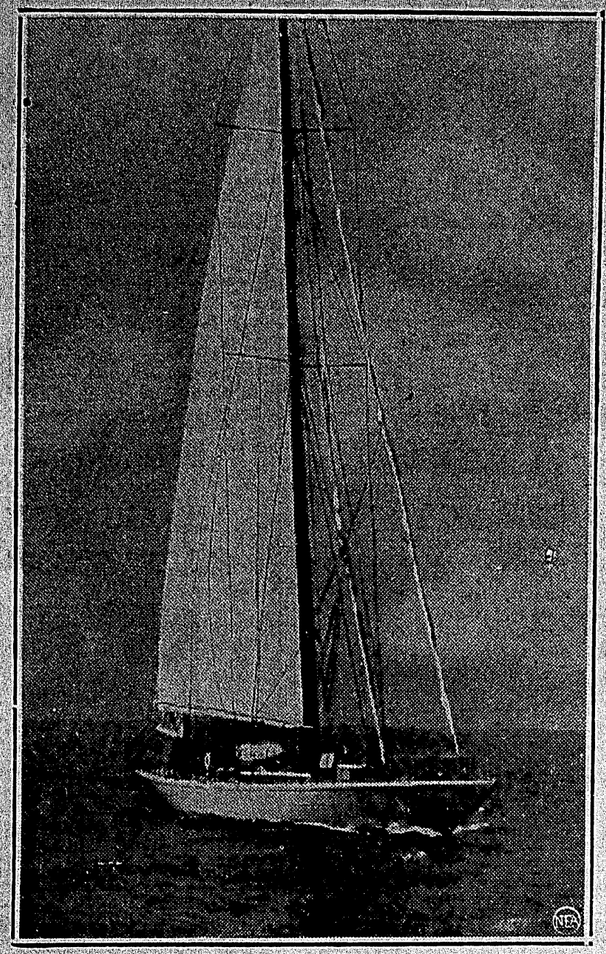
OFF TO MAKE YACHTING HISTORY



Return of the yachting glory that once was Boston's was hoped for as Yankee, the big ship nosed out last summer in the America's Cup trials, breasted the Atlantic's breezes for the 3,000-mile journey to England to race Europe's fastest boats. The first American ship to make the journey in more than 30 years, she's shown at the start of the trip in Boston harbor.

INDUSTRIAL--REVIEW OF THE TWIN CITIES

JOHN FOX NAMED DISTRICT MANAGER

Local Man Has Large Territory For Investors Syndicate

John S. Fox, well known local man, was appointed district manager of Investors Syndicate, effective May 1, it was announced yesterday.

Mr. Fox, whose enviable record was responsible for the high appointment, will have charge of the entire Monroe district, which includes the territory east of Ruston to the Mississippi river, and south from the Arkansas line to Winnsboro.

Investors Syndicate is the oldest and largest organization of its kind in the United States. It was founded at Minneapolis, Minn., in 1894, immediately following the silver panic, with a capital of only $2,600. Since then the organization has grown to where its capital at the end of 1934 was more than $61,000,000.

Investors Syndicate early realized the need for systematic savings. It was apparent that a very important field was not covered by life insurance and other similar forms of protection was not provided for, and Investors Syndicate decided to provide this protection for a properly balanced financial program.

Realizing this necessity, they sought out the best and most flexible plan to meet any pocketbook or class of purchaser, and in addition, the soundest securities in which their money might be invested. Realizing that the American home has been and always will be the backbone of our country, they have placed a large portion of their funds in first mortgages. Knowing the possible dangers which could befall such an investment and which has later been observed to be the case with other companies, Investors Syndicate restricted their territory for loaning money in the following manner:

1. Towns of 100,000 population or over.
2. Residences only, and these NOT OVER 2 YEARS OLD.
3. Maximum of $15,000 on any one piece of property with appraisals approximately 55 per cent.
4. Monthly amortization.
5. Distribution of territory to cover the United States and Canada.

Hence, the contract holder is protected both in the security of the loan in itself and in the benefits of territorial distribution. The plan itself permits the purchaser to take advantage of compound interest and by saving sums monthly or otherwise convenient to him, build up a lifetime reserve or living protection.

Mr. Fox will be pleased to explain the Investors Syndicate plan to you without obligation.

No Let Down In Sales Of Pontiac Automobile

There is no let down in the production and sale of Pontiac cars, figures released by the factory today, indicate. Forecasts for the month of April estimate production at over 19,000 and retail sales at around 18,000.

Retail deliveries for the first ten days of the month were 5,126, as compared to 4,404 in the first 10 days of March. Production for the week ending April 13, really got into high gear, with a total of 4,407 for the five day week, or an average of 881 cars per day.

The first 1,000 car day in three years occurred on Wednesday of that week.

Pontiacs are sold locally by Union Motors, Inc.

An agreement has been completed by the German government and the American Automobile association whereby Americans taking their cars to Germany may secure all necessary driving credentials from the A. A. A. in advance of sailing.

CORTRIGHT METAL SHINGLES BETTER

J. G. Bell Tells Of Advantages In Using Quality Roofing

By J. G. Bell

Cortright Metal Shingles are made from first quality tin plate, then stamped into form—just like parts of your automobile body—then handdipped, one at a time, into molten zinc. The life time of these shingles is fifty years. They are the lightest of all shingle-fashioned roofing, weighing 88 pounds to each 100 square feet, covered surface. Thus they save freight, handling and hauling and cost of heavy timbers to support slate or tile roofing.

Cortright metal shingle roofs need no patching or renewing—fire-proof, do not crack, curl up or blow off—the only shingle nailed at top and bottom.

Cortright shingles are the best protection from fire and carry the best fire insurance rate. Cortright metal shingles are handsome; when your house is new and just as handsome when the house is old, and they can be painted any color to please the eye. Beauty adds to the value of any home.

Figuring years of satisfied service and a roof that has stood the storms of time, Cortright shingles are the most economical roof of all time. Seven composition shingles roofs in Collinston, Louisiana, were punctured with hundreds of holes caused by heavy hail. I re-roofed them all with Cortright metal shingles. The life of composition is approximately 7 years—43 years less than Cortright metal shingles—time tells everything.

I do not deal in composition shingles or Bird roofing—they might fly away.

Mrs. H. R. Speed's residence, 110 Pine street, is roofed with Cortright metal shingles, the cheapest grade, painted red—not re-dipped shingles at all. I roofed this house 32 years ago. E. Kaliski's residence, 320 Breard street, has a Cortright metal shingle roof—has given 29 years service and is still waterproof. Mrs. Tisdale's residence, Bastrop, Louisiana, is roofed with Cortright metal shingles that were put on thirty years ago.

All Cortright metal shingles sold by me will be erected by my experienced sheet metal workers and guaranteed for a natural life time for 9 cents per square foot, flat surface, complete on roof.

BUICK SURVEY SHOWS BETTER CONDITIONS

FLINT, Mich., May 4.—(Special)—Improved conditions in rural areas throughout the country are indicated in figures released today by W. F. Hufstader, general sales manager of the Buick Motor company covering Buick dealers who have shown the largest increases in sales volume over last year.

In a survey of 372 dealers whose sales during the first quarter of 1935 either surpassed the total for all of 1934 or were at least 50 per cent ahead of the total 1934 volume, it is disclosed that nearly all of these dealers do business with farmers and small merchants, Mr. Hufstader said.

"Buick dealers in 59 towns throughout the country sold more cars in the first quarter of this year than were sold in their respective communities in all of 1934," Mr. Hufstader said. "The record shows that another 313 Buick dealers reached 50 per cent or more of their total 1934 volume during January, February and March, while there is a long list just below the 50 per cent mark.

"The territories in which these large sales gains were made are rural in character. The average population of the 69 towns was slightly over 5,000. In each of these communities, a relatively good volume was done last year.

NASH MODEL HAS HYDRAULIC BRAKES

Cars Adopt Efficient Duo Servo Type After Long Experiment

One of the new features on the 1935 Nash cars which is a direct result of owner recommendation, is the hydraulic braking system. Following their customary practice of building cars as near to owner-specifications as possible, Nash queried a large cross-section of its customers last summer asking for suggestions on how to improve the next model. So many people asked for hydraulic brakes that the engineers at once began making tests of the various types to determine which of them would be most suitable for Nash to use.

Super hydraulic brakes of the Duo Servo type were the outcome of these experiments. Duo Servo means that these brakes are aided in their work by the forward momentum of the car, so that less pressure is required on the foot pedal than would otherwise be necessary.

Manufactured by Bendix to Nash specifications, the new brakes have drums of cast iron rather than stamped steel. It was discovered that by the use of more cooling fins, molded into the exterior of the drum rapid heat dissipation, the cast i was strengthened so materially t no steel would be necessary.

The emergency brake is, of cou mechanically actuated, and has be located in the rear wheels instead along the drive line.

The Nash Motors company ha the distinction of being the build of the second lowest priced trur equipped, four-door sedan in the dustry, according to Courtney Joh son, general sales manager of Nash Motors company.

The Benoit-Nash company is local dealer for Nash and LaFaye cars.

NO ACTION TAKEN HERE ON LETTERS

Any Move Must Be Made By U. S. Attorney, Says Inspector

Any action that might be taken in Monroe toward prohibiting the use of the mails in furthering the "dime-letter" chain which has poured into this town like a flood must originate with the United States attorney for this district, who has his headquarters in Shreveport, in the opinion of L. W. Davis, postal inspector. Thus far no ruling has been received here on the legality of the chain, although in some sections of the country government officials have started investigations.

It has been pointed out that anyone who participates in the chain to the extent of sending such letters through the mails might be held technically guilty in a ruling by federal authorities, but that the originators of the chain, or anyone using "dummy" names, with the intention of getting all the money from several successive progressions, would be more likely to be charged with using the mails to defraud.

Arrests of two persons were reported Saturday in San Antonio, Texas, and investigations were also said to be in progress in Fort Worth.

Meantime, the ever-widening wave of letters continued to increase and it was estimated at the postoffice that between 2,000 and 3,000 additional letters were received Friday. Because of the fact that the postoffice closed at noon Saturday the number that had been received for that day could not be obtained. The number of chain letters received Friday was more than twice the number received Thursday. There appeared to be every likelihood that by Monday the postoffice will be deluged with such mail.

Chains in which only a dime is enclosed to the person whose name is at the top of the list will pay $1,562.50 for the investment of not more than 25 cents if the continuation remains unbroken. Dollar chains similarly, of course, would pay more than $15,000 for the investment of $1.

WORK RENEWED ON CHURCH PROJECT

Building operations were renewed on the educational building of the First Baptist church the past week and outside columns have been poured. These are to serve as supports for the tabernacle roof. Six huge all-steel bow-string trusses are to span the building and support the roof.

Work was halted when finances ran low late last year but now with all bills paid and a small balance in the treasury, it is possible to proceed with construction, stated Frank Masling, chairman of the building committee. The sum of $3,500 is required for the contruction contemplated in order to roof over the second floor and make it suited to the holding of services each Sunday throughout the summer.

Today, as the first Sunday in the month, is designated as "cash day," and a large sum of money is expected to be raised which will be used to pay for the immediate construction which will require about one month to complete.

The New York state assembly has passed a bill providing for compulsory use of illuminated license plates on automobiles.

INFANT PIONEERS IN DISPUTE

There was a little meal-time discord as 67 Minnesota farm families assembled at St. Paul and boarded a train for the first leg of their journey to Alaska, where they will settle on a million-dollar subsistence homestead project. Mrs. Chancy Poore (left) and Mrs. Clyde Cook (right) sat as a board of arbitration to settle the case which arose over the ownership of a bottle of milk. These infant pioneers are going with their parents to the Matanuska valley in Alaska to start life anew under government sponsorship. (Associated Press Photo)

Woman, Aged 106, Learns To Drive An Automobile

Learning to drive an auto at the age of 106 years, and having now reached the age of 108, is the unusual record of Mrs. Margaret E. Hartfield, residing near Purvis, Miss., who has just returned from a visit paid her granddaughter, Mrs. Nettie Beach of 1217 South Second street, Monroe. But this is not the only claim for unusual distinction possessed by Mrs. Hartfield, for she has been the mother of 19 children of whom 17 are now living.

Mrs. Hartfield was born on April 25, 1827, near Purvis, Miss., not far distant from her present home. She married as a young woman and her husband was later killed in action in the Civil war. Years later she married a second time. Her second husband died about four years ago.

Mrs. Hartfield's home is 12 miles from Purvis and she found it necessary often to make a trip to town, and her children and grandchildren were not always able to drive her when she desired to go shopping or visiting. This led her two years ago to learn to drive a car, the intricacies of operation of which she mastered almost as easily as a woman much younger, and it is said to be a no uncommon thing for her to drive the 12 miles to town and back by herself.

Speaking of her grandmother, Mrs. Beach stated that she has always been possessed of an unusually robust constitution and that she has never been so ill as to keep her in bed. She weighs about 155 pounds and is rather heavy-set for her height. In general appearance she does not look older than a woman of 65, Mrs. Beach said.

"Grandmother's birthday and mine are the same, April 25, and she always endeavors to spend that day with me. That is why she came to Monroe this year," Mrs. Beach explained. "After a visit here she went to El Dorado and visited and then returned to her home."

There is a wide gap in the ages of the two women as Mrs. Beach is now but 40 years old. Mrs. Beach's mother, Mrs. Melissa Slade, did not live to the age of her mother, her death occurring when she was 65 years old.

"Grandmother seldom uses glasses to read, and she writes long and interesting letters," Mrs. Beach said. Her memory is excellent and she can recall events that happened as far back at 1831, and is said to be an interesting entertainer. She is popularly known in and about Purvis as "Grandma."

Mrs. Beach stated that there are six living generations in the family at this time, but she said that while her grandmother was well aware of the number, she would not disclose how many grandchildren she possesses. In fact the aged woman is averse to publicity and when she suspected that her granddaughter was seeking information that might later be published in a newspaper, she refused to talk further about her family.

Jonesboro

The Women's Missionary society of the Methodist chuch met at the church for a stewardship program. Mrs. Carmen Thomas presided at the meeting, and the following program was presented:

Song, "More Like The Master;" prayer, by Rev. G. A. Morgan; scripture readings, "Stewardship of Substance," by Mrs. Cecil Garrett; "Stewardship of Service," by Mrs. George Littlefield; "Stewardship of Self," by Mrs. Carmen Thomas. A vocal duet was rendered by Mrs. S. Kirkland and Mrs. H. W. Ayers.

Mrs. A. E. Woodward, conference leader from Ringgold, then gave an address on stewardship.

The entire Methodist auxiliary of Hodge and several ladies of Jonesboro and Ringgold were the guests of the Jonesboro organization. The young women's circle acted as host.

The Baptist W.M.S. met at the church for a social hour, with good attendance. The program was rendered by the following members: Mrs. P. H. Key, Mrs. N. H. Mailhos, Mrs J. L. Dodge, Mrs. T. B. Pardue. The songs "Where the Gates Swing Outward Ever" and "When They Ring Those Golden Bells" were sung as special requests.

After the program delicious refreshments were served by the social committee of the church.

The Thursday evening auction bridge club met with Mrs. Tom Cox as hostess. The reception room of Mrs. Cox's home was resplendent with roses and a profusion of spring flowers. In the games of bridge Mrs. H M. Gatlin received a lovely box of dusting powder for her high score prize. M. Paul Stinson won a shaving combination set as the gentleman's prize. Mrs. Cox served strawberry shortcake topped with whipped cream and punch to the following members of the club; Mr. and Mrs. S. Kirkland, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Bass, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Gatlin, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stinson and Mrs. O. A. Gaar.

The members of the Jonesboro Art Club held the regular weekly meeting with Mrs. D. D. McDonald as hostess. The club planned a picnic to be held in the near future, and have as guests their husbands and other invited guests. During the social hour the hostess served sandwiches, cookies and tea to the guests and club members: Mesdames. Charles Patison, Walter Braswell, Terrell Ben Johnston, Stewart Martin, H. W. Ayers, George Littlefield, W. P. Miller, David Jefress, Stanley Lewis and Paul Stinson.

Mrs. Nelson Michaud entertained the members of her Wednesday afternoon contract bridge club in her home in Hodge. The prize for high score went to Mrs. W. C. McDonald, Jr. Mrs. Michaud presented her guest, Mrs. John Kelley, with a package of rare soap and powder. A delicious plate luncheon was served to the following ladies: Mesdames. Charles Moore, John E. Kelley, Lila Dickson, Steve Michaud, Douglass McLean, John Michaud, W. M. McBride, Tom Dennis, Clark Rankin, Clark Rankin, A. G. McKenzie, M. L. Dickerson, Tom Carlin, W. C. McDonald, Jr., Charles Kelley and T. D. Callaway.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS VISIT POWER PLANT

Forty Camp Fire girls, Saturday morning left for Sterlington. The trip was made in a bus of the municipal street railway loaned through courtesy of the management of the company in order that the girls might continue their Saturday trips to nearby points in pursuance with the program of Camp Fire designated as "Know Your Town."

Arriving in Sterlington the girls spent many hours in the plant of the Louisiana Power and Light company, where officials assigned guides to show and explain the workings of a concern of this kind which provides a large part of the lights and power for three states.

After their inspection they enjoyed a picnic lunch in a grove of trees near the plant,

The return was made late in the afternoon.

Great Britain's recent reduction in motor car taxes has resulted in giving a substantial export business U. S. automobile manufacturers.

WAR VETERANS' SERVICE HELPS

(Editor's Note: The following article is the seventh of a series released by H. B. McClendon, Ouachita parish service officer, for publication in the Sunday Morning World. The articles explain benefits available to United States veterans of wars in which this country has participated, and discuss compensations, pensions, hospitalization, funeral expenses and other benefits.)

Veterans administration form P-9 is used in all cases where the veteran desires to appeal his case, whether it be for service connection, increase in compension, or for a rating of total permanent because of a non-service connected disability or disabilities.

Where a veterans' claim has been denied by the New Orleans office of the veterans administration, he may appeal within one year from the date he is notified. Upon receipt of the form in the New Orleans office, the evidence is considered by someone in the adjudication division and if it is his opinion that all evidence has been secured from the war department or the navy department, and everyone who can testify has been given an opportunity, the case is certified to the Washington office as ready for consideration.

When the Washington office is ready for the case, the New Orleans office will be notified. Because of the large number of cases that have been appealed, the folder sometimes remains three or four months in the New Orleans office before it is called to Washington. Should the appeal be denied, the veteran can secure evidence from physicians and friends and submit it to the veterans administration. In the event the administration considers the evidence new and material, the central office will be notified again and in due time the file will be requested and reconsidered by that office.

Veterans who are in receipt of compensation should be very careful in appealing their cases. Advice should be first secured through a service organization—the state service commissioner, the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, or the American Red Cross—before the case is appealed, as a good many veterans have appealed their cases when they were in receipt of compensation only to get a decision that service connection would be broken and they would no longer receive any payments. It very often happens that a veteran when appealing without securing advice, has had his compension reduced instead of increased.

Further information may be secured by writing the local service officer.

PRIMOS STRESSES ENERGY IN BREAD

Value As Food Pointed Out By Owner Of Electrick Maid Shop

G. K. Primos, owner and operator of the Electrik Maid Bake Shop, 404 DeSiard street, issues a statement concerning the value of bread as an energy food, and announces that a copy of a book of recipes revealing new methods of serving bread and other baked wheat products will be given free to each person requesting a copy at his establishment.

The statement follows:

"Some people seem to get a great deal out of life. They have many interests, many pleasures. They have the vitality to enjoy life to the full. Vitality is enhanced by proper diet. The largest need of the diet is for endurance energy—and science now reveals that bread is our outstanding energy food.

"Bread supplies endurance energy, which is demanded for abundant vitality. The full scientific explanation of why bread is our outstanding energy food is given in a valuable free book, "Vitality Demands Energy," copies of which may be obtained from the Electrik Maid Bake Shop.

"This book suggests 109 fascinating new ways to serve bread and other baked wheat products. It gives clever new recipes and menus by Betty Crocker, well known cooking authority, and presents delightful new ideas for combining bread with other foods to make meals that are appetizing, and correctly balanced. Get your free copy of this book without delay.

"The books also tells the scientific explanation of why bread is our outstanding energy food, and offers pointers on how to choose a diet that will provide endurance energy, so important to vitality."

The Electrik Maid Bake Shop is one of a group of leading bakery concerns that are cooperating in an educational campaign through the advertising columns of the Morning World and News-Star.

MONROE BAKERIES

DISTRIBUTED IN EXPENSES DURING THE YEAR 1934

$359,550.10

Any industry that expends that amount of money in one year stamps it

ONE OF THE MOST IMPORTANT INDUSTRIES OF THE COMMUNITY

In order to give the people of Monroe a picture of the volume of business that is annually done by the bakeries of this city, the following figures are taken from the records of 1934, showing the cost of operating the combined plants of the local bakeries:

Material, including bread-making ingredients and wrapping cost	$166,698.00
Processing tax on flour	21,810.00
Payroll, for shop, office, operating, selling	97,929.00
Truck expense, covering repairs, supplies, and other upkeep	25,642.80
Taxes, for merchandise, machinery and buildings occupied by bakeries	6,512.40
Insurance, covering all phases of liability on bakery operation	6,694.84
Oven fuel, light, water and power	5,781.65
Donations to charity and charity organizations	1,368.09
Advertising, newspaper and all other mediums	4,363.20
Repairs and renewals to bakeries	6,901.20
Express on material and equipment	1,184.40
Depreciation on equipment	15,213.60
TOTAL	$359,550.10

THESE figures offer a valid reason for asking public cooperation in keeping intact an important industry like that of the bakery business in this city. The bakeries are making a constantly increasing investment in this community—because they believe in our city and are doing their part to promote its welfare.

THE figures above indicate something of the huge volume of business that is done by these bakeries every year. Because of this volume they are able to buy materials in large quantities at prices that permit them to make bread much better and much cheaper than it can be done by the housewife in the home.

THEY are shouldering more than a fair share of the responsibility in helping to create better living conditions through creating employment and establishing a high standard of working conditions. They are doing more than their part in aiding charity to a greater extent than any other food industry.

SCIENTIFIC and modern sanitary methods of baking permit Monroe bakers to produce bread at a lower price than any other similar food product. The public should not be mislead by campaign advertising extolling the qualities of bran, a husk unusable in flour, containing a minimum of energy value, which with little added ingredients is being sold at a price twice the price of a similar quantity of bread.

THE bakeries of Monroe are producing a quality product at the lowest price that is possible if the standard is to be maintained and the bakeries continue to exist. Any reduction in the price would entail the production of an inferior quality of bread or the destruction of an industry which the figures given herewith show to be one of the largest and most important in this area.

THE public is urged to investigate the claims of food faddists and quacks who erroneously advise against the use of white bread in the diet. Reliable physicians and dieticians the world over as well as in our own community have shown that bread is an energy producing food, necessary in any diet.

Buy bread that you know is fresh—because it is delivered the day it is made to your grocer.

LAWYERS TACKLE RELIEF PROBLEMS

Legal Knots Said To Be Delaying President's Big Work Plan

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(AP)—Lawyers in half a dozen government divisions sought today to loosen legal knots said to be delaying President Roosevelt's four billion dollar works program.

Some of the problems at which they were said to be working included:

Determination of a method by which the rural electrification division can keep its work from being restricted to those dozen states that have set up rural electrification authorities.

Fixing definite policies to be followed by the rural settlement division in buying lands and moving persons from farms that are not fertile to others that will produce.

Drafting executive orders which will clothe the applications, allotment, progress, rural electrification and grade crossing elimination divisions with proper authority to carry out their duties.

Definite figures to show the amount to which each state would be entitled under complicated formulae laid down for distribution of funds for highway and grade crossing elimination work.

Pending development of these questions and a wide variety of policies still to be laid down, most officials shut themselves into their offices to work. Morris L. Cooke, head of the rural electrification division, paused long enough today to outline a few of the objectives of his section.

They called for: Building 100,000 miles of power lines to give electricity to from 750,000 to 1,000,000 farm homes; giving an outlet for the power generated at federal plants in the Tennessee valley at Boulder dam, Grand Coulee, Bonneville, Fort Peck and elsewhere; making the projects pay for themselves in 20 years and keeping them out of private competition so far as possible.

OUTLINES WORK RELIEF PROGRAM

Sounding a new note of optimism, President Franklin D. Roosevelt outlined his work relief program to the nation in a speech pledging "no sectional, no political distinctions" in distributing the $4,000,000,000 fund. Speaking from the oval room of the White House in one of his fireside radio chats, the president said that never since his inauguration had he felt so unmistakably the atmosphere of recovery as he does now. City Briefs

Little 19-months-old Joe Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Brown of West Monroe, who underwent an emergency appendicitis operation at St. Francis sanitarium recently, has been removed home.

Six members of Teflis Grotto, headed by Monarch Henry C. Ray, Jr., left early Saturday for Shreveport where they boarded a special train with members of the Grotto of that city, for Beaumont, Texas, In Beaumont the spring ceremonial is being held over the week-end.

Mrs. Berney Oakland underwent a successful operation in a New Orleans hospital on Friday, according to word that was received in Monroe. She was taken to that city earlier in the week.

All who raise vegetables for the market in Ouachita parish are urged to attend a public meeting to be held Monday at 7:30 p. m. at the courthouse, when it is proposed to form an association. A similar meeting was held recently but without positive results. This time it is planned to complete the organization of this group.

H. J. Fernandez, manager of the Monroe Traffic bureau, will leave tonight for New Orleans to attend the two-day session of the Louisiana public service commission. Hearing on the proposed higher rates for freight on railroads in the state will be held.

Luther Reed announces that he will call a meeting some day this week for the formal organization of the Monroe Real Estate board. An informal meeting was held a fortnight ago. It is proposed to admit realtors from Rayville, Bastrop and Ruston to the Monroe organization.

Announcement is made by the First Baptist church that Mrs. D. C. Pate, of Shreveport, will come to Monroe on May 27 as approved worker for the vacation Bible school of Louisiana and will lead workers in their preparations for the opening of the school on June 10. A week's training course in Sunday school work will be conducted and it is confidently expected that the largest attendance ever will be present.

Mrs. W. D. Combs has returned from Little Rock, where she has been visiting relatives and friends for the past three weeks.

Delbert Evans, who has been an operator in marionette shows in the west, has returned to his home in Monroe for a short visit. His engagements took him as far west as Los Angeles, where he appeared two weeks ago.

Woodrow Wilson, former employe of the Paramount theater, now a student in Louisiana State university, spent a short time in Monroe Saturday, coming up from Baton Rouge on a business trip.

The city council of West Monroe will meet in regular session on Monday night. Usual routine business will occupy the attention of the members and other business matters are to be considered.

No decision has as yet been made as to the purchase of land near Major McGuire park, West Monroe, by the Ouachita Parish Fair association. Rev. George H. Dierlamm, manager of the fair, stated that a decision will be reached shortly, so that in case the land is purchased, there will be sufficient time to complete necessary buildings before the fair is held this fall.

BAG FIRM TO GIVE CONTRACT MONDAY

The Bancroft Bag company in West Monroe, which is to contruct a large new plant located in the Ransom addition, West Monroe, near its present building, will award the contract for the cement work on Monday, it was stated Saturday.

This will call for construction of footings, foundations, floors and all other cement work. The contract for steel has been awarded to the International Steel company of Evansville, Ind., it was stated.

When the second contract is awarded, construction will be started and will proceed rapidly toward completion.

The new building will give far greater floor space and will enable the company to use the present plant as a warehouse for storage.

Cotton Week

Fashion favors COTTON for Spring and Summer for every occasion

This week the world's most fashion-conscious nation pays homage to COTTON . . . the King of the Southland . . . and Queen of fashion for Summer. Here are just a few of our cotton fabrics. What a bold, bizarre, colorful, fascinating picture they present. It should inspire any woman to an entire cotton wardrobe. When you look over the bolts and bolts of cottons here—you'll see these particular bright stars—seersuckers, vibrant with color . . . gorgeous eyelets in beautiful shades—the loveliest organdies you've ever seen that will dance under summer moons. We could go on and on to show you that cotton and charm and chic have more in common than just beginning with the letter "C"—but you'll want to see them for yourself and here they are.

Group Seersuckers-Values to 59c Yd.

in sheer, medium and regular weights

Unusual color combinations, bold stripes; plaids and checks is the fashion story of these imported and domestic seersuckers, full yard wide and color fast. All three weights are suitable for summer and there's nothing smarter for sports or street wear.

OMAHA WINS KENTUCKY DERBY, ROMAN SOLDIER 2ND

WOODWARD STAR DUPLICATES FEAT OF FAMOUS SIRE

Son Of Gallant Fox Beats Roman Soldier By Length And A Half

By Alan Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

CHURCHILL DOWNS, May 4.—Gallant son of a gallant daddy, William Woodward's Omaha stretched his long legs comfortably today on the cold, rain-drenched surface of the historic downs oval and galloped to a smashing victory in the sixty-first Kentucky Derby.

While a thoroughly soaked but highly excited crowd of nearly 50,000 spectators roared their acclaim, the big, dangling chestnut colt administered a sound beating to 17 rival 3-year-olds, including the crack filly favorite, Nellie Flag, and duplicated the triumph of his famous sire, Gallant Fox, the winner of the 1930 derby for the New York banker, whose colors Omaha also carried this afternoon.

Running with much the same confidence his daddy showed five years ago, Omaha steered clear of the early jam, took command on the back stretch and never was seriously menaced in the long stretch drive despite a game finish of the powerful black colt, Roman Soldier, the Texas Derby winner.

A length and a half separated Omaha and Roman Soldier at the finish with an outsider, Whiskolo, hanging on to take third money. Whiskolo was four lengths behind Roman Soldier, but a length and a half in front of Nellie Flag, the capricious filly which suffered from early interference and barely took fourth money, by a head, from Blackbirder.

The rest of the big field was well scattered, with most of the heavily played choices nowhere. Plat Eye, after setting the pace for a half mile, finished eighth. Commonwealth, supposed to be at home in the somewhat slippery going, was tenth and Today, C. V. Whitney's erstwhile favorite, finished twelfth after weakening badly in the stretch. Col. E. R. Bradley's Boxthorn, the hope of the "hard-boots" and rated a strong contender, never was in the contention and finished 16th, beating only St. Bernard and Weston.

It was a dismal, cheerless day, with a crowd of disappointing proportions shivering in the coldest weather the derby has experienced in a blue moon, but it was a grand victory for Omaha and the colors of William Woodward's Belair stud.

On the track where the great Earl Sande rode Gallant Fox to triumph five years ago, "Wee Willie" Saunders of Bozeman, Montana, piloted the Fox's son to victory with all the finesse and resourcefulness of a veteran, instead of a youngster getting the thrill of his first derby conquest.

The outcome wrote new derby history. Omaha is the third son of a derby winner to capture the blue ribbon prize of old Kentucky, but the span of five years in which the latest father and son victory has been achieved is a new record. Seven years separated the first pair, Halma in 1895 and Alan-a-Dale in 1902. The triumph of two of the Bradley stars, Bubbling Over and Burgoo King, were six years apart, 1926 and 1932.

Second choice in the betting at 4 to 1, Omaha paid $10 to win for each $2 ticket in the mutuels, as well as $5 to place and $3.80 to show. The sturdy son of Gallant Fox and Bamboo, winner of only $3,850 as a two-year-old, collected $39,525 net for his first 3-year-old conquest. The race carried a gross value of $49,950, of which $4,000 went to Roman Soldier, $1,000 to Whiskolo and $1,000 to Nellie Flag.

Roman Soldier, backed so heavily that the black colt went to the barrier third choice, returned $6.40 to place and $4.20 to show in the mutuels. Whiskolo's show price was $3.40.

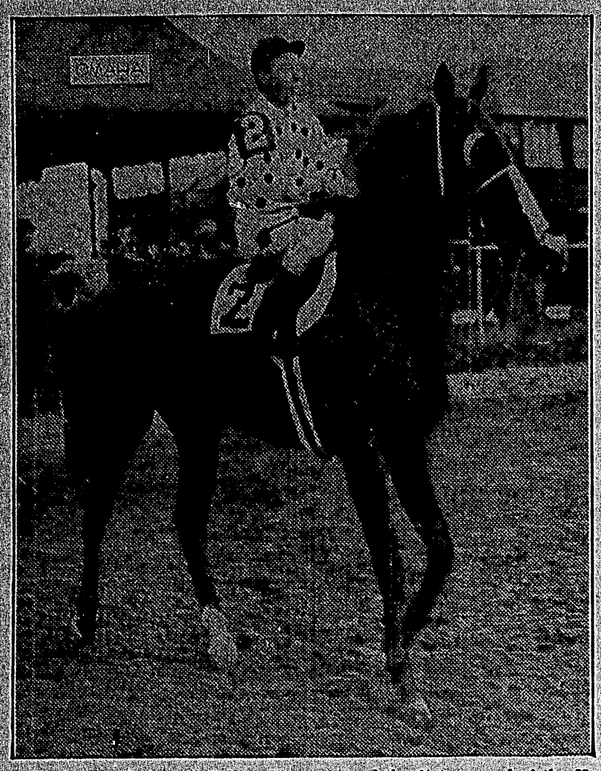
Interference at two early stages of the race proved costly to the chances of Nellie Flag, the temperamental filly which displaced Today as the derby favorite over night after it developed the popular C. V. Whitney colt had pulled up a trifle lame, with a heel bruise. Nellie would have returned only $4.80 on the dollar if she had shown the way home to her gentleman rivals, but she was never able to gain a contending position after being bumped around impolitely at the start.

It was no day for ceremony, anyway, and the colts showed no disposition to adopt chivalrous methods and "see Nellie home" the way they did the filly's dam, Nellie Morse, in the 1924 Preakness. Nellie Flag suffered sharp interference from Plat Eye carrying the colors of Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stable, soon after the start as the big field seemed almost to converge, funnellike, for the first turn down the stretch.

The Calumet miss again was impeded, rounding the first turn, and Jockey Eddie Arcaro was unable to get his charge out of close quarters until the last quarter. It was then too late for Nellie to do anything about the situation, with Omaha, winging along fully seven lengths in front of her, but she finished gamely to land the last money position.

Whether or not Today suffered the effects of his foot injury, the result of either kicking or stepping on some object in yesterday's workout, the illustrious Whitney entry never showed anything like the form that carried him to triumph a week ago in the Wood Memorial at Jamaica track. Today, after getting away interference, was beaten to fade on the back stretch and weakened badly in the stretch, finishing a full lengths shy of the money.

WINNER OF 61ST KENTUCKY DERBY



Omaha, sturdy son of Gallant Fox, captured the 61st renewal of the Kentucky derby before 50,000 spectators at Churchill Downs yesterday, beating Roman Soldier by a length and a half. Whiskolo was third with Nellie Flag, favored filly, fourth.

LAKESIDE MEET REACHES FINALS

One Match Remains In Flight Competition; Four Winners Meet

Three flight finals were completed yesterday in Lakeside Country club's annual spring handicap golf tournament, with H. G. Frazer, A. B. Clarkson and Dr. R. T. Harberson victorious.

Frazer defeated Wesley Shafto, 1 up in 36 holes of play to capture second flight honors. Shafto turned the 27th hole five down and made a great comeback but fell short of halving the match by one hole. Shafto shot a 79 and Frazer turned in a 90.

Dr. Harberson won the third flight championship by defeating Bobby Oliver, 2 and 1, in another close match. Harberson made an 80 and young Oliver turned in an 84.

Clarkson and Boardman waged another close battle in the fifth flight finals, with Clarkson finally winning, 2 and 1. Clarkson's medal score was 89 and Boardman shot an 87.

H. K. Touchstone and C. S. Foster will play their final match for the first flight prize today. The winner of this match will play Frazer, and Harberson will meet C. W. Wallace, winner of the fourth flight, to decide who will play in the 36 hole finals for the grand prize.

EVANGELINE LEAGUE

(By Associated Press)

Lake Charles continued its winning streak yesterday, defeating the Alexandria Aces, 7 to 4, to hold on to its league leadership in the Evangeline league. The game was featured by Marnoch's sixth homer of the season.

In other fields, Abbeville scalped Opelousas, 7 to 0, under the steady pitching of Hilliam, new addition to the Athletics. He allowed six hits, well scattered. The Rayne Rice Birds downed the New Iberia Red Birds, 8 to 2, and Jeanerette defeated Lafayette 9 to 8 in one of the most exciting games played on the home turf at Lafayette since the opening of the season.

Ferriday Junior Squad Holding Daily Workouts

FERRIDAY, La., May 4.—(Special)—Coach Herman Zappe, manager of the Ferriday junior baseball club, is conducting daily workouts for candidates for the team, which will represent the local post this season for the district junior Legion laurels.

HEMSLEY LEADS IN JUNIOR LOOP

CHICAGO, May 4. (AP)—Rollie Hemsley, the St. Louis Browns' catcher, who set a lot of pace for American league batsmen early last season, is back at it again.

Hemsley went on a rampage last week, which, according to averages including Thursday's games, netted him a gain of 123 points and the lead among the regulars at .390. He went to bat eleven times during the splurge and knocked out eight hits. Jimmy Foxx, of the Athletics, remained in second place with .388, ten points higher than his last week's mark. Last week's leader, Bill Werber of Boston, slipped way down the list, falling from .395 to .296.

Zeke Bonura, Chicago White Sox first baseman, retained the leadership in the home run derby, hitting one long one to give him six for the season. He also held on as the scoring leader with 18 runs, and was tied with Bob Johnson of the Athletics, for runs batted in honors at 16.

Johnson connected safely nine times to take the lead in base hits away from Jackie Hayes of the White Sox, with 22. The other individual leaders were; two base hits, Vernon Washington, White Sox, seven; stolen bases, Odell Hale, Cleveland, five, and three base hits, Joe Cronin, Boston, three.

Other ranking regulars in batting were: Johnson, Philadelphia, .386; Hayes, Chicago, .386; Lou Finney, Philadelphia, .364; Bonura, Chicago, .360; Charley Gehringer, Detroit, .350; Earl Averill, Cleveland, .347; Joe Vosmik, Cleveland, .346, and Jack Burns, St. Louis, .343.

Two veterans, Willis Hudlin of Cleveland, and Bump Hadley of Washington, and a recruit, John Whitehead of the White Sox, stood at the head of the class in pitching. Each won one decision during the week to make it three straight for the campaign. Tommy Bridges of the champion Detroit Tigers, passed Buck Newsom of St. Louis in the strike-out battle, leading with 19.

Chicago topped the league in both team batting and fielding. In hitting, the Sox slipped from .305 to .299, but had an advantage of eleven points over the Athletics. A fielding mark of .983 was just enough to nose out Cleveland its .982. The Indians also had turned in the prize collection of double plays, 17.

Gerald Walker Leads Attack On Wes Ferrell And Two Others

DETROIT, May 4.—(AP)—After being rained into idleness three days running, the Detroit Tigers came back today to rap out a 5 to 2 decision over the Boston Red Sox. It was Detroit's fourth straight win and its first test against an eastern foe.

Gerald Walker

Gerald Walker, Mickey Cochrane's hard-hitting outfielder, paced the Detroit's 11-hit attack on Wesley Ferrell with two doubles in four trips, driving in two runs and scoring one himself.

Little Joe Sullivan, the rookie left-hander from Hollywood, went the route for Detroit to win his second game in three starts, limiting the Sox to eight scattered blows.

Sullivan weakened temporarily in the fifth and walked a man with the sacks full to give Boston its first score, with one out in the fifth Solters singled. Almada hit safely through the box, and Dahlgren was given a free trip to fill the bases when Sullivan hit him on the arm. The young southpaw walked Wes Ferrell to force Solters in from third.

Wes Ferrell opened the eighth with a single and was lifted for Pinch-Runner Legett. The latter reached third on a double by Werber and scored while Gehringer was tossing out Roy Johnson. Hockette finished on the hill for Boston.

Walker's first double and Owen's single gave Detroit a tally in the second, and another in the third when Cochrane singled and counted on Gehringer's double. Two more crossed the plate in the fifth on singles by Gehringer and Rogell and Walker's second double. Goslin doubled in the seventh to score Rogell who was on with a single.

CLEVELAND, May 4.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics reached out of the American league basement today

Junior Twilight League To Hold Meeting Monday

Final arrangements for the opening of the Junior Twilight Softball league's season will be made tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock at a meeting of the various clubs in the Recreation office in the city hall.

Seven teams have already joined the league and it is probable that others may join the circuit tomorrow. Playing is expected to get underway by the middle of the week.

Right Is Might, Say Cleveland Fans

CLEVELAND, May 4.—(AP)—Four husky young right-handers have started the season with such a stream of steady pitching performances that already fans of the Indians are rating them as one of the standout slab quartets of modern baseball.

As the Indians warwhooped into first place in the opening fortnight of American league warfare the quartet of Mel Harder, Oral Hildebrand, Monte Pearson and Willis Hudlin mowed down the opposition relentlessly. Hudlin and Harden hurled three and five-hit winners, respectively, Hildy won a 14-inning grind allowing but nine bingles, and Pearson performed equally impressively in a 13-inning battle, though losing.

All members of this quartet are big enough and young enough to be good for a full season of frequent duty. They accounted for 64 of Cleveland's 85 victories in 1934. Hildebrand, former Butler university basketball ace from Southport, Ind., is 28, stands 6 feet 1 1-2 inches, weighs 174. He won 11, dropped 9, last year.

Harder, who won greatest fame by his brilliant work in the all-star game last summer, went on to a fine record of 20 wins and 12 losses. He hails from Beemer, Neb., is 25, stands 6-1 and weighs 170.

Hudlin, a Wagoner, Okla., product, is only 28, but has been flinging for the Tribe since 1926. He's an even 6 feet and tips the beam at 190. Won 15, lost 10 last year.

Pearson hails from Fresno, Cal., stands 6 feet and weighs 170, won 18 and lost 13 in '34. He's 25.

Clint and Lloyd Brown, the latter a lefty, do most of the infrequent relief work when this "big four" gets tired.

Jonesboro School Ends Spring Football Work

JONESBORO, La., May 4.—(Special)—Coach Charlie Pattison of the Jonesboro high school ended the spring football practice this week. The loss of fifteen lettermen, of which eight held regular positions on the 1934 team, makes the outlook seem gloomy for next season.

Most of the six weeks training has been spent on fundamentals and dummy scrimmage. The team next year will be light but fast, and a new type of offense will be introduced by Coaches Pattison and Baker. Lettermen returning will be Fowler, fullback; Autrey, tackle; Jones, center; Holland, guard; Watson and Tolar, ends.

HARVARD TRACKMEN WIN

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 4.—(AP)—Harvard's powerful track team rolled up a total of 75 2-3 points in a dual meet with Princeton at the Harvard stadium today to defeat the invading Tigers who had a total of 59 1-3 points.

LEADING BATTERS

(By Associated Press)

Jimmie Foxx turned in a remarkable hitting feat yesterday, connecting for four hits including his sixth home run, in four official times at bat and scoring five runs. But he couldn't capture the lead in the Big Six or even the American League as he raised his average 46 points to .434. Gerald Walker of Detroit, who hadn't been considered a "regular" finally forced recognition as two hits in four times up brought his average to .516. Arky Vaughan with two blows out of four, moved up four points in the National League group to pass Shanty Hogan, who was kept idle by an injury. Standing:

Vidalia Meets Ferriday Ball Club Again Today

VIDALIA May 4.—(Special)—Ferriday and Vidalia will meet at the Vidalia high school baseball diamond Sunday afternoon in the second game of a series of contests for the championship of Concordia parish. The initial tilt of the year, played last Sunday in Vidalia, went to the Ferriday club by a one-run margin and Vidalia will be out to even the count this Sunday.

The same two hurlers who engaged in a good hurling duel on the mound in the inaugural contest, will again oppose each other. Joe Holladay, former right-hander from Copiah-Lincoln Junior college, Wesson, Miss., will tie up with elongated Murdock Stanley, a Vidalia high school product.

Only home-town players are being used this season by the two teams and the fans are being urged to support the clubs. The Ferriday park is being placed in repair and games will soon be played there. While the Ferriday park is being improved all of the games will be played on the Vidalia lot.

WALKER ALLOWS BUT 3 HITS AND BLANKS BRAVES

Cardinals Score All Their Runs Off Cantwell In Seventh

BOSTON, May 4.—(AP)—Bill Walker, slim left hander of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, pitched a fine three-hit game today and led the way to a 3 to 0 victory over the Braves in the delayed series opener.

Bill Walker

Chalking up his second triumph of the season, Walker allowed only one man to get beyond first base and that was the result of an accident in which the hurler had no part. Jack Rothrock tried to make a shoestring catch of Joe Coscarart's pop fly in the fifth and Coscarart, playing third in place of Pinky Whitney who is ill, got around to the far corner.

After that freak blow Les Mallon reached first when Jim Collins dropped Walker's throw but the pitcher showed his mettle by forcing Al Spohrer to pop up weakly, fanning Ben Cantwell and retiring Bill Urbanski on a fly.

The game started out as a battle between Walker and Cantwell but the pitching duel broke wide open in the seventh when the Cards combined four of their nine hits with an error by Babe Ruth for all three runs.

Frank Hogan, Boston catcher and league leading hitter, discovered before the game that he had broken a finger on his right hand on a foul tip in last Monday's game with the Phillies. He will be out of the game for about ten days.

BLANTON WINS FOURTH

BROOKLYN, May 4.—(AP)—Pittsburgh's pair of aces, Darrell Elijah (Cy) Blanton and Floyd (Arky) Vaughan, got together to produce a 1 to 0 victory over the Dodgers today and even the series at one all.

Blanton turned in another brilliant mound performance for his fourth straight hurling triumph, allowing only three hits and fanning six. Vaughan ruined old Tom Zachary's side of the pitching duel by belting his fourth home run of the season on the first pitch of the ninth inning.

White Sox Soar On Whitehead's Sidearm Sinker

By Harry Grayson
(NEA Service Sports Editor)

CHICAGO, May 4.—The Black Sox of 1919 and '20 practically blacked out Chicago as far as the class of American league baseball went.

That attendance has been even as good as it was, seems a remarkable tribute to the good citizens of the big city on the lake front and the stockyards clientele which dates back to the hitless wonders of 1906 and beyond. Chicago always has been an American league town.

The Chicago management failed to keep stride with the times. It had no farm clubs nor elaborate scouting system. Things went from bad to worse. Seventh and eighth became the customary niche in the standings column. Lou Fonseca created a mild sensation by piloting the outfit to the sixth slot in 1933.

Sox recruits in spring training camps looked more like ribbon clerks than ball players—until this spring.

Then, from nowhere, apparently, came a corps of peagreens which such a good judge as Al Simmons called the best that has reported to a ball club in years.

There were the young pitchers, Johnny Whitehead, Les Tietje, Joe Vance, Vernon Kennedy, Lee Stine, Dungan Rigney and Monty Stratton, and the robust outfielders, Vernon George Washington, Ray Radcliff and Daniel Hafoy, nephew of the redoubtable Chick.

Stine, Rigney and Stratton have been sent out, but both Jimmy Dykes and Simmons predict that all three will be back to remain for some length of time.

Farm Boy Makes Good

There is a good story in connection with each player who has lent a hand in the remaking of the White Sox, but the most interesting one has to do with John Henderson Whitehead, a right-hander of 200 pounds and 6 feet 2 inches.

Dykes and Simmons expect the 25-year-old Whitehead to take his place among the great pitchers of the game.

Whitehead made the Pirates and Cubs throw their bats away in exhibition games. He broke into the American league with a bang, letting the champion Detroit Tigers down once with six hits and again with three, and repelling St. Louis with seven.

Whitehead saw his first major league game when the White Sox opened in Detroit.

Both Whitehead and Washington hail from the northeastern part of Texas. Whitehead was raised on his father's farm near Ector, 90 miles from Dallas, and still makes his home there.

Whitehead was a catcher until his high school team was being beaten one afternoon. Then he turned pitcher "to get the other side out," and has been at it ever since.

Roy Leslie, former minor league first baseman, saw him in a country game at Wolf City, Texas, in the fall of 1931, and told him that he was wasting his time in the bushes. Leslie took him to Hap Morse, who then managed the Dallas club of the Texas league, and he finished the season there.

Whitehead beat Schoolboy Rowe, then with Beaumont, twice in 1932, and finished with 12 victories and 4 defeats after being employed as a relief worker for the first half of the campaign. He won 16 games and lost 12 in 1933 and came into his own last season with 20 victories and 9 defeats.

Pitches Like Idols

Whitehead's boyhood idols were Walter Johnson and Grover Cleveland Alexander, and he throws with the same sidearm and easy motion of that illustrious pair. The big boy who until four years ago was threshing grain, shucking corn and picking cotton, also throws over and underhanded.

Whitehead has the speed with which to blow down major league batsmen, a sidearm sinker, an excellent change of pace, and an even disposition.

The current season is a glorious adventure to the large farm boy. Prior to going to Pasadena, Calif., to join the White Sox this spring, he had been out of Texas league territory only once—on a trip to Mexico City for post-season exhibition games.

"I'm having more fun playing ball this season than I have had since I broke in," says the veteran Simmons. "After what I've been through with the White Sox for two years it's a treat to be on a club that has a pitcher like Whitehead to toss in there every fourth day.

"The other clubs had better get used to the young man. Barring accidents, they'll see a lot of him for the next 10 years."

The End.

Wisdom Not Enough

It is widely admitted that King Solomon, the wisest man of the world, failed. His domestic life was far from what should be an example to human beings then or since. He got his kingdom into a terrible financial mess. When he died he left his crown to the heathen son of one of many idolatrous forbidden wives.

Yet King Solomon was wise. The indisputable evidence of his wisdom is to be found in the marvelous advice that he left to the world.

But King Solomon did not follow his own advice. He prayed constantly for wisdom, and he received wisdom, but he did not live according to his wisdom. He knew his stuff, but he was not guided by it.

What, then, was the matter with King Solomon? Why did a man so astonishingly wise do so many things so astonishingly foolish?

It takes more than knowledge, understanding and wisdom to make one shape one's affairs and govern one's acts according to the great fundamental principles of life.

King Solomon knew better than to do some of the things he did. Nevertheless, he went ahead and did them.

The trouble with Solomon was that he placed too much faith in wisdom. He overlooked the fact that wisdom merely tells you which way to go. But it takes more than wisdom to make you go that way.

The man who goes down town and gets drunk, wastes his wages and gets locked up over the week end, knows better. His judgment tells him that such a course is no proper course to pursue. Nevertheless, he pursues that course. He has knowledge, but he does not use it. He has wisdom but he does not employ it.

"I know I ought not, but I can't help it." "I know I ought to, but I just can't do it." You have heard those expressions. You have thought those thoughts. King Solomon did likewise.

Where King Solomon failed was that in praying for wisdom—that he might know which way to go—he failed to pray sufficiently for spiritual insight, spiritual strength, spiritual fidelity that he might go fearlessly and faithfully the way his wisdom told him to go.

Wisdom by itself is weak. A book may be filled with wisdom. You may memorize the book. Then you will be filled with the book's wisdom. But a book has no strength of character and you will have no strength of character either, if all you have inside of you is the wisdom of the book.

To employ wisdom, you must have strength of character. And strength of character comes with spiritual insight, spiritual stamina and spiritual fidelity.

Very few persons who do wrong are satisfied to do wrong. They had rather not do wrong, but they lack the spiritual equipment to keep them from doing wrong—just as did King Solomon. That is why such persons fail. That is why King Solomon failed.

A word to the wise is of itself not sufficient. Sturdiness of soul is also required.

Strive not only for wisdom but also to make your soul sturdy and rugged. Then you can use your wisdom to go places.

Be Thankful For Cotton

Celebration of "Cotton Week" throughout the nation this week serves again to emphasize the importance of the fleecy staple as the foundation of the south's agricultural, industrial and commercial progress.

No matter how much we may argue the necessity for diversified farming in an effort to make rural communities more self-sufficient, we must recognize that cotton must always have the chief place in our agricultural system. Cotton always will be the money crop of the south, because it is, in spite of everything, the most dependable and stable product of our soil.

The problem offered by cotton is not one of production but, as has been emphasized over and over again, it is essentially one of consumption. It is this phase of the industry on which public attention is being focussed this week. Merchants and manufacturers are making special efforts to demonstrate to the people at large what cotton means in the economic life of the nation, how widely diversified are its uses and how it may be employed in contributing to the welfare of the people.

Take a look at some of the exhibits of cotton goods that are being shown this week in local stores so that you may appreciate more fully what a large part it plays in modern life and living. And then—be thankful for cotton!

Alex is inclined to accept as truth the story about the fisherman who killed the wolf by throwing a stone at it, although it would have been impossible for him to believe it if the fisherman had snagged the wolf on "a prong-tailed whiffle-moth with a spinner and a 4-foot leader," etc.

"Probably the ultra in vanishing Americans would be a Republican Indian," says Senator Soaper of the Detroit News. On the other hand, former Vice President Curtis' picture was in the paper the other day.

More Truth Than Poetry

LINES TO A HOT DOG

After reading of the improvements that have been made lately in their structure and flavor.

You're now a thing of beauty,
Your figure gleams and glows,
Your color's rich and fruity
And mighty like a rose.
Men gaze on you with wonder,
Their greedy eyes agog,
And murmur, "What in thunder—
Can that thing be a dog?—
A mere provocative of thirst,
A comon little wienlewurst?"

You're hardly a confection
But still you have a "flair."
A keen and close inspection
Without a qualm you bear.
You're better and you're bigger,
And, though I may be wrong,
You seem to have a figger
Of pleasing embongpong.
A highly fitting thing you are
To grace a picnic or a bar.

You have your own rare flavor
Of many, many things,
You have the kind of savor
That makes you fit for Kings.
You're sapid and nutritious,
Though outwardly you're plain,
And who could be suspicious
Of what you may contain?
I've tasted ortolans and frogs,
And still my preference is dogs.

Keep Your Eyes Open

By BRUCE CATTON

We have been watching so long for that famous "corner" which must be turned before we pass from depression to prosperity, that our eyes may be getting a little glassy. It is entirely possible that we may get 'way past it before we even see it.

All of which is just another way of saying that a business revival could easily steal upon us unawares. It cannot come overnight; there will be no abrupt transition from depression to boom. Instead, the pick-up must begin a little bit here and a little bit there. Then, one day, we might look around and make the pleasing discovery that things were a lot better than we had thought.

Bearing all that in mind, it is worth glancing at a size-up of the situation just made by the National Industrial Conference Board. This presents a picture which, while somewhat spotty, is preponderantly bright.

The auto industry, for instance, continues to expand. Auto production for the first quarter of 1935 reached a higher level than any in the last eight years with the exception of 1929.

Steel production, on the other hand, slipped nearly five per cent from February to March, although it remained 6.5 per cent above the 1934 level. Bookings of fabricated structural steel, meanwhile, rose 34 per cent from February to March, and machine tool orders jumped sharply, giving the first quarter an average 18 per cent above that for 1934.

Another encouraging factor is to be found in the fact that building and engineering contract awards rose in March by more than the usual seasonal amount. Residential contracts, in particular, made a gratifying gain.

Electric power production in March declined slightly from February, but the decline was somewhat less than seasonal and the March output remained four per cent above that for March, 1934. Bituminous coal production was up in March—possibly because of fear of a strike—and department store sales rose.

On the other hand, textile production in March fell off by more than the usual seasonal amount, security prices sagged, and wholesale commodity prices dropped slightly—although these latter remained 7.6 per cent above the level recorded a year ago.

It is hard to add all this together and get anything very definite. In the main, however, it may said that the picture is encouraging.

A slow current of business expansion seems to be at work. How far it will carry us may be another question; but for the moment, at least, we seem to have genuine grounds for optimism.

New Deal In Washington

By Rodney Dutcher
(World Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON.—NRA knows how to be honest with itself—but not with the rest of us.

Congress would like to know whether, as Senator Borah has always said, NRA has had the effect of fostering monopolies, monopolistic practices, and monopolistic prices.

There's plenty of evidence that it has and the evidence is to be found in NRA's own files. But investigating senators, considering new legislation, will have to dig a lot deeper before they get it.

Operating with NRA codes, monopolistic industries have frozen high prices solid. Even federal, state, and city governments, despite a special exempting order by NRA aimed at correcting the evil and saving the taxpayers a lot of money, can't get discounts on their large-scale purchases of many types of supplies.

You can read about it in the NRA research and planning division's study of the effects of executive order 6767, issued last June to permit bidders on public contracts to quote prices not more than 15 per cent below those allowable to private purchasers under their codes. (If you can get a copy! Very few are available.)

"Fire" Is Suppressed

But you'd never imagine the true state of affairs if you merely read the official report on the study, prepared and addressed to the president after Senator King had asked for it.

It isn't clear just who wrote it, but it's signed by Acting Chairman Donald Richberg of NRA and seems to have been prepared with the dominating idea of suppressing the strong language and sensational conclusions in Research and Planning Director Leon Henderson's summary of the study.

Executive order 6767 was an answer to a great howl from federal, state, and city purchasing agents who claimed taxpayers were being soaked by a flood of tie-bids (identical bids) on public contracts.

It was a assumed lower bids within the 15 per cent margin would be submitted by supply industries and that there'd be a greater variance of bids.

But look at a few excerpts from Henderson's summary of findings:

". . . the preponderance of obtainable evidence indicates that executive order 6767 was only sporadically effective in increasing competitive auction bidding upon contracts to be let by public purchasing agents.

Many Bids Increased

"Out of a total of 85 sets of contracts studied (a total including practically all purchases of the procurement division of the treasury and the bureau of supplies and accounts of the navy), 41 showed an increase in the amount of tie-bidding after the order was issued, 10 showed no change, while 34 showed a decline.

"The percentage of tie-bids increased notably in such industries as iron and steel, paper and pulp products and building materials. It remained about the same in such industries as automotive, paint and varnish, chemical and glass containers, and decreased substantially in such industries as asbestos, scientific apparatus and cement . . .

". . . practically no evidence was found that the order secured to the public exchequers even a fraction of the potential savings which it was hoped a 15 per cent discount upon government purchases would achieve. Almost universally bidders upon public contracts failed to offer a discount . . .

Monopoly Unbroken

"Finally, the order has not served to loosen at all the grip of strongly organized industries upon the prices and upon the consumers of their products. So far as the evidence obtainable for this study is concerned, monopolistic competition has continued and has even been stabilized in many respects by the codes.

"The evidence that is here to be had shows overwhelmingly that these monopolistic or quasi-monopolistic groups have cartelized under the codes to such extent as to bring about increased rigidity and gradual petrification in the price structure. . . .

"A realistic and factual analysis can scarcely have any other outcome than to pose emphatically the question: How can the codes and the NRA be welded into a device which, by promoting fair competitive practices, price flexibility, and industrial stability, thereby brings about increased industrial production and increased real social income?"

All of which was considered too hot to pass on to the public. The official report on the study is full of weaseled phraseology. It even says tie-bids chasing agents will shrdlu etaoin eet "may indicate the closest kind of competitive bidding," to which purchasing agents will merely reply:

"Oh, yeah?"

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE MESSENGER OF DEATH—In 1520 Panfilo Narvaez, Spanish conquistador, landed on the coast of Mexico with a crew of 900 men for the purpose of capturing Hernando Cortes, who was then in the Mexican interior. On learning of the land, Cortes swiftly descended upon Narvaez' forces, defeating them in battle and making Narvaez his prisoner. Narvaez' soldiers were incorporated in Cortes' army. Among the new arrivals was a cabin boy, Juan Nepomucen of Santo Domingo. Juan was sick with smallpox and carried this dreadful disease into the country. As a result, more than 3,000,000 Indians died of smallpox within a short time. Some authorities state the number of victims as 3,500,000 to 6,000,000. Entire tribes of Indians were annihilated, with not a single representative spared to tell the tale of their extermination. Smallpox was long known in India, whence through Egypt it was carried into the south of Europe about 600 A. D.

MOHAMMET'S MOUNTAIN—In 1879, the Judge Ordinary of Dooly county, Georgia, purchased a heavy safe for the safeguarding of the county records. While being carted from the railway station of Montesena, the wagon carrying the 9,000 pound safe broken down about 17 miles from the county seat, and the cargo became mired in the mud. The big box was immediately turned into an office, and a price of $150 was offered for an idea as to how to bring the safe to its destination. The winning suggestion, which was immediately acted upon by the authorities, was that if you cannot bring the safe into the county, the county ought to be moved to the safe. The legislature is said to have extended the county lines to include the safe, but fortunately, some handy soul constructed a vehicle in the meantime, on which the safe was finally moved to the courthouse. The courthouse was found to be too small for the huge safe, and so it was torn down and a new one built around the safe.

Lights Of New York

By Paul Harrison

NEW YORK.—The boondoggling scandals, in which it was revealed that unemployed persons were hired with relief money to learn interpretive dancing and to twiddle the strings on puppets, have brought a boom in anecedotes about relief administration.

A courier has just loped in from Harlem with an account of the plight of a Mr. Hinkty Davis, who went around to the welfare people and asked for aid. Althought built like a stevedore, Mister Davis admitted under questioning that his profession was gambling. But a man couldn't gamble if he couldn't find any body with money to gamble with.

The bureau executive to whom he talked—a spunky little trick recently out of college—said she could give him a temporary job loading and unloading relief supplies in one of the city's storehouses. Mistuh Davis sighed reproachfully, said he didn't feel fittin' for any work harder than tossin' a pair of dice.

"Have you got some dice?" asked the young lady, with a gleam in her eye. Mistuh Davis produced them. "Will you shoot to see whether you go to work or whether I give you some food tickets and rent money?" Mistuh Davis would. They did, and the girl won. She won the next week, too, and the next. . . . Lift dat bar'el, tote dat bale! . . . Hinkty says he's cured of gambling.

Recompense

No sceptic in matters pertaining to the circus, I wouldn't think of questioning Mr. Dexter Fellows' story of the grateful Ringling elephant. To go back to the beginning, it seems that a young American doctor was a member of a scientific expedition traveling in India in 1925. One of the riding elephants got a thorn deeply lodged inside it's trunk, suffered for days, then stood without a whimper while the physician cut it out.

The scene shifts to the present, and Madison Square Garden. The grand entry is under way, with much noise and tinseled trappings. Suddenly one of the elephants (THE elephant, of course) trumpets happily and breaks ranks. Suffles over to the rail, hoists the physician out of a cheap end seat and deposits him gently in one of the $3.50 boxes.

From Hollywood

Dorothy Parkerism relayed from Hollywood: At one of those large and practically interminable parties, Miss Parker found herself in the company of a boorish fellow who plainly wanted her and all the world to know that he was an up-and-comer in the movie business, and that he had an uncanny skill in picking new talent.

"I know a dozen obscure people," he bragged, "who will be stars one of these days and will have me to thank for their recognition. There's H. X. Blank, for instance"—and he mentioned the name of a socially unpopular actor who had a few secondary roles lately. "He was one of my discoveries."

"Where had you been looking?" asked Miss Parker. "Under rocks?"

Peke Abroad

A certain wealthy and over-stuffed matron owns two dogs—an old, favorite Pom named Tootums and a young Peke named Wicky. The lady sailed for France the other day, and during her feverish preparations for the voyage somebody asked whether she'd take Tootums with her.

"No," said the matron, "I won't. Tootums has been abroad six times, all over the continent from Brussels to Rome, and even on a Mediterranean cruise. I think I own it to Wicky to take him along this trip."

is the most modern on earth, its fighters possess a better morale than that of any other air force. Further, German anti-aircraft guns are the best, most effective in the world."

France replies: "Not long ago you Germans were saying 'Paris in five days.' You are not there yet and you never again will be there."

THE WAR OUTLOOK is not cheerful. Hitler and Goering evidently feel that they have their military reputations to make, and must attend to that. This country should not be too busy with other things to realize that war may be next on the program.

France suggests that an "anti-terrorist," or "penal court," that would punish any aggressor.

RUSSIA and France are "getting ready." Russia agrees to keep 450,000 men on its western border, close to the German line. Each agrees to fight for the other when and if the other is "invaded," not otherwise. Bombing a city from the air without troops marching on the soil, would probably constitute "invasion."

STATESMEN that witnessed the May day military demonstration in Moscow were impressed especially by the great number of high powered tanks, or "land battleships," enough of them to travel over the country in solid rows, like old fashioned cavalry or infantry, but ten thousand times more efficient.

Our army which talks about "continuing the use of cavalry" and similar nonsense, ought to investigate that.

HERR ULRICH FLEISCHAUER has fresh news. As a "Nazi expert," he says the League of Nations was planned by Jews, "to unify the language, money and religion of Israel." Also, Herr Fleischauer discovers that Jews "gain their ends by starting revolutions." Believe it or not, they started the Russian revolution, having first hired somebody to assassinate Archduke Ferdinand at Serajevo, thus starting the World war.

The German discoverer does not explain why Trotzy, head of the Bolshevik army, one of the ablest of the Bolsheviki was expelled from Russia, if that was a Jewish revolution. The Nazi fanatic seems not to know that it is possible to be too silly?

One English town will celebrate the king's jubilee by distributing free beer. Might it not be a good idea to make light beer part of the regular food supply of men in this government's CCC camps?

Minus government tax it would cost little, keep men contented, abolish, or diminish, complaints of some workers spending their small supplies of money with bootleggers.

THE U. S. CHAMBER of Commerce groans, while "big business" views with alarm, but here and there sunshine breaks through the clouds. For instance, the Hudson Motor Car company, for the first quarter of 1935, reports the largest profit for any quarter since 1931.

With eight million dollars in cash and no current bank loans outstanding, the company feels cheerful. Roy D. Chapin, president of Hudson Motors has been back on his real job for two years, after giving up time to hard government work in Washington. That may account for it.

Fish Fry Will Be Given By Odd Fellows Monday

HOMER, La., May 4.—(Special)—I. O. O. F. lodges of north Louisiana, including about 200 representatives, will gather at Hemler's road house near Dorcheat Monday afternoon for a fish-fry and "get-together" meeting, officials of the local lodge announced yesterday.

W. T. Mayo, state grand master of the organization, and other well known speakers will be present at the affair. Music will be furnished by the boys' band of Minden.

(In cooperation with the Twin City Safety Council, sections of the Monroe City Traffic Regulations will be printed each day, to permit the public an opportunity of becoming more familiar with their provisions.)

Reporting Accidents:

Section 48. Any person driving a motor vehicle, in the event of probable danger, or when signalled to do so by any pedestrian or by the driver or rider of any animal, shall stop immediately and shall not again proceed until all danger is past; and it is hereby made the duty of the driver of any vehicle, in the event of collision or accident, to stop, ascertain the probable extent of damage or injury and give or render such aid or assistance as the circumstances may require; and to submit a written report of such accident or collision, within twelve hours thereafter, to the superintendent of police of the city of Monroe, by delivering such written report to the officer in charge at police headquarters.

RECORDS SMASHED AS L. S. U. COPS S. A. A. U. MEET

HARDIN BETTERS WORLD MARK IN HURDLE FEATURE

Louisiana State Piles Up 91 Points To Walk Off With Meet

BATON ROUGE, La., May 4. (AP)—Great athletes of the south and nation battered at the doors of world record time today in the Southern Amateur Athletic Union's annual track and field tournament but whether any forced entrance remained to be seen after official ruling upon recorded performances.

One world mark was declared bettered by Glenn "Slats" Hardin, Louisiana State start speedster and jumper, and another announced equalled by Al Moreau, crack Olympic aspirant hurdler from Marksville, La., but whether the feats will be officially recognized by the A.A.U. will depend upon whether cognizance will be taken of a breeze at the fliers backs.

Aided by the performances or Hardin, gigantic Jack Torrance, and other stars, Louisiana State university easily won the meet by the lopsided score of 91 1-2 points to 32 1-2 for Southwestern Louisiana institute, the next closest competitor.

Loyola of New Orleans was third with 24 points, Tulane next with 15 and Baker high school of Baker, La., next with 12 points.

Other points were scattered.

A flock of meet records were bettered.

A crowd of 5,000 saw Hardin run one of the finest races of his career to be clocked in 22.4 seconds in the 200 meter hurdles. Meet officials announced that his mark was better than the world record cited as 23 seconds.

His performance came after Moreau, former L.S.U. star, barely beat the Olympic ace, Johnny Morriss of Lafayette, La., to the tape in the 110 meter hurdles in what was announced as a world equalling time of 14.2.

The mercury-heeled Neugass was declared to have come within a tenth of a second of equalling the world record in the 100 meters with a speed of 10.4. He likewise turned in a 20.7 speed in the 200 meters.

The 303-pound Torrance, world shot-put champion, made a sweep of first place in the shot, hammer, discus and 56 pound weight. He set a new S.A.A.U. mark in the shot with 54 feet 5 inches.

Neugass beat S.A.A.U. records in both the 100 and 200 meters; Hardin in the 200 meter hurdles; Billy Utey of Loyola with 13 feet 7 5-8 inches in the pole vault; Roland Romero, Olympic star from Loyola in the broad jump with 24 feet 9 3-4 inches, and Duley Wilkins of Southwestern Louisiana in the hop, step and jump with 49 feet 9 inches.

Billy Brown, 16 year old Baker, La., high school prodigy, turned in great feats for his age in several leaping events, but the competition of older athletes was too much for him to win more than the high jump. He captured that at 6 feet, and jumped well over 24 feet in the broad jump.

Hop, step and jump—First, Wilkins, S.L.I.; second, Romero, Loloya; third, Brown, Baker, La.; fourth, Blair, L.S.U. Distance; 49 feet, nine inches (new meet record).

THREE MEMBERS OF MONROE CLUB

America Faces Severe Test In 1936 Olympics

All-Round Strength Gives U. S. Margin Over Leading Challengers

By Conrad M. Jennings
Track Coach, Marquette University

America, in my opinion, will receive its severest challenge in the 1936 Olympic games next year in Berlin.

It was my privilege last summer to escort an all-star track and field team from the United States to Germany.

I had full opportunity to observe the lavish preparations being made for the games.

While playing host, Germany also will make its bid for the championship. There is no doubt in my mind, too, that keener competition than ever will be provided by Sweden, Japan, Finland, Canada, England, and Italy.

America should keep its unbeaten record intact, however.

No other nation will have the all-round strength to meet this country's team balance.

I believe that America's success in the games can be traced to its laws of compulsory education, whereby boys virtually are compelled to finish high school and many go on to college or university. Thus, a certain number of them become inoculated with the track germ at a comparatively early age.

America's supremacy hardly is due to radical characteristics. A roster of any of this country's Olympic squads will show men of many nationalities, removed only one, two or three generations from some foreign shore.

America has a fine nucleus for 1936 in stars of the past two or three years, and who now give promise of being in shape for the Berlin games—tried and true veterans like Jack Torrance, Ben Eastman, Glen Hardin, Ralph Metcalfe, Joe McCluskey, Charles Hornbostel, Glenn Cunningham, Percy Beard, Ivan Fuqua, Cornelius Johnson, Walter Marty, Keith Brown, Bud Deacon, Bill Graber, and Bill Bonthron, if the Princeton product chooses to remain in competition.

On the eve of an interesting outdoor campaign in this pre-Olympic year, you can scan the country and find boys who show great possibilities.

In the sprints, for instance, you hear of such performers as Jesse Owens, of Ohio State; Jimmy Owen, of Iowa; George Parsons and Foy Draper, of Southern California; Ben Johnson, of Columbia; Eulace Peacock, of Temple; Neugass, of Tulane; and Wollender, of Texas.

In the middle-distances, you must consider Jimmy Lu Valle, Al Blackman, Howard Green, Elton Brown, Edgar Ablowich, Abe Rosenkrantz, Johnny McCarthy, Jimmy Jessel, and Ross Bush.

America rarely has been strong, internationally, in distance runs, but competitors like Ears, Follows, Venzke, Crowley, Manning, Lash, Ottey, Porter, Zepp, and Mann will make their bids.

Hurdling names to watch include those of Sammy Allen, Good, Fischer, Fleming, Klopstock, Kirkpatrick, and Morriss, who wants to come back.

Leading javelin hopes are Mottram, Le Gore, Parks, Blair, Odell, and Panther. Coming high-jumpers are Murphy, Threadgill, Burke and Thurber.

Pole vaulters to keep an eye on include Jefferson, Rand, Wonsowitz, Sefton, and Siebert.

Owens, Olson, Clark, and Meagher are most promising now among the broad-jumpers.

The decathlon situation isn't bright, but a new luminary may develop. Jim Bausch, the United States' splendid champion of 1932, is out of competition. My advice to all the boys is to look out for Hans Sievert, of Germany.

Unsung heroes of tomorrow are in our high schools and colleges. A lively track campaign this spring and summer, no doubt, will bring many of them to light.

Old-Time Hurling Star Will Be Buried Monday

ST. LOUIS, May 4.—(AP)—Funeral services will be held Monday for one of the greatest left-handed pitchers of all time, Theodore Breitenstein, 65, who died of heart disease last night.

Old-timers still recall the almost forgotten exploits of the southpaw who broke into baseball with the St. Louis Nationals, now the Browns, in 1892.

In twenty years, ten of them in the majors, he compiled a record of 302 games won and 256 lost, despite five years with a tail-end St. Louis team.

He was sold to Cincinnati in 1897 but after a remarkable season a "kink" developed in his arm and he was released to St. Louis for the 1900 and 1901 seasons. He pitched for Memphis the following two years and then went to New Orleans to finish his baseball career eight years later in 1911. With that team, he had his best season, winning 21 and losing five in 1905.

After ten years as a minor league umpire, "Breit" retired in 1921. During the past three years, he had been an employe of the St. Louis park department.

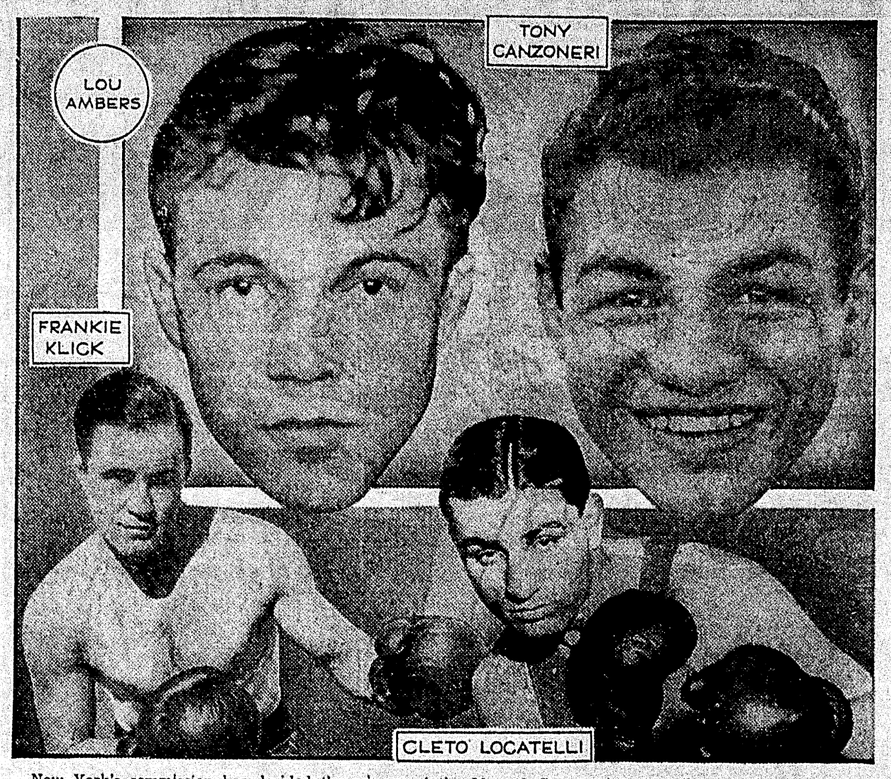
In Scramble For Ross' Abandoned Tiara



New York's commission has decided the winner of the May 10 Canzoneri-Ambers bout shall reign as lightweight champion. The Illinois commission insists that Klick, Locatelli and several others should be considered before any successor's to Chicago's Barney Ross, the abdicated ruler of the 135-pounders, is picked.

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP)—As has become quite customary whenever there is opportunity for difference of official opinion regarding contendership to any of fistiana's various baubles, the New York and the Illinois boxing commissions again fail to see eye to eye—this time on the lightweight situation.

The New York group, which had been threatening to declare Barney Ross' lightweight title vacant in this state—because of non-defense—long before Barney voluntarily abandoned the crown as too tough a weight-making burden, has declared the May 10 match between Ex-Champion Tony Canzoneri and Lou Ambers of Herkimer, N. Y., as the official means of selecting its next lightweight champion.

But the Illinois moguls couldn't very enthusiastically watch the whole lightweight title situation thus slip so far away from their jurisdiction, especially after their boy Barney had ruled his class with such distinction.

So they announced the Ambers-Canzoneri fight would not decide the Ross successorship so far as Illinois was concerned. Instead it offered to approve a "tournament."

Canzoneri, always popular in Chicago, was ranked No. 1 on the Illinois tournament list, with Davey Day, Ross' personal nomination—and, besides, a Ross stablemate!—as second-ranker and Ambers, the Herkimer Hurricane, no better than third. Before Ross abdicated, the Illinois body had made Sammy Fuller its No. 1 challenger. And Ambers licked Fuller!

Meanwhile Cleto Locatelli, Italian champion in the 135-pound class, has begun to be more impressive after a pair of losing but well-fought battles with Canzoneri. One of his victims was Frankie Klick of San Francisco, who last summer earned a draw with Ross on the coast in a non-title go.

Locatelli and Klick, as well as Joe Ghnouly, of St. Louis, are among the Illinois eligibles.

Cub Fans Begin To Doubt Grimm's Trading Wisdom

Dearth Of Pitchers Seen As Possible Downfall Of Chicago Club

Guy Bush, Jim Weaver, Pat Malone and Bud Tinning are doing their chores on the mound for other teams than the Cubs this season. This quartette won 57 of the 86 victories chalked up by the Cubs last season, enabling them to finish in third place. In return for these players Charley Grimm added Tex Carlton, from the Cards, and Larry French, from the Pittsburgh Pirates. This pair won a total of 28 games while losing 29 during the course of the season. From this it can be seen that Grimm is banking a bit too much on the chances of French regaining his old form while giving up a hard worker like Bush and the promising Jim Weaver.

The Cubs started the season with four regular hurlers, including the two transfers, French and Carleton, and five youngsters who may and then again may be found wanting before the season is very old. Permitting Weaver to get away from him created no end of discussion. Grimm was censured for throwing him in with Bush for French and Freddie Lindstrom. Grimm could not help himself. He balked on giving up Weaver but Pie Traynor insisted upon it and rather than see Lindstrom go to the Giants Charley let his old team have the talented six-footer.

Grimm does not reveal any plans, but the box scores speak for him. His use of Bill Lee, a product of Louisiana State university, who was good enough to win 13 games in his first year in the majors may mean a lot this year. He started off last season by whitewashing the Phillies with a four-hit game and then went over to Brooklyn where he repeated the performance setting them down with two measly hits. To prove he could stand the gaff the pride of Plaquemine, La., labored in over 200 innings and completed 16 full games. However, Bill got off on the wrong foot this year, but despite this Charlie Grimm plans to toss him in regularly.

Lee is built on the lines of an ideal football player. True he played the game while attending the L. S. U., but he was more outstanding on the diamond where his advancement was such that he gave up his studies before graduating in order to accept an offer to play with the Rochester club of the International league. He had a St. Louis Cards tag on him since the Rochester club is one of the links in the lengthy Cardinal chain. That was five years ago. He has played in the Western league, Mobile Atlantic league and the American association, with the Columbus club.

The Cards pitching staff was all set last year and there was no room for him on it. The Cubs came along with a fat offer for the Louisiana twirler and he became a member of Charley Grimm's pennant chasers. He lost one game more than he won over the stretch of the season but there are few pitchers who manage to win 13 games, four of them shutouts, in his first year on the big time. Lon Warneke, the Cubs ace, hurled one less shutout while winning 22 games.

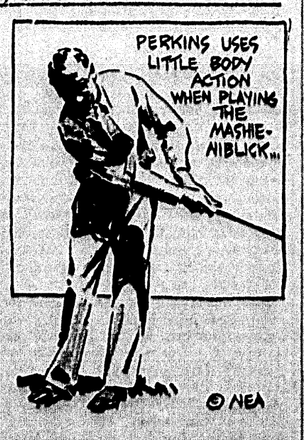
GREAT GOLF
By Art Krenz



CLEVELAND.—A phenomenal 66 by Gene Sarazen on the final round prevented T. Philip Perkins and Bobby Cruickshank from playing off for the 1932 United States Open golf championship at Fresh Meadows, L. I., after Perkins had hit what he considers the finest mashie-niblick shot of his career.

"I was one above par for the round going to the final hole," explains Perkins, former British amateur champion and now the professional at the fashionable Kirtland Country club on the outskirts of Cleveland. "I required a 4 for a 71, which I believed would be good enough to win.

"My drive was 275 yards. I hit the second shot with a No. 7 iron 150 yards to a close green, and was but 10 feet from the cup. The putt was holed for a three, which gave me an even 70 and a four-round total of 289.

"I had won the Open—or so everyone believed.

"But suddenly the word got around that Cruickshank had made a tough putt for a 68, giving him a tie with me which we would have to play off. Then, just as I began making plans for the playoff, word came that Sarazen had burned up the course with a 66, and finished three strokes under our 289's.

Perkins, in advising golfers how to master the mashie-niblick, says:

"Use a narrow, square stance. Hit down on the ball with firm wrist action, and very little body action. Play the ball about the center between the two feet. Hitting against the left side will keep the ball on the line."

L. S. U. TRACKMEN TO MEET TULANE SQUAD SATURDAY

Tigers Go Back To Scene Of Last Defeat, Way Back In 1931

BATON ROUGE, La., May 4.—(Special.)—Riding majestically along in the role of queen of Dixie's track and field, Louisiana State will go back next Saturday to the scene of her last defeat in duel meet competition.

That will be in New Orleans, particularly in the old Tulane stadium, wherein the Greenie thin-clads in 1931 ground out a thrilling victory over the coming Tigers and gave notice that they were out to take the Southern conference that year.

Since the Tiger spikemen have been bitten by the "travel bug," it will remain for the L. S. U. baseball and golf forces to keep the athletic program in motion this week at Tiger Town. The Bangals close out their campaign on the diamond with four games: Ole Miss, Monday and Tuesday, and Louisiana Tech, Friday and Saturday; while the golfers, headed by Freddie Haas, Jr., Southern amateur king, and Paul Leslie, a freshie who defeated the intercollegiate champion, Charlie Yates of Georgia Tech and Haas, for honors in the recent Georgia invitational, will engage in an invitation tournament at Baton Rouge's Westdale Country club starting Friday.

Back in '31, the Greenies saw the first of Glenn "Slats" Hardin, Ole Lou's great hurdler and quarter-mile who was a freshman at the time; and it was also the beginning of the "Era of Torrance." Jack is out of the collegiate picture now, but Hardin, the finished senior and world champion, is still very evident.

Of the Hardin-Torrance-Blair-Gordy-Moreau quintet which startled the country by capturing the N. C. A. A. championship in 1933 at Chicago, only "Slats" and the javelin-throwing Buddy Blair remain, but the team which Bernie Moore has built around them this season is still one of the "powers that be."

Hardin, running in the quarter-mile, low hurdles and possibly a leg on the mile relay, will lead the Tigers into New Orleans. And with him in there, there's a chance for almost anything to fall, in the way of records, if he digs in.

There is the possibility of another great hurdle race—a replica of the breath-taking Al Moreau-"Foots" DeColigny dead heat of 1931—when Clarence Roberts, Tiger star, lines up against Howard Smith of the Greenies. Both hurdlers of the 14-plus caliber, this pair should stage one of the closest races on the program.

L. S. U.'s tiny Hugh Saxon, who set records in the 100 and 200-meter sprints of the 1934 Southern A. A. U. games, will attempt to match strides with Tulane's great dash man, Herman Neugass, second place winner in a record-breaking 100-meter race at Penn last week.

While the Tiger trackmen are favored to continue their great duel meet record, the L. S. U. baseball squad is fighting to finish above the .500 mark for the season. They have captured only two out of 8 conference games and their season's record is four wins and six losses. Two straight over the Ole Miss club, Monday and Tuesday, will give them a .50-50 break with the Mississippians for the season.

MONROE CLUB TO PLAY RUSTON AT FORSYTHE TODAY

Brown Plays At Sterlington And Fairbanks Goes To Swartz

The Monroe Merchants play here this afternoon with the Ruston nine, which as yet has failed to win a game since the Ouachita Valley league season opened. The game starts promptly at 3:30 o'clock at Forsythe park.

Meanwhile the Brown Paper mill squad, league leaders, goes to Sterlington and the Fairbanks aggregation faces Swartz on the Carbon Blackers diamond.

The Merchants, although vanquished in two games out of four, have a heavy-hitting club and a fair fielding aggregation and the games they lost were by the one run margin. Their opener with the Brownies was an extra inning affair.

Ruston, meeting Monroe for the first time, will be striving to start on the climb out of the league's cellar and to make the Monroe club their first victim.

Joe Demaron, effective right-hander, will start on the mound for the locals.

BROWN AT STERLINGTON

STERLINGTON, La., May 4.—(Special.)—The Sterlington Engineers tangle with the undefeated Brown Paper mill squad here Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the local baseball park.

Work on the grandstands here was completed Tuesday and Sunday's game will be the first since the construction work was completed. The old stands were worked over and additional stands added, bringing the seating capacity to twice what it was previously. Another feature of the stands is that they have been so built that spectators will be shielded from the sun.

The game with the Brownies will be the first meeting between the two clubs and, although the Engineers have lost two of their four games played to the Brownies' no losses and four victories, a hard-fought battle is expected.

The locals have a stellar hurling staff and the games lost were no fault of the pitchers. The hitting of the club has been poor and that is the principal reason for the Engineers' two losses. However, Sterlington has one man, Gilbert, an outfielder, who is batting at a .695 clip.

Starting batteries for Sunday are expected to be Still and Gimber for Sterlington and Danna and Frickle for Brown. Young will be the Engineers' second choice for mound duty.

FAIRBANKS AT SWARTZ

SWARTZ, La., May 4.—(Special.)—At the Swartz park Sunday afternoon, the most intense rivalry in the Ouachita Valley league will be renewed when Fairbanks and Swartz meet for the first time this year.

When these friendly enemies tie up, almost anything can happen, and usually does, and the relative position of the two teams in the club standings does not in any way effect the interest that is felt when they meet. Fairbanks will be trying to use this game as a stepping stone to get back into first place, while Swartz will be trying as desperately to raise itself above its present lowly position of fifth place.

The hitting of Norman, the chatter of Senn, the good right arm of Red Ward, and the performance of the other colorful Fairbanks players never fail to bring out the Swartz fans, and a large crowd will undoubtedly see the game.

Manager Bagwell of Swartz is rounding into shape with the intention of making a comeback in the pitcher's box, and will probably start the game, but if he is not yet ready, Fontenot will probably get the call. Manager Norman is expected to start Malone with Ward in reserve.

FEDERAL PAYROLL IS GIVEN NOTICE

989 Salaries Of $10,000 A Year Or More Are Paid By U. S.

(Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The biggest organization of its kind in history—the United States government—pays 989 salaries of $10,000 a year or more, and 7,223 of between $5,000 and $10,000.

With public attention dwelling sporadically on large salaries in private industry, as shown by reports to the securities commission, the federal payroll also gets notice on capitol hill.

The civil service commission's "official register of the United States" is the chief source of information on the treasury pay checks.

Although private compensation for a year's work has in instances run into six figures, the president's $75,000 tops the governmental list.

Second is the $20,500 paid the chief justice. Eight associate justices receive $20,000.

The next ranking salary is that of Governor General Frank Murphy of the Philippine Islands at $18,000.

Vice President Garner, Speaker Byrns and members of the cabinet rank alike in pay at $15,000.

Governor Blanton Winship of Puerto Rico and Vice Governor J. R. Hayden of the Philippines receive $10,000, along with Governors Joseph B. Poindexter of Hawaii, John W. Troy of Alaska, and Julian L. Schley of the Panama Canal Zone.

Dr. Paul M. Pearson as governor of the Virgin Islands receives $8,500.

Harry L. Hopkins, FERA director, is listed at $10,000, while Robert Fencher gets $12,000 as head of the CCC.

The railroad coordinator, Joseph Eastman, is paid $12,000 as an interstate commerce commissioner, along with the ten other members. But freight service director John R. Turney of the ICC and regional directors Victor V. Boatner of Chicago and C. E. Weaver of Atlanta, Ga., get $15,000. Counsel Leslie Craven and J. M. Batshs of Chicago, are paid the same as Eastman.

A Los Angeles man has designed a racing motorcycle with a six-cylinder engine, with which he hopes to attain a speed in excess of 300 miles an hour.

50,000 COMMUNISTS MARCH IN MAY DAY PARADE

Tallulah

Mrs. Arnold Shields, a bride of the past month, was the honoree at a delightful bridge party given by Mrs. Leo Shields at her home at Alsatia. Quantities of spring flowers in attractive arrangement decorated the reception rooms where the tables were placed for the games. The high score prize was awarded to Miss Katherine Ward, consolation to Mrs. Steve Voelker and low to Mrs. Albert Sherwin. Mrs. Shields was presented with a souvenir of the occasion. Delicious refreshments were served at the close of the games to the guests, who were Mesdames Arnold Shields, M. T. Young, Ed Adams, R. L. Moncrief, E. B. Stribling, Steve Voelker, H. W. Lee, R. R. Taylor, Will Harvey, Will Sevier, Jr., John Payne, Alnut Cason, Will Adams, Hugh Montgomery, Ray Dickinson, Albert Sherwin, A. L. Sevier, R. L. Baily, George Yerger, Jr., Maxwell Yerger, Misses Jessica Greene, Jane Johnson, Georgette Ziegler, Katherine Ward. Tea guests were Mrs. Will Harvey, Sr., and Mrs. Tom Bomer.

The Friday Night club met with Dr. and Mrs. J. Roy Medlin, who entertained with a supper bridge. The high score prizes were awarded to Mrs. J. A. Gilbert and Mr. A. H. Hurd. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Spigener, Mr. and Mrs. Davis Whitfield, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Hurd, Mrs. Paul Barber and Miss Hazel Jean Moberley.

The quarterly meeting of the women's church organizations of Tallulah was held at the Baptist church with a representative attendance from the Episcopal, Presbyterian, Methodist and Baptist auxiliaries. A program on "The Church" under the leadership of Mrs. L. Westmoreland, of the Baptist church, was rendered. Rev. Scardon D'Aubert, rector of the Episcopal church, gave the devotional, emphasizing Christ as the head of the church. Mrs. R. K. Boney spoke on the fellowship of worship; Mrs. J. L. Coleman, the church, the champion of justice; Mrs. T. W. Jackson, a lighthouse of truth; Rev. C. K. Smith, of the Methodist church, the stronghold of righteousness; Mrs. D. H. Allen, a builder of character; Rev. H. N. Alexander, of the Presbyterian church, the herald of salvation and a summary of what the church has done for the civilization of the world. Miss Annette Beers. A musical number was given by Mrs. W. A. Gilpin.

Rev. L. A. Materne was called to Rocky Mount, Virginia, this week by the illness of his brother, who has lately been reported to be slightly improved.

The Saturday club was entertained by Miss Jane Johnson at her attractive home at Tendal. Miss Jessica Greene was the fortunate winner of the high score prize. Delicious refreshments were enjoyed after the games by Mrs. Will Sevier, Jr., Miss Jessica Greene, Miss Katherine Ward, Mrs. R. L. Baily, Mrs. Will Adams, Mrs. Maxwell Yerger, Mrs. Hugh Montgomery and Mrs. Faye Conroy.

Miss Lela Tomlinson, of Baton Rouge, assistant supervisor of home economics for the state of Louisiana, visited the high school home economics department Wednesday and was the guest of honor at the annual reception and exhibit on Wednesday afternoon.

The series of services conducted at the Presbyterian church here during the last week in April by Rev. S. E. McFadden, of the Ruston Presbyterian church and Rev. G. M. Smiley of the Durant, Miss., Presbyterian church, were a source of inspiration to the appreciative congregations. The consecrated presentation of Bible messages and worshipful song services were most helpful.

St. Joseph Society To Crown May Queen Today

The St. Joseph Junior society will stage its second annual May day program tonight at 8 o'clock at the Columbus Social club.

The feature of the program will be the crowning of Miss Rose Embanato as the 1935 queen of May by Sheriff Milton Coverdale. Leo Ticheli will preside as king.

Miss Rose Correro, who was nominated queen last year, will have the honor of being the queen's first maid.

The public is cordially invited.

FEW FIRE ALARMS

April was a quiet month for the Monroe fire department, as far as extinguishing fires was concerned. The monthly report of the alarm room revealed that the department received only 14 alarms. Fire damage during the month was negligible. The alarms were listed as follows: three business; five residence, three grass; two automobile; four miscellaneous.

PRESIDENT

The story book tale of the office boy who perseveres to the top of the ladder has come true for Sydney G. McAllister, above, just appointed president of the International Harvester company. McAllister started as an office boy with the corporation in 1897, rising in a series of advances to first vice-president before his latest promotion.

Let the CITIES SERVICE POWER PROVER stop your gasolene waste!

49 out of 50 motorists are wasting gasolene! Probably you are too. The Power Prover will tell you in thirty seconds.

Get a 30 second power test and know your motor's efficiency

You're wasting money every time you drive your car! But we've found a way to stop this needless waste!

A new instrument, the Cities Service Power Prover, will tell you quickly and precisely the amount of gasolene that is coming through your exhaust pipe—wasted gasolene. The Power Prover analyzes the unburned, wasted gasolene and records its findings in per cent of combustion efficiency on an easily-read dial...in less than a minute. Then your car is tuned accurately and scientifically by an expert mechanic, using specially designed precision tools, to bring it up to maximum efficiency. Your car emerges from the Tuning Routine with surprising new energy—new power—new pick-up—new smoothness—saving you money on gasolene and oil.

CITIES SERVICE POWER PROVER

Will be available in

MONROE, LA.—MAY 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10

All Loreco Service Stations

Make an appointment now to have your car tested on the Power Prover. The combustion efficiency reading will cost you nothing; a complete tuning of ignition, timing and carburetion only 50 cents per cylinder.

The Power Prover has improved the performance and cut gasolene and oil costs of more than 250,000 motor vehicles. What it has done for others it can do for you.

Drive in today and let us tell you the complete story about the Power Prover

Fleet owners and bus operators are especially urged to investigate Power Prover Service. It has brought improved performance and greater economy to more than 4,000 fleet operators.

LARUE MEETS COCHRANE IN MAT SHOW WEDNESDAY

ALL-ROUGH CARD TO BE PRESENTED IN STADIUM SHOW

Bruscato Seeks Tough Foe For Nick Elitch In Semi-Final Bout

Wrestling fans who have found the recent scientific matches too tame will get a "new deal" next Wednesday night when Promoter Charlie Bruscato presents what he terms an "all-rough" card at Roosevelt stadium.

Although the show hasn't been entirely completed, Bruscato has booked Frenchie LaRue, the wild Canadian, and George Cochrane, tough Seattle, Wash., entry, for the main event. These two huskies rank among the leading mat villains in these parts.

The stadium promoter said he would also bring Nick Elitch here for the semi-final bout, as no roughhouse would be complete without the Greek showman. Bruscato is dickering for the services of some tough gent who can tame the chubby Mr. Elitch. He says he hopes to get a new tough guy for Nicholas.

The house will be full of cops if both main eventers have their way. According to Bruscato, both LaRue and Cochrane have asked for police protection, and well they might. Each has felt the wrath of the fans in the past and the experience wasn't so pleasant.

Cochrane claims he's going to beat LaRue, just as he did Scotty Dawkins. And local fans will remember what the westerner did to the husky Dawkins last December.

"All I want is police protection and a square deal from the referee," Cochrane advised Bruscato when he signed the contract.

George has been going strong in Shreveport, New Orleans, Houston and other larger mat centers lately and he may have some new tricks to pull for the edification of the local bugs. Cochrane is strictly a "rough" wrestler and he should be an ideal opponent for the Frenchman.

LaRue has made the same request as Cochrane—a square deal from the referee and lots of cops to protect him. The business of refereeing that bout should be risky, if past indications mean anything. Both have maulled referees frequently in the stadium ring and if they decide to assault him at the same time Wednesday night, somebody's likely to come out of it with a few bruises, to say the least. Just who will get the honor of officiating remains for Bruscato to determine.

The main event will be the usual two-hour time limit bout, with the semi-final limited to one hour. Both will be best two out of three falls.

DAFFY—BUT ARTFUL, TOO

By Harry Grayson

CHICAGO, May 4.—Dizzy Dean attributes his failure to win a single exhibition game and having his ears pinned back more than once this spring to the fact that the chips weren't down.

"Now that we're playing for keeps, I'll blow 'em down," says the great right-hander.

It takes the opening bell to swing many star ball players into full stride. Entire clubs frequently require the same urge. When Rogers Hornsby remarked about how much more pepper the Browns exhibited than the Giants in a Florida exhibition a year ago, Bill Terry replied, "We're saving that for the start of the season."

Young Joe Vosmiz and the Cleveland Indians then proceeded to make the then world champion New York outfit look like the Hoosick Falls firemen in a long series of exhibition games, but the Giants weren't beaten out of the National league pennant until the final day. The best the Browns could do in the American league was sixth, while the Tribe finished a scraggly third.

Brooklyn bagged the Grapefruit league title this spring, but nobody is picking the Dodgers to top the senior loop on September 29.

Gehrig and Goslin Require Pressure

A time or two around the park in a sweatshirt put Gehrig in shape, and he never could see any sense in wasting home runs at Waterfront park, St. Petersburg, and way stations. When the gong sounds, the Yankee bomber begins bunting the ball against American league fences.

Goose Goslin's performance at Lakeland and on the Detroit club's trip north was nothing to excite the bottle and bun throwers of Navin field. Games must count in the standings to interest the Golden Goose, a courageous veteran whose efficiency increases with pressure.

Al Simmons' batting was a mild sensation with the White Sox this spring. Simmons is expected to smite the sphere for magnificent distances, but his flying start was as unusual as unfavorable weather in southern California.

There were demands that Walter Johnson play the batboy, an usher, anybody at shortstop in place of Bill Knickerbocker when the Cleveland club reached American league territory a year ago. But Knickerbocker snapped out of it with the ball that opened the championship season for the Indians, and was one of the pleasant surprises of 1934.

Many suspect that his loss for the first six weeks of the current campaign, due to an appendicitis appendectomy, may cost the Tribe the pennant.

Hal Trosky was another Indian who couldn't get going in training last year, but who commenced belting home runs with the first official box score.

Lou Chiozza, recruit second baseman of the Phillies, certainly could not have been mistaken for a spring daisy a year ago, but came along when it counted to be one of the finds of the year.

Harry Heilmann, bracketed with Hornsby as the foremost right-hand hitter developed in the modern game, perhaps was the most striking example of a luminary who could not take spring exhibition games seriously. Heilmann's pop-ups quickly were straightened into line drives and a near .400 average or better when the clubs got on their way.

Ty Cobb always said that three weeks of training was sufficient for any ball player. Eddie Roush, who was a perennial holdout, and others found ways to shorten up the grind.

Hits that are cracked in spring training tra la are much better saved for the fall, which is when Dizzy Dean will get even with some of the blokes who took such keen delight in making him duck his own fast ball in pre-season warm-ups.

M'COMB GIRLS WIN

LAUREL, Miss., May 4.—(AP)—Willoughby of McComb piled up a total of 21 scores for her team, aided materially in winning the state girls' big eight field and track meet at the municipal stadium here this afternoon. McComb's total score was 27. Brookhaven, starring Smith, who made an individual total of 19, was second with 26 points. Other schools and scores were: Gulfport 19; Meridian 16 1-2; Laurel 13; Hattiesburg 10; Biloxi 5; and Jackson 3.

SHOTS THEY REMEMBER

1. OUT OF THE TALL GRASS

Gene Sarazen's double-eagle on the final round of the 1935 Augusta National invitation tournament rightfully will go down in history as one of the greatest shots ever played in golf.

Sarazen

The stocky shotmaker has the uncanny ability to deliver in the pinches, when a shot counts the most. While nothing to date can parallel his historic deuce at Augusta, Sarazen played another of his magical shots during the 1934 open championship at Merion.

He was in the lead during the third round when he came to the 11th hole. Gene had been having some difficulty with his drives so when he hooked his tee shot here he wasn't surprised until he walked up to the ball and found it deep in tall grass, far to the left of the green, with an elbow of tall oak trees between him and his objective. To complicate matters a yawning creek stretched out in front of the green.

Gene was puzzled. He looked at the ball and then he looked toward the green, but he couldn't see through the trees.

A smile broke out on his bronzed face and he turned to the gallery and said:

"Who wants to play it?"

Sarazen fussed around with his clubs and finally decided to play a spade mashie.

"This is all or nothing," he said, turning to the gallery again.

The ball shot out of the grass, hooked sharply, landed on the green eight feet from the cup—and he holed out for a great birdie three!

On the final round Gene was almost in the same predicament but he came out of the hole with a seven, which he later found had cost him the championship.

to administer a surprise beating to the pace-setting Indians, 12 to 1.

Behind the hurling of the veteran Leroy Mahaffey, the invaders found three Tribe pitchers for 17 hits. Mahaffey confined the Indians to seven safely separated bingles.

CHISOX SHADE NATS

CHICAGO, May 4.—(AP)—Rip Radcliff's third home run of the season with a man on in the seventh inning today gave Chicago a 5 to 4 victory over Washington and accounted for Bump Hadley's first defeat of the campaign.

Hadley, who had won his first three starts, had a 4 to 3 lead when Radcliff's long blow drove in Bud Hafey ahead of him. Hafey ran for Mule Haas, who batted for Les Tietje, and singled. Tietje was credited with his first victory of the year although Whitlow Wyatt pitched the last two innings.

DARNED GOOD JOB OF DARNING

BOBBY JONES SAYS

Good form in any physical activity must be valued in terms of efficiency. The efficiency of a thermal engine, for example, is measured by the ratio of the work done by the engine to the heat energy supplied to it. The efficiency of a golf stroke must be measured, in the same way, by the ratio of the work done on the ball to the amount of physical energy used up in the swinging. The expert golfer drives far with little apparent effort because of the high rate of efficiency of his performance. The duffer, though he strain himself to the utmost, falls far behind because so much of the energy expended goes to waste.

A high rate of efficiency, and hence good form, in golf, depend upon three things; the development of the greatest possible clubhead speed at contact, with whatever energy or power the player can supply, the production of a pracisely accurate contact between club and ball, directing the blow along the line upon which it is intended the ball shall travel, and consistency in peforming approximately according to these ideas.

Although these are obvious generalities, it is helpful to do a little thinking along these lines in order to appreciate the importance to a golfer of a proper use of his left arm. For it is in this particular that all duffers are most appallingly deficient, and here too that the better players most often go astray.

Just now we are interested chiefly in the backswing. The backward movement is merely the means of storing up power to be used in the hitting, but to increase the amount of this stored up energy is of first importance. We have seen that the beginning was made in the hips in order to assure that the wind-up of the body would at least be started. When this had progressed a short distance we began to force the club back with the left arm.

Now with the club having completed about half of its backward travel, the left arm has become almost straight, and is pushing the club as far back as it can comfortably go. The arc of the swing is thus made very broad so that the space and time for adding speed to the club-head coming down will be as great as possible.

The player who allows his left arm to bend perceptibly, as illustrated in figure one is sacrificing breadth of arc and power. His swing, because it is not as wide as it could be, is that much away from the ideal of efficiency which he could make it.

While Bobby Jones will be glad to answer as many readers questions in this column as possible, it will be impossible for him to answer letters personally. Write your problems to him care of Monroe Morning World. (Copyright, 1935, Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Uniforms Purchased For Ferriday Football Team

FERRIDAY, La., May 4.—(Special)—Twenty-two new uniforms have been purchased for the Ferriday high school football squad by the recently organized "F" club, an organization composed of former students and friends of the school.

The funds for the purchase of the new uniforms were raised through sale of membership tickets for the club, Eugene Schuchs, secretary of the club and a former all-state football star of the local school, was in charge of raising the funds.

Athletic Director Hugh A. Bateman said that in the past members of his squad had been handicapped by lack of adequate football equipment and that the new uniforms should have a tendency to add to the prestige as well as the strength of the team.

Alabama Track Squad Beats Ole Miss, 71-43

UNIVERSITY, Miss., May 4.—(AP)—In a rather slow meet the University of Alabama track team swamped the University of Mississippi men by a 71 to 43 count here this afternoon for the sixth straight conference win fo rthe Alabamians. It was Mississippi's first conference engagement.

Allen Shoemaker, Mississippi sprinter, provided the only thrill of the afternoon, when he jumped 22 feet 8 1-2 inches to break the university broad jump record of 22 feet 6 inches, set in 1928 by Ary Phillips, famous Ole Miss athlete.

The Alabamians forfeited the two-mile run to the Mississippians, the Mississippi men forfeiting the relay to the Crimson runners.

BERNICE MARBLE ENTRIES PEPPED UP OVER TOURNEY

Baptist Children's Home Youngsters Also Show Enthusiasm

More evidence that the Northeast Louisiana marble tournament is going over in grand style poured into the marble editor's office yesterday. Two schools particularly reported lots of enthusiasm among the boys and girls who are battling for the prizes.

"Enthusiasm over the marble tournament has been so great it has been necessary to have an elimination contest before having the regular tournament," writes Miss Doris Gaston, supervisor of games at the Bernice school. "Our school had 60 entries but the elimination has now reduced that number to 24. Although ringer is a rather new game, it is progressing nicely."

In other words, 36 sharpshooters at Bernice have been eliminated. That entry list of 60 is plenty good, indicating that Miss Gaston has done an excellent job at Bernice. The tournament there has been in progress several days and it won't be long now before the Bernice champion is crowned.

The Baptist Children's home in Monroe is another scene of activity. Seventy players enrolled and, the girls outnumbered the boys. There were 38 girls in the battle for prizes at the outset and 32 boys.

"There seems to be a great deal of interest in the tournament," Miss Lula Mae Cole, supervisor of the tournament at the children's home, wrote the marble editor. "Although more girls than boys enrolled, they are not at all ahead."

Apparently the boys are making up in skill what they might have lacked in numbers. Claytpn Brown, Willard Chamberlain and Henry Hazlitt are boys who have won important matches so far, while Bobbie Fountain and Audie Banks have captured victories for the girls.

And Quitman Long, who's handling the tournament at Farmerville, writes that things are still humming there. Farmerville merchants have generously donated prizes for the Farmerville boys and girls to shoot at, and everybody's having a great time in the fight for these, and the larger prizes which are being offered in the general tourney.

The grand prize, as all the marble shooters know, is a week's vacation at Gulfport, Miss., where the champion of the Northeast Louisiana tourney will compete with other champs in the southern finals. All expenses will be paid by the News-Star—World. And if the Northeast Louisiana youngster wins at Gulfport, he'll be taken to Ocean City, N. J., to compete in the national tourney.

There are many other prizes to work for. Among these are handsome gold medals to be awarded the district winners. The medals are being donated by various civic clubs of the Twin Cities. They are: Rotary club, Kiwanis club of West Monroe; Lions club, Y's Men's club, Kiwanis club of Monroe and Ouachita Business Men's club.

From all indications, there are going to be some close battles for the school championships. That means that the district eliminations and, in turn, the finals for the Northeast Louisiana championship, will be hotly contested.

Southern Association

BARONS BEAT LOOKOUTS

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 4.—(AP)—Birmingham put over four runs in the ninth here today to beat the Lookouts, 7 to 3, behind Pop Griffin's pitching. The Barons pounded Ray Moss for sixteen blows to sink Chattanooga in fourth place.

Braddock Conceded Little Chance To Beat Max Baer

By John J. Romano

James J. Braddock cleared the way to the throne room of the kingpin, Max Baer, by the might and power of his trusty right mitt. His victims were John Henry Lewis, conqueror of champions, Maxie Rosenblom and Bob Olin, and Art Lasky, a pronounced favorite over the Jersey Irishman and the one considered as having a better chance against Max Baer.

The said fist, the insistence of his little manager, Joe Gould, and a series of unfortunate circumstances which found more highly regarded opponents unavailable, resulted in Baer accepting Braddock's defi. They are scheduled to meet in the Madison Square Garden bowl at Long Island City on Thursday evening, June 13.

At this time Braddock is conceded of whipping Baer. The latter did not little more than an outside chance help the cause, the box office, by his reported statement that Jimmy was no match for him and that he thought his brother Buddy could whip Braddock. When you consider that Buddy is little more than a promising novice who has shown best against unschooled heavyweights, and that a shopworn veteran like Babe Hunt outmaneuvered and outpunched him in a four-round duel, you get the idea that James J. Braddock is little more than a warm-up for the talkative, but likeable, champion of the world.

Mr. Baer will have to do some tall explaining or clown more than he did against Primo Carnera when he failed to keep the giant Italian down after a series of upsetting wallops should Braddock last more than three rounds. The situation is all of Baer's creating. Instead of looking upon Braddock as a worthy rival and getting down to serious business the champion continues with his meaningless exhibitions.

Jerseyite Has Courage

Before stamping Braddock's cause as hopeless and condemning his manager for insisting on the match because "Jimmy's jaw and body will take Baer's mighty wallops" it is well to delve deeper and learn what Braddock thinks about his chances.

If courageous determination and confidence in his right hand punch count for anything, the fight is as good as won in J. J.'s estimation. Braddock is not the kind who indulges in pipe dreams. Fighting is a serious business with hem. He is not talkative, except when with his three little kiddies, and he has a quiet way of smiling which convinces you that he is earnest and does not fall for flattery.

They used to call Luis Firpo "Dead-pan Louie." Firpo had nothing on Braddock when it comes to an unemotional expression in the ring. Unlike Firpo who swished a right hand in the same manner as Baer the Jerseyman is more deliberate and delivers it with an overhand arc-like motion. It does not land with the same deadening effect the giant Argentine produced, but J. J.'s wallop is unhealthy enough on the receiver. Twenty-six knockouts in eighty-two fights attest to that.

Another angle overlooked is the respective showings of the rivals against one man in particular. A little over five years ago Braddock met Tommy Loughran for the light heavyweight title. It is true he was outboxed during the course of the fifteen-round scrap, but who will ever forget the red mask of blood which tinged Loughran's face when one of Jimmy's pet right handers opened a two-inch gash on Tommy's head. To imagine what would have happened if the blow had reached the Philadelphian's jaw is not hard. Two years later Baer had his chance at Loughran. The present champion came out second—a defeat he has not bothered to erase. And Loughran was not the same superb boxer he was when he turned back Braddock.

Greatness Not Yet Revealed

Baer is undeniably a good fighter. His greatness has yet to be determined, but this talk of a "killer" is rather far fetched if the records are closely scanned. Until he stopped Max Schmeling and Primo Carnera the Californian rated as a worthy challenger for the heavyweight crown. The knockout over King Levinsky in what was billed as a four-round exhibition added fuel to the flaming talk that "Baer is the greatest hitter since Dempsey." Look at it in that light if you wish.

Baer has everything to make a great fighter. Youth, health, a wonderful physique, broad shoulders and a crackling wallop. No one could look for more in an ideal and great champion. But Baer's playful nature and love of dramatics is against him. He will not be taken seriously until he settles down to the grim business of knocking the other fellow's block off oftener than he has done in the past two years. Remember he has had but two fights in that time, and he's got a long way to go before he can expect to be ranked with Jack Dempsey.

Braddock's task is not a hopeless one. He is big enough and his neck is large and strong enough to withstand a wallop on the jaw. Braddock weighs 184 pounds. This is but five pounds less than Jack Dempsey carried when he slaughtered the giant Jess Willard and in other of his great fights.

Braddock is not an unseasoned stripling. Two years of hard work on the docks, handling large cases with a bale hook, not only developed his forearms but strengthened his biceps.

Another thing worth remembering is that Braddock fights best when he is the underdog in the wagering. He was on the short end of 5 to 1 when he broke Pete Latzo's jaw; 6 to 1 when he flattened Tuffy Griffith; 4 to 1 when he stopped Jimmy Slattery; and so on down the line to the Lasky fight when he was held in contempt at the long odds of 6 to 1. It was not the so-called "luck of the Irish." It was just plain confidence in his own ability and the will to carry on in the face of what could be called insurmountable odds.

Braddock will carry the same attributes of a real fighting man when he answers the gong against Max Baer, on June 13.

RARE CUP OWNED BY LOCAL PRIEST

Father Gremillion Has Duplicate Of Cathedral Chalice

An elaborately beautiful gold communion cup, modeled from an original which dates back to the eleventh century and which was used for centuries in the communion services of the kings of France, is the prized possession of Rev. M. R. Gremillion, assistant pastor of the St. Matthew's Catholic church.

The beauty of the cup, or chalice, is so great that upon first glimpse it is little short of awe-inspiring. Into the making of the original, which is duplicated in its minutest design by the model, was introduced the finest arts of goldsmiths and jewelers of the mediaeval world. The original was conceived and created for use in the majestic setting of Rheims cathedral. In that famed edifice the original has remained until today, although the ancient paten, or breadplate, was lost in some manner years ago.

Reverend Gremillion's model was cast in Italy of gold gathered in this country. The jewels with which it is encrusted were also gathered in this country. The enamels were made in Italy. Artisans of Florence, Milan and Rome combined in the making of the cup.

The rare chalice is inlaid with approximately 150 pearls, about 75 precious stones of various kinds, and about 30 pieces of enamel.

The height of the cup is approximately six and one-half inches. The bowl and base are each about five and one-half inches in width.

Gold filigree, or fine lacework, is a part of the ornamentation of the cup. The node, or spherical part of the pedestal, is entirely covered with the filigree. The labor of a goldsmith in its making and in the making of its paten required four months of continuous work.

The base bears the following inscription: "May each elevation of this chalice, O Lord God, be of profit to those who seek thy glory. Fiat. Amen."

Reverend Gremillion had the cup made in 1932. He is now 27 years of age. He is a native of Alexandria and has served as assistant pastor of the St. Matthew's church for about a year and a half.

Washington to make personal appeals to their representatives in congress.

Two special trainloads of farmers are expected to leave Louisiana May 12, so as to arrive in Washington on May 14, simultaneously with similar delegations from Texas, Mississippi, Alabama and other southern states.

The following statement was issued by Mr. Young regarding the meetings and the action to be taken:

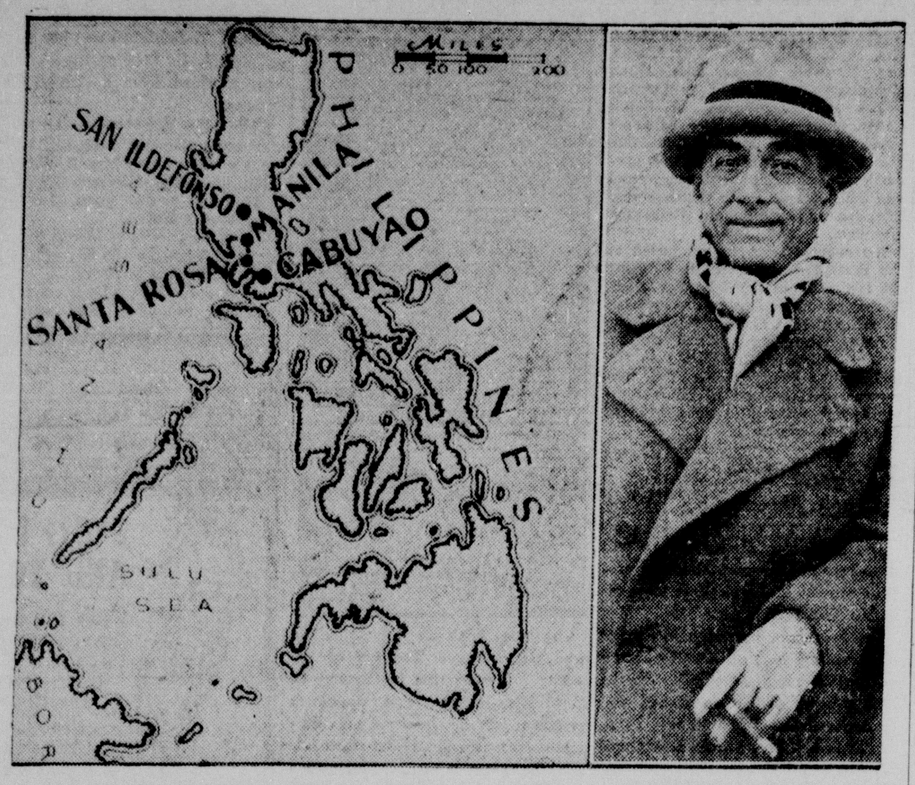
"The vicious attacks made on the AAA by interests antagonistic to the farmer have been increasing and unless farmers are willing to fight to maintain the advantages they have gained under the present administration, there is danger that the entire farm program may be defeated.

"Our congressmen and senators are anxious to do what they can to help us, but if they continue to hear only one side of the story they may decide the farmers are dissatisfied and wish the AAA program to be defeated.

"Thousands of letters and telegrams have been sent and now it is up to us to add vocal protest to these unwarranted attacks against us by going to Washington and presenting our mass protest against abandonment of the processing tax at this time."

Arrangements for the meeting are being made by E. R. Strahan, agricultural agent, who will cooperate with the state speakers in giving the farmers the facts. Agricultural agents from practically all of the other 15 parishes of this section of the state are expected to lead delegations of farmers to the meeting here.

SCORES SLAIN IN PHILIPPINE CIVIL CLASHES



Bloody outbreaks in an uprising against the projected new Philippine commonwealth have brought death to more than 50 persons. Forty-seven were killed at Cabuyao, two at San Ildefonso and five others were reported dead at Santa Rosa. The map shows the locations of the fighting. The uprising was started by extremists known as Sakdalistas who want immediate freedom for the islands and are opposing the leadership of Manuel Quezon (right) president of the Philippine senate. Quezon, now in New York, adheres to the independence act passed by the United States congress, which specifies the islands must pass a 10-year transitional period before obtaining freedom. troversal Omnibus bank bill was concluded in the house today and the measure will be taken up Wednesday for amendments and final action. It faced further long hearings, however, on the senate side.

When the senate meets Monday it will face a vote on substituting the Vinson bonus bill for the Harrison compromise which was only averted by leaders yesterday with a sudden adjournment to give them a chance to reform their lines.

PROBE LAUNCHED OF 'LIVING DEAD'

Mississippi Authorities Investigate Life Insurance Racket

JACKSON, Miss., May 4.—(AP)—Investigators of the state bureau of vital statistics are probing reports of the "living dead."

Reported falsification of death certificates for the purported purpose of defrauding insurance companies today brought a statement from Dr. R. N. Whitfield, head of the bureau of vital statistics of the state board of health, asserting that insurance companies have been defrauded of "thousands upon thousands of dollars" in Mississippi.

The "insurance racket," as it was described by Dr. Whitfield, has been practiced largely by negro mortuaries, in co-operation he said, with unscrupulous insurance salesmen.

Dr. Whitfield said the disclosures of "fraud" had been first made by the Memphis police department, who arrested two negroes, Jones Taylor and Emil Taylor, the alleged proprietors of the Orange Mound Undertaking company of Memphis, who he said had admitted falsifying death certificates to defraud insurance companies.

Dr. Whitfield said he had been informed by Inspector W. T. Griffin of the Memphis police department that the activities of the "insurance racket" gang extended into Mississippi. He said policy applications gave incorrect information concerning the ages of negro applicants.

In one case, he said, a policy was taken out on the life of a 65-year-old patient of the state insane hospital, and when she died, an effort was made to falsify the death certificate to make her age correspond to representations in her application for insurance.

Dr. Whitfield said there were also cases where "insured" negroes had been reported officially dead, who are still alive.

The vital statistics chief and state Insurance Commissioner George D. Riley said an intensive investigation is to be made of suspected fraudulent undertaking establishments which falsify death certificates.

WARNING!

WINDSTORM INSURANCE DOES NOT INCLUDE DAMAGE BY HAIL

(Note Broken Windows and Beaten In Roof)

In the San Antonio hail storm the damage amounted to over a million dollars and it was found that every class of roof was seriously damaged. One thing that prevented a far greater loss was the fact that very little rain accompanied the hail storm.

Members of the Ouachita Insurance Exchange call your attention to the importance of including DAMAGE BY HAIL with your windstorm insurance.

This important insurance can be included with a small additional premium. The cost is nominal, being only 10c per hundred dollars insurance.

Call your agent today and he will be glad to indorse your windstorm policy to include this coverage.

Cotton

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, May 4.—(AP)—A dull week-end session on the cotton market today ended with active futures 5 to 19 points higher.

At the opening call most months were a point or two lower, but the early losses were quickly substituted by gains and the market advanced on trade buying and some week-end covering. Reports of snow in the Amarillo section also brought in a few buying orders.

Today's trading was a counterpart of earlier sessions this week, with prices holding at a narrow range and activities sluggish. Little activity is looked for on either side of the market until the trading fraternity has something constructive to work on either for purchases or sales.

May ended the week at 11.83, July at 11.86, October at 11.52, December at 11.60.

Cotton futures closed steady at net advances of 5 to 10 points.

New York

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP)—Cotton continued its advance today with prices selling up to the best levels touched since the break on March 11. Restricted offerings were absorbed by the trade while recent sellers who were tempted to re-buy found contracts scarce. July rallied from 11.87 to 11.93 and closed at 11.90, the general market closing steady at net advances of 3 to 10 points.

Cotton futures closed steady, 3-10 higher.

New York Stocks

By Victor Eubank
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, May 4. — (AP) — The stock market maintained its steady to firm appearance in today's brief session with all divisions of the list showing moderate improvement. Renewed activity in sugar shares was one of the features.

Leading commodities were indifferent. Wheat was a trifle lower in Chicago and corn could do no better than hold even. Cotton, however, rose modestly and bar silver was advanced 1-2 cent an ounce to 73 cents. Firmness was displayed by corporate bonds but U. S. governments were a shade lower. Foreign exchanges were quiet and without feature.

Cuban American sugar preferred got up 9 points and then slid back slightly but ended the session with a substantial gain. American Sugar preferred gained 3 and Great Western preferred added 4 to its quoted value. Others improving included Cuban American common, and South Porto Rico.

Favorites in other divisions showing improvement included Inland Steel, Republic Steel preferred, U. S. Steel, Du Pont, Chrysler, General Motors, J. I. Case, Sears-Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Westinghouse, Standard Oil of New Jersey, American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Pennsylvania, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Howe Sound, American Smelting, Cerro De Pasco and U. S. Smelting.

Week-end business news and political developments at Washington formed a picture having both highlights and shadows for market traders. The long-expected break in automobile production came to light when Cram's reported output for the week ended May 4 totaled 110,865 units against 110,970 in the previous week and 95,277 a year ago, but there was a sign of relief that the recession was so negligible and came in the midst of the industry's struggle with labor which was considered a mitigating factor.

News from Washington that received a prominent place in board room discussions included the admitted widening cleavage between President Roosevelt and whatever portion of the business world is represented by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and the evident determination of the senate to pass either the Patman or Vinson soldiers' bonus bill providing for an enormous cash outlay immediately.

will be given full credit on entering L. S. U. or any other university in the American association that students may select.

"The continued growth and expansion of Northeast Center," Dean Colvert said, in making his announcement, "is due in a special sense to the warm interest shown by President Smith in the development of the institution as one of the significant phases of higher educational opportunities for the young people in this part of the state."

Dr. Smith's concern for the educational future of northeast Louisiana, Dean Colvert pointed out, is based on more than an academic interest.

"President Smith comes by his interest naturally," the dean said, "because this is his native region. He was born in Jackson parish, but close enough to the Ouachita line to look upon this parish as his own. When he was but a small child his parents moved to this parish, where he grew up and went to school. He has always had an especially warm spot in his heart for this section of Louisiana."

Dr. and Mrs. Smith will arrive in the city today from Baton Rouge, and will probably return to the capital Tuesday.

OBITUARY

FREED HUTTO

PINE BLUFF, Ark., May 4.—(Special)—Funeral services for Freed Hutto, wealthy planter, business man and assistant secretary to Governor Futrell of Arkansas, were held yesterday at England, Ark., and interment was made at Morrelton, Ark. Mr. Hutto was well known here, at McGehee and Monroe, La.

MRS. D. H. GARLINGTON

JONESBORO, La., May 4.—(Special)—Funeral services for Mrs. D. H. Garlington, 55, who died at a Ruston sanitarium Thursday after a three weeks illness, were held Friday at the Chuch of God, a few miles south of Quitman, with Rev. Miller officiating. Interment followed in the Antioch cemetery.

The deceased was born and reared in the Quitman community. She is survived by her husband, D. H. Garlington, and five daughters and three sons, Mrs. Lenora Glathary, Ruston, Mrs. Mary Belle Andrews, Quitman, Mrs. Zula Loe, Quitman, Mrs. Lillie Neal, Bastrop, Mrs. Evelyn Collins, Quitman, and J. E. Garlington, Quitman, D. F. Garlington, Longview, Texas, and Glen Garlington of Quitman.

M'LEMORE RELEASED

Bond of $100 was posted yesterday for the release from the city jail of G. D. McLemore, barber charged with drawing and displaying a dangerous weapon, a knife, in connection with the stabbing recently of Edward J. Quinn, inmate of the transient bureau.

It is estimated that 99 of every 100 automobiles need wheel steering alignment twice a year.

HOW MANY OF THESE FILM STARS OF OTHER DAYS DO YOU RECOGNIZE?

Joys and glories of past days were lived over again when this happy group met once more after seven years, in one of Hollywood's most unusual reunions. The dazzling dozen shown here are former famed movie actresses, members of "Our Club," organized in 1923 by Helen Ferguson and Mildred Davis, now Mrs. Harold Lloyd. The gathering was held in the film capital home of Anita Stewart. In addition to the reunion, the event was a reception for Laura LaPlante, a visitor in Hollywood from London, where she now makes her home.

was rushed to a local hospital as a precautionary measure.

Suspecting the "black widow," physicians asked the parents to bring specimens of spiders about the Coward premises to the hospital.

The doctors' worst fears were confirmed today after an examination of one of the spiders revealed that it was in reality a "black widow."

Little Jo Anne was suffering from a high fever this afternoon, and attending physicians would hazard no prediction as to the outcome of her fight for life.

WAR IS DECLARED ON 'BLACK WIDOW'

NEW ORLEANS, May 4.—(AP)—A poison spray treatment to combat invasion of the "black widow" spider, prevalent in New Orleans, Louisiana and other sections of the south, was under consideration today as a campaign was laid to exterminate the death dealing pest.

The bite of the legged insect, about the size of a human thumb, is described as fatal unless the proper treatment is administered promptly.

Yesterday an entire family in New Orleans deserted their Lakeview section home pending extermination and today callers streamed through the offices of the state conservation department to report spiders or to get a description of the "black widow."

Dr. James Nelson Gowanloch, chief biologist of the state conservation department, who is in charge of the campaign against the invasion of the "black widow," declared war today on the venomous insect.

Two deaths in the southern area have been attributed directly to the bite of the "black widow" and others whose diagnosis has been undetermined may be traced to it.

The spider, according to the experts, appears to migrate from soggy logs and swamp areas.

Those in charge of the campaign against the pest appeared today inclined to adopt the poison spray method of extermination.

The conservation department communicated with the United States health bureau in Washington for assistance and advice in the campaign of extermination.

Two Men Are Jailed On Larceny Charges

Accused of stealing a quantity of brass owned by the Louisville Cooperage company, Philip Alonzio, 304 Carolina avenue, and Paul Correro, 2812 Jackkson street, were arrested by police Saturday morning. Later in the day they were transforred to the parish jail.

Rufus Darringer, negro, was arrested and lodged in the city jail charged with the larceny of $14 from Lonnie White, negro.

Rebecca Starr, negro woman, was takekn in custody and placed in jail charged with stealing a dress valued at $5.88 from the J. C. Penney store.

section of levee will be laid in the south end of town and the remainder will be along the river bank.

Along portions of the river lying too close to the street to permit the construction of dirt levees the government will build levee walls. In West Monroe the levee wall will lie between the end of the traffic bridge and Claiborne street.

Awarding of this contract was one of the most important developments of the week in the way of construction in the Monroe area. Because of heavy rains during a large part of the week comparatively little progress was made on the several construction projects already under way, including the construction of an overpass at Sicard, widening and extending Louisville avenue and work on the bridge across the Ouachita river.

No new steel was placed on the bridge by Vincennes Bridge company and a comparatively small amount of work was done by Central Construction company, which has done most of the work of completing its contract. Central Construction company forces were engaged in building concrete hand-rails on the west end of the bridge. The bridge company did some riveting work and began putting the first span of the bridge on the west side into condition for laying concrete.

Coroner Dave Gershon here, said that the elder Coogan had been the only one identified among the dead.

Later a telephone call from Pine Valley said that Junior Durkin also had been killed. Durkin and John Coogan, it was reported, died instantly.

Jackie Coogan was taken to a Pine Valley store by M. E. Magee, El Centro, a passing motorist. His injuries were described as not serious.

Magee said Jackie told him he was riding in the rumble seat of the car and was pinned in the wreckage when the car crashed into a pile of rocks and plunged down an embankment, rolling over four times and finally coming to rest right side up.

Other occupants, Magee said Jackie related, were thrown clear of the plunging machine with such force that their injuries were almost immediately fatal.

An unidentified car, Jackie told Magee, forced the Coogan vehicle off the highway and into the rocks. Magee said he did not learn who was driving the youthful film star's car.

Durkin was born in New York City in 1915. His last screen appearance was in "Little Men."

Durkin's mother was Florence Edwards, stage actress. He made his stage debut at the age of 21-2 years as Cupid in "Some Night," a musical comedy. At the age of 5 he played the son of an Indian girl in a revival of "The Squaw Man." He later appeared in the stage production "H. M. S. Pinafore," "Poppy," "The Lady," "Clouds" and "Courage."

He came here in 1930, making his talking picture debut with Belle Bennett and John Halliday in "Fame." Afterwards he was in "Spanish Acres," "Recaptured Love," "Tom Sawyer," "Hell's House," "Devil's House," "Secrets of the Blue Room," the revived "Perils of Pauline" and "Man Hunt."

May 31 Last Day To Sign Sheriff's 1934 Poll Book Of Voters

Voters who fail to sign the sheriff's 1934 poll book by May 31 next will be ineligible to vote at the elections next year. Congressional, state, parish and city elections will be held in 1936, and every voter must be able to show his poll book receipts for 1934 and 1935. The poll book for 1934 will be kept open until May 31, to permit all voters an opportunity to sign. Poll books for 1935 may be signed up to December 31, but a receipt for this year's book will be valueless in next year's elections unless the voter has also signed the book for 1934. And May 31 is the last day!

Thirty or 40 officers were reported at the scene to aid in the hunt for the fugitives late tonight with bloodhounds called from Tucker to track down the fleeing pair. The scene of the hunt was near Vilonia, 14 miles east of Conway.

The abandoned car was said by officers to have been the same in which the Missouri slayers were seen in near Grapevine, Ark., where they were identified as the killers of two men at a dance hall this week. The windshield had been shot out by pursuing officers.

TRY TO STEAL CAR

A. W. Humble, 205 North Fifth street, reported to police late Friday night that four men had attempted to steal his automobile from in front of his residence. Humble followed the men to the Illinois Central railroad yards, he said.

U. S. automotive exports showed a gain of 108 per cent in 1934 over the preceding year.

NEW CURB MART TO OPEN MONDAY

Jackson Street Concern To Hold Formal Opening All Day

Formal opening of the Graves-Humphries curb market, located on Jackson street, opposite the Monroe public library, will be held all day Monday, J. R. Humphries, manager, announced Saturday. Special prizes will be awarded in connection with the occasion.

The curb market, said to be the first of its kind ever to be established in Monroe, extends for a distance of 120 feet. In addition to one large compartment which will be occupied by Mr. Humphries, there are 10 stalls, each 10 feet square.

Arrangements have been made to provide unusual conveniences for the patrons. The roof of the stalls extends over the sidewalk, so as to provide protection from sun and rain, and parking space has been provided in the lot at the rear of the structure for use when there is no available parking space in front.

Dr. J. Q. Graves, owner of the ground and buildings, said he saw an opportunity for providing a much-needed service, inasmuch as Monroe is large enough to have a curb market of modern city style.

This market is said to differ from the farmers' curb markets in that it will be operated throughout the year, instead of only during the local vegetable and fruit season, and some of the stalls will be operated by merchants of wide experience. Others will be occupied by prominent farmers who have heretofore demonstrated the quality of their products. Mr. Humphries said only high-class renters would be accepted for the buildings. The markets will carry complete lines of fruits, vegetables, chickens, eggs and other farm produce.

Mr. Humphries, a man with a college education, has had wide experience in merchandising, especially in self-service stores.

There is a total of 98,293 garages, service stations, and repair shops in the United States.

Pictured above are the new members of the Purple Jacket club, honorary organization at the Louisiana State Normal college at Natchitoches, who will represent the teachers' college during 1935-36 as hostesses at special occasions on the campus. Back row, left to right: Alice Harkins, treasurer, Haynesville; Miriam Himel, Port Allen; Shirley Jamison, president, Shreveport; Willie Mamye Sledge, Kaplan; Dorothy L'Herisson, reporter, Natchitoches; and Marjorie Escude, vice-president, Mansura. Middle row: Rushia Mae Butchie, Oakdale; Virginia Butler, Coushatta; Elizabeth Leonard, Shreveport; Dorothy George, Welsh; Hazel McGhee, Ville Platte; Doris Shell, Winnfield, and Sara Roach, Mansfield. Front row: Ottie Mae Duncan, Alexandria; Carrie Bonnie Newell, Newellton; Alice Walsh, New Orleans; Betty Voorhies, New Iberia; Sybil Lucy Dore, Crowley; Mary Kathryn Woodyard, Natchitoches, and Mabel Worley, Haynesville. Membership in the club is based upon high scholastic standing and interest in extra-curricular activities. The club was organized eight years ago.

Several Thousand Persons Visit Firm's New Establishment

In a setting of choice cut flowers and with an orchestra furnishing music that varied from the classic to the more popular selections, the Natural Gas company yesterday afternoon threw open its handsome new quarters on the ground floor of the newly reconstructed Woodmen building, Jackson and Harrison streets.

Between the hours of 3 and 10 p. m., it was estimated that several thousand people passed through the building and made careful inspection of the plant which embodies every feature that could be desired in an institution of this nature.

Officials of the company, including H. H. Reardon, president, J. H. Trousdale, vice-president, R. H. Oliver, Jr., secretary-treasurer, A. V. Miller, assistant to the president, and C. Alston Prophit, manager, received their guests while company employes as guides escorted the public through the building.

In addition to the large, perfectly lighted and completely equipped front offices, there are at the rear of the building such departments as the meter shop, the meter service distributing system, the billing department, the engineering department and special refrigerating department.

Much interest attached to the registrations whereby there were awarded the grand prizes for the fortunate ones.

The officials expressed themselves as well pleased over the complete success of the formal opening and of the widespread expressions of good will that were voiced by all present.

Two prizes were awarded last night at the close of the reception hours. The first prize, a refrigerator, was won by O. J. Smith, 204 South First street. The second prize, a hot water heater, was won by S. O. Williams, 108 Pargoud Drive.

Real Estate Transfers

W. S. Heard sold to Miss Fanny Bell Phillips, yesterday, lot 2 of block 1 of W. S. Heard and I. F. Wallace's first addition to West Monroe, fronting 51.57 feet on the west side of Trenton street, and lot 3 of the same block, fronting 49.76 feet on Trenton street, for a consideration of $500, it was learned at the office of the clerk of parish court.

J. E. Kincade sold to John Kincade a lot in square 4 of Zeigin's subdivision of the J. C. Ransom estate, for a consideration of $150.

SPEAKERS URGE PRESS FREEDOM

Meeting Held Prior To Convention Of National Association

NEW ORLEANS, May 4. (AP)—Speakers before the Press associations of Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Arkansas and Florida, meeting here today, demanded that freedom of the press be preserved.

The organizations were meeting in advance of the National Editorial association which convenes Monday in golden jubilee celebration.

T. M. Callahan, editor and publisher of the Lafayette, La., Advertiser, spoke in behalf of the Louisiana Press association.

"Don't tremble for the republic," said Mr. Callahan. "If we are satisfied to travel the highway prepared for us, it should be O.K. with us. But if we put out of our minds the idea that the world owes us a living, we must be prepared to be accused of ignoring human rights. We cannot have both liberty and security."

F. T. Raiford, publisher of the Selma, Ala., Times-Journal, delivered a ringing address for freedom of the press and denounced any attempt at the "gag rule." Mr. Raiford was the official representative of the Alabama Press association.

Speaking for Arkansas, Charles T. Evans, of Pine Bluff, warned likewise against abridging the press. He cited a prediction of the late Senator Thomas H. Carraway, of Arkansas.

Ten years ago, he said, Senator Carraway stated that business men should guard against the encroachment of government in the field of private business "or shortly we might behold the spectacle of some $2,000 a year clerk in Washington telling some operator of a million dollar business just how and what he ought to do."

"It was prophesy," said the speaker. "I leave it to you to say whether it has been fulfilled."

The state associations held separate and joint meetings. Their sessions furnished a prelude to the fiftieth anniversary celebration of the national body which was founded in 1885 in New Orleans and held its silver jubilee in this city 25 years ago.

Successful Play Staged By St. Matthew's School

Special praise was given to Alec MacKinnon and Winnie Breard, although the acting of all who participated was declared far above the average for an amateur production.

Despite the inclemency of the weather, good attendance was present.

Men's Brotherhood To Hold Meeting Monday

The Men's Brotherhood of the First Baptist church will hold its semi-monthly meeting at the church Monday at 7 p. m. After the dinner is served a denominational program is to be presented, the theme of which is to be "Cuba, Our Needy Neighbor."

L. B. Pettit will discuss "The Field;" Clarence Shumate will speak on "Beginnings of Our Work;" H. B. Cannon will talk on "Personnel and Equipment;" Dr. A. R. Doughty will explain "Goals and Needs."

Special music will be rendered by Miss Marjorie Lewis of Clarks, who is to play the accordion.

All men of the church are invited to attend this meeting and special emphasis is given to the fact that the time and hour have now been changed to the first and third Mondays at 7:30.

LEGION TO PLAN FOR OBSERVANCES

Memorial Day And Fourth Of July Program To Be Arranged

Preparations for Memorial day on May 30 and for the observance of July 4th will be made Monday night when the L. B. Faulk post, American Legion, holds its first session of the month, according to Commander Isador Liebreich.

The commander stated that it is proposed to have all veterans' associations participate in both events. While many may not be aware of the fact, Mr. Liebreich stated that there are now six veterans' groups in Ouachita parish. These are the three Legion posts, in Monroe, West Monroe and Sterlington, the Veterans of Foreign Wars post, the Disabled Veterans and the Spanish-American war groups.

Special exercises of appropriate nature will be held May 30 and graves of veterans will be decorated, according to present plans.

On July 4, a big celebration is proposed, details of which are to be announced later.

DALFERES ANNOUNCES ITINERARY OF MANN

Linden Dalferes, state service commissioner, announces dates of the itinerary of Gray A. Mann, assistant state service commissioner, in the fifth district during the period from May 20 to June 7, as follows;

Monday, May 20, Tullos, from 9 a.m. to 10:30 a.m., Columbia, noon to 5 p.m.; Tuesday, May 21, Monroe, all day; Wednesday, May 22, Bastrop, 9 a.m. to 12 noon, Farmerville, 2:30 to 5 p.m.; Thursday, May 23, Ruston, 9 a.m. to noon, Jonesboro, 1:30 p.m.-overnight; Friday, May 24, Winnfield, 9 a.m. to 11 a.m.

It is explained that the advance notices of the coming visits of Mr. Mann are sent out in sufficient time to enable persons to correspond with headquarters, 203 Masonic Temple building in New Orleans, relative to cases in which they are interested. This will permit the state service commissioner to review the files at the veterans' administration and to furnish the interested person with the present status of the claims prior to the visit of the assistant commissioner.

It is suggested that veterans be requested to bring with them all correspondence pertaining to their claims when calling on Mr. Mann.

The society photographer caught prominent members of the Junior Charity league in this charming, informal pose in the beautiful gardens of the Elmer Slagle home, where they were enjoying a social hour. The chief topic of conversation was the year's project and the work assigned to each member. Reading from left to right, they are: Mrs. Nathan Gaston, Mrs. R. C. Sparks, Jr., Mrs. John Theus, Mrs. Bridger Thornhill, Miss Sue Graves, Mrs. Joseph Isaacman, Mrs. Franklin Shaw (president), Mrs. Harry Frazer, Mrs. Merrill Flower Bush, Mrs. Prioleau Ellis, Jr., chairman of finance.

Miss Francine Loeser, beautiful and talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Loeser, who made her debut in amateur theatrical circles in this city as the leading feminine character in the Little Theater production "The Cajun." Portrait by Downing.

Monroe Junior Charity League Sponsors Fine Project

By Eve C. Bradford

WHAT is the Junior Charity league coming to? Back in the days of its inception its members pursued all the ladylike hobbies (sewing a fine seam, for instance), but they have progressed step by step until today they are maintaining with a remarkable degree of success a free clinic at St. Francis sanitarium.

Hundreds of babies of Monroe—future citizens of the state—owe an incalculable debt of gratitude to this group of young women who more than four years ago banded themselves together to render service to underprivileged infants of this community.

Today 1,500 babies are on the rolls of the Charity league's clinic, an institution that has probably done more to save infants for citizenship and the privileges and opportunities of useful living than any other single agency in this city.

The notion largely prevails that the Junior Charity league is an organization devoted to social purposes. Well, it is—in the best sense of the term, a term that implies a betterment of the social order for those who come into the world without the advantages of affluence, healthy and happy home environments.

The Junior Charity league is not devoted to the interests of the upper tiers of society, though it is from that elements of the social order its ranks are recruited. It was brought into being with serious purpose, and its field of usefulness is constantly expanding, engaging the earnest activities of 75 young women whose first concern is the welfare of the babies brought under the ministering care of the clinic. The "75" is a magic number. It represents the fixed limit of membership, and a list of expectant members is always waiting to fill any vacancies that occur. The original league had a limit of 60 members, but this was increased to an additional 15 in order to permit a larger group to participate in the worthy activities of the organization.

Mrs. F. A. Shaw, Jr., is the president for 1935. The first president was Mrs. Ed. Seymour. Others who have served in the office since its beginning are Mrs. J. Hunter Thatcher, Mrs. Ron Lee Davis and Mrs. Walter Black.

Lovely Bridge Affair

Mrs. Lester Jacobs entertained Saturday afternoon at bridge complimentary to her house guest, Mrs. J. L. Patterson of St. Louis. A profusion of beautiful garden flowers created a colorful setting for the guests who enjoyed to the fullest the many courtesies offered by the hostess and the pleasure of meeting the guest of honor.

Mrs. Patterson for high bridge score received a piece of Fostoria crystal and for remembrance from her hostess received a pair of oval silhouettes. Mrs. George Tidwell received a piece of crystal ware for consolation.

Luscious refreshments were served at the linen covered card tables to Mrs. Patterson, Mrs. Marvin Farnell, Mrs. Charles Brozan, Mrs. H. H. Dortch, Mrs. J. L. Humble, Mrs. Thomas Monk, Mrs. George Tidwell, Mrs. M. L. Coleman, Mrs. Dewey Simmons, Mrs. Myrtle Jacobs.

Miss Florence Ferguson, charming young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Ferguson, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Mr. Victor Davis has just been announced. This nuptial event of unusual social prominence will be a brilliant event of the month of June. Portrait by Montgomery.

Lovely Bridge Affair Honors Mrs. Oswald

Garden flowers in all the exquisite rainbow shades were arranged with meticulous care by Mrs. Arthur Dryburgh in the reception suite of her attractive home Thursday afternoon when she gathered a few congenials together for bridge, complimentary to Mrs. C. H. Oswald of Portland, Ore.

The gifts presented for high bridge scores, pastel shaded summer purses, were claimed by Mrs. D. A. Bradford and Mrs. G. B. Cooley. Mrs. Oswald received a white summer purse for remembrance.

Luscious refreshments, chicken salad, refreshing parfait in tall crystal glasses and open-faced sandwiches were served at beautifully appointed linen covered tables to Mrs. Oswald, Mrs. H. R. Speed, Mrs. Gordon Cummings, Mrs. Albert Horuff, Mrs. J. B. Vaughan, Mrs. Frank Farmer, Mrs. Gladys Sperry, Mrs. T. G. Easterling, Mrs. D. A. Bradford, Mrs. B. Granary, Mrs. G. B. Cooley, Mrs. J. H. Trousdale Mrs. A. L. Harrington.

Brilliant Reception At Northeast Center L. S. U.

The interest of people in this community is centered in the reception at Northeast Center of L. S. U. Monday night between the hours of eight and eleven with Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Colvert and Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. James A. Noe receiving in honor of Dr. and Mrs. James Monroe Smith of Baton Rouge, La.

Dr. Smith, president of the Louisiana State university, is anticipating the pleasure of meeting the people of this community on such a gracious occasion.

This reception, bringing together in cordial and sincere manner people from all walks of life will no doubt be the means of creating a greater appreciation for this splendid institution that plays such an important part in the cultural and progressive life of the entire state. It will mark the close of [illegible] full year in every [illegible] university.

OFF TO MAKE YACHTING HISTORY

Return of the yachting glory that once was Boston's was hoped for as Yankee, the big ship nosed out last summer in the America's Cup trials, breasted the Atlantic's breezes for the 3,000-mile journey to England to race Europe's fastest boats. The first American ship to make the journey in more than 30 years, she's shown at the start of the trip in Boston harbor.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Chase entertained the Card club for its weekly meeting. The pretty rooms of Mr. and Mrs. Chase's home were decorated with a profusion of spring roses. A plate supper was served during the games. Mr. and Mrs. Chase's guests included Mrs. William Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hayes, Mrs. Harry Goldman, Mrs. Betty Goldman, Mrs. Dalton Watson, Mrs. Carneal Goldman, Mrs. E. L. Collins, Mrs. Slocum, Mr. Dalton Watson and Miss Aline Dicks, of Natchez.

Mrs. John Hughes entertained at bridge recently, complimenting Mrs. Major Martin, of Kerrville, Texas. Dorothy Perkins roses were used with much taste to decorate the living room of Mrs. Hughes' home, where the card tables were placed. When the games were concluded the guests of honor, Mrs. Martin, was presented with a pretty and appropriate gift. Mrs. William Watson won the prize for highest score. A plate luncheon was served after the presentation of the prizes. The guests included Mrs. William Watson, Mrs. Philip Watson, Mrs. Dalton Watson, Mrs. Lucille Hopkins, Mrs. Carneal Goldman and Mrs. Wade Newell and Mrs. W. Walker Burnside, of Newellton, La., and the guest of honor, Mrs. Major Martin, or Kerrville, Texas.

Mrs. William Watson entertained the Country Bridge club recently. Quantities of roses, red verbenae and larkspur were placed in different parts of the house and on the porch, where the games were played. When the games were concluded the prize was won by Mrs. Lucille Hopkins for highest score. Mrs. Edward Butts won the second prize. A plate luncheon was served when the prizes had been presented. Those present included Mrs. Lucille Hopkins, Mrs. Edward Butts, Mrs. Dalton Watson, Mrs. Betty Goldman, Mrs. Harry Goldman, Mrs. Carneal Goldman, Mrs. E. L. Collins, Mrs. William Stripling, Mrs. Benjamin Chase, Mrs. Peter Hayes and Mrs. Kandall Hunter, of Waterproof, La., and Miss Aline Dicks, of Natchez, Miss.

Mrs. Holliman Cook, Mrs. H. L. Biggs, Mrs. Alex Blackman, Mrs. Christopher Haddon and Mrs. Curry Macpherson were the members of the Cosmopolitan club, who attended the meeting of the Federated clubs held in Ferriday, La., recently.

The dance at the Blackman hall attracted a great many. Glenn Hudson's orchestra played. Among the many present were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Lord, Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Monnot, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Curry, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Watson, Misses Avis Terral, Edna Mae Kyther, Carolyn Ratcliff, Beulah Grayson, Cornelia and Marguerite Smith, Elise Coor, Marian Post, Willie Mae Jackson and Messrs. Dick Coor, Vernon Ratcliff, Claude Clarke, Curry Macpherson, Jr., Robert Culpepper, Magruder Smith, Jr., besides numbers of others.

The Cosmopolitan club held its annual business meeting at the Farrar town house in their clubroom. Mrs. Jack Crigler, with several others, was the hostess. The meeting was well attended.

Will Open Bids For Remodeling Project

Bids will be opened Wednesday in the office of H. H. Land, architect, 1104 Ouachita National bank building, on remodeling the interior of the Monroe Wholesale Drug company building at 131 North Second street. Plans for the improvements were drawn by Mr. Land.

Changes in the interior of the building are being made to improve the appearance and provide additional conveniences. When the work is completed the interior of the building occupied by this firm, which is among the older establishments of Monroe, will present a thoroughly up-to-date appearance.

MARRIAGES

Miss Marguerite Ferguson Combs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Combs of 242 South Riverfront, West Monroe, was united in marriage to Carroll C. Adams of Little Rock, Ark., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Keith, Little Rock, on April 12. Mrs. Adams, formerly of Little Rock, has many friends in Monroe.

INDUSTRIAL--REVIEW OF THE TWIN CITIES

JOHN FOX NAMED DISTRICT MANAGER

Local Man Has Large Territory For Investors Syndicate

John S. Fox, well known local man, was appointed district manager of Investors Syndicate, effective May 1, it was announced yesterday.

Mr. Fox, whose enviable record was responsible for the high appointment, will have charge of the entire Monroe district, which includes the territory east of Ruston to the Mississippi river, and south from the Arkansas line to Winnsboro.

Investors Syndicate is the oldest and largest organization of its kind in the United States. It was founded at Minneapolis, Minn., in 1894, immediately following the silver panic, with a capital of only $2,600. Since then the organization has grown to where its capital at the end of 1934 was more than $61,000,000.

Investors Syndicate early realized the need for systematic savings. It was apparent that a very important field was not covered by life insurance and other similar forms of protection was not provided for, and Investors Syndicate decided to provide this protection for a properly balanced financial program.

Realizing this necessity, they sought out the best and most flexible plan to meet any pocketbook or class of purchaser, and in addition, the soundest securities in which their money might be invested. Realizing that the American home has been and always will be the backbone of our country, they have placed a large portion of their funds in first mortgages. Knowing the possible dangers which could befall such an investment and which has later been observed to be the case with other companies, Investors Syndicate restricted their territory for loaning money in the following manner:

1. Towns of 100,000 population or over.
2. Residences only, and these NOT OVER 2 YEARS OLD.
3. Maximum of $15,000 on any one piece of property with appraisals approximately 55 per cent.
4. Monthly amortization.
5. Distribution of territory to cover the United States and Canada.

Hence, the contract holder is protected both in the security of the loan in itself and in the benefits of territorial distribution. The plan itself permits the purchaser to take advantage of compound interest and by saving sums monthly or otherwise convenient to him, build up a lifetime reserve or living protection.

Mr. Fox will be pleased to explain the Investors Syndicate plan to you without obligation.

No Let Down In Sales Of Pontiac Automobile

There is no let down in the production and sale of Pontiac cars, figures released by the factory today, indicate. Forecasts for the month of April estimate production at over 19,000 and retail sales at around 18,000.

Retail deliveries for the first ten days of the month were 5,126, as compared to 4,404 in the first 10 days of March. Production for the week ending April 13, really got into high gear, with a total of 4,407 for the five day week, or an average of 881 cars per day.

The first 1,000 car day in three years occurred on Wednesday of that week.

Pontiacs are sold locally by Union Motors, Inc.

An agreement has been completed by the German government and the American Automobile association whereby Americans taking their cars to Germany may secure all necessary driving credentials from the A. A. A. in advance of sailing.

Ford Sedan With And Without Appointments

Ford dealers point out that the Ford Motor Company builds only one chassis, one body for each body type, one high standard of engineering and quality. Ford cars are furnished with or without Deluxe equipment. The new Ford Deluxe models are the most beautiful Ford cars ever built. The appointments and body colors have been chosen to please those who want the effect of a custom model. The Ford Tudor sedan with Deluxe equipment is pictured above. Below it the Ford sedan without Deluxe equipment. All Ford cars have large six-inch tires and safety glass all around.

CORTRIGHT METAL SHINGLES BETTER

J. G. Bell Tells Of Advantages In Using Quality Roofing

By J. G. Bell

Cortright Metal Shingles are made from first quality tin plate, then stamped into form—just like parts of your automobile body—then hand-dipped, one at a time, into molten zinc. The life time of these shingles is fifty years. They are the lightest of all shingle-fashioned roofing, weighing 88 pounds to each 100 square feet, covered surface. Thus they save freight, handling and hauling and cost of heavy timbers to support slate or tile roofing.

Cortright shingles are the best protection from fire and carry the best fire insurance rate. Cortright metal shingles are handsome; when your house is new and just as handsome when the house is old, and they can be painted any color to please the eye. Beauty adds to the value of any home.

Figuring years of satisfied service and a roof that has stood the storms of time, Cortright shingles are the most economical roof of all time. Seven composition shingles roofs in Collinston, Louisiana, were punctured with hundreds of holes caused by heavy hail. I re-roofed them all with Cortright metal shingles. The life of composition is approximately 7 years—43 years less than Cortright metal shingles—time tells everything.

I do not deal in composition shingles or Bird roofing—they might fly away.

Mrs. H. R. Speed's residence, 110 Pine street, is roofed with Cortright metal shingles, the cheapest grade, painted red—not re-dipped shingles at all. I roofed this house 32 years ago. E. Kaliski's residence, 320 Breard street, has a Cortright metal shingle roof—has given 29 years service and is still waterproof. Mrs. Tisdale's residence, Bastrop, Louisiana, is roofed with Cortright metal shingles that were put on thirty years ago.

All Cortright metal shingles sold by me will be erected by my experienced sheet metal workers and guaranteed for a natural life time for 9 cents per square foot, flat surface, complete on roof.

BUICK SURVEY SHOWS BETTER CONDITIONS

FLINT, Mich., May 4.—(Special)—Improved conditions in rural areas throughout the country are indicated in figures released today by W. F. Hufstader, general sales manager of the Buick Motor company covering Buick dealers who have shown the largest increases in sales volume over last year.

In a survey of 372 dealers whose sales during the first quarter of 1935 either surpassed the total for all of 1934 or were at least 50 per cent ahead of the total 1934 volume, it is disclosed that nearly all of these dealers do business with farmers and small merchants, Mr. Hufstader said.

"Buick dealers in 59 towns throughout the country sold more cars in the first quarter of this year than were sold in their respective communities in all of 1934," Mr. Hufstader said. "The record shows that another 313 Buick dealers reached 50 per cent or more of their total 1934 volume during January, February and March, while there is a long list just below the 50 per cent mark.

"The territories in which these large sales gains were made are rural in character. The average population of the 69 towns was slightly over 5,000. In each of these communities, a relatively good volume was done last year.

NASH MODEL HAS HYDRAULIC BRAKES

Cars Adopt Efficient Duo Servo Type After Long Experiment

One of the new features on the 1935 Nash cars which is a direct result of owner recommendation, is the hydraulic braking system. Following their customary practice of building cars as near to owner-specifications as possible, Nash queried a large cross-section of its customers last summer asking for suggestions on how to improve the next model. So many people asked for hydraulic brakes that the engineers at once began making tests of the various types to determine which of them would be most suitable for Nash to use.

Super hydraulic brakes of the Duo Servo type were the outcome of these experiments. Duo Servo means that these brakes are aided in their work by the forward momentum of the car, so that less pressure is required on the foot pedal than would otherwise be necessary.

Manufactured by Bendix to Nash specifications, the new brakes have drums of cast iron rather than stamped steel. It was discovered that by the use of more cooling fins, molded into the exterior of the drum rapid heat dissipation, the cast iron was strengthened so materially that no steel would be necessary.

The emergency brake is, of course, mechanically actuated, and has been located in the rear wheels instead of along the drive line.

The Nash Motors company bears the distinction of being the builder of the second lowest priced trunk-equipped, four-door sedan in the industry, according to Courtney Johnson, general sales manager of the Nash Motors company.

The Benoit-Nash company is the local dealer for Nash and LaFayette cars.

Development Of Poetry In The State Urged By The Chairman Federated Clubs

Mrs. Patrick J. White of Shreveport, chairman of poetry division of the Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs has the following interesting remarks to make in regard to the development of poetry in the state:

As a greater stimulus to the appreciation and development of poetry we are establishing a speakers bureau by enlisting the interest and cooperation of the English teachers of the various education institutions of Louisiana. These written lectures on Poetry Appreciation, study and creative writing will be available to all clubs of the Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs by making application to the state chairman of poetry. This service will be established without fee and we feel that the affiliation and fellowship will bring a community of understanding and high development to all interested.

We urge that one program of poetry study and appreciation be given by each club during their year's work, preferably during national poetry week which is the fourth week of May. If such meetings are held, please make report to your federated chairman. And for a fuller cooperation in this movement that the clubs establish public poetry readings which have been so successfully carried out in recent London season.

We will hold a poetry contest each year, a poet's congress, time and date to be announced later, and we will establish an anthology of Louisiana poets under the sponsorship of this department of the Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs.

Rules for poetry contest: Subject, optional; form, optional; length, not to exceed 28 lines. All poems must be typed on one side of paper, signed in full, and if to be returned to author, accompanied by a self-addressed, stamped envelope. All material for contest sent to Mrs. P. J. White, chairman of poetry, Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs, 2703 Fairfield avenue, Shreveport, La.

The contest will close September 1, 1935, and no material will be considered after closing date.

There will be three prizes, first, second and third, and prizes will be awarded at the convention in October, 1935.

The three years work of this division will be divided as follows: Poetry Appreciation, Poetry Study and Poetry Creation.

The first year's work in poetry appreciation we will stress the modern poets by study, reading and lectures. We submit the following list: Reading list of modern poets—Walt Whitman, T. S. Elliott, Edwin A. Robinson, Robert Frost, Ezra Pound, Vachel Lindsay, Edna St. Vincent Millay, Sara Teasdale, Lis Reese, David Morton, Alfred Kingsbury, Harriet Monroe, Stephen Benit, Wallace Stearns, The Book of Modern Verse, the Second Book of Modern Verse, Dessie Rittenhouse.

Text Books (beginners) An Introduction to the Study of Poetry, Kirk-McCutcheon; The Art of Versification, Esenwine; Off to Arcady, Hertzberg, American Book Co., N. Y. Text books (advanced)—Modern American Poetry, Untermeyer, Harcourt-Brace Co., New York City, N. Y. A City Day—French, Ronald Press Co., New York City, N. Y. Contemporary Poetry—Margaret Wilkinson, McMillan, New York.

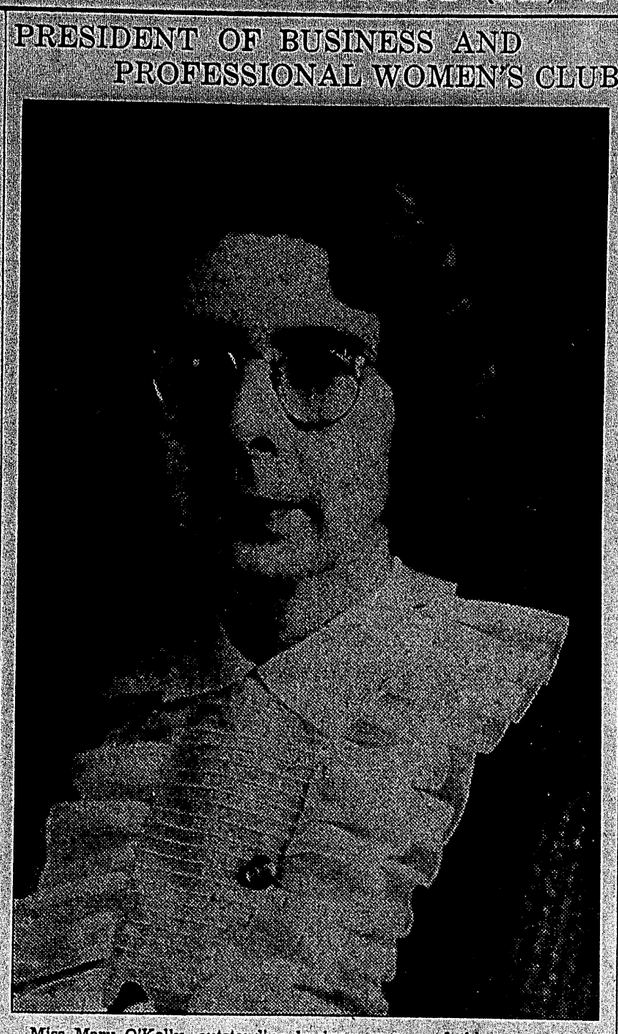
PRESIDENT OF BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL WOMEN'S CLUB



Miss Mary O'Kelly, outstanding business woman of this city, who will guide the destiny of the Business and Professional Women's club of this city during the coming year. Miss O'Kelly is a charter member of the Monroe club and has played a most important part in all club activities since organization. Miss O'Kelly, assisted by other officers and members of the club, are now hard at work completing plans for the entertainment of delegates during the state convention in this city on the seventeenth of May.

Louisiana Federation Of Fifth District Women's Clubs Meets In Vidalia

The Vidalia Garden club and the Ferriday Woman's club were hostesses to the annual meeting of the fifth district, Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs, last week.

The meeting, which was largely confined with the business affairs of the district, was presided over by the president, Miss Lillie May Long of Delta.

Following the formal opening of the meeting, the assembly sang "The Star Spangled Banner." Mrs. J. Martin Hamley of Lake Providence led the salute to the flag. Rev. C. G. Bruce pronounced the invocation which was followed by a cordial welcome by the mayor, Mr. E. W. Vogt, of Ferriday.

Miss Sarah Jones, parish librarian, welcomed the visitors on behalf of the hostess clubs. Miss Jones, said that in her experiences she found men who disliked to work with women for the reason that they were rank individualists. This, Miss Jones denied on the part of club women who have learned the technique of functioning in an organization. Mrs. E. C. Gibson of Monroe graciously responded to Miss Jones.

Mr. N. C. Williamson was the guest speaker of the day. His subject was the Bankhead cotton control act. He explained the functions of the act and the processing tax involved. The processing tax is borne by the consumer, and is not collected until the cotton goods are sold. The tax is the source of revenue from which rental is paid to the planter who reduces his cotton acreage, renting the idle land to the government. Mr. Williamson believes the planter as well as the community, is in better financial condition as a result of the Bankhead act by 100 per cent. He urged women to take more interest in politics as it has become a serious and solemn duty; further, the responsibility of future citizenship rests with the women, for they mold the opinions and beliefs of their children.

Mrs. Joseph K. Walker, Shreveport, state director of L. F. W. C. gave the federation address of the day, responding to requests for information regarding the triennial which will be held in Detroit June 4 to 12. She also gave information on the workings of the state federation, by request.

Mrs. B. H. Talbot of Ruston, district chairman of American Home gave a splendid report of the year's activities, and offered a number of pamphlets on the American Home which afford excellent material for programs.

Mrs. Carey J. Ellis, Rayville, chairman of International Relations, introduced plans for the coming year which will be featured by an address by Dr. Fadra Holmes Wilson of L. S. U.

Mrs. C. B. Haddon, St. Joseph, chairman of conservation, spoke in behalf of our wild animal life as well as plant life. She warned against the deadly widow spider which has recently appeared in numbers. The widow spider is black and about one-half inch in length.

Mrs. D. H. Christman of Shreveport, state chariman of art, spoke on the state contest in art and the art contest of the Shreveport fair. The rules and information will be given in a separate article.

Mrs. John Shuttleworth who is fondly called the dean of Louisiana club women, graced the assembly with her vivid personality, giving one of her witty addresses the theme of which was her beloved Loan Scholarship Fund. Doubtless there are hundreds of girls and boys who will revere the name of Mrs. Shuttleworth for life's opportunity she has afforded them.

Mrs. Addison Thompson gave an enthusiastic report on the club institute which was recently held at L. S. U. Mrs. Thompson believes the club institute has untold possibilities and will be a great force in club circles in time.

Prizes in the poster contest which was inaugurated by the district president, Miss Lillie May Long, went to the Welcome Branch Twentieth Century Book club, first prize; the Carroll Women's club and the Civic club of Lake Providence tied for second place; third prize was won by the Junior Literary club of Rayville.

Reports of clubs attested to the fact that women's clubs are potent factors in the social, civic and political life of their communities. Two new clubs were admitted to the federation; the Mother's club of Delhi and the Woman's Departmental club of Oak Grove, both new clubs making very creditable reports.

The registration committee reported seven state officers present, eight district officers, 39 delegates, 29 visiting club women and 10 visitors. The following towns were represented: Delhi, Shreveport, Tallulah, Ruston, Rayville, St. Joseph, Lake Providence, Newellton, Monroe, West Monroe, Oak Grove, Vidalia, Ferriday, Shaw, Alto and Delta.

Mr. C. A. Braun of Sedalia, Mo., is enjoying a visit in the home of his son, Mr. C. B. Braun and Mrs. Braun.

Department Of Art Sponsors A State Contest

The art department of the Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs is sponsoring an art contest for all state artists.

Each woman's club in the state where there are local artists is asked to hold an exhibit sometime in advance of the state convention, at least two weeks before the convention. The best works of art in any medium are chosen. The manner of judging this local contest is left to the local clubs. The winners in the home contests are to be sent to the state convention in the fall where all entries are judged by competent jurymen, and three prizes are given: first, second ($10, $5) and honorable mention.

Rules governing State Federation art contests:

All contestants must be residents of the state.

Paintings must be original work, not a copy, and without the aid of a teacher.

An exhibitor will be awarded but one premium. Honorable mention will be given but carries no reward.

The fine arts department of the General Federation of Women's Clubs again announces a contest in community festivals or other fine arts projects, and offers the following prizes: First prize, $50; second prize, $15; third prize, $10.

The contest is open to all states except those winning prizes in the community fine arts festivals contest of the last administration.

The contest will be conducted through the fine arts chairman of the State Federation; each club of the federation shall submit its report to the state chairman of fine arts, who will select the winning report for her state.

Activities to be considered must have taken place between dates of July 1, 1932, and April 15, 1935.

The judges will be: Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, past president General Federation; Mme. Olga Samaroff, Julliard foundation, graduate school, New York; Count Rene d'Harnoncourt, American Federation of Arts.

With each report shall be filed the name of the club and name of town and state in a separate sealed envelope, which shall not be opened until decision of judges has been made. It is important that reports shall give size of town, size of club and approximate number of persons interested in and benefited by the project.

Prize winning reports will be part of the fine arts program at the triennial convention to be held in Detroit, Mich., in June, 1935, at which time the prizes will be awarded to the successful states.

There is an inclination in this time of so much ready-made entertainment to overlook not only our art treasures, but the capabilities of human beings. A talent neglected deteriorates; ability not used grows less and less; until our communities come to reflect this inactivity. Plan a community festival, which will include historical pageants, plays and exhibitions; art objects, including paintings, sculpture and handicrafts. Get your musicians and writers together, both youth and adults; revive the spirit of play and good fellowship. There will come an entirely new feeling of pride in ownership of choice art objects.

Such a review is a tonic for the spirit and a spur to constant present effort to appreciate the beautiful. Each community is free to make its own plan. An ideal plan would be to hold a program in some community building large enough to accommodate all the various activities and exhibits of the festival. A luncheon, tea or dinner may be served as a means of stimulating social contact.

The luncheon hour makes a fine setting for the reading of prize poems and stores and awarding of prizes to successful contestants.

As a grand finale, a bridal review is suggested for the evening program, in which the bridal procession will not be merely a costume pageant, but shall be local history on parade as young women of today appear in velvet, silk, satin or muslin gowns worn by brides of other days. Our juniors would make charming models for a bridal revue.

The central thought for these festivities should be to develop a program that will appeal to the largest number possible through encouragement of all available talents. In this undertaking the small club has the same opportunity as the large one, since the basis of award is to be the successful effort toward raising the cultural standard of the community.

Last, but not least in importance, is the penny art fund contest. This fund is handled by the state art chairman. She purchases with the money pieces of American art to be presented at the state annual meeting to the clubs doing most to raise the standard of beauty and spread the knowledge of art in their communities.

It is hoped that every club will send in their pennies; a penny for every member, once a year, with reports from state chairmen.

Affectionate Interest Of Friends Is Centered In The Marriage Of Mr. Allen Smith

The sincere and affectionate interest of friends in Monroe is centered in the announcement of the marriage of Mr. Allen Lewis Smith, son of Mrs. P. A. Poag, of this city on the twenty-ninth of April in Woodville, Miss. The following account of the wedding appeared in the Woodville Republican:

The Woodville Methodist church was the scene of a simple, but lovely wedding on Monday, April 29, at high noon when Miss Margaret Davis Lewis became the bride of Mr. Allen Lewis Smith of Monroe, La. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. P. McKeown. Mrs. P. M. Stockett, organist, gave an appropriate program of nuptial music.

The decorations in the old church, for more than a century the place of worship in the bride's family, were unusually artistic and beautiful. Long sprays of southern smilax against the chancel and over the adjacent windows formed a background of green. Within the chancel space handsome ferns were effectively grouped while maiden hair ferns growing luxuriantly in long boxes bordered the altar rail and the choir loft with their delicate, lacy fronds. Easter lilies, arranged in tall vases, added additional charm to the nuptial setting.

Immediately after the ceremony an informal luncheon was served at the bride's home for the families and out-of-town friends of the young couple. Shortly thereafter the bride and groom left for a week's motor trip to Florida. Her going away costume was a suit of navy blue light wool crepe.

Mrs. Smith is the second daughter of the late Mr. Robert Lewis and of Mrs. Lewis. The Lewis family has been connected with the history of Woodville for more than a hundred years. Soon after the War Between the States, her grandfather, Capt. John S. Lewis, assumed the editorship of The Woodville Republican, a newspaper in continuous existence at that time for almost fifty years. At his death her father succeeded him, successfully editing the paper for thirty-five years. Since that time Mrs. Smith has been the associate editor, the third generation in the management of what is now the oldest business institution in Mississippi. Mrs. Smith is a graduate of Newcomb college and a member of Chi Omega sorority.

Mr. Smith is the son of Mrs. P. A. Poag of Monroe, La. After graduating from the Monroe high school he attended the University of North Carolina for two years and was graduated from the law department of Tulane university. He is a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. He is now connected with the Universal Credit corporation of Jackson and will have his week-end headquarters in Woodville where he and his bride expect to make their home with her mother.

Attending the wedding from Monroe were Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Poag and son, P. A., Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kellogg, Mr. James Cox, Mr. Henry Bernstein and Mr. Leallis Hale.

Personalities

THINGS I PARTICULARLY LIKE . . .

Soft patter of rain and the fragrance of honeysuckle on the night air.

The orderly row of crimson tulips along the walk at the power plant.

The first sweet peas with their glorious rainbow colors.

THINGS TO LOOK FORWARD TO . . .

Presentation of sparkling musical comedy, "Bon Voyage" at Neville auditorium.

SHIFTING SCENES . . .

Symphony of hammering in every section of the city where new buildings are being erected . . . swish of water along the river front where pleasure craft bob up and down . . . nautical minded men in greasy dungarees getting house boats ready for the summer season . . . crunching of peanuts in the grandstand at Forsythe park where the crack of the bat is now being heard . . . urchins storming from the classroom to the open lots with bat and glove . . . housewives chasing dust and shifting furniture . . . odor of fresh paint . . . happy animals at the rebuilt zoo at Bernstein park, where there is more room, more shade and more visitors . . . children begging for nickels to buy peanuts from the venders plying their trade every Sunday afternoon at the zoo . . . housewives busily engaged in storing up shining glasses of mayhaw jelly . . . dime letters flooding the mails.

CHARMING YOUNG MATRONS . . .

Mrs. Nathan Gaston wearing brown ensemble with brown "off-the-face" hat.

Mrs. R. C. Sparks, Jr., wearing blue flowered print with blue accessories.

WAR VETERANS' SERVICE HELPS

(Editor's Note: The following article is the seventh of a series released by H. B. McClendon, Ouachita parish service officer, for publication in the Sunday Morning World. The articles explain benefits available to United States veterans of wars in which this country has participated, and discuss compensations, pensions, hospitalization, funeral expenses and other benefits.)

Veterans administration form P-9 is used in all cases where the veteran desires to appeal his case, whether it be for service connection, increase in compension, or for a rating of total permanent because of a non-service connected disability or disabilities.

Where a veterans' claim has been denied by the New Orleans office of the veterans administration, he may appeal within one year from the date he is notified. Upon receipt of the form in the New Orleans office, the evidence is considered by someone in the adjudication division and if it is his opinion that all evidence has been secured from the war department or the navy department, and everyone who can testify has been given an opportunity, the case is certified to the Washington office as ready for consideration.

When the Washington office is ready for the case, the New Orleans office will be notified. Because of the large number of cases that have been appealed, the folder sometimes remains three or four months in the New Orleans office before it is called to Washington. Should the appeal be denied, the veteran can secure evidence from physicians and friends and submit it to the veterans administration. In the event the administration considers the evidence new and material, the central office will be notified again and in due time the file will be requested and reconsidered by that office.

Veterans who are in receipt of compensation should be very careful in appealing their cases. Advice should be first secured through a service organization—the state service commissioner, the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, or the American Red Cross—before the case is appealed, as a good many veterans have appealed their cases when they were in receipt of compensation only to get a decision that service connection would be broken and they would no longer receive any payments. It very often happens that a veteran when appealing without securing advice, has had his compension reduced instead of increased.

Further information may be secured by writing the local service officer.

PRIMOS STRESSES ENERGY IN BREAD

Value As Food Pointed Out By Owner Of Electrick Maid Shop

G. K. Primos, owner and operator of the Electrik Maid Bake Shop, 404 DeSiard street, issues a statement concerning the value of bread as an energy food, and announces that a copy of a book of recipes revealing new methods of serving bread and other baked wheat products will be given free to each person requesting a copy at his establishment.

The statement follows:

"Some people seem to get a great deal out of life. They have many interests, many pleasures. They have the vitality to enjoy life to the full. Vitality is enhanced by proper diet. The largest need of the diet is for endurance energy—and science now reveals that bread is our outstanding energy food.

"Bread supplies endurance energy, which is demanded for abundant vitality. The full scientific explanation of why bread is our outstanding energy food is given in a valuable free book, "Vitality Demands Energy," copies of which may be obtained from the Electrik Maid Bake Shop.

"This book suggests 109 fascinating new ways to serve bread and other baked wheat products. It gives clever new recipes and menus by Betty Crocker, well known cooking authority, and presents delightful new ideas for combining bread with other foods to make meals that are appetizing, and correctly balanced. Get your free copy of this book without delay.

"The books also tells the scientific explanation of why bread is our outstanding energy food, and offers pointers on how to choose a diet that will provide endurance energy, so important to vitality."

The Electrik Maid Bake Shop is one of a group of leading bakery concerns that are cooperating in an educational campaign through the advertising columns of the Morning World and News-Star.

MONROE BAKERIES

DISTRIBUTED IN EXPENSES DURING THE YEAR 1934

$359,550.10

Any industry that expends that amount of money in one year stamps it

ONE OF THE MOST IMPORTANT INDUSTRIES OF THE COMMUNITY

In order to give the people of Monroe a picture of the volume of business that is annually done by the bakeries of this city, the following figures are taken from the records of 1934, showing the cost of operating the combined plants of the local bakeries:

Material, including bread-making ingredients and wrapping cost	$166,698.00
Processing tax on flour	21,849.00
Payroll, for shop, office, operating, selling	97,929.00
Truck expense, covering repairs, supplies, and other upkeep	25,642.80
Taxes, for merchandise, machinery and buildings occupied by bakeries	6,512.40
Insurance, covering all phases of liability on bakery operation	6,694.84
Oven fuel, light, water and power	5,781.65
Donations to charity and charity organizations	1,368.09
Advertising, newspaper and all other mediums	4,363.29
Repairs and renewals to bakeries	6,991.29
Express on material and equipment	1,184.49
Depreciation on equipment	15,213.69
TOTAL	$359,550.10

THESE figures offer a valid reason for asking public cooperation in keeping intact an important industry like that of the bakery business in this city. The bakeries are making a constantly increasing investment in this community—because they believe in our city and are doing their part to promote its welfare.

THE figures above indicate something of the huge volume of business that is done by these bakeries every year. Because of this volume they are able to buy materials in large quantities at prices that permit them to make bread much better and much cheaper than it can be done by the housewife in the home.

THEY are shouldering more than a fair share of the responsibility in helping to create better living conditions through creating employment and establishing a high standard of working conditions. They are doing more than their part in aiding charity to a greater extent than any other food industry.

SCIENTIFIC and modern sanitary methods of baking permit Monroe bakers to produce bread at a lower price than any other similar food product. The public should not be mislead by campaign advertising extolling the qualities of bran, a husk unusable in flour, containing a minimum of energy value, which with little added ingredients is being sold at a price twice the price of a similar quantity of bread.

THE bakeries of Monroe are producing a quality product at the lowest price that is possible if the standard is to be maintained and the bakeries continue to exist. Any reduction in the price would entail the production of an inferior quality of bread or the destruction of an industry which the figures given herewith show to be one of the largest and most important in this area.

THE public is urged to investigate the claims of food faddists and quacks who erroneously advise against the use of white bread in the diet. Reliable physicians and dieticians the world over as well as in our own community have shown that bread is an energy producing food, necessary in any diet.

Buy bread that you know is fresh—because it is delivered the day it is made to your grocer.

Observance Of National Music Week Reminds Us Love Of Music Is Universal

The merrie month of May when all nature is in tune and even the stars make harmony as they revolve in their spheres, is indeed the fitting time for observance of National Music week.

It has been said that one is scarcely sensible to fatigue while he marches to music. This no doubt explains the stirring music of war time and the beating of drums in time to marching feet. "Music is a universal language." It is an irresistible language. In associations, in memory, a snatch of a song or a few bars of a melody will create almost any emotion. That warm, pleading hymn, "Lead Kindly Light" came to be the symbol of the tragedy of Preisdent McKinley to the last generation. It was his favorite hymn; a nation listened to its somber tones at his funeral. When the Titanic sank, another hymn achieved a new memory and a new immortality to a new generation. The ship's band playing "Nearer My God to Thee" as the great ship lowered slowly into the icy waters of the Atlantic made it an eternal musical symbol of the greatest marine tragedy of modern times.

"Tipperary" to all England and "Over There" to Americans have an eloquence in reviving war memories that words can never achieve. The rousing, vibrant qualities of "John Brown's Body" is one expression of the militant, marching spirit. "Onward Christian Soldiers" is still another, different in mood somewhat. As a few bars of music they express a feeling that might not be achieved in pages of dialogue. Behind the swinging rhythm of "East Side, West Side" who fails to see the face of Al Smith? Who fails to see the drunk in the melody of "How Dry I Am?" People believe that Roosevelt was elected on the strength of "Happy Days Are Here Again." Exaltation and jubilation and deep religious fervor is reflected in Stainer's glorious masterpiece "The Crucifixion."

Music will vibrate in every corner of this city during observance of National Music week. Rousing choruses, plaintive organ music, brilliant recitals, musical comedies, will round out one of the most complete programs ever presented in this city.

The week's activities will be climaxed by announcement of the winners in the Louisiana Federated Music Clubs contest over the radio at 5:45 p. m.

Marriage Of Miss Ferguson And Mr. Davis Will Be Lovely Event Of The Month Of June

An announcement of a prominent nuptial event in which the interest of friends in this section of the state is centered, follows:

The wedding to take place the latter part of June.

Miss Ferguson, a young woman of distinctive personality and a general favorite in this city where she was born and reared, is one of the loveliest members of Monroe's younger social world. She was graduated from the Monroe high school and Sophie Newcomb college, New Orleans. Miss Ferguson is a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority and the Monroe chapter Pan Hellenic society.

LITTLE THEATER NOTES

On Tuesday, May 14, at the Central Grammar school auditorium, the Little Theater of Monroe will present "Hay Fever," a decidedly clever and sophisticated play by Noel Coward.

It is always fascinating to play with titles, and "Hay Fever," because of what the name implies, may deceive you a bit. We can assure you that there are no sneezes in it, and whether we have interpreted its meaning correctly or not, remains for Noel Coward to tell us.

We do know, however, that hay fever, in reality, is a most annoying affliction that occurs in the spring, and certainly the Bliss family is annoyed individually and collectively, when each member casually announces that he has invited a guest for the week-end, and there is only one guest room!

Judith Bliss, the mother, is a retired actress to whom all the world is literally a stage. David, her husband, is a novelist, and Simon and Sorel, their ill-mannered children. Judith invites as her guest a youth who has been smitten with her celebrated actress glamour; David asks a flapper, a type he wishes to study for a novel; Sorel, a suave, middle-aged diplomatist, and Simon, a woman of the world. The outcome of the situation is most amusing, with Clara, Judith's dresser, the only maid that this ultra-Bohemian family has ever been able to keep, doing all the work.

The characters of the play are: Judith Bliss, Lallage Feazel; David, her husband, Herman Chapman; Simon, their son, James Cavaness; Sorel, their daughter, Edith Townes; Sandy Tyrell, an infatuated youth, Hammond Worrell; Jackie Coryton, a flapper, Sitty McNeil; Myra Arundel, a worldly woman, Cora Mae Calder; Richard Greatham, a diplomatist, John Daniel; Clara, Judith's dresser, Gladys Rhodes.

Black and White Holds Sway Morning, Noon and Night

By Adelaide Kerr
(Associated Press Fashion Editor)

PARIS—(AP)—Black and white is the "dernier cri" in springtime chic. The combination long loved by French women is smarter than ever this season and appears in every type of clothes for every hour of the day from luncheon to supper.

Navy blue and white are other fashionable twins, though they are less often seen after dark.

White collars and neck touches which appear on this year's crop of frocks are modern and distinctive. Flat little schoolgirl collars of white pique finished with small neat bows, organdy collars which curl out from the throat like the petals of a flower, star-shaped linen collars, "paper" collars made of a new glazed linen cutout to resemble lace and even white rubber jabots are all seen.

Capes Are White, Too

White hats are shown by the most important designers and fashion experts predict their vogue will be great when warm days appear. Some of them are flat-crowned, narrow-brimmed affairs with dark veils floating off behind, others are small toques covered with white flower petals. A cluster of white flowers finishes many black hats.

The vogue for black and white goes on by night. Crisp black taffetas splashed with white dots or flowers fashion evening frocks, black dinner suits are topped by white jackets and white evening gowns are accompanied by sheer black tulle capes.

Musical Play 'Bon Voyage' To Be Presented

Considerable interest is manifested by the public generally over the presentation of the sparkling musical comedy, "Bon Voyage," at the Neville high school auditorium Wednesday night under the direction of Mrs. Minnie Ruffin and Miss Beryl Madison.

The public is requested to bear in mind that this musical will be in the form of a benefit and are requested to put forth every effort to be present. The proceeds will be devoted to the fund for the beautiful concert grand piano placed in the auditorium and at the disposal of the entire city.

Blanche Oliver, writer, composer, and dramatic entertainer, was inspired to write the following lines in regard to the piano fund:

In the Neville auditorium,
That's big as an emporium,
A lovely piano sits upon the stage,
That was bought for all the city,
And the theme of my poor ditty
Is—that piano must be freed from its mort-gage!

Now the music clubs they proferred
All the help that could be offered,
But a lack of ready cash has been their curse,
And for culture we are striving
Ev'ry day to keep arriving,
And not to let ourselves run in reverse.

Here's your chance—we beg you take it,
For that payment—we must make it;
Don't forget—that piano, it was bought for you,
So on Wednesday night at eight,
Come to Neville—don't be late,
To the operetta "Bon Voyage"—please do!

Mrs. J. T. McMaster of McComb, Miss., is spending the week-end in Monroe as guest of her sister, Mrs. George Ratchford, and brother, J. E. Thomas.

Month Of May Dedicated To Child Health

May day may have been a day of communist parades, of labor rallies, or flower baskets hung on door handles, or it may have been just another first of the month with a new leaf on the calendar and a sheaf of bills in the mail. But to those who value the well-being of children—and what American does not?—it was a day dedicated to child health.

No more babies strangled to death by the thick gray membrance of diphtheria in their throats, no more children tossing feverishly with aching throats in their struggle to throw off the poison of the diphtheria germ—in short, no more diphtheria is the aim this year of the groups that sponsor May day as child health day.

The means of accomplishing this aim are at hand. The prick of a hypodermic needle, one or two doses of safe and potent toxoid injected into the arm or leg of a susceptible child or baby, and lasting protection against diphtheria is gained.

"Immunize Now—Stamp Out Diphtheria" is the slogan. What does it mean? It means that in a little over fifty years ago two scientists, Klebs and Loeffler, discovered the diphtheria germ and grew it on artifical food mediums; that shortly after, Von Behring in Germany and Roux in Paris developed antitoxin, the antidote to the poison of the diphtheria germ; that since then there have been developed a test (the Schick test) for telling whether or not a child is susceptible to diphtheria, and two substances, toxin-antitoxin, more recently, toxoid, for giving susceptible children resistance to the disease.

Diphtheria can be wiped out completely, health and medical authorities state. In some localities the goal is already in sight. The American Child Health association started its final drive to victory on the first of May this year.

Enpassant

The paintings of Mrs. Virginia Thurman Cole, of Columbus, Ohio, will be on view in the Herbert Levy studio, North Third street, corner of Jefferson street, today between 3 and 5 o'clock. The public is invited to attend the exhibition. Fourteen canvasses, including Louisiana and Cape Cod landscapes, in addition to portrait and character studies, are included in the showing.

Miss Kay Powell completed a visit of several weeks with Miss Florence Ziegler and returned to her home in Chicago Friday night. Miss Powell delighted Monroe audiences with her beautiful mezzo-soprano voice and charming dramatic ability on several occasions and also appeared as guest artist on the Shreveport Women's Department club program and as soloist for the Shreveport Symphony orchestra.

Mrs. R. C. Boswell and daughter, Martha Jean of Bristol, Virginia, are guests of Mrs. Boswell's father, Judge Charles Schulze, and sisters, Mrs. Clyde Sanders and Mrs. Fred Culpepper.

Mrs. Louis Hullum, state president of the Louisiana Federation of Music Clubs, returned home Friday from Philadelphia, Penn., where she attended the nineteenth biennial convention and American Music festival of the National Federation of Music Clubs.

Mrs. A. N. Robinson and son Bert of Norwood, Penn., are guests in the home of Mrs. Robinson's mother, Mrs. Harry Russell, Sr. Mrs. Robinson is affectionately remembered here as Miss Virginia Russell.

Noble Work Is Being Carried On By Group Of Women Under St. Francis Auxiliary Banner

The annual observance in this city of National Hospital day reminds us that a great work is being carried on in Monroe at St. Francis sanitarium where a children's free ward is being conducted by members of the St. Francis auxiliary. With the advent of National Hospital day it is well to bear in mind that every donation made on this day goes toward the maintenance of this ward without which dire distress would exist in countless homes in Monroe. Children are cared for free of charge in this ward . . . they are given excellent care, expert medical attention, and nursed back to health by the loving ministrations of St. Francis nurses and the band of noble women known as St. Francis auxiliary members. Mrs. Lizzie Morris is the guiding spirit in this great work. She is just as much an angel of mercy to these suffering children in the free ward as Florence Nightingale was to the wounded soldiers of the Crimean war.

In the face of great emergencies great souls arise to meet them. Thus it was with Florence Nightingale in the long ago and thus it is with the St. Francis Auxiliary in this city today. National Hospital day is dedicated to the memory of Florence Nightingale.

All along the track of the centuries, far before the coming of Christ, the hospital, in some form, existed. One of these was the "House of Sorrow," for the sick and injured, in Ireland three centuries before the appearance of the star over Bethlehem. Hospitals were maintained by the rulers of India, Persia and Arabia before Christian civilization blessed the world. Several of the hospitals in London are centuries old. The oldest is St. Bartholomew, founded between 1128 and 1133 A. D. The famous St. Thomas has been there since 1215, and there are others almost as ancient. What is said to be the oldest hospital now in operation in the world is the Hotel Dieu, in Paris. It was founded in 660 A. D.

The oldest hospital now in existence in the United States is the Pennsylvania hospital, which was established more than 180 years ago, and grew out of the medical work done at the Philadelphia alms house, that was begun twenty years before. The City hospital of New Orleans was endowed in 1780, and the New York hospital was founded nine years prior to that date.

Speaking in round numbers, it is estimated that there are seven thousand hospitals in the United States, with nearly one million beds, and the average number of patients about eight hundred thousand. There are said to be at least ninety thousand physicians regularly connected with these hospitals. There are more than one hundred thousand graduate nurses in this country.

The public is cordially invited to visit St. Francis sanitarium next Sunday at which time open house will be observed. Every department will be thrown open for inspection and a festive atmosphere will be created by the myriad blossoms that usually flood the corridors and parlors sent by loving friends and business associates.

We've been selecting clothes for graduates' frocks for years and we know what they like. This year our collection of graduation frocks is the most beautiful we've ever shown. Dainty mousseline de soies and embroidered organdies are either plain and tailored or have a dash of sophistication that young folks like. Parents are pleased with the low prices which are indeed exceptional for such quality.

OMAHA WINS KENTUCKY DERBY, ROMAN SOLDIER 2ND

WOODWARD STAR DUPLICATES FEAT OF FAMOUS SIRE

Son Of Gallant Fox Beats Roman Soldier By Length And A Half

By Alan Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

CHURCHILL DOWNS, May 4.—Gallant son of a gallant daddy, William Woodward's Omaha stretched his long legs comfortably today on the cold, rain-drenched surface of the historic downs oval and galloped to a smashing victory in the sixty-first Kentucky Derby.

While a thoroughly soaked but highly excited crowd of nearly 50,000 spectators roared their acclaim, the big, gangling chestnut colt administered a sound beating to 17 rival 3-year-olds, including the crack filly favorite, Nellie Flag, and duplicated the triumph of his famous sire, Gallant Fox, the winner of the 1930 derby for the New York banker, whose colors Omaha also carried this afternoon.

Running with much the same confidence his daddy showed five years ago, Omaha steered clear of the early jam, took command on the back stretch and never was seriously menaced in the long stretch drive despite a game finish of the powerful black colt, Roman Soldier, the Texas Derby winner.

A length and a half separated Omaha and Roman Soldier at the finish with an outsider, Whiskolo, hanging on to take third money. Whiskolo was four lengths behind Roman Soldier, but a length and a half in front of Nellie Flag, the capricious filly which suffered from early interference and barely took fourth money, by a head, from Blackbirder.

The rest of the big field was well scattered, with most of the heavily played choices nowhere. Plat Eye, after setting the pace for a half mile, finished eighth. Commonwealth, supposed to be at home in the somewhat slippery going, was tenth and Today, C. V. Whitney's erstwhile favorite, finished twelfth after weakening badly in the stretch. Col. E. R. Bradley's Boxthorn, the hope of the "hard-boots" and rated a strong contender, never was in the contention and finished 16th, beating only St. Bernard and Weston.

It was a dismal, cheerless day, with a crowd of disappointing proportions shivering in the coldest weather the derby has experienced in a blue moon, but it was a grand victory for Omaha and the colors of William Woodward's Belair stud.

On the track where the great Earl Sande rode Gallant Fox to triumph five years ago, "Wee Willie" Saunders of Bozeman, Montana, piloted the Fox's son to victory with all the finesse and resourcefulness of a veteran, instead of a youngster getting the thrill of his first derby conquest.

The outcome wrote new derby history. Omaha is the third son of a derby winner to capture the blue ribbon prize of old Kentucky, but the span of five years in which the latest father and son victory has been achieved is a new record. Seven years separated the first pair, Halma in 1895 and Alan-a-Dale in 1902. The triumph of two of the Bradley stars, Bubbling Over and Burgoo King, were six years apart, 1926 and 1932.

Second choice in the betting at 4 to 1, Omaha paid $10 to win for each $2 ticket in the mutuels, as well as $5 to place and $3.80 to show. The sturdy son of Gallant Fox and Bambino, winner of only $3,850 as a two-year-old, collected $39,525 net for his first 3-year-old conquest. The race carried a gross value of $49,950, of which $6,000 went to Roman Soldier, $3,000 to Whiskolo and $1,000 to Nellie Flag.

Roman Soldier, backed so heavily that the black colt went to the barrier third choice, returned $6.40 to place and $4.20 to show in the mutuels. Whiskolo's show price was $3.40.

Interference at two early stages of the race proved costly to the chances of Nellie Flag, the temperamental filly which displaced Today as the derby favorite over night after it developed the popular C. V. Whitney colt had pulled up a trifle lame, with a heel bruise. Nellie would have returned only $3.80 on the dollar if she had shown the way home to her gentleman rivals, but she was never able to gain a contending position after being bumped around impolitely at the start.

It was no day for ceremony, anyway, and the colts showed no disposition to adopt chivalrous methods and "see Nellie home" the way they did the filly's dam, Nellie Morse, in the 1924 Preakness. Nellie Flag suffered sharp interference from Plat Eye carrying the colors of Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stable, soon after the start as the big field seemed almost to converge, funnellike, for the first run down the stretch.

The Calumet miss again was impeded, rounding the first turn, and Jockey Eddie Arcaro was unable to get his charge out of close quarters until the last quarter. It was then too late for Nellie to do anything about the situation, with Omaha winging along fully seven lengths in front of her, but she finished gamely to land the last money position.

Whether or not Today suffered the effects of his foot injury, the result of either kicking or stepping on some object in yesterday's workout, the ill-fated Whitney entry never showed anything like the form that carried him to triumph a week ago in the Wood Memorial at Jamaica track. Today started well, escaping interference, but began to fade on the back stretch and weakened badly in the stretch, finishing a full brassie shot behind Omaha.

WINNER OF 61ST KENTUCKY DERBY

Omaha, sturdy son of Gallant Fox, captured the 61st renewal of the Kentucky derby before 50,000 spectators at Churchill Downs yesterday, beating Roman Soldier by a length and a half. Whiskolo was third with Nellie Flag, favored filly, fourth.

LAKESIDE MEET REACHES FINALS

Three flight finals were completed yesterday in Lakeside Country club's annual spring handicap golf tournament, with H. G. Frazer, A. B. Clarkson and Dr. R. T. Harberson victorious.

Frazer defeated Wesley Shafto, 1 up in 36 holes of play to capture second flight honors. Shafto turned the 27th hole five down and made a great comeback but fell short of halving the match by one hole. Shafto shot a 79 and Frazer turned in a 90.

Dr. Harberson won the third flight championship by defeating Bobby Oliver, 2 and 1, in another close match. Harberson made an 80 and young Oliver turned in an 84.

Clarkson and Boardman waged another close battle in the fifth flight finals, with Clarkson finally winning, 2 and 1. Clarkson's medal score was 89 and Boardman shot an 87.

H. K. Touchstone and C. S. Foster will play their final match for the first flight prize today. The winner of this match will play Frazer, and Harberson will meet C. W. Wallace, winner of the fourth flight, to decide who will play in the 36 hole finals for the grand prize.

EVANGELINE LEAGUE

(By Associated Press)

Lake Charles continued its winning streak yesterday, defeating the Alexandria Aces, 7 to 4, to hold on to its league leadership in the Evangeline league. The game was featured by Marnoch's sixth homer of the season.

In other fields, Abbeville scalped Opelousas, 7 to 0, under the steady pitching of Hilliam, new addition to the Athletics. He allowed six hits, well scattered. The Rayne Rice Birds downed the New Iberia Red Birds, 8 to 2, and Jeanerette defeated Lafayette 9 to 8 in one of the most exciting games played on the home turf at Lafayette since the opening of the season.

HEMSLEY LEADS IN JUNIOR LOOP

CHICAGO, May 4. (AP)—Rollie Hemsley, the St. Louis Browns' catcher, who set a lot of pace for American league batsmen early last season, is back at it again.

Hemsley went on a rampage last week, which, according to averages including Thursday's games, netted him a gain of 123 points and the lead among the regulars at .390. He went to bat eleven times during the splurge and knocked out eight hits. Jimmy Foxx, of the Athletics, remained in second place with .388, ten points higher than his last week's mark. Last week's leader, Bill Werber of Boston, slipped way down the list, falling from .395 to .296.

Zeke Bonura, Chicago White Sox first baseman, retained the leadership in the home run derby, hitting one long one to give him six for the season. He also held on as the scoring leader with 18 runs, and was tied with Bob Johnson of the Athletics, for runs batted in honors at 16.

Johnson connected safely nine times to take the lead in base hits away from Jackie Hayes of the White Sox, with 22. The other individual leaders were: two base hits, Vernon Washington, White Sox, seven; stolen bases, Odell Hale, Cleveland, five, and three base hits, Joe Cronin, Boston, three.

Other ranking regulars in batting were: Johnson, Philadelphia, .386; Hayes, Chicago, .386; Lou Finney, Philadelphia, .364; Bonura, Chicago, .360; Charley Gehringer, Detroit, .350; Earl Averill, Cleveland, .347; Joe Vosmik, Cleveland, .346, and Jack Burns, St. Louis, .343.

Two veterans, Willis Hudlin of Cleveland, and Bump Hadley of Washington, and a recruit, John Whitehead of the White Sox, stood at the head of the class in pitching. Each won one decision during the week to make it three straight for the campaign. Tommy Bridges of the champion Detroit Tigers, passed Buck Newsom of St. Louis in the strike-out battle, leading with 19.

Chicago topped the league in both team batting and fielding. In hitting, the Sox slipped from .305 to .299, but had an advantage of eleven points over the Athletics. A fielding mark of .983 was just enough to nose out Cleveland its .982. The Indians also had turned in the prize collection of double plays, 17.

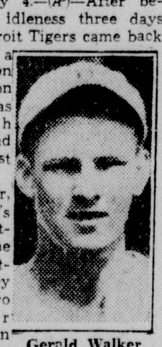
Gerald Walker Leads Attack On Wes Ferrell And Two Others

DETROIT, May 4.—(AP)—After being rained into idleness three days running, the Detroit Tigers came back today to rap out a 5 to 2 decision over the Boston Red Sox. It was Detroit's fourth straight win and its first test against an eastern foe.



Gerald Walker

Gerald Walker, Mickey Cochrane's hard-hitting outfielder, paced the Detroit's 11-hit attack on Wesley Ferrell with two doubles in four trips, driving in two runs and scoring one himself.

Little Joe Sullivan, the rookie left-hander from Hollywood, went the route for Detroit to win his second game in three starts, limiting the Sox to eight scattered blows.

Sullivan weakened temporarily in the fifth and walked a man with the sacks full to give Boston its first score, with one out in the fifth Solters singled. Almada hit safely through the box, and Dahlgren was given a free trip to fill the bases when Sullivan hit him on the arm. The young southpaw walked Wes Ferrell to force Solters in from third.

Wes Ferrell opened the eighth with a single and was lifted for Pinch-Runner Legett. The latter reached third on a double by Werber and scored while Gehringer was tossing out Roy Johnson. Hockette finished on the hill for Boston.

Walker's first double and Owen's single gave Detroit a tally in the second, and another in the third when Cochrane singled and counted on Gehringer's double. Two more crossed the plate in the fifth on singles by Gehringer and Rogell and Walker's second double. Goslin doubled in the seventh to score Rogell who was on with a single.

CLEVELAND, May 4.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics reached out of the American league basement today

Junior Twilight League To Hold Meeting Monday

Final arrangements for the opening of the Junior Twilight Softball league's season will be made tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock at a meeting of the various clubs in the Recreation office in the city hall.

Seven teams have already joined the league and it is probable that others may join the circuit tomorrow. Playing is expected to get underway by the middle of the week.

Right Is Might, Say Cleveland Fans

CLEVELAND, May 4.—(AP)—Four husky young right-handers have started the season with such a stream of steady pitching performances that already fans of the Indians are rating them as one of the standout slab quartets of modern baseball.

As the Indians warwhooped into first place in the opening fortnight of American league warfare the quartet of Mel Harder, Oral Hildebrand, Monte Pearson and Willis Hudlin mowed down the opposition relentlessly. Hudlin and Harden hurled three and five-hit winners, respectively. Hildy won a 14-inning grind allowing but nine bingles, and Pearson performed equally impressively in a 13-inning battle, though losing.

All members of this quartet are big enough and young enough to be good for a full season of frequent duty. They accounted for 64 of Cleveland's 85 victories in 1934. Hildebrand, former Butler university basketball ace from Southport, Ind., is 28, stands 6 feet 1 1-2 inches, weighs 174. He won 11, dropped 9, last year.

Harder, who won greatest fame by his brilliant work in the all-star game last summer, went on to a fine record of 20 wins and 12 losses. He hails from Beemer, Neb., is 25, stands 6-1 and weighs 170.

Hudlin, a Wagoner, Okla., product, is only 28, but has been flinging for the Tribe since 1926. He's an even 6 feet and tips the beam at 190. Won 15, lost 10 last year.

Pearson hails from Fresno, Cal., stands 6 feet and weighs 170, won 18 and lost 13 in '34. He's 25.

Clint and Lloyd Brown, the latter a lefty, do most of the infrequent relief work when this "big four" gets tired.

Jonesboro School Ends Spring Football Work

JONESBORO, La., May 4.—(Special)—Coach Charlie Pattison of the Jonesboro high school ended the spring football practice this week. The loss of fifteen lettermen, of which eight held regular positions on the 1934 team, makes the outlook seem gloomy for next season.

Most of the six weeks training has been spent on fundamentals and dummy scrimmage. The team next year will be light but fast, and a new type of offense will be introduced by Coaches Pattison and Baker. Lettermen returning will be Fowler, fullback; Autrey, tackle; Jones, center; Holland, guard; Watson and Tolar, ends.

HARVARD TRACKMEN WIN

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 4.—(AP)—Harvard's powerful track team rolled up a total of 75 2-3 points in a dual meet with Princeton at the Harvard stadium today to defeat the invading Tigers who had a total of 59 1-3 points.

LEADING BATTERS

(By Associated Press)

Jimmie Foxx turned in a remarkable hitting feat yesterday, connecting for four hits including his sixth home run, in four official times at bat and scoring five runs. But he couldn't capture the lead in the Big Six or even the American League as he raised his average 46 points to .434. Gerald Walker of Detroit, who hadn't been considered a "regular" finally forced recognition as two hits in four times up brought his average to .516. Arky Vaughan with two blows out of four, moved up four points in the National League group to pass Shanty Hogan, who was kept idle by an injury. Standing:

Vidalia Meets Ferriday Ball Club Again Today

VIDALIA May 4.—(Special)—Ferriday and Vidalia will meet at the Vidalia high school baseball diamond Sunday afternoon in the second game of a series of contests for the championship of Concordia parish. The initial tilt of the year, played last Sunday in Vidalia, went to the Ferriday club by a one-run margin and Vidalia will be out to even the count this Sunday.

The same two hurlers who engaged in a good hurling duel on the mound in the inaugural contest, will again oppose each other. Joe Holladay, former right-hander from Copiah-Lincoln Junior college, Wesson, Miss., will tie up with elongated Murdock Stanley, a Vidalia high school product.

Only home-town players are being used this season by the two teams and the fans are being urged to support the clubs. The Ferriday park is being placed in repair and games will soon be played there. While the Ferriday park is being improved all of the games will be played on the Vidalia lot.

WALKER ALLOWS BUT 3 HITS AND BLANKS BRAVES

Cardinals Score All Their Runs Off Cantwell In Seventh

BOSTON, May 4.—(AP)—Bill Walker, slim left hander of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, pitched a fine three-hit game today and led the way to a 3 to 0 victory over the Braves in the delayed series opener.

Bill Walker

Chalking up his second triumph of the season, Walker allowed only one man to get beyond first base and that was the result of an accident in which the hurler had no part. Jack Rothrock tried to make a shoestring catch of Joe Coscarart's pop fly in the fifth and Coscarart, playing third in place of Pinky Whitney who is ill, got around to the far corner.

After that freak blow Les Mallon reached first when Jim Collins dropped Walker's throw but the pitcher showed his mettle by forcing Al Spohrer to pop up weakly, fanning Ben Cantwell and retiring Bill Urbanski on a fly.

The game started out as a battle between Walker and Cantwell but the pitching duel broke wide open in the seventh when the Cards combined four of their nine hits with an error by Babe Ruth for all three runs.

Frank Hogan, Boston catcher and league leading hitter, discovered before the game that he had broken a finger on his right hand on a foul tip in last Monday's game with the Phillies. He will be out of the game for about ten days.

BLANTON WINS FOURTH

BROOKLYN, May 4.—(AP)—Pittsburgh's pair of aces, Darrell Elijah (Cy) Blanton and Floyd (Arky) Vaughan, got together to produce a 1 to 0 victory over the Dodgers today and even the series at one all.

Blanton turned in another brilliant mound performance for his fourth straight hurling triumph, allowing only three hits and fanning six. Vaughan ruined old Tom Zachary's side of the pitching duel by belting his fourth home run of the season on the first pitch of the ninth inning.

White Sox Soar On Whitehead's Sidearm Sinker

By Harry Grayson
(NEA Service Sports Editor)

CHICAGO, May 4.—The Black Sox of 1919 and '20 practically blacked out Chicago as far as the class of American league baseball went.

That attendance has been even as good as it was, seems a remarkable tribute to the good citizens of the big city on the lake front and the stockyards clientele which dates back to the hitless wonders of 1906 and beyond. Chicago always has been an American league town.

The Chicago management failed to keep stride with the times. It had no farm clubs nor elaborate scouting system. Things went from bad to worse. Seventh and eighth became the customary niche in the standings column. Lou Fonseca created a mild sensation by piloting the outfit to the sixth slot in 1933.

Sox recruits in spring training camps looked more like ribbon clerks than ball players—until this spring.

Then, from nowhere, apparently, came a corps of peagreens which such a good judge as Al Simmons called the best that has reported to a ball club in years.

There were the young pitchers, Johnny Whitehead, Les Tietje, Joe Vance, Vernon Kennedy, Lee Stine, Dungan Rigney and Monty Stratton, and the robust outfielders, Vernon George Washington, Ray Radcliff and Daniel Hafey, nephew of the redoubtable Chick.

Stine, Rigney and Stratton have been sent out, but both Jimmy Dykes and Simmons predict that all three will be back to remain for some length of time.

Farm Boy Makes Good

There is a good story in connection with each player who has lent a hand in the remaking of the White Sox, but the most interesting one has to do with John Henderson Whitehead, a right-hander of 200 pounds and 6 feet 2 inches.

Dykes and Simmons expect the 25-year-old Whitehead to take his place among the great pitchers of the game.

Whitehead made the Pirates and Cubs throw their bats away in exhibition games. He broke into the American league with a bang, letting the champion Detroit Tigers down once with six hits and again with three, and repelling St. Louis with seven.

Whitehead saw his first major league game when the White Sox opened in Detroit.

Both Whitehead and Washington hail from the northeastern part of Texas. Whitehead was raised on his father's farm near Ector, 90 miles from Dallas, and still makes his home there.

Whitehead was a catcher until his high school team was being beaten one afternoon. Then he turned pitcher "to get the other side out," and has been at it ever since.

Roy Leslie, former minor league first baseman, saw him in a country game at Wolf City, Texas, in the fall of 1931, and told him that he was wasting his time in the bushes. Leslie took him to Hap Morse, who then managed the Dallas club of the Texas league, and he finished the season there.

Whitehead beat Schoolboy Rowe, then with Beaumont, twice in 1932, and finished with 12 victories and 4 defeats after being employed as a relief worker for the first half of the campaign. He won 16 games and lost 12 in 1933 and came into his own last season with 20 victories and 9 defeats.

Pitches Like Idols

Whitehead's boyhood idols were Walter Johnson and Grover Cleveland Alexander, and he throws with the same sidearm and easy motion of that illustrious pair. The big boy who until four years ago was threshing grain, shucking corn and picking cotton, also throws over and underhanded.

Whitehead has the speed with which to blow down major league batsmen, a sidearm sinker, an excellent change of pace, and an even disposition.

The current season is a glorious adventure to the large farm boy. Prior to going to Pasadena, Calif., to join the White Sox this spring, he had been out of Texas league territory only once—on a trip to Mexico City for post-season exhibition games.

"I'm having more fun playing ball this season than I have had since I broke in," says the veteran Simmons. "After what I've been through with the White Sox for two years it's a treat to be on a club that has a pitcher like Whitehead to toss in there every fourth day.

"The other clubs had better get used to the young man. Barring accidents, they'll see a lot of him for the next 10 years."

The End.

Folk Dances Of Great Charm To Be Seen Here

Always on the alert to present something of educational advantage to the community, the P.-T. A.'s of Monroe and West Monroe are presenting Marietta Johnson of the school of organic education to the public. Three years ago Mrs. Johnson was here under the auspices of the council and gave a most interesting description of her school in Fairhope, Ala., and explanation of the methods being used to carry out her theories of the educational growth of the child.

Mrs. Johnson will present pupils of her high school in English folk dances, directed by Mr. P. A. Frederick in charge of the Folk Dancing Department of the physical education program of the Fairhope school. The folk dance music, which has been the chief cause of the revival of the dances among English-speaking people, is played by Mrs. Augusta Mageean, whose skill in the interpretation of folk music is extraordinary.

Cecil Sharp, English musician, is responsible for the collection in recent years of the music and dances used in the development of the people of England in the past several hundred years. Mr. Sharp's first interest was music, but in his research he found that dancing was so interwoven with the old folk music that he decided to include descriptions of the dances of the people with the music. Two of the dances were found to have traveled to America and were being used by the mountain people of Kentucky in their holiday festivals. Mr. Sharp had been unable to find them in any part of England. The work of Mr. Sharp has been made permanent by the preservation of the music and dances collected in the British museum.

This charming program will be given at Neville Hi auditorium Monday evening at 8:15 o'clock. The program will present a very fine interpretation of English culture in the serious Morris dances, the festive country and sword dances, and the dances depicting the industrial life of the people.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Ned H. Easterling will regret to learn of their departure for Phoenix, Ariz., where Mr. Easterling has accepted a position as manager of a store. Mrs. Easterling and small son will visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Goldsmith, at Bastrop before joining Mr. Easterling in Arizona.

Miss Mary Nell Carlyle, a representative of Camp Carlyle, Hendersonville, N. C., is the attractive guest of Miss Martha Jane Hill in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bridger Thornhill on St. John drive.

CHAPTER VII

Millicent's nerves had suffered too many shocks that day. This was the last straw. She wanted to scream, wanted to fling herself on the bed and break into tears. Instead, however, she faced the steady, blue eyes of the young man and said in a voice whose casual calmness amazed her, "Will you kindly tell me who you are, and just what you're talking about?"

"I'm Robert Caise," he said. "You're the new secretary Jarvis hired, aren't you?"

"Yes," she said, "and the fact that you're Robert Caise doesn't give you any excuse to come breaking into my room in this manner, and as far as your talk about murder and a notebook is concerned, I don't know what you're driving at."

Caise looked at her with a speculative frown. His eyes were defiant, challenging. His mouth was somewhat petulant.

"Perhaps," he said, "you're telling the truth, but I'd bet money Jarvis was working on the Drimgold case, and when he brought you home with him . . ."

His voice trailed off into speculative silence.

"Say," he said, "that could be a black wig, you know. Or you could have dyed your hair and . . ."

Once more he became silent, in the midst of a sentence, took two swift steps toward her.

Millicent drew back her hand.

"Get out," she said, "or I'll claw the skin from your face."

"No," he said slowly, almost judicially, staring at her, "it wouldn't be the skin of a blond."

Abruptly he smiled and the smile transformed his countenance. He seemed to have lost all the surliness of his manner.

"Frightfully sorry if I bothered you," he said, "but I knew I had to take you by surprise if I was going to find out anything."

She kept her dignity, but there was something disarming in the smiling friendliness of the young man.

"Come on," he pleaded, "snap out of it. If you're going to be secretary to Jarvis Happ, you're going to be in the house with me and there's no sense getting away to a bad start."

"Under those circumstances," she said coolly, "I think it would be best for you to leave the room at once."

"Not a bad idea, that," he agreed with smiling acquiescence. "After all, you know, the mater is frightfully strict, and she's got ideas . . . oh, you'll find it out in time."

He opened the door a crack, stood listening, then thrust a cautiously appraising head out into the carridor, turned and grinned at her.

"Coast's clear," he reported. "Your good name is still intact. I'll be formally introduced to you later. See that you don't let on you've seen me before. Au revoir."

He slipped out into the corridor, closed the door.

The door clicked shut.

Millicent faced it with a sinking sensation in her stomach, a feeling of perspiration oozing from every pore of her skin. Good heavens! What did the man know? What was she getting into? And, come to think of it, what had she done with that notebook? She remembered taking it from Drimgold's office. She must have had it with her when she went to the hotel. She remembered that she must put it in a safe place . . . yes, she had it now . . . she'd slid it in back of a shelf in the closet, then when she'd gone out in the morning she'd forgotten to take it with her. And now, what would happen? Would they find it?

Millicent Graves dropped into a chair, crossed her knees and started thinking the situation out.

She concluded that the notebook was safely hidden. It would be almost impossible for anyone to find it, unless they were making a careful search. Certain it was that the hotel employes, in cleaning up the room, would never stumble upon it.

A knock sounded on the door of the room.

Millicent clenched her hands.

"Who is it?" she asked.

The door opened. Millicent saw the butler and the chauffeur laden with boxes. Standing slightly to one side was a woman dressed in black, who surveyed Millicent with black, lackluster eyes and said, "I'm Mrs. Eaton, the housekeeper. There are clothes for you."

The men deposited the boxes on the bed and withdrew. Mrs. Eaton stayed behind, helping Millicent open the boxes, listening to her exclamations of delight as she saw the complete wardrobe which had been provided for her.

"The coast's clear," he reported. "See that you don't let on you've seen me before."

"How wonderfully complete," Millicent said. "There are dresses, gowns, lingerie—everything."

"Mr. Happ," Mrs. Eaton said in a tired, expressionless voice, "never forgets anything."

"But these evening gowns . . ."

"You will need them. You will dress for dinner. It's at 8. I was instructed to tell you that you will eat with the family, except when guests are present. When there are guests, you can either have your meals served in your room, or eat with the servants."

She surveyed Millicent and said, "I presume you'll have your meals in your room. And if you want some advice from me, don't let either one of the young men start making eyes at you. You're pretty and Master Robert never overlooks a pretty face or a pretty figure. You've got both. But his mother doesn't know what goes on in this house. She did fire the second maid, but none of us will ever know whether it was because she found out . . ."

"Really," Millicent said, "I'm not interested. I think if you'll excuse me I'll take a bath and clean up for dinner. You're sure that I'm to eat with the family?"

"Oh yes. It isn't as much of a privilege as you think, and there's company most of the time. Of course, they may invite you to eat when there's company, but that'll only be when it's some business acquaintance of Mr. Happ's. The rest of the time . . ."

Millicent got to her feet, smiled her thanks and dismissal.

"Thank you ever so much, Mrs. Eaton," she said.

The housekeeper sighed, paused at the door.

"Remember," she said, "I've been here a long time. I've seen them come and I've seen them go."

Much to Millicent's surprise, dinner proved to be a very agreeable affair, and at dinner she had an opportunity to see Mrs. Happ in an entirely different light. The woman had perfect poise, was ideally fitted to preside over a dinner table.

Jarvis Happ was very much in his element—sparkling, magnetic, witty. Robert Caise had a certain sullen air of defiance, as though he objected to the manner in which Jarvis Happ and Mrs. Happ enjoyed the semi-formality of the occasion. Norman Happ seemed to devote much of his attention to making certain that Millicent was placed at her ease. Whereas Robert Caise seemed to be far more selfish, interested more in the impression he was making, and from time to time Millicent caught him studying her surreptitiously.

Watching Mrs. Happ, Millicent realized that no matter what differences of opinion they might have, whenever Mrs. Happ seated herself at the table she would at once become the perfect hostess—a queen of the house, ruling with regal air.

When the meal was finished, Cynthia Happ tucked Millicent's arm through hers, and said, "Wouldn't you like to see the house?"

Without waiting for an answer she piloted Millicent through a series of rooms. Her manner was graciousness personified. She paused to comment on a tapestry here, a painting there, or, perhaps, an antique or some curio.

When they returned to the library she said, "And now I suppose Jarvis will want to tell you something about your duties, but, in the meantime, I want to tell you something about myself."

Millicent looked at her in perplexity.

"About yourself?" she asked.

"Yes," Mrs. Happ said, smiling, "if you listen to the gossip that runs around the servants' halls you will find that I'm a thoroughly selfish, unscrupulous, spoiled woman. Please remember that you're not to be treated here as a servant. You will be more like one of the family. And remember that it will be just as well for you to form your own conclusions about things rather than to listen to servants' gossip. You know one can only maintain discipline by keeping a certain underlying enmity alive. After all, you know, familiarity breeds contempt."

Millicent nodded.

"And now," she said, "I'm going to turn you over to Jarvis. I see that he wants to talk business with you and he has Dick Gentry with him."

Millicent turned to meet the smiling eyes of Jarvis Happ. Walking at his side was a man of approximately 45 years of age—a man who seemed faultlessly groomed. His hair was streaked with gray at the temples. He had a close-cropped mustache, quick, alert eyes, nose glasses with a prominent bridge.

Mr. Happ performed the introductions.

"Mr. Gentry," he exclaimed to Millicent, "is a business partner of mine. We have been carrying on joint operations together. They started as a side line and I've been letting Dick keep the books and attend to most of the details and correspondence. Now the business is getting too big to be treated as a side issue, so we're going to turn the books over to you. If you wouldn't mind going up to my study we'll follow you in a few moments and make some preliminary explanations—I believe my wife showed you the study."

"Oh yes," she said. "You wish me to go now?"

He nodded.

She turned and left the room, conscious of the eyes of Dick Gentry taking in every motion of her lithe body.

She entered the study and had barely closed the door when Robert Caise flung it open and rushed into the room, his eyes glittering with triumph.

"Now," he said, "I've got it."

"Got what?" she asked, irritation in her voice.

He whipped a photograph from his pocket.

"This," he said, "is a photograph of the Murder Girl."

Millicent Graves schooled herself to hold her face without expression as she stared at her own picture.

"Well," she said, "what about it?"

"Blonde, you see," said Caise, "but all that we have to do is touch up the hair and the complexion a little and we have this."

He whipped another photograph from his pocket, in which the hair had been colored with photographic oil paints, and the complexion of the skin had been made slightly darker.

She met the young man's triumphant grin.

"I might have known," he said, "that Jarvis would pull a fast one on Mom. I figured it out for myself and figured out just about what he'd do."

"I don't understand you," Millicent said, her voice strained.

"Oh, yes you do," he grinned. "Miss Millicent Graves—the Murder Girl."

HARDIN BETTERS WORLD MARK IN HURDLE FEATURE

BATON ROUGE, La., May 4. (AP)—Great athletes of the south and nation pattered at the doors of world record fame today in the Southern Amateur Athletic Union's annual track and field tournament but whether any forced entrance remained to be seen after official ruling upon recorded performances.

One world mark was declared bettered by Glenn "Slats" Hardin, Louisiana State start speedster and jumper, and another announced equalled by Al Moreau, crack Olympic aspirant hurdler from Marksville, La., but whether the feats will be officially recognized by the A.A.U. will depend upon whether cognizance will be taken of a breeze at the fliers backs.

Aided by the performances or Hardin, gigantic Jack Torrance, and other stars, Louisiana State university easily won the meet by the lopsided score of 91 1-2 points to 32 1-2 for Southwestern Louisiana institute, the next closest competitor.

Loyola of New Orleans was third with 24 points, Tulane next with 15 and Baker high school of Baker, La., next with 12 points.

Other points were scattered.

A flock of meet records were bettered.

A crowd of 5,000 saw Hardin run one of the finest races of his career to be clocked in 22.4 seconds in the 200 meter hurdles. Meet officials announced that his mark was better than the world record cited as 23 seconds.

His performance came after Moreau, former L.S.U. star, barely beat the olympic ace, Johnny Morriss of Lafayette, La., to the tape in the 110 meter hurdles in what was announced as world equalling time of 14.2.

The mercury-heeled Neugass was declared to have come within a tenth of a second of equalling the world record in the 100 meters with a speed of 10.4. He likewise turned in a 20.7 speed in the 200 meters.

The 303-pound Torrance, world shot-put champion, made a sweep of first place in the shot, hammer, discus and 56 pound weight. He set a new S.A.A.U. mark in the shot with 54 feet 5 inches.

Neugass beat S.A.A.U. records in both the 100 and 200 meters; Hardin in the 200 meter hurdles; Billy Utey of Loyola with 13 feet 7 5-8 inches in the pole vault; Roland Romero, Olympic star from Loyola in the broad jump with 24 feet 9 3-4 inches, and Duley Wilkins of Southwestern Louisiana in the hop, step and jump with 49 feet 9 inches.

Billy Brown, 16 year old Baker, La., high school prodigy, turned in great feats for his age in several leaping events, but the competition of older athletes was too much for him to win more than the high jump. He captured that at 6 feet, and jumped well over 24 feet in the broad jump.

800-meters—O'Neal and Gilmore, both of L.S.U., ran intentional dead heat but Gilmore disqualified for grasping O'Neal's hand, making O'Neal first; Generos Fortier high of New Orleans, second, and Johnson, S.L.I. third. Time: 1:57.6.

Hop, step and jump—First, Wilkins, S.L.I.; second, Romero, Loloya; third, Brown, Baker, La.; fourth, Blair, L.S.U. Distance: 49 feet, nine inches (new meet record).

THREE MEMBERS OF MONROE CLUB

America Faces Severe Test In 1936 Olympics

All-Round Strength Gives U. S. Margin Over Leading Challengers

By Conrad M. Jennings
Track Coach, Marquette University

America, in my opinion, will receive its severest challenge in the 1936 Olympic games next year in Berlin.

It was my privilege last summer to escort an all-star track and field team from the United States to Germany.

I had full opportunity to observe the lavish preparations being made for the games.

While playing host, Germany also will make its bid for the championship. There is no doubt in my mind, too, that keener competition than ever will be provided by Sweden, Japan, Finland, Canada, England, and Italy.

America should keep its unbeaten record intact, however.

No other nation will have the all-round strength to meet this country's team balance.

I believe that America's success in the games can be traced to its laws of compulsory education, whereby boys virtually are compelled to finish high school and many go on to college or university. Thus, a certain number of them become inoculated with the track germ at a comparatively early age.

America's supremacy hardly is due to radical characteristics. A roster of any of this country's Olympic squads will show men of many nationalities, removed only one, two or three generations from some foreign shore.

America has a fine nucleus for 1936 in stars of the past two or three years, and who now give promise of being in shape for the Berlin games—tried and true veterans like Jack Torrance, Ben Eastman, Glen Hardin, Ralph Metcalfe, Joe McCluskey, Charles Hornbostel, Glenn Cunningham, Percy Beard, Ivan Fuqua, Cornelius Johnson, Walter Marty, Keith Brown, Bud Deacon, Bill Graber, and Bill Bonthron, if the Princeton product chooses to remain in competition.

On the eve of an interesting outdoor campaign in this pre-Olympic year, you can scan the country and find boys who show great possibilities.

In the sprints, for instance, you hear of such performers as Jesse Owens, of Ohio State; Jimmy Owen, of Iowa; George Parsons and Foy Draper, of Southern California; Ben Johnson, of Columbia; Eulace Peacock, of Temple; Neugass, of Tulane; and Wollender, of Texas.

In the middle-distances, you must consider Jimmy Lu Valle, Al Blackman, Howard Green, Elton Brown, Edgar Ablowich, Abe Rosenkrantz, Johnny McCarthy, Jimmy Jessel, and Ross Bush.

America rarely has been strong, internationally, in distance runs, but competitors like Eears, Follows, Venzke, Crowley, Manning, Lash, Ottey, Porter, Zepp, and Mann will make their bids.

Hurdling names to watch include those of Sammy Allen, Good, Fischer, Fleming, Klopstock, Kirkpatrick, and Morriss, who wants to come back.

Torrance should have help in the weights from Dunn, Lyman, Theodoratus, Don Elser, Dreyer, Favor, Cruickshank, Jones, Zaremba, and Geniawicz, the Dartmouth sophomore.

Leading javelin hopes are Mottram, Le Gore, Parks, Blair, Odell, and Panther. Coming high-jumpers are Murphy, Threadgill, Burke and Thurber.

Pole vaulters to keep an eye on include Jefferson, Rand, Wonsowitz, Sefton, and Siebert.

Owens, Olson, Clark, and Meagher are most promising now among the broad-jumpers.

The decathlon situation isn't bright, but a new luminary may develop. Jim Bausch, the United States' splendid champion of 1932, is out of competition. My advice to all the boys is to look out for Hans Sievert, of Germany.

Unsung heroes of tomorrow are in our high schools and colleges. A lively track campaign this spring and summer, no doubt, will bring many of them to light.

Old-Time Hurling Star Will Be Buried Monday

ST. LOUIS, May 4.—(AP)—Funeral services will be held Monday for one of the greatest left-handed pitchers of all time, Theodore Breitenstein, 65, who died of heart disease last night.

Old-timers still recall the almost forgotten exploits of the southpaw who broke into baseball with the St. Louis Nationals, now the Browns, in 1892.

In twenty years, ten of them in the majors, he compiled a record of 302 games won and 256 lost, despite five years with a tail-end St. Louis team.

He was sold to Cincinnati in 1897 but after a remarkable season a "kink" developed in his arm and he was released to St. Louis for the 1900 and 1901 seasons. He pitched for Memphis the following two years and then went to New Orleans to finish his baseball career eight years later in 1911. With that team, he had his best season, winning 21 and losing five in 1905.

After ten years as a minor league umpire, "Breit" retired in 1921. During the past three years, he had been an employe of the St. Louis park department.

In Scramble For Ross' Abandoned Tiara

New York's commission has decided the winner of the May 10 Canzoneri-Ambers bout shall reign as lightweight champion. The Illinois commission insists that Klick, Locatelli and several others should be considered before any successor's to Chicago's Barney Ross, the abdicated ruler of the 135-pounders, is picked.

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP)—As has become quite customary , whenever there is opportunity for difference of official opinion regarding contendership to any of fistiana's various baubles, the New York and the Illinois boxing commissions again fail to see eye to eye—this time on the lightweight situation.

The New York group, which had been threatening to declare Barney Ross' lightweight title vacant in this state—because of non-defense—long before Barney voluntarily abandoned the crown as too tough a weight-making burden, has declared the May 10 match between Ex-Champion Tony Canzoneri and Lou Ambers of Herkimer, N. Y., as the official means of selecting its next lightweight champion.

But the Illinois moguls couldn't very enthusiastically watch the whole lightweight title situation thus slip so far away from their jurisdiction, especially after their boy Barney had ruled his class with such distinction.

So they announced the Ambers-Canzoneri fight would not decide the Ross successorship so far as Illinois was concerned. Instead it offered to approve a "tournament."

Canzoneri, always popular in Chicago, was ranked No. 1 on the Illinois tournament list, with Davey Day, Ross' personal nomination—and, besides, a Ross stablemate!—as second-ranker and Ambers, the Herkimer Hurricane, no better than third. Before Ross abdicated, the Illinois body had made Sammy Fuller its No. 1 challenger. And Ambers licked Fuller!

Meanwhile Cleto Locatelli, Italian champion in the 135-pound class, has begun to be more impressive after a pair of losing but well-fought battles with Canzoneri. One of his victims was Frankie Klick of San Francisco, who last summer earned a draw with Ross on the coast in a non-title go.

Locatelli and Klick, as well as Joe Ghnouly, of St. Louis, are among the Illinois eligibles.

Dearth Of Pitchers Seen As Possible Downfall Of Chicago Club

Guy Bush, Jim Weaver, Pat Malone and Bud Tinning are doing their chores on the mound for other teams than the Cubs this season. This quartette won 57 of the 86 victories chalked up by the Cubs last season, enabling them to finish in third place. In return for these players Charley Grimm added Tex Carlton, from the Cards, and Larry French, from the Pittsburgh Pirates. This pair won a total of 28 games while losing 29 during the course of the season. From this it can be seen that Grimm is banking a bit too much on the chances of French regaining his old form while giving up a hard worker like Bush and the promising Jim Weaver.

The Cubs started the season with four regular hurlers, including the two transfers, French and Carleton, and five youngsters who may and then again may be found wanting before the season is very old. Permitting Weaver to get away from him created no end of discussion. Grimm was censured for throwing him in with Bush for French and Freddie Lindstrom. Grimm could not help himself. He balked on giving up Weaver but Pie Traynor insisted upon it and rather than see Lindstrom go to the Giants Charley let his old team have the talented six-footer.

Grimm does not reveal any plans, but the box scores speak for him. His use of Bill Lee, a product of Louisiana State university, who was good enough to win 13 games in his first year in the majors may mean a lot this year. He started off last season by whitewashing the Phillies with a four-hit game and then went over to Brooklyn where he repeated the performance setting them down with two measly hits. To prove he could stand the gaff the pride of Plaquemine, La., labored in over 200 innings and completed 16 full games. However, Bill got off on the wrong foot this year, but despite this Charlie Grimm plans to toss him in regularly.

Lee is built on the lines of an ideal football player. True he played the game while attending the L. S. U., but he was more outstanding on the diamond where his advancement was such that he gave up his studies before graduating in order to accept an offer to play with the Rochester club of the International league. He had a St. Louis Cards tag on him since the Rochester club is one of the links in the lengthy Cardinal chain. That was five years ago. He has played in the Western league, Mobile Atlantic league and the American association, with the Columbus club.

The Cards pitching staff was all set last year and there was no room for him on it. The Cubs came along with a fat offer for the Louisiana twirler and he became a member of Charley Grimm's pennant chasers. He lost one game more than he won over the stretch of the season but there are few pitchers who manage to win 13 games, four of them shutouts, in his first year on the big time. Lon Warneke, the Cubs ace, hurled one less shutout while winning 22 games.

L. S. U. TRACKMEN TO MEET TULANE SQUAD SATURDAY

Tigers Go Back To Scene Of Last Defeat, Way Back In 1931

BATON ROUGE, La., May 4.—(Special.)—Riding majestically along in the role of queen of Dixie's track and field, Louisiana State will go back next Saturday to the scene of her last defeat in duel meet competition.

That will be in New Orleans, particularly in the old Tulane stadium, wherein the Greenie thin-clads in 1931 ground out a thrilling victory over the coming Tigers and gave notice that they were out to take the Southern conference that year.

Since the Tiger spikemen have been bitten by the "travel bug," it will remain for the L. S. U. baseball and golf forces to keep the athletic program in motion this week at Tiger Town. The Bangals close out their campaign on the diamond with four games: Ole Miss, Monday and Tuesday, and Louisiana Tech, Friday and Saturday; while the golfers, headed by Freddie Haas, Jr., Southern amateur king, and Paul Leslie, a freshie who defeated the intercollegiate champion, Charlie Yates of Georgia Tech and Haas, for honors in the recent Georgia invitational, will engage in an invitation tournament at Baton Rouge's Westdale Country club starting Friday.

Back in '31, the Greenies saw the first of Glenn "Slats" Hardin, Ole Lou's great hurdler and quarter-mile who was a freshman at the time; and it was also the beginning of the "Era of Torrance." Jack is out of the collegiate picture now, but Hardin, the finished senior and world champion, is still very evident.

Of the Hardin-Torrance-Blair-Gordy-Moreau quintet which startled the country by capturing the N. C. A. A. championship in 1933 at Chicago, only "Slats" and the javelin-throwing Buddy Blair remain, but the team which Bernie Moore has built around them this season is still one of the "powers that be."

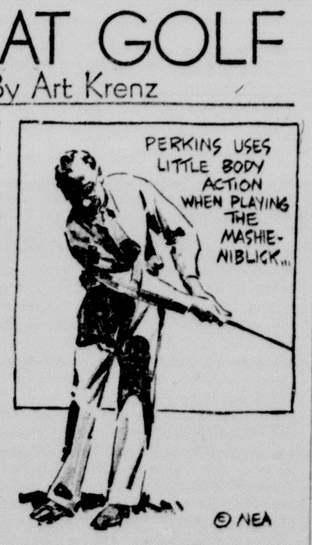
Hardin, running in the quarter-mile, low hurdles and possibly a leg on the mile relay, will lead the Tigers into New Orleans. And with him in there, there's a chance for almost anything to fall, in the way of records, if he digs in.

There is the possibility of another great hurdle race—a replica of the breath-taking Al Moreau-"Foots" De-Coligny dead heat of 1931—when Clarence Roberts, Tiger star, lines up against Howard Smith of the Greenies. Both hurdlers of the 14-plus caliber, this pair should stage one of the closest races on the program.

L. S. U.'s tiny Hugh Saxon, who set records in the 100 and 200-meter sprints of the 1934 Southern A. A. U. games, will attempt to match strides with Tulane's great dash man, Herman Neugass, second place winner in a record-breaking 100-meter race at Penn last week.

While the Tiger trackmen are favored to continue their great duel meet record, the L. S. U. baseball squad is fighting to finish above the .500 mark for the season. They have captured only two out of 8 conference games and their season's record is four wins and six losses. Two straight over the Ole Miss club, Monday and Tuesday, will give them a 50-50 break with the Mississippians for the season.

GREAT GOLF
By Art Krenz



CLEVELAND.—A phenomenal 66 by Gene Sarazen on the final round prevented T. Philip Perkins and Bobby Cruickshank from playing off for the 1932 United States Open golf championship at Fresh Meadows, L. I., after Perkins had hit what he considers the finest mashie-niblick shot of his career.

"I was one above par for the round going to the final hole," explains Perkins, former British amateur champion and now the professional at the fashionable Kirtland Country club on the outskirts of Cleveland. "I required a 4 for a 71, which I believed would be good enough to win.

"My drive was 275 yards. I hit the second shot with a No. 7 iron 150 yards to a close green, and was but 10 feet from the cup. The putt was holed for a three, which gave me an even 70 and a four-round total of 289.

"I had won the Open—or so everyone believed.

"But suddenly the word got around that Cruickshank had made a tough putt for a 68, giving him a tie with me which we would have to play off. Then, just as I began making plans for the playoff, word came that Sarazen had burned up the course with a 66, and finished three strokes under our 289's.

Perkins, in advising golfers how to master the mashie-niblick, says:

"Use a narrow, square stance. Hit down on the ball with firm wrist action, and very little body action. Play the ball about the center between the two feet. Hitting against the left side will keep the ball on the line."

Brown Plays At Sterlington And Fairbanks Goes To Swartz

The Monroe Merchants play here this afternoon with the Ruston nine, which as yet has failed to win a game since the Ouachita Valley league season opened. The game starts promptly at 3:30 o'clock at Forsythe park.

Meanwhile the Brown Paper mill squad, league leaders, goes to Sterlington and the Fairbanks aggregation faces Swartz on the Carbon Blackers diamond.

The Merchants, although vanquished in two games out of four, have a heavy-hitting club and a fair fielding aggregation and the games they lost were by the one run margin. Their opener with the Brownies was an extra inning affair.

Ruston, meeting Monroe for the first time, will be striving to start on the climb out of the league's cellar and to make the Monroe club their first victim.

Joe Demaron, effective right-hander, will start on the mound for the locals.

BROWN AT STERLINGTON

STERLINGTON, La., May 4.—(Special.)—The Sterlington Engineers tangle with the undefeated Brown Paper mill squad here Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the local baseball park.

Work on the grandstands here was completed Tuesday and Sunday's game will be the first since the construction work was completed. The old stands were worked over and additional stands added, bringing the seating capacity to twice what it was previously. Another feature of the stands is that they have been so built that spectators will be shielded from the sun.

The game with the Brownies will be the first meeting between the two clubs and, although the Engineers have lost two of their four games played to the Brownies' no losses and four victories, a hard-fought battle is expected.

The locals have a stellar hurling staff and the games lost were no fault of the pitchers. The hitting of the club has been poor and that is the principal reason for the Engineers' two losses. However, Sterlington has one man, Gilbert, an outfielder, who is batting at a .695 clip.

Starting batteries for Sunday are expected to be Still and Gimber for Sterlington and Danna and Frickle for Brown. Young will be the Engineers' second choice for mound duty.

FAIRBANKS AT SWARTZ

SWARTZ, La., May 4.—(Special.)—At the Swartz park Sunday afternoon, the most intense rivalry in the Ouachita Valley league will be renewed when Fairbanks and Swartz meet for the first time this year.

When these friendly enemies tie up, almost anything can happen, and usually does, and the relative position of the two teams in the club standings does not in any way effect the interest that is felt when they meet. Fairbanks will be trying to use this game as a stepping stone to get back into first place, while Swartz will be trying as desperately to raise itself above its present lowly position of fifth place.

The hitting of Norman, the chatter of Senn, the good right arm of Red Ward, and the performance of the other colorful Fairbanks players never fail to bring out the Swartz fans, and a large crowd will undoubtedly see the game.

Manager Bagwell of Swartz is rounding into shape with the intention of making a comeback in the pitcher's box, and will probably start the game, but if he is not yet ready, Fontenot will probably get the call. Manager Norman is expected to start Malone with Ward in reserve.

Will Rogers Demonstrates How "Life Begins At Forty"

New Elixir Of Fun At Paramount

Humorist, As a Country Editor, Furthers Romance, Has Good Time

THE town is still shaking its sides with the mirthquake that blew up yesterday. It happened in connection with the opening of Will Rogers' comedy, "Life Begins At 40." Normal conditions are not yet restored. Nor will they be until this rough producer has completed its successful engagement at the Paramount theater.

This Fox film picture surely uncorks a new elixir of fun. The audience was in an unrestrained uproar. Laugh succeeded laugh. Fun came in storms, in gales, in a veritable tornado. The funny-bones were overworked.

After this, one may return to a studied understandment and report that "Life Begins At 40," is the season's blithest screen comedy, Will Rogers' crowning triumph, and the entertainment event of a lifetime.

Rogers is the quaint country editor who furthers romance, breaks his enemies of their enmity, and has a good time in the meanwhile.

As an unconscious humorist, he commodes two hundred hogs by his coy hog-calls. You simply must see Will as a porker siren. The pied piper of Hamlin had nothing on America's one and only comedian.

Funny-bones were splintered in another situation, where Will and his favorite enemy iron out their differences with pistols.

Throughout the picture, homely wisdom falls from the lips of America's beloved commentator on the thousand and one foibles of the human comedy. They are bright, apt, good-natured.

But the romance in "Life Begins At 40" is as compelling as the humor.

All in all, this picture, suggested by the Walter B. Pitkin book hit, has wide appeal. It is being enjoyed by young and old.

HER LIPS ARE SEALED

Mona Barrie's eyes are veiled in secrecy as the romantic heroine of Fox Film's "Mystery Woman," an enthralling drama in which she makes her first appearance in a title role. Miss Barrie appears as a woman who must solve the deadly secret which takes her from the man she loves. The pictures plays Monday only at the Capitol Theatre.

Movies May Re-Awaken "Emmy Lou"

MANY grown-ups will remember as one of the treasures of childhood days the charming book by George Madden Martin, "Emmy Lou; Her Book and Heart." The book had a tremendous vogue among children a generation ago, and, for the matter of that it still has an extraordinary hold on young minds, because of its simple but appealing narrative of the wrestlings of a little girl with the problems of childhood.

To those who remember the book with affectionate regard, it will be of more than passing interest to know that "Emmy Lou" bids fair to take on a new lease of life for the benefit of the present generation through the medium of the movies. A scenario based on the trials and tribulations, the joys and the accomplishments of the little schoolgirl as she grew up into young womanhood is being developed. For thousands of persons who remember how, in their childhood they laughed and sobbed together with "Emmy Lou" in her experiences, there will be something of the same eagerness to see their little heroine on the screen as there was to see "Little Women" similarly portrayed.

There is nothing intricate about "Emmy Lou." Its author has attempted the construction of no plot, but has recorded with an adroit and charming facility in the use of words, the story of the experiences of the average normal child in making her first contacts with life in the home, in the school, in developing a religious feeling and estimating her childish companions. The story—or rather series of episodes—lends itself to a happy development as a subject for picturization, because each phase of the child's life has its own climax. The dialogue is delightful in its naivette and quiet humor.

"This," said Mr. Cato, "is A," and he pointed to a dot. Then he looked at Emmy Lou. "Now, what is it?" said Mr. Cato.

"A," said Emmy Lou, obediently. She wondered. But she had met A in so many guises of print and script that she accepted any statement concerning A. And now a dot was A.

"And this," said Mr. Cato, "is B, and this is C, and this D, and E, F, G, which brings us naturally to A again," and Mr. Cato with his bow went up the stairway punctuated with dots. Emmy Lou wondered why G brought one naturally to A again.

But Mr. Cato was tapping up the dotted stairway with his bow. "Now what are they?" asked Mr. Cato.

"Dots," said Emmy Lou, forgetting.

Yes, Emmy Lou's friends of a generation ago will be glad to know there are hopes of seeing her come to life again, in the movies.

DUAL ROLE DILEMMA

Should he play the dual role of Sidney Carton and Charles Darnay in "A Tale of Two Cities"? Ronald Colman thinks not and his argument is that when one man plays two parts the story loses conviction.

In this Dickens story, in case you've forgotten, Darnay is mistaken for Carton, due to their great resemblance. Colman thinks "The Masquerader," in which he played the two parts, was not a good picture for that reason. He now is trying to convince the powers at M. G. M., to whom he has been loaned for "The Tale," that the picture will be a better one if some other actor plays the part of Darnay.

"RHUMBA" IN A NEW SETTING

Self-Reliance Derived In Home For Children

By Walter L. Butler

"Being reared in an orphanage has its advantages. One of the most important is that children learn early to 'give and take' in life; they learn to help others and expect to be helped; they acquire unselfish and unspoiled natures and dispositions."

That is the statement of Rev. Robert Cooke Buckner, superintendent of the Louisiana Baptist Children's home, located on DeSiard road.

Another special advantage that comes to children of the home is manifested in their play and school and work, and in virtually all of their activities. No one of them can say to other children: "This thing, this spot of the playground, this area of this cottage is mine. Keeps your hands off, stay away from here!"

The superintendent was making a plea for better public understanding and appreciation of the work that is being done by the Baptist Children's home in developing the boys and girls under its care to take their places as citizens of the state and the community in later years. Though bearing a denominational name, the home is conducted from a purely undenominational standpoint, the superintendent emphasized.

"That is not merely a principle," he said; "it is a fact. The home is receiving and rearing children of all denominations.

Comparatively few people know that the home has no endowment, nor is there any methodical appropriation from any source for its operation. It is supported entirely with contributions made voluntarily.

Financial conditions of recent years have greatly curtailed the funds made available to the home, and as a result the buildings have been in need of repairs for some months.

The home was established at Lake Charles at the turn of the present century. About ten years ago, the present buildings of the home were erected and it was established in Monroe.

It is one of the institutinos of the Louisiana Baptist convention, its trustees being elected by that body. Local trustees are Mrs. L. T. Hastings, T. C. Drew and E. H. Murrell.

Located on a 432-acre tract, of which 333 acres are used for farm purposes, the home has five two-story brick cottages, a brick building used for the office and for the residence of the superintendent, a chapel and school building, a concrete and corrugated iron dairy building and several barns and sheds. There are 25 cows and 15 calfs in the dairy herd. Only three farm teams are now available for use.

Many more cows could be used advantageously by the home for providing ample milk for drinking purposes and the making of dairy products. More farm teams and mechanical equipment are also needed.

General farming and dairying at the home are in charge of Frankie Stevens, one of the employes. Truck farming is in charge of Jim Allen. It is the duty of the boys of the home to work on the farm and in the dairy, and also to make building repairs and do miscellaneous jobs.

A matron, or house mother, is located in each of the five cottages, which are occupied by a total of 150 children. This total is 25 more than the housing total for which the cottages were designed.

A mothers' job, as is well known, is the greatest job in the world. Consider then, the task of the cottage matron, who must mother a brood of more than 25 children. Of course she must have help.

The children must do their share of work; they cook, wash the dishes and do all manner of jobs. All of them work for the best interests of their community, each sharing alike and impartially in work and play.

The jobs are rotated, so that each child or young person will share alike in the various tasks.

Names of the cottages and their respective house mothers are: "Monroe cottage," for small girls, Mrs. Woodard; "Smitherman cottage," for small boys, Mrs. Allen; "Compere cottage," for large girls, Miss Ponder; "Oakes cottage," for large boys, Mrs. Stevens; "Mary Goss Cottage," for babies, Miss Merritt.

Ages of children accepted for rearing at the home are from two to 12 years. When the children reach the age of 18 years, they are assisted in locating a niche in which to begin their work in the world so that they may be self-supporting.

This year, eight young people who had the orphanage as their home are attending Louisiana college, three are attending Louisiana State university, and one is attending Louisiana Tech, and three are student nurses at the St. Francis sanitarium—all working and making their own way in life, with the expectations of filling excellent positions.

The home maintains its own school system on its campus, classes up through the seventh grade being held in a frame educational building. Miss Blanche Ware, Miss Leamon Arrington and Mrs. Dyson are the instructors.

Because the building is inadequate in size, half of the children attend classes from early in the morning until noon, and the other half from the noon hour to late in the afternoon.

The educational building is also the Sunday school and church building. The church is an organized institution, with Reverend Buckner serving as pastor.

Children of scohool classifications above that of the seventh grade attend classes at the Ouachita parish high school, traveling to and from the school in the large bus owned by the institution.

Incidentally, each summer the home's singers, who are trained by Miss Ponder, make trips over the state, appearing in programs at churches, the school bus affording transportation about the state.

One of the home's students of the high school, Miss Odessa Brazille, won first place in English in the district high school rally held two weeks ago at Ruston.

Operation of the home is maintained with a small employe personnel. The employes, besides those already mentioned, are: Secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Evelyn Cole Swayze, daughter of the late Rev. L. M. Cole, who was superintendent of the institution; personnel secretary, Miss Lula Mae Cole, also a daughter of Reverend Cole; field representative, Rev. L. R. Morgan, whose home here is located at 513 Calypso street, the property being owned by the children's home.

The task of rearing 150 or more children to young manhood and womanhood and equipping them for their journey through life is, obviously, a great and important task. Officials of the home are justifiably proud of the success of their efforts.

Last year 450 of the 800 Baptist churches of the state made voluntary contributions to the support of the home. Of the churches which did not make contributions, many were in rural areas where hardly any money was available.

One hundred and thirty-seven of the 450 churches made at least nine contributions to the home during last year.

Railroads of the state have given an important service to the home, without charge, in transporting to Monroe food and feed stuffs and various other gifts made to the orphanage by people of the state. Substantial contributions of these goods, with canned foods included, have been received from people who till the soil, but who have had little cash.

Recently, the Missouri Pacific railroad brought here for the home a freight car load of corn and other feed stuffs picked up at communities between Sicily Island and Rayville. This contribution was especially appreciated, because the home's barn containing its feedstuffs burned last January 27.

With its children adequately and comfortably housed, clothed and fed, and receiving the advantages of self-help training and school advantages, the orphanage fulfills its important mission in the world.

Entertaining Study Of Modern Life

DEALING chiefly with the problem of making a go of marriage in these days of financial uncertainty, Columbia's "I'll Love You Always," which plays at the Capitol theater today, is an absorbing, entertaining study of modern day life.

Nancy Carroll and George Murphy are featured, and once again Miss Carroll proves herself a dramatic actress of real talent, while Murphy, a comparative newcomer, further establishes his ability, drawing sympathy from a role that might easily have been otherwise.

Murphy is cast as an egotistical youth who graduates with honors from an engineering course. Rushing Nancy Carroll into a hasty marriage with promises of placing the world at her feet, he sets out to conquer New York. Too proud to accept menial labor in the engineering field, he confidently waits for something really good to turn up. Nothing does.

The family resources ebb rapidly, and Nancy Carroll tries taxi-dancing as a means of supporting her husband and herself. When Murphy discovers the source of income, there is a quarrel, but he goes back to accept one of the jobs he has turned down and finds that the opportunity has passed. In desperation, when he finds his wife is planning to leave him, he steals some money to show her one last good fling. Ostensibly he's off to Russia for an important engineering job, and while he serves his term in prison, his wife patiently waits to hear some news from him.

The theme attains a powerful climax, and the surprise ending is cleverly done.

The dramatic scenes are superbly played by Miss Carroll, who gives all the fire and depth of emotion necessary to the role. Her "Nancy Clegg," the wife who sacrifices everything for love, is a convincing portrayal.

Leo Bulgakov's direction is excellent.

RIALTO

SELDOM, if ever, has there been such a combination of elements which mean good entertainment as there are in "Imitation of Life," Manager Fortenbury has booked it for the Rialto theater starting today.

Fannie Hurst's great novel will interest millions of women. "Back Street" proved that Fannie Hurst understands thoroughly what women like to see in a moving picture. John Stahl in that picture proved that he knew how to transpose to the screen every last ounce of interest which lay in a Fannie Hurst story. There is no director in the world who has this faculty in the same degree that John Stahl possesses it. And he directed "Imitation of Life" also.

Then there is the popularity of Claudette Colbert, who is an ideal heroine for Fannie Hurst's story. John Stahl searched for three months before he was satisfied even with Claudette Colbert. The minute her tests were seen, however, he knew that she was the "Bea" Pullman. A dozen leading men were discarded before John Stahl decided upon Warren William. These two are just now being acclaimed for their work in "Cleopatra."

MORE FRANKENSTEIN

Creating life in a laboratory is again the plot of "Bride of Frankenstein," sequel to the unexpectedly successful "Frankenstein." Karloff is again the monster, who didn't die in the fire at the end of the other picture. Nor does his creator (again played by Colin Clive) die. He lives, to help create a woman this time, but no sooner is she brought to life than—well, maybe you'll want to see it.

LARUE MEETS COCHRANE IN MAT SHOW WEDNESDAY

ALL-ROUGH CARD TO BE PRESENTED IN STADIUM SHOW

Wrestling fans who have found the recent scientific matches too tame will get a "new deal" next Wednesday night when Promoter Charlie Bruscato presents what he terms an "all-rough" card at Roosevelt stadium.

Although the show hasn't been entirely completed, Bruscato has booked Frenchie LaRue, the wild Canadian, and George Cochrane, tough Seattle, Wash., entry, for the main event. These two huskies rank among the leading mat villains in these parts.

The stadium promoter said he would also bring Nick Elitch here for the semi-final bout, as no roughhouse would be complete without the Greek showman. Bruscato is dickering for the services of some tough gent who can tame the chubby Mr. Elitch. He says he hopes to get a new tough guy for Nicholas.

The house will be full of cops if both main eventers have their way. According to Bruscato, both LaRue and Cochrane have asked for police protection, and well they might. Each has felt the wrath of the fans in the past and the experience wasn't so pleasant.

Cochrane claims he's going to beat LaRue, just as he did Scotty Dawkins. And local fans will remember what the westerner did to the husky Dawkins last December.

"All I want is police protection and a square deal from the referee," Cochrane advised Bruscato when he signed the contract.

George has been going strong in Shreveport, New Orleans, Houston and other larger mat centers lately and he may have some new tricks to pull for the edification of the local bugs. Cochrane is strictly a "rough" wrestler and he should be an ideal opponent for the Frenchman.

LaRue has made the same request as Cochrane—a square deal from the referee and lots of cops to protect him. The business of refereeing that bout should be risky, if past indications mean anything. Both have mauled referees frequently in the stadium ring and if they decide to assault him at the same time Wednesday night, somebody's likely to come out of it with a few bruises, to say the least. Just who will get the honor of officiating remains for Bruscato to determine.

The main event will be the usual two-hour time limit bout, with the semi-final limited to one hour. Both will be best two out of three falls.

CHISOX SHADE NATS

CHICAGO, May 4.—(AP)—Rip Radcliff's third home run of the season with a man on in the seventh inning today gave Chicago a 5 to 4 victory over Washington and accounted for Bump Hadley's first defeat of the campaign.

Hadley, who had won his first three starts, had a 4 to 3 lead when Radcliff's long blow drove in Bud Hafey ahead of him. Hafey ran for Mule Haas, who batted for Les Tietje, and singled. Tietje was credited with his first victory of the year although Whitlow Wyatt pitched the last two innings.

DARNED GOOD JOB OF DARNING

BERNICE MARBLE ENTRIES PEPPED UP OVER TOURNEY

Baptist Children's Home Youngsters Also Show Enthusiasm

More evidence that the Northeast Louisiana marble tournament is going over in grand style poured into the marble editor's office yesterday. Two schools particularly reported lots of enthusiasm among the boys and girls who are battling for the prizes.

"Enthusiasm over the marble tournament has been so great it has been necessary to have an elimination contest before having the regular tournament," writes Miss Doris Gaston, supervisor of games at the Bernice school. "Our school had 60 entries but the elimination has now reduced that number to 24. Although ringer is a rather new game, it is progressing nicely."

In other words, 36 sharpshooters at Bernice have been eliminated. That entry list of 60 is plenty good, indicating that Miss Gaston has done an excellent job at Bernice. The tournament there has been in progress several days and it won't be long now before the Bernice champion is crowned.

The Baptist Children's home in Monroe is another scene of activity. Seventy players enrolled and, the girls outnumbered the boys. There were 38 girls in the battle for prizes at the outset and 32 boys.

"There seems to be a great deal of interest in the tournament," Miss Lula Mae Cole, supervisor of the tournament at the children's home, wrote the marble editor. "Although more girls than boys enrolled, they are not at all ahead."

Apparently the boys are making up in skill what they might have lacked in numbers. Clayton Brown, Willard Chamberlain and Henry Hazlitt are boys who have won important matches so far, while Bobbie Fountain and Audie Banks have captured victories for the girls.

And Quitman Long, who's handling the tournament at Farmerville, writes that things are still humming there. Farmerville merchants have generously donated prizes for the Farmerville boys and girls to shoot at, and everybody's having a great time in the fight for these, and the larger prizes which are being offered in the general tourney.

The grand prize, as all the marble shooters know, is a week's vacation at Gulfport, Miss., where the champion of the Northeast Louisiana tourney will compete with other champs in the southern finals. All expenses will be paid by the News-Star—World. And if the Northeast Louisiana youngster wins at Gulfport, he'll be taken to Ocean City, N. J., to compete in the national tourney.

There are many other prizes to work for. Among these are handsome gold medals to be awarded the district winners. The medals are being donated by various civic clubs of the Twin Cities. They are: Rotary club, Kiwanis club of West Monroe; Lions club, Y's Men's club, Kiwanis club of Monroe and Ouachita Business Men's club.

From all indications, there are going to be some close battles for the school championships. That means that the district eliminations and, in turn, the finals for the Northeast Louisiana championship, will be hotly contested.

BARONS BEAT LOOKOUTS

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 4.—(AP)—Birmingham put over four runs in the ninth here today to beat the Lookouts, 7 to 3, behind Pop Griffin's pitching. The Barons pounded Ray Moss for sixteen blows to sink Chattanooga in fourth place.

ROCKS TRIM SMOKIES

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., May 4.—(AP)—The Knoxville Smokies went to pieces afield today, making five errors, and Little Rock defeated them, 9 to 3, and took two of the three game series. Ostenburg, Little Rock third baseman, blasted out a home run, his fourth in successive days. Clyde Willoughby, although allowing the Smokies 11 hits, was air tight in the pinches.

CHICKS STOP CRACKERS

ATLANTA, May 4.—(AP)—The Memphis Chicks stopped Atlanta's winning streak at six games here today when Jim Henry shut out the Crackers 5 to 0. Manager Hofmann of the Tribe collected three hits, one a home run, which was as many as Henry allowed the entire Cracker team.

VOLS SWEEP SERIES

NASHVILLE, May 4.—(AP)—Nashville defeated New Orleans, 4 to 3, today to make a clean sweep of the three-game series. Four double plays cut down the Pels' scoring chances. What proved to be the winning run came in the sixth as a result of two errors. A ninth inning rally by the visitors was cut short when Chaplin fanned Helf, a pinch hitter, with the tying and winning runs on base.

CHICAGO, May 4.—Dizzy Dean attributes his failure to win a single exhibition game and having his ears pinned back more than once this spring to the fact that the chips weren't down.

"Now that we're playing for keeps, I'll blow 'em down," says the great right-hander.

It takes the opening bell to swing many star ball players into full stride. Entire clubs frequently require the same urge. When Rogers Hornsby remarked about how much more pepper the Browns exhibited than the Giants in a Florida exhibition a year ago, Bill Terry replied, "We're saving that for the start of the season."

Young Joe Vosmiz and the Cleveland Indians then proceeded to make the then world champion New York outfit look like the Hoosick Falls firemen in a long series of exhibition games, but the Giants weren't beaten out of the National league pennant until the final day. The best the Browns could do in the American league was sixth, while the Tribe finished a scraggly third.

Brooklyn bagged the Grapefruit league title this spring, but nobody is picking the Dodgers to top the senior loop on September 29.

Gehrig and Goslin Require Pressure

A time or two around the park in a sweatshirt put Gehrig in shape, and he never could see any sense in wasting home runs at Waterfront park, St. Petersburg, and way stations. When the gong sounds, the Yankee bomber begins bunting the ball against American league fences.

Goose Goslin's performance at Lakeland and on the Detroit club's trip north was nothing to excite the bottle and bun throwers of Navin field. Games must count in the standings to interest the Golden Goose, a courageous veteran whose efficiency increases with pressure.

Al Simmons' batting was a mild sensation with the White Sox this spring. Simmons is expected to smite the sphere for magnificent distances, but his flying start was as unusual as unfavorable weather in southern California.

There were demands that Walter Johnson play the batboy, an usher, anybody at shortstop in place of Bill Knickerbocker when the Cleveland club reached American league territory a year ago. But Knickerbocker snapped out of it with the ball that opened the championship season for the Indians, and was one of the pleasant surprises of 1934.

Many suspect that his loss for the first six weeks of the current campaign, due to an appendicitis appendectomy, may cost the Tribe the pennant.

Hal Trosky was another Indian who couldn't get going in training last year, but who commenced belting home runs with the first official box score.

Lou Chiozza, recruit second baseman of the Phillies, certainly could not have been mistaken for a spring daisy a year ago, but came along when it counted to be one of the finds of the year.

Harry Hellmann, bracketed with Hornsby as the foremost right-hand hitter developed in the modern game, perhaps was the most striking example of a luminary who could not take spring exhibition games seriously. Heilmann's pop-ups quickly were straightened into line drives and a near .400 average or better when the clubs got on their way.

Ty Cobb always said that three weeks of training was sufficient for any ball player. Eddie Roush, who was a perennial holdout, and others found ways to shorten up the grind.

Hits that are cracked in spring training tra la are much better saved for the fall, which is when Dizzy Dean will get even with some of the blokes who took such keen delight in making him duck his own fast ball in pre-season warm-ups.

M'COMB GIRLS WIN

LAUREL, Miss., May 4.—(AP)—Willoughby of McComb piled up a total of 21 scores for her team, aided materially in winning the state girls' big eight field and track meet at the municipal stadium here this afternoon. McComb's total score was 27. Brookhaven, starring Smith, who made an individual total of 19, was second with 26 points. Other schools and scores were: Gulfport 19; Meridian 16 1-2; Laurel 13; Hattiesburg 10; Biloxi 5; and Jackson 3.

SHOTS THEY REMEMBER

1. OUT OF THE TALL GRASS

Gene Sarazen's double-eagle on the final round of the 1935 Augusta National invitation tournament rightfully will go down in history as one of the greatest shots ever played in golf.

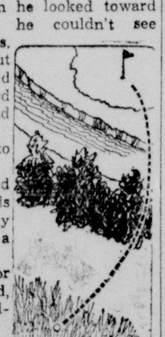
Sarazen

The stocky shotmaker has the uncanny ability to deliver in the pinches, when a shot counts the most. While nothing to date can parallel his historic deuce at Augusta, Sarazen played another of his magical shots during the 1934 open championship at Merion.

He was in the lead during the third round when he came to the 11th hole. Gene had been having some difficulty with his drives so when he hooked his tee shot here he wasn't surprised until he walked up to the ball and found it deep in tall grass, far to the left of the green, with an elbow of tall oak trees between him and his objective. To complicate matters a yawning creek stretched out in front of the green.

Gene was puzzled. He looked at the ball and then he looked toward the green, but he couldn't see through the trees. A smile broke out on his bronzed face and he turned to the gallery and said:

"Who wants to play it?"



Sarazen fussed around with his clubs and finally decided to play a spade mashie.

"This is all or nothing," he said, turning to the gallery again.

The ball shot out of the grass, hooked sharply, landed on the green eight feet from the cup—and he holed out for a great birdie three!

On the final round Gene was almost in the same predicament but he came out of the hole with a seven, which he later found had cost him the championship.

Doubles Tennis Tourney Starts Monday Afternoon

The doubles tennis tournament being sponsored by the Monroe Recreation department will get underway tomorrow afternoon and continue throughout the week, it was announced yesterday. All entries are to be filed in the recreation office before noon tomorrow.

Playing will take place on all of the cities tennis courts and the final matches will be held next Sunday.

BOBBY JONES SAYS

Good form in any physical activity must be valued in terms of efficiency. The efficiency of a thermal engine, for example, is measured by the ratio of the work done by the engine to the heat energy supplied to it. The efficiency of a golf stroke must be measured, in the same way, by the ratio of the work done on the ball to the amount of physical energy used up in the swinging. The expert golfer drives far with little apparent effort because of the high rate of efficiency of his performance. The duffer, though he strain himself to the utmost, falls far behind because so much of the energy expended goes to waste.

A high rate of efficiency, and hence good form, in golf, depend upon three things; the development of the greatest possible clubhead speed at contact, with whatever energy or power the player can supply, the production of a pracisely accurate contact between club and ball, directing the blow along the line upon which it is intended the ball shall travel, and consistency in peforming approximately according to these ideas.

Although these are obvious generalities, it is helpful to do a little thinking along these lines in order to appreciate the importance to a golfer of a proper use of his left arm. For it is in this particular that all duffers are most appallingly deficient, and here too that the better players most often go astray.

Just now we are interested chiefly in the backswing. The backward movement is merely the means of storing up power to be used in the hitting, but to increase the amount of this stored up energy is of first importance. We have seen that the beginning was made in the hips in order to assure that the wind-up of the body would at least be started. When this had progressed a short distance we began to force the club back with the left arm.

Now with the club having completed about half of its backward travel, the left arm has become almost straight, and is pushing the club as far back as it can comfortably go. The arc of the swing is thus made very broad so that the space and time for adding speed to the club-head coming down will be as great as possible.

The player who allows his left arm to bend perceptibly, as illustrated in figure one is sacrificing breadth of arc and power. His swing, because it is not as wide as it could be, is that much away from the ideal of efficiency which he could make it.

While Bobby Jones will be glad to answer as many readers questions in this column as possible, it will be impossible for him to answer letters personally. Write your problems to him care of Monroe Morning World. (Copyright, 1935, Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Uniforms Purchased For Ferriday Football Team

FERRIDAY, La., May 4.—(Special)—Twenty-two new uniforms have been purchased for the Ferriday high school football squad by the recently organized "F" club, an organization composed of former students and friends of the school.

The funds for the purchase of the new uniforms were raised through sale of membership tickets for the club. Eugene Schuchs, secretary of the club and a former all-state football star of the local school, was in charge of raising the funds.

Athletic Director Hugh A. Bateman said that in the past members of his squad had been handicapped by lack of adequate football equipment and that the new uniforms should have a tendency to add to the prestige as well as the strength of the team.

Alabama Track Squad Beats Ole Miss, 71-43

UNIVERSITY, Miss., May 4.—(AP)—In a rather slow meet the University of Alabama track team swamped the University of Mississippi men by a 71 to 43 count here this afternoon for the sixth straight conference win fo rthe Alabamians. It was Mississippi's first conference engagement.

Allen Shoemaker, Mississippi sprinter, provided the only thrill of the afternoon, when he jumped 22 feet 8 1-2 inches to break the university broad jump record of 22 feet 6 inches, set in 1928 by Ary Phillips, famous Ole Miss athlete.

The Alabamians forfeited the two-mile run to the Mississippians, the Mississippi men forfeiting the relay to the Crimson runners.

Braddock Conceded Little Chance To Beat Max Baer

By John J. Romano

James J. Braddock cleared the way to the throne room of the kingpin, Max Baer, by the might and power of his trusty right mitt. His victims were John Henry Lewis, conqueror of champions, Maxie Rosenblom and Bob Olin, and Art Lasky, a pronounced favorite over the Jersey Irishman and the one considered as having a better chance against Max Baer.

The said fist, the insistence of his little manager, Joe Gould, and a series of unfortunate circumstances which found more highly regarded opponents unavailable, resulted in Baer accepting Braddock's defi. They are scheduled to meet in the Madison Square Garden bowl at Long Island City on Thursday evening, June 13.

At this time Braddock is conceded of whipping Baer. The latter did not little more than an outside chance help the cause, the box office, by his reported statement that Jimmy was no match for him and that he thought his brother Buddy could whip Braddock. When you consider that Buddy is little more than a promising novice who has shown best against unschooled heavyweights, and that a shopworn veteran like Babe Hunt outsmarted and outpunched him in a four-round duel, you get the idea that James J. Braddock is little more than a warm-up for the talkative, but likeable, champion of the world.

Mr. Baer will have to do some tall explaining or clown more than he did against Primo Carnera when he failed to keep the giant Italian down after a series of upsetting wallops should Braddock last more than three rounds. The situation is all of Baer's creating. Instead of looking upon Braddock as a worthy rival and getting down to serious business the champion continues with his meaningless exhibitions.

Jerseyite Has Courage

Before stamping Braddock's cause as hopeless and condemning his manager for insisting on the match because "Jimmy's jaw and body will take Baer's mighty wallops," it is well to delve deeper and learn what Braddock thinks about his chances.

If courageous determination and confidence in his right hand punch count for anything, the fight is as good as won in J. J.'s estimation. Braddock is not the kind who indulges in pipe dreams. Fighting is a serious business with hem. He is not talkative, except when with his three little kiddies, and he has a quiet way of smiling which convinces you that he is earnest and does not fall for flattery.

They used to call Luis Firpo "Deadpan Louie." Firpo had nothing on Braddock when it comes to an unemotional expression in the ring. Unlike Firpo who swished a right hand in the same manner as Baer the Jerseyman is more deliberate and delivers it with an overhand arc-like motion. It does not land with the same deadening effect the giant Argentine produced, but J. J.'s wallop is unhealthy enough on the receiver. Twenty-six knockouts in eighty-two fights attest to that.

Another angle overlooked is the respective showings of the rivals against one man in particular. A little over five years ago Braddock met Tommy Loughran for the light heavyweight title. It is true he was outboxed during the course of the fifteen-round scrap, but who will ever forget the red mask of blood which tinged Loughran's face when one of Jimmy's pet right handers opened a two-inch gash on Tommy's head. To imagine what would have happened if the blow had reached the Philadelphian's jaw is not hard. Two years later Baer had his chance at Loughran. The present champion came out second—a defeat he has not bothered to erase. And Loughran was not the same superb boxer he was when he turned back Braddock.

Greatness Not Yet Revealed

Baer is undeniably a good fighter. His greatness has yet to be determined, but this talk of a "killer" is rather far fetched if the records are closely scanned. Until he stopped Max Schmeling and Primo Carnera the Californian rated as a worthy challenger for the heavyweight crown. The knockout over King Levinsky in what was billed as a four-round exhibition added fuel to the flaming talk that "Baer is the greatest hitter since Dempsey." Look at it in that light if you wish.

Baer has everything to make a great fighter. Youth, health, a wonderful physique, broad shoulders and a crackling wallop. No one could look for more in an ideal and great champion. But Baer's playful nature and love of dramatics is against him. He will not be taken seriously until he settles down to the grim business of knocking the other fellow's block off oftener than he has done in the past two years. Remember he has had but two fights in that time, and he's got a long way to go before he can expect to be ranked with Jack Dempsey.

Braddock's task is not a hopeless one. He is big enough and his neck is large and strong enough to withstand a wallop on the jaw. Braddock weighs 184 pounds. This is but five pounds less than Jack Dempsey carried when he slaughtered the giant Jess Willard and in other of his great fights.

Braddock is not an unseasoned stripling. Two years of hard work on the docks, handling large cases with a bale hook, not only developed his forearms but strengthened his biceps.

Another thing worth remembering is that Braddock fights best when he is the underdog in the wagering. He was on the short end of 5 to 1 when he broke Pete Latzo's jaw; 6 to 1 when he flattened Tuffy Griffith; 4 to 1 when he stopped Jimmy Slattery; and so on down the line to the Lasky fight when he was held in contempt at the long odds of 6 to 1. It was not the so-called "luck of the Irish." It was just plain confidence in his own ability and the will to carry on in the face of what could be called insurmountable odds.

Braddock will carry the same attributes of a real fighting man when he answers the gong against Max Baer, on June 13.

More BUILDING Necessary for Entire Nation!

PATTERN DRIVE AFTER L. A. PLAN

Industrialists Map $2,000,000 Housing Program For Pacific State

BAKERSFIELD, Calif.—Following closely the example set by the Los Angeles plan, a group of 65 leading business and industrial executives of Bakersfield have launched a $2,000,000 program of modernization and repair in their community, the Federal Housing administration is informed.

Taking the lead by pledging immediate individual building programs, the Bakersfield committee is actively inaugurating city-wide modernization and repair. The city is approximately 100 miles north of Los Angeles in Kern county, with a population of 26,015, and the local program is similar to that instituted in Los Angeles two months ago by a committee of 100 industrialists to develop modernization and new-building activity in the Los Angeles area. The example set by business leaders is expected to produce marked impetus to modernization and new building in California. As in the case of Los Angeles, the Bakersfield program began with the issuance of a manifesto signed by the participants on the committee.

Issue Manifesto

"Prompted by a sincere and sober sense of our individual responsibility as citizens of this community, we proposed that the Federal Housing activities be backed up by the solid and decisive cooperation of business, industry and finance; and with this end in view we propose the immediate initiation of a $2,000,000 construction program in the Bakersfield area.

"We urge every householder, every merchant, rancher, professional man, business man and manufacturer who is able, to associate himself with us in this enterprise. We call upon the chamber of commerce, civic groups, service clubs, and business organizations to enter wholeheartedly into expanding this plan of pledging those who are financially able, to do needed modernization or new-construction work now.

"As an assurance of cooperation and as an incentive to others, the members of this committee of citizens have agreed among themselves forthwith to undertake certain improvements to their properties, and to urge their friends, associates and employes to do likewise and avail themselves of the privileges of the National Housing act.

"This agreement has been entered into by us, not merely to insure re-employment and the resurgence of business that will come from the modernization and new construction projects to which we are individually pledged, but also in the hope that the community as a whole will rise to the challenge which is offered and that a campaign of liberty loan proportions will be instituted to make the Federal Housing administration's plan popular, not only with those who need it in order to repair the ravages of deterioration and obsolescence, but with those financially able to do needed new and remodeling work without it."

GARAGE REPAIRS

Not infrequently is a garage door bumped and damaged by an automobile when driving it in, or taking it out of the garage. This often results in a loosened hinge, a split stile or rail, loosened panels, and broken window panes. Such repairs are commonly neglected during the cold winter months but they may be quickly and easily repaired during balmy spring days. If neglected, deterioration occurs and, if bumped again by the car the door may be broken off necessitating installation of a new one at considerable expense.

Calls Housing Big Weapon In War Against Depression

DETROIT, Mich.—War against the economic forces which bring unemployment, want, and misery is being waged successfully by American business and private citizens through the better housing program, Federal Housing Administrator James A. Moffett stated on a recent visit to this city.

Mr. Moffett first cited many evidences of improved business throughout the country, especially in the industries benefiting directly from the better housing program, which he called "a mighty force in bringing back good times."

"But the better housing program is not a force that moves by itself, automatically," Mr. Moffett said. "It is not a government subsidized procedure. It is purely and simply a cooperative movement between the citizens and industries of this country for which the government supplies only the plan.

"The working out of the plan rests with private initiative. And private initiative, realizing both the selfish and patriotic benefits of the better housing program, has already created a record for hard work that can stand comparison with our country's united effort in the last war.

"We are in reality waging another war. It is a war against the economic forces that bring unemployment, want, and misery. One of the greatest weapons in our war is the better housing program, and I am happy to be a citizen of a country which has shown such a magnificant effort in wielding that weapon. It has made me proud of the name 'America' to see the way in which our citizens have answered this call to the colors."

Mr. Moffett stated that the better housing program can be made increasingly successful only by individual collective work of three chief factors; the private citizen, industry, and the credit resources of the country. Upon the amount of labor and cooperation they display, he said, depends the amount of success.

"In this endeavor," he continued, "private industry plays an increasingly important role. Every business firm in the country should be solidly behind this program. Industry can help in several ways: One is by advertising the program by every conceivable method; another is by contributing to the funds of local better housing campaigns; another is by cooperating in exhibitions. Since every business firm will profit directly or indirectly, every business firm should be on its toes in promoting the plan."

Shows Restaurant Man How He Can Modernize

With a party of friends, Mr. Fiedler was having lunch in Carl Zeiler's restaurant. The proprietor stopped by the table to inquire as to the quality of the food. Mr. Fiedler said the food was excellent but that he could find some criticism to make of the general appearance and decoration of the restaurant. Mr. Zeiler said he agreed with him, but that he knew of no way to obtain a loan adequate to modernize his place of business. Mr. Fiedler suggested that Mr. Zeiler call at his office. Mr. Zeiler did.

On April 1, work of modernizing the restaurant and installing an air-conditioning system was begun after Zeiler had obtained a modernization credit from a local lending agency.

TREATING HOUSES AGAINST TERMITE

Dreaded Pest Is Greatest Menace To Preservation Of Home

A disease is dreaded in direct proportion to the inability of the medical profession to counteract it. Smallpox—until Jenner discovered the virus with which to inoculate the human body against it—was considered incombatable. During recent years vaccinating has boomed, and we who benefit thereby need no longer fear pneumonia, diphtheria, whooping cough, infantile paralysis, scarlet fever, and even the common cold, according to the Terminex Co. of Monroe.

Likewise, a "disease" which affects the life of lumber is also to be dreaded only in proportion to our ability to cope with it. Termites in homes and buildings—until Bruce developed "Terminix "inoculation"—were considered an unavoidable evil. People began to evade the use of lumber, fearing termites.

Today, through the work of the nationwide Bruce Terminix organization, the wood in more than 15,000 structures has been saved from termites.

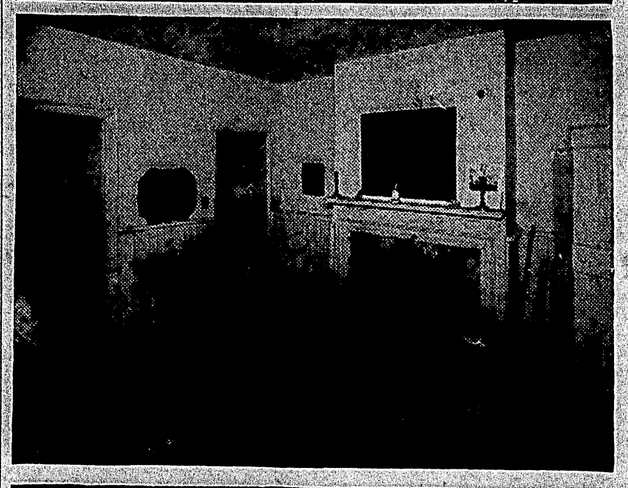
That lumber may be safely used in building is the story that Terminix tells.

No matter what is said by different lumber producers, we know that no wood is immune to termite attack. The termite is just like any other feeder, in that there are certain woods that he prefers. In such cases he will attack the preferable wood first, but when that is consumed he will go to the less desirable.

Now, I am not discussing the damage being done in a direct way. A great many people have and are paying for termite damage and do not know it yet. This damage is really getting into quite a figure. There are literally thousands of homes in this country that are being badly damaged by these pests. Unless you are conversant with the situation you would doubt any figures given you. If you became really interested it would not take you long to find out what the situation is.

The only suggestion we can make to you is that you find out whether or not your property is infested. Remember that is you wait until the repair must be made to find out yourself, you will have both a repair and a treating job to pay for. If you can catch it before any structural weakness develops you can avoid the repair job.

Wallpaper Improvement



The above two photographs illustrate how wallpaper was utilized to effectively modernize a home, formerly owned by George Washington. Located in Alexandria, Va., the house was erected by Washington as rental property. The present owner recently modernized the structure to attract new tenants. An appropriate, washable, sun-tested wallpaper was selected for the living room. A colonial pattern of silver and blue stars on a peach field was chosen to harmonize with oyster-gray paint on paneling and trim. Additional light and charm were thus added to the room. Several other rooms in the house also lost their outmoded appearance by the addition of new wallpaper. The top photograph shows the living room prior to improvement. The lower picture was taken after the new wallpaper was placed.

Baseboard Shoe Rack Designed For Closet

A narrow wooden cleat is nailed on the board a few inches from the top and forms a heel rest, preventing the shoes from slipping to the floor.

The use of this shoe rack keeps the shoes, with their inserted trees, in good order and off the closet floor, always within sight and easy reach. The closet presents a far neater appearance with this arrangement, which also saves valuable shelf space.

An accumulation of dust in the corners of the closet is prevented by the slanting sides of the rack, as the broom more readily reaches the entire floor surface than with the regulation corner.

Like water off a duck's back!
J-M Roof Coatings make old roofs absolutely water-shedding

WATER runs off a roof treated with Johns-Manville Roof Coating like water off a duck's back. Even leaky composition or metal roofs may become absolutely water-shedding when treated with J-M Roof Coating. Not a drop of rain, sleet or melted snow can seep through!

When the roof has cracks or small holes, use J-M Fibrous Enamel. Its heavy asbestos fibre content bridges gaps and forms a protective membrane over the entire roof area. Regal Roof Coating, a similar material, but without the asbestos, can be used when the roof is in better condition.

All J-M Roof Coatings can be applied with a large brush. A simple treatment—yet it will make your old roof good for many more years. Full directions on every container.

Cotton

ew Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, May 4.—(AP)—A iet week-end session on the cotton arket today ended with active tures 5 to 19 points higher.

At the opening call most months ere a point or two lower, but the rly losses were quickly substituted r gains and the market advanced on ade buying and some week-end cov- ing. Reports of snow in the Ama- llo section also brought in a few uying orders.

Today's trading was a counterpart f earlier sessions this week, with rices holding at a narrow range and ctivities sluggish. Little activity is ooked for on either side of the market ntil the trading fraternity has some- hing constructive to work on either or purchases or sales.

May ended the week at 11.83, July t 11.86, October at 11.52, December t 11.60.

New York Stocks

By Victor Eubank

(Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, May 4. — (AP) — The stock market maintained its steady to firm appearance in today's brief session with all divisions of the list showing moderate improvement. Renewed activity in sugar shares was one of the features.

Leading commodities were indifferent. Wheat was a trifle lower in Chicago and corn could do no better than hold even. Cotton, however, rose modestly and bar silver was advanced 1-2 cent an ounce to 73 cents. Firmness was displayed by corporate bonds but U. S. governments were a shade lower. Foreign exchanges were quiet and without feature.

Cuban American sugar preferred got up 9 points and then slid back slightly but ended the session with a substantial gain. American Sugar preferred gained 3 and Great Western preferred added 4 to its quoted value. Others improving included Cuban American common, and South Porto Rico.

Favorites in other divisions showing improvement included Inland Steel, Republic Steel preferred, U. S. Steel, Du Pont, Chrysler, General Motors, J. I. Case, Sears-Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Westinghouse, Standard Oil of New Jersey, American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Pennsylvania, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Howe Sound, American Smelting, Cerro De Pasco and U. S. Smelting.

Week-end business news and political developments at Washington formed a picture having both highlights and shadows for market traders. The long-expected break in automobile production came to light when Cram's reported output for the week ended May 4 totaled 110,865 units against 110,970 in the previous week and 95,277 a year ago, but there was a sign of relief that the recession was so negligible and came in the midst of the industry's struggle with labor which was considered a mitigating factor.

News from Washington that received a prominent place in board room discussions included the admitted widening cleavage between President Roosevelt and whatever portion of the business world is represented by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and the evident determination of the senate to pass either the Patman or Vinson soldiers' bonus bill providing for an enormous cash outlay immediately.

EW METHOD OF APPLYING FINDS FAVOR

evised Application Procedure Swamps D. C. Office With Queries

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Revised application procedure under terms of the insured-mortgage plan of the Federal Housing administration has resulted in an unprecedented increase in the number of preliminary commitments granted by the District of Columbia office of the Federal Housing administration. If properly employed by Better Housing headquarters throughout the country, this method will result in creating a tremendous increase in the national volume of new building, according to J. K. Gilchrist, director for the District of Columbia.

New applications at District headquarters totaled $582,000 in 11 days after the new plan was put into effect.

By the new procedure, applicants may now apply directly to any office of the Federal Housing administration for preliminary interview, appraisal, and tentative approval of their requests for mortgage loans before approaching a bank or other financial institution authorized to make an insured-mortgage loan. Heretofore applications first were made at approved financial institutions before consultation with the Federal Housing administration.

Proof of Method

The effectiveness of the new procedure was pointed out by Mr. Gilchrist in glancing over his records. From January 1 to March 25, 1935, under the old procedure, 59 applications for insured mortgages, totaling approximately $375,000, had been approved by the District of Columbia offices of the Federal Housing administration. On March 25 the new procedure was instituted, and in 11 working days the total of $582,000 in new applications for insured mortgages poured into the offices of the director for the District of Columbia. Of this figure $187,600 represented new building.

"There is no doubt," Mr. Gilchrist explained, "that the practice of making first application to a Federal Housing administration office reveals thousands of dollars of potential new building that heretofore has not been discovered because of the difficulties and complications presented by the old method.

Much Detail

"Primarily, there is a certain amount of detail connected with the investigation of an application that can best be handled by trained workers such as are found in a Federal Housing headquarters. Each application requires approximately 45 minutes of the expert investigator's time before it may be determined whether or not the application should be eligible or not. Individual banks as a rule have not the same facilities to perform this service for the applicant. By the new set-up we eliminate a wealth of lost motion and greatly accelerate the approval of mortgage loans.

"Our trained investigators and appraisers thoroughly acquaint themselves with the details of each separate application, and, when tentative approval is granted, the applicant then goes to an approved financial institution of his own choice, having taken all preliminary steps toward obtaining a mortgage. Our new procedure is of great assistance to the potential mortgagor, as well as to the lending agency.

"Our own tremendous increase in volume of applications convinces us of the worth of the new method. If every Federal Housing office is having the same results, the national volume of new building and refunded mortgages under the National Housing act, in my opinion, should reach tremendous proportions by the end of the year."

Sunflower Seed Sales Make Crop Profitable

BISMARCK, N. C., May 4.(AP)—The lowly sunflower is becoming a profitable crop for the North Dakota farmer and home gardener.

Sunflower seeds have been placed on the market and are sold for eating purposes, being most popular among the Russian population.

E. W. Christensen of the livestock feeding section of the North Dakota agricultural college says sunflowers may be grown profitably as an ensilage crop instead of corn retired from cultivation by corn-hog contracts.

Modernized for Only $755

Courtesy Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co.

Above is shown "before and after" views of the grocery of Sam Friedman, Leeds, Mo., from which can be seen how economies in space and construction may be obtained from careful designing. The old store (shown above) was transformed into an attractive, sales-compelling establishment for an outlay of only $755. Mr. Friedman has stated that he can trace a 25-percent improvement in his business since making the repairs and alterations. Note how the smart modernistic store front sets off the merchandise on display, as contrasted with the haphazard appearance of the old store with its makeshift sidewalk racks and awkward appearance as a whole. The new grocery is of the "California type", with large doors supported on overhead rails that swing in behind the shelving on the left side of the building. The center doors are regular store-front type and are hung in the usual manner. A smart new sidewalk adds to the attractive appearance of the grocery. Modernization credit, as provided by the provisions of the National Housing Act, allows similar improvement opportunities to grocers throughout the country.

Architectural Group Is Important Concern

The firm of J. W. Smith and Associates, architects, as recently organized, will consist of the following members: J. W. Smith, D. Curtis Smith, Merl L. Padgett, and Wm. King Stubbs, all registered architects, licensed to practice in the state of Louisiana.

Mr. J. W. Smith, senior member of the firm, has been a practicing architect in the city of Monroe for the past 31 years, and the firm which he founded is one of the oldest in the state.

Mr. D. Curtis Smith has been a member of the firm since graduation in architecture from the University of Pennsylvania in 1923, and has had experience in every phase of architectural practice for the past 12 years.

Mr. Padgett has been connected with this office for seven years in the capacity of chief designer.

Mr. Stubbs has been in the employ of the firm for the past four years as designer and draughtsman.

Both of the new members of the firm are college graduates with degrees of bachelor of architecture, Mr. Padgett from Kansas State college '22 and Mr. Stubbs from Tulane university '31.

New Home Construction Aided By Title 2 Of FHA

Under the provisions of title 2 of the national housing act, the home-owner and prospective home-owner is given the simplest and cheapest financing that has ever been available. He is given an 80 per cent (maximum) mortgage, with interest at 5 per cent, and twenty years to retire it. This type of loan eliminates the dangerous and expensive second mortgage, and is available now.

About Article 2

First and foremost, it should be understood that the government is not advancing the money for these loans. It comes, rather, from properly qualified and approved local institutions—referred to as mortgagees; and all applications for loans should be directed to them.

Title 2 made into a law, a device known as MUTUAL MORTGAGE INSURANCE, whose function is to insure the payment of principal and interest of mortgages. This is an instrumentality of the federal government, and is operated under the supervision of the federal housing administration. It is a permanent measure and is designed to give both security and "turn-over" to the real estate mortgage market. Now for the details of the financing set-up.

Approved Mortgagees

All loans will be made by local institutions that have qualified under the requirements of the federal housing administration.

Procedure

For those wishing to apply for an insured mortgage loan, application must be made at the office of an approved mortgagee. Complete working drawing and specifications covering the proposed new home will be necessary; and a detailed application blank, setting forth facts pertaining to the applicant and the proposed new home, will be filled out.

Borrower's Requirements

The borrower must show a "reasonable" ability to make the payments called for under the terms of the mortgage. He will not be allowed to burden himself with an indebtedness which he cannot comfortably handle. His credit references will be investigated carefully.

Costs

Compared to the mortgage loan costs of the past, the expense to the borrower is most nominal. He will pay interest at the rate of 5 per cent, computed on a decreasing monthly balance; a service charge of 1-2 of 1 per cent per annum, based on a decreasing monthly balance; and a mortgage insurance premium of 1-2 of 1 per cent computed on the original face value of the mortgage. In addition—but for his benefit—he will be required to deposit, monthly, with the mortgagee, 1-12 of an amount estimated for annual taxes and special assessments; and 1-12 of his annual fire insurance premium.

There will be the ordinary charge which accompany any new mortgage, such as: continuation of title and legal opinion; appraisal fee—fixed by the FHA at $3 per $1,000 borrowed; and any reasonable brokerage fee which the mortgagee or leading agency may require.

Amortization

Twenty years is the maximum time allowed to pay off an insured loan. Because of the variation in time taken to repay the loan, the amounts required for payment of principal and interest will vary.

It will take a payment of approximately $9.80 per month to pay off a $1,000 loan in twenty years—including principal, interest, service charge, mortgage insurance, taxes and fire insurance. It will take a monthly payment of approximately $11.10 to pay off the same amount in 15 years.

Standards

Because the federal housing administration, through its instrumentality—the mutual mortgage insurance, is guaranteeing payment of principal and interest on the mortgages; it has a logical interest in the house that secures the mortgage. For that reason, the applicant's plans and specifications will be subjected to careful scrutiny by competent architects in the technical division of the FHA before a loan commitment is given.

Sound construction, good design, and neighborhood conformability will be the main requirements.

Londoners Bid Briskly On Early American Coin

LONDON, May 4.(AP)—An American three-penny piece., coined by New Englanders in 1652, was sold for $105 at auction here when several hundred early American coins were disposed of.

A "willow" shilling of the same year brought $75 and a sixpence $100. Most of the other coins, which sold for much less, were "oak tree" and "pine tree" shillings, coined in Massachusetts.

Hawthorne's tale, "The Great Carbuncle," recalled that the rich merchant, Ichabod Piganort, possessed a bin of pine tree shillings in which he rolled twice a day in order to enjoy his wealth to the full. Hence the phrase "rolling in wealth."

NEW CURB MART TO OPEN MONDAY

Formal opening of the Graves-Humphries curb market, located on Jackson street, opposite the Monroe public library, will be held all day Monday, J. R. Humphries, manager, announced Saturday. Special prizes will be awarded in connection with the occasion.

The curb market, said to be the first of its kind ever to be established in Monroe, extends for a distance of 120 feet. In addition to one large compartment which will be occupied by Mr. Humphries, there are 10 stalls, each 10 feet square.

Arrangements have been made to provide unusual conveniences for the patrons. The roof of the stalls extends over the sidewalk, so as to provide protection from sun and rain, and parking space has been provided in the lot at the rear of the structure for use when there is no available parking space in front.

Dr. J. Q. Graves, owner of the ground and buildings, said he saw an opportunity for providing a much-needed service, inasmuch as Monroe is large enough to have a curb market of modern city style.

This market is said to differ from the farmers' curb markets in that it will be operated throughout the year, instead of only during the local vegetable and fruit season, and some of the stalls will be operated by merchants of wide experience. Others will be occupied by prominent farmers who have heretofore demonstrated the quality of their products. Mr. Humphries said only high-class renters would be accepted for the buildings. The markets will carry complete lines of fruits, vegetables, chickens, eggs and other farm produce.

Mr. Humphries, a man with a college education, has had wide experience in merchandising, especially in self-service stores.

There is a total of 98,293 garages, service stations, and repair shops in the United States.

OPENING HELD BY NATURAL GAS CO.

Several Thousand Persons Visit Firm's New Establishment

In a setting of choice cut flowers and with an orchestra furnishing music that varied from the classic to the more popular selections, the Natural Gas company yesterday afternoon threw open its handsome new quarters on the ground floor of the newly reconstructed Woodmen building, Jackson and Harrison streets.

Between the hours of 3 and 10 p. m., it was estimated that several thousand people passed through the building and made careful inspection of the plant which embodies every feature that could be desired in an institution of this nature.

Officials of the company, including H. H. Reardon, president, J. H. Trousdale, vice-president, R. H. Oliver, Jr., secretary-treasurer, A. V. Miller, assistant to the president, and C. Alston Prophit, manager, received their guests while company employes as guides escorted the public through the building.

In addition to the large, perfectly lighted and completely equipped front offices, there are at the rear of the building such departments as the meter shop, the meter service distributing system, the billing department, the engineering department and special refrigerating department.

Much interest attached to the registrations whereby there were awarded the grand prizes for the fortunate ones.

The officials expressed themselves as well pleased over the complete success of the formal opening and of the widespread expressions of good will that were voiced by all present.

Two prizes were awarded last night at the close of the reception hours. The first prize, a refrigerator, was won by O. J. Smith, 204 South First street. The second prize, a hot water heater, was won by S. O. Williams, 108 Pargoud Drive.

Real Estate Transfers

W. S. Heard sold to Miss Fanny Bell Phillips, yesterday, lot 2 of block 1 of W. S. Heard and I. F. Wallace's first addition to West Monroe, fronting 51.57 feet on the west side of Trenton street, and lot 3 of the same block, fronting 49.76 feet on Trenton street, for a consideration of $500, it was learned at the office of the clerk of parish court.

J. E. Kincade sold to John Kincade a lot in square 4 of Zeigin's subdivision of the J. C. Ransom estate, for a consideration of $150.

SPEAKERS URGE PRESS FREEDOM

Meeting Held Prior To Convention Of National Association

NEW ORLEANS, May 4. (AP)—Speakers before the Press associations of Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Arkansas and Florida, meeting here today, demanded that freedom of the press be preserved.

The organizations were meeting in advance of the National Editorial association which convenes Monday in golden jubilee celebration.

T. M. Callahan, editor and publisher of the Lafayette, La., Advertiser, spoke in behalf of the Louisiana Press association.

"Don't tremble for the republic," said Mr. Callahan. "If we are satisfied to travel the highway prepared for us, it should be O.K. with us. But if we put out of our minds the idea that the world owes us a living, we must be prepared to be accused of ignoring human rights. We cannot have both liberty and security."

F. T. Raiford, publisher of the Selma, Ala., Times-Journal, delivered a ringing address for freedom of the press and denounced any attempt at the "gag rule." Mr. Raiford was the official representative of the Alabama Press association.

Speaking for Arkansas, Charles T. Evans, of Pine Bluff, warned likewise against abridging the press. He cited a prediction of the late Senator Thomas H. Carraway, of Arkansas.

Ten years ago, he said, Senator Carraway stated that business men should guard against the encroachment of government in the field of private business "or shortly we might behold the spectacle of some $2,000 a year clerk in Washington telling some operator of a million dollar business just how and what he ought to do."

"It was prophesy," said the speaker. "I leave it to you to say whether it has been fulfilled."

The state associations held separate and joint meetings. Their sessions furnished a prelude to the fiftieth anniversary celebration of the national body which was founded in 1885 in New Orleans and held its silver jubilee in this city 25 years ago.

Successful Play Staged By St. Matthew's School

Special praise was given to Alec MacKinnon and Winnie Breard, although the acting of all who participated was declared far above the average for an amateur production.

Despite the inclemency of the weather, good attendance was present.

Men's Brotherhood To Hold Meeting Monday

The Men's Brotherhood of the First Baptist church will hold its semi-monthly meeting at the church Monday at 7 p. m. After the dinner is served a denominational program is to be presented, the theme of which is to be "Cuba, Our Needy Neighbor."

L. B. Pettit will discuss "The Field;" Clarence Shumate will speak on "Beginnings of Our Work;" H. B. Cannon will talk on "Personnel and Equipment;" Dr. A. R. Doughty will explain "Goals and Needs."

Special music will be rendered by Miss Marjorie Lewis of Clarks, who is to play the accordion.

All men of the church are invited to attend this meeting and special emphasis is given to the fact that the time and hour have now been changed to the first and third Mondays at 7 p. m.

LEGION TO PLAN FOR OBSERVANCES

Memorial Day And Fourth Of July Program To Be Arranged

Preparations for Memorial day on May 30 and for the observance of July 4th will be made Monday night when the L. B. Faulk post, American Legion, holds its first session of the month, according to Commander Isador Liebreich.

The commander stated that it is proposed to have all veterans' associations participate in both events. While many may not be aware of the fact, Mr. Liebreich stated that there are now six veterans' groups in Ouachita parish. These are the three Legion posts, in Monroe, West Monroe and Sterlington, the Veterans of Foreign Wars post, the Disabled Veterans and the Spanish-American war groups.

Special exercises of appropriate nature will be held May 30 and graves of veterans will be decorated, according to present plans.

On July 4, a big celebration is proposed, details of which are to be announced later.

DALFERES ANNOUNCES ITINERARY OF MANN

Linden Dalferes, state service commissioner, announces dates of the itinerary of Gray A. Mann, assistant state service commissioner, in the fifth district during the period from May 20 to June 7, as follows:

Monday, May 20, Tullos, from 9 a.m. to 10:30 a.m., Columbia, noon to 5 p.m.; Tuesday, May 21, Monroe, all day; Wednesday, May 22, Bastrop, 9 a.m. to 12 noon, Farmerville, 2:30 to 5 p.m.; Thursday, May 23, Ruston, 9 a.m. to noon, Jonesboro, 1:30 p.m.-overnight; Friday, May 24, Winnfield, 9 a.m. to 11 a.m.

It is explained that the advance notices of the coming visits of Mr. Mann are sent out in sufficient time to enable persons to correspond with headquarters, 203 Masonic Temple building in New Orleans, relative to cases in which they are interested. This will permit the state service commissioner to review the files at the veterans' administration and to furnish the interested person with the present status of the claims prior to the visit of the assistant commissioner.

It is suggested that veterans be requested to bring with them all correspondence pertaining to their claims when calling on Mr. Mann.

Lighting equipment shows the highest percentage of fault in all state and city automobile inspections, while the second most frequent defect is found in braking.

E. CARROLL TO BACK PROJECTS

Leaders Discuss Plans At Meeting Of Chamber Of Commerce

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., May 4.—(Special)—Presiding officers and members of the governing bodies of East Carroll parish, at the chamber of commerce meeting here this week, agreed to support any government projects that might be obtained for East Carroll parish.

The parish governing bodies, the police jury, town council and school board united in the interest of securing projects. Speakers urging cooperation among the various bodies were C. A. Ross, parish farm agent; W. T. Mitchiner, president of the police jury; R. M. Alderholdt and W. A. Gibson, members of the police jury; Dr. T. G. Biggs, mayor of Lake Providence, and Judge F. X. Ransdell. Interested citizens who pledged their support were Mrs. A. S. Hill, Dr. J. P. Davis, J. B. Erwin, R. M. Annacker and George T. Hider.

Mark T. Goldstine, Red Cross representative, informed those at the meeting of the work rendered by the Red Cross to sufferers in the recent storm that swept this section and listed other steps to be taken for their benefit. J. Martian Hamley, parish assessor and delegate of the people of East Carroll to Washington to oppose the proposed Eudora spillway, told of the success of the trip.

LA. TECH OFFERS SPECIAL COURSE FOR WOMEN ONLY

RUSTON, La., May 4.—(Special)—Following requests from various sections of the state, the second annual short course for women will be held at Louisiana Tech from June 11 through June 20, Miss Alma Burk, director of the short course, announces.

The short course was inaugurated here last summer, and as the many women attending the school were very enthusiastic, it was decided to repeat the course, according to Miss Burk.

The women's course is being sponsored by the local branch of the American Association of University women with the cooperation of the federated clubs of Ruston.

There will be no fee charged those who wish to take the course and all women in this section of the state are invited to attend the daily lectures. Rooms in the girls' dormitory will be furnished free to those who have to come from any great distance. All applications for rooms should be sent to Miss Burk.

Courses will be offered in food and nutrition, dress designing, art, current affairs, family relationship, economic conditions, and nature study.

Choudrant

The T.E.L. Class held its regular monthly social meeting at the home of Mrs. J. C. McCann, with Mrs. C. B. Colvin and Mrs. Fred Emory as cohostesses. A lovely program was rendered. After the reports were made, contests and games were enjoyed. At the close, refreshments were served. The next meeting will be with Mrs. J. H. Frasier.

Those present were:Mesdames. Gipson, N. L. Walpole, W. A. Sanderson, L. K. Hammons, J. H. Frasier, McKenzie, H. M. Bagly, McCann, R. L. Terry, Fred Taylor, Lee Hester, O. W. Hogan, T. B. Alderson, Lumpkin Hogan, M. E. Kidd, C. B. Colvin, Fred Emory, Roane, Minnie Hammons, J. C. McCann.

The Woman's Missionary society of the Alabama Presbyterian church sponsored a very successful entertainment at their church when they were hosts to the Methodist and Baptist Missionary societies.

There was a good representation of the membership present. "Brotherly Love" was the topic of the afternoon.

Police Jury Advocates Passage Of 'Ford Bill'

TALLULAH, La., May 4.—(Special)—In response to a communication from the Police Jury Association of Louisiana the Madison parish police jury at its regular monthly meeting held here this week adopted a resolution advocating the passage in congress of the "Ford Bill" relative to the loan of RFC funds to counties or parishes. Copies of the resolution were sent to the house of representatives committee on banking, Chairman Jesse Jones, of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the American County association and to the Louisiana senators and representatives in congress.

Claiborne Farmers Will Talk AAA Abandonment

HOMER, La., May 4.—(Special)—For the purpose of entering protests against the abandonment of the AAA program, a parish-wide mass meeting of Claiborne parish farmers will be held at the city hall here Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, according to an announcement made here by Brodie Pugh, parish agricultural agent.

Speakers will be present to discuss the strength of the agricultural adjustment act and to determine the strength of its support.

Production Facilities Greatly Increased By Stewart-Warner Concern

According to information received by Monroe Furniture company, local distributors, Stewart-Warner corporation has prepared for 1935 business with greatly increased production facilities, having doubled the enormous amount of floor space used in the manufacture of 'Safety Zone' refrigerators. Stewart-Warner refrigerator volume for 1935 is confidently expected by factory officials to far exceed figures for 1934, greatest year in Stewart-Warner history, stated Manager Joe Isaacman of the local concern.

New models for 1936 are being developed and prepared to undergo "life" tests, a proving grounds where every model will be subjected to usage far more strenuous than normal use before being accepted for the regular line, it was stated.

A telegram from Frank A. Hiter, general manager of all Stewart-Warner and Alemite divisions, dispatched to Mr. Isaacman, expresses the enthusiasm for the new program felt at the factory, Mr. Hiter's telegram reads:

"We have doubled floor space used for manufacturing refrigerators. Our 1936 models are now developed and are being prepared for life tests. Based on these definite facts and material increase of our investment in this department of our business we can assure you of our plans for being bigger than ever in the refrigeration business in 1936 and beyond."

WESLEY UNION TO MEET

TALLULAH, La., May 4.—(Special)—The monthly meeting of the Wesley union composed of the Methodist young people's organizations of the churches of this section will be held in Tallulah Sunday afternoon. Miss Olive Emory, president of the union, will preside and a program in honor of Mothers' day will be rendered.

KATHRYN CARSON CONTEST WINNER

Weekly Cash Prize Is Awarded For Sally Myles Coloring

The weekly prize of $5 cash awarded in the Sally Myles comic cutout contest was given last week by decision of the judges to Kathryn Carson, Morningside addition. The winning entry was one of hundreds received last week as more and more young folks throughout this section realized the opportunity to win one of one thousand cash prizes in the easy comic coloring contest.

The winning coloring was simply colored and represented just a few minutes fun. In just the same way one thousand people are going to win valuable prizes, including a first prize of $1,000 in the Sally Myles comic cutout contest which you can read about in the Monroe News-Star or World. It is necessary only to cut out five comics in accordance with the rules of the contest printed in the News-Star-World and you will have a wonderful opportunity to be one of the prize winners.

There is still time for you to win. Just send two colorings before Thursday of this week.

See the Myles salt advertisement in this newspaper Thursday. It gives you the complete rules, so make up your mind not to wait any longer to join in the fun but be one of the prize winners.

"Put it into a Trust Fund"

The grand old man, Oliver Wendell Holmes, Justice of United States Supreme Court, died several weeks ago, leaving a will, in which he bequeathed one half of his $550,000 estate to the United States Government, to dispose as they saw fit.

For two weeks Congress has been buzzing: "What shall we do with it?" Five different bills for disposition of the fund have been entered—some to buy law books for Supreme Court—some to buy portraits of former Supreme Justices—etc.

So this week President Roosevelt enters into, and perhaps settles the controversy. He sends a message to Congress, urging that the Holmes' bequest be put into a Trust Fund, and be not spent "until after ample deliberation."

SOCIETY Morning World FASHIONS

SUNDAY NEWS-STAR

MAY 5, 1935

The society photographer caught prominent members of the Junior Charity league in this charming, informal pose in the beautiful gardens of the Elmer Slagle home, where they were enjoying a social hour. The chief topic of conversation was the year's project and the work assigned to each member. Reading from left to right, they are: Mrs. Nathan Gaston, Mrs. R. C. Sparks, Jr., Mrs. John Theus, Mrs. Bridger Thornhill, Miss Sue Graves, Mrs. Joseph Isaacman, Mrs. Franklin Shaw (president), Mrs. Harry Frazer, Mrs. Merrill Flower Bush, Mrs. Prioleau Ellis, Jr., chairman of finance.

Miss Francine Loeser, beautiful and talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Loeser, who made her debut in amateur theatrical circles in this city as the leading feminine character in the Little Theater production "The Cajun." Portrait by Downing.

Monroe Junior Charity League Sponsors Fine Project

By Eve C. Bradford

WHAT is the Junior Charity league coming to? Back in the days of its inception its members pursued all the ladylike hobbies (sewing a fine seam, for instance), but they have progressed step by step until today they are maintaining with a remarkable degree of success a free clinic at St. Francis sanitarium.

Hundreds of babies of Monroe—future citizens of the state—owe an incalculable debt of gratitude to this group of young women who more than four years ago banded themselves together to render service to underprivileged infants of this community.

Today 1,500 babies are on the rolls of the Charity league's clinic, an institution that has probably done more to save infants for citizenship and the privileges and opportunities of useful living than any other single agency in this city.

The notion largely prevails that the Junior Charity league is an organization devoted to social purposes. Well, it is—in the best sense of the term, a term that implies a betterment of the social order for those who come into the world without the advantages of affluence, healthy and happy home environments.

The Junior Charity league is not devoted to the interests of the upper tiers of society, though it is from that elements of the social order its ranks are recruited. It was brought into being with serious purpose, and its field of usefulness is constantly expanding, engaging the earnest activities of 75 young women whose first concern is the welfare of the babies brought under the ministering care of the clinic. The "75" is a magic number. It represents the fixed limit of membership, and a list of expectant members is always waiting to fill any vacancies that occur. The original league had a limit of 60 members, but this was increased to an additional 15 in order to permit a larger group to participate in the worthy activities of the organization.

Mrs. F. A. Shaw, Jr., is the president for 1935. The first president was Mrs. Ed Seymour. Others who have served in the office since its beginning are Mrs. J. Hunter Thatcher, Mrs. Ron Lee Davis and Mrs. Walter Black.

Lovely Bridge Affair Honors Mrs. Oswald

Garden flowers in all the exquisite rainbow shades were arranged with meticulous care by Mrs. Arthur Dryburgh in the reception suite of her attractive home Thursday afternoon when she gathered a few congenials together for bridge, complimentary to Mrs. C. H. Oswald of Portland, Ore.

The gifts presented for high bridge scores, pastel shaded summer purses, were claimed by Mrs. D. A. Bradford and Mrs. G. B. Cooley. Mrs. Oswald received a white summer purse for remembrance.

Luscious refreshments, chicken salad, refreshing parfait in tall crystal glasses and open-faced sandwiches were served at beautifully appointed linen covered tables to Mrs. Oswald, Mrs. H. R. Speed, Mrs. Gordon Cummings, Mrs. Albert Horuff, Mrs. J. B. Vaughan, Mrs. Frank Farmer, Mrs. Gladys Sperry, Mrs. T. G. Easterling, Mrs. D. A. Bradford, Mrs. B. Granary, Mrs. G. B. Cooley, Mrs. J. H. Trousdale Mrs. A. L. Harrington.

Lovely Bridge Affair

Mrs. Lester Jacobs entertained Saturday afternoon at bridge complimentary to her house guest, Mrs. J. L. Patterson of St. Louis. A profusion of beautiful garden flowers created a colorful setting for the guests who enjoyed to the fullest the many courtesies offered by the hostess and the pleasure of meeting the guest of honor.

Mrs. Patterson for high bridge score received a piece of Fostoria crystal and for remembrance from her hostess received a pair of oval silhouettes. Mrs. George Tidwell received a piece of crystal ware for consolation.

Luscious refreshments were served at the linen covered card tables to Mrs. Patterson, Mrs. Marvin Parnell, Mrs. Charles Brozan, Mrs. H. H. Dortch, Mrs. J. L. Humble, Mrs. Thomas Monk, Mrs. George Tidwell, Mrs. M. L. Coleman, Mrs. Dewey Simmons, Mrs. Myrtle Jacobs.

Miss Florence Ferguson, charming young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Ferguson, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Mr. Victor Davis has just been announced. This nuptial event of unusual social prominence will be a brilliant event of the month of June. Portrait by Montgomery.

Brilliant Reception At Northeast Center L. S. U.

The interest of people in this community is centered in the reception at Northeast Center of L. S. U. Monday night between the hours of eight and eleven with Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Colvert and Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. James A. Noe receiving in honor of Dr. and Mrs. James Monroe Smith of Baton Rouge, La.

Dr. Smith, president of the Louisiana State university, is anticipating the pleasure of meeting the people of this community on such a gracious occasion.

This reception, bringing together in cordial and sincere manner people from all walks of life will no doubt be the means of creating a greater appreciation for this splendid institution that plays such an important part in the cultural, and educational life of the entire parish. It will also mark the close of the most successful year in every department of the university.

Development Of Poetry In The State Urged By The Chairman Federated Clubs

Mrs. Patrick J. White of Shreveport, chairman of poetry division of the Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs has the following interesting remarks to make in regard to the development of poetry in the state:

As a greater stimulus to the appreciation and development of poetry we are establishing a speakers bureau by enlisting the interest and cooperation of the English teachers of the various education institutions of Louisiana. These written lectures on Poetry Appreciation, study and creative writing will be available to all clubs of the Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs by making application to the state chairman of poetry. This service will be established without fee and we feel that the affiliation and fellowship will bring a community of understanding and high development to all interested.

We urge that one program of poetry study and appreciation be given by each club during their year's work, preferably during national poetry week which is the fourth week of May. If such meetings are held, please make report to your federated chairman. And for a fuller cooperation in this movement that the clubs establish public poetry readings which have been so successfully carried out in recent London season.

We will hold a poetry contest each year, a poet's congress, time and date to be announced later, and we will establish an anthology of Louisiana poets under the sponsorship of this department of the Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs.

Rules for poetry contest: Subject, optional; form, optional; length, not to exceed 28 lines. All poems must be typed on one side of paper, signed in full, and if to be returned to author, accompanied by a self-addressed, stamped envelope. All material for contest sent to Mrs. P. J. White, chairman of poetry, Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs, 2703 Fairfield avenue, Shreveport, La.

The contest will close September 1, 1935, and no material will be considered after closing date.

There will be three prizes, first, second and third, and prizes will be awarded at the convention in October, 1935.

The three years work of this division will be divided as follows: Poetry Appreciation, Poetry Study and Poetry Creation.

The first year's work in poetry appreciation we will stress the modern poets by study, reading and lectures.

We submit the following list: Reading list of modern poets—Walt Whitman, T. S. Elliott, Edwin A. Robinson, Robert Frost, Ezra Pound, Vachel Lindsay, Edna St. Vincent Millay, Sara Teasdale, Lis Reese, David Morton, Alfred Kingsbury, Harriet Monroe, Stephen Benit, Wallace Stearns, The Book of Modern Verse, the Second Book of Modern Verse, Dessie Rittenhouse.

Text Books (beginners) An Introduction to the Study of Poetry, Kirk-McCutcheon; The Art of Versification, Esenwine; Off to Arcady, Hertzberg, American Book Co., N. Y. Text books (advanced)—Modern American Poetry, Untermeyer, Harcourt-Brace Co., New York City, N. Y. A City Day—French, Ronald Press Co., New York City, N. Y. Contemporary Poetry—Margaret Wilkinson, McMillan, New York.

PRESIDENT OF BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL WOMEN'S CLUB

Miss Mary O'Kelly, outstanding business woman of this city, who will guide the destiny of the Business and Professional Women's club of this city during the coming year. Miss O'Kelly is a charter member of the Monroe club and has played a most important part in all club activities since organization. Miss O'Kelly, assisted by other officers and members of the club, are now hard at work completing plans for the entertainment of delegates during the state convention in this city on the seventeenth of May.

Louisiana Federation Of Fifth District Women's Clubs Meets In Vidalia

The Vidalia Garden club and the Ferriday Woman's club were hostesses to the annual meeting of the fifth district, Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs, last week.

The meeting, which was largely confined with the business affairs of the district, was presided over by the president, Miss Lillie May Long of Delta.

Following the formal opening of the meeting, the assembly sang "The Star Spangled Banner." Mrs. J. Martin Hamley of Lake Providence led the salute to the flag. Rev. C. G. Bruce pronounced the invocation which was followed by a cordial welcome by the mayor, Mr. E. W. Vogt, of Ferriday.

Miss Sarah Jones, parish librarian, welcomed the visitors on behalf of the hostess clubs. Miss Jones, said that in her experiences she found men who disliked to work with women for the reason that they were rank individualists. This, Miss Jones denied on the part of club women who have learned the technique of functioning in an organization. Mrs. E. C. Gibson of Monroe graciously responded to Miss Jones.

Mr. N. C. Williamson was the guest speaker of the day. His subject was the Bankhead cotton control act. He explained the functions of the act and the processing tax involved. The processing tax is borne by the consumer, and is not collected until the cotton goods are sold. The tax is the source of revenue from which rental is paid to the planter who reduces his cotton acreage, renting the idle land to the government. Mr. Williamson believes the planter as well as the community, is in better financial condition as a result of the Bankhead act by 100 per cent. He urged women to take more interest in politics as it has become a serious and solemn duty; further, the responsibility of future citizenship rests with the women, for they mold the opinions and beliefs of their children.

Mrs. Joseph K. Walker, Shreveport, state director of L. F. W. C. gave the federation address of the day, responding to requests for information regarding the triennial which will be held in Detroit June 4 to 12. She also gave information on the workings of the state federation, by request.

Mrs. B. H. Talbot of Ruston, district chairman of American Home gave a splendid report of the year's activities, and offered a number of pamphlets on the American Home which afford excellent material for programs.

Mrs. Carey J. Ellis, Rayville, chairman of International Relations, introduced plans for the coming year which will be featured by an address by Dr. Fadra Holmes Wilson of L. S. U.

Mrs. C. B. Haddon, St. Joseph, chairman of conservation, spoke in behalf of our wild animal life as well as plant life. She warned against the deadly widow spider which has recently appeared in numbers. The widow spider is black and about one-half inch in length.

Mrs. D. H. Christman of Shreveport, state chariman of art, spoke on the state contest in art and the art contest of the Shreveport fair. The rules and information will be given in a separate article.

Mrs. John Shuttleworth who is fondly called the dean of Louisiana club women, graced the assembly with her vivid personality, giving one of her wiity addresses the theme of which was her beloved Loan Scholarship Fund. Doubtless there are hundreds of girls and boys who will revere the name of Mrs. Shuttleworth for life's opportunity she has afforded them.

Mrs. Addison Thompson gave an enthusiastic report on the club institute which was recently held at L. S. U. Mrs. Thompson believes the club institute has untold possibilities and will be a great force in club circles in time.

Prizes in the poster contest which was inaugurated by the district president, Miss Lillie May Long, went to the Welcome Branch Twentieth Century Book club, first prize; the Carroll Women's club and the Civic club of Lake Providence tied for second place; third prize was won by the Junior Literary club of Rayville.

Reports of clubs attested to the fact that women's clubs are potent factors in the social, civic and political life of their communities. Two new clubs were admitted to the federation; the Mother's club of Delhi and the Woman's Departmental club of Oak Grove, both new clubs making very creditable reports.

The registration committee reported seven state officers present, eight district officers, 39 delegates, 29 visiting club women and 10 visitors. The following towns were represented: Delhi, Shreveport, Tallulah, Ruston, Rayville, St. Joseph, Lake Providence, Newellton, Monroe, West Monroe, Oak Grove, Vidalia, Ferriday, Shaw, Alto and Delta.

Mr. C. A. Braun of Sedalia, Mo., is enjoying a visit in the home of his son, Mr. C. B. Braun and Mrs. Braun.

Department Of Art Sponsors A State Contest

The art department of the Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs is sponsoring an art contest for all state artists.

Each woman's club in the state where there are local artists is asked to hold an exhibit sometime in advance of the state convention, at least two weeks before the convention. The best works of art in any medium are chosen. The manner of judging this local contest is left to the local clubs. The winners in the home contests are to be sent to the state convention in the fall where all entries are judged by competent jurymen, and three prizes are given: first, second ($10, $5) and honorable mention.

Rules governing State Federation art contests:

All contestants must be residents of the state.

Paintings must be original work, not a copy, and without the aid of a teacher.

An exhibitor will be awarded but one premium. Honorable mention will be given but carries no reward.

The fine arts department of the General Federation of Women's Clubs again announces a contest in community festivals or other fine arts projects, and offers the following prizes: First prize, $50; second prize, $15; third prize, $10.

The contest is open to all states except those winning prizes in the community fine arts festivals contest of the last administration.

The contest will be conducted through the fine arts chairman of the State Federation; each club of the federation shall submit its report to the state chairman of fine arts, who will select the winning report for her state.

Activities to be considered must have taken place between dates of July 1, 1932, and April 15, 1935.

The judges will be: Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, past president General Federation; Mme. Olga Samaroff, Julliard foundation, graduate school, New York; Count Rene d'Harnoncourt, American Federation of Arts.

With each report shall be filed the name of the club and name of town and state in a separate sealed envelope, which shall not be opened until decision of judges has been made. It is important that reports shall give size of town, size of club and approximate number of persons interested in and benefited by the project.

Prize winning reports will be part of the fine arts program at the triennial convention to be held in Detroit, Mich., in June, 1935, at which time the prizes will be awarded to the successful states.

There is an inclination in this time of so much ready-made entertainment to overlook not only our art treasures, but the capabilities of human beings. A talent neglected deteriorates; ability not used grows less and less; until our communities come to reflect this inactivity. Plan a community festival, which will include historical pageants, plays and exhibitions; art objects, including paintings, sculpture and handicrafts. Get your musicians and writers together, both youth and adults; revive the spirit of play and good fellowship. There will come an entirely new feeling of pride in ownership of choice art objects.

Such a review is a tonic for the spirit and a spur to constant present effort to appreciate the beautiful. Each community is free to make its own plan. An ideal plan would be to hold a program in some community building large enough to accommodate all the various activities and exhibits of the festival. A luncheon, tea or dinner may be served as a means of stimulating social contact.

The luncheon hour makes a fine setting for the reading of prize poems and stores and awarding of prizes to successful contestants.

As a grand finale, a bridal review is suggested for the evening program, in which the bridal procession will not be merely a costume pageant, but shall be local history on parade as young women of today appear in velvet, silk, satin or muslin gowns worn by brides of other days. Our juniors would make charming models for a bridal revue.

The central thought for these festivities should be to develop a program that will appeal to the largest number possible through encouragement of all available talents. In this undertaking the small club has the same opportunity as the large one, since the basis of award is to be the successful effort toward raising the cultural standard of the community.

Last, but not least in importance, is the penny art fund contest. This fund is handled by the state art chairman. She purchases with the money pieces of American art to be presented at the state annual meeting to the clubs doing most to raise the standard of beauty and spread the knowledge of art in their communities.

It is hoped that every club will send in their pennies; a penny for every member, once a year, with reports from state chairmen.

Affectionate Interest Of Friends Is Centered In The Marriage Of Mr. Allen Smith

The sincere and affectionate interest of friends in Monroe is centered in the announcement of the marriage of Mr. Allen Lewis Smith, son of Mrs. P. A. Poag, of this city on the twenty-ninth of April in Woodville, Miss. The following account of the wedding appeared in the Woodville Republican:

The Woodville Methodist church was the scene of a simple, but lovely wedding on Monday, April 29, at high noon when Miss Margaret Davis Lewis became the bride of Mr. Allen Lewis Smith of Monroe, La. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. P. McKeown. Mrs. P. M. Stockett, organist, gave an appropriate program of nuptial music.

The decorations in the old church, for more than a century the place of worship in the bride's family, were unusually artistic and beautiful. Long sprays of southern smilax against the chancel and over the adjacent windows formed a background of green. Within the chancel space handsome ferns were effectively grouped while maiden hair ferns growing luxuriantly in long boxes bordered the altar rail and the choir loft with their delicate, lacy fronds. Easter lilies, arranged in tall vases, added additional charm to the nuptial setting.

Immediately after the ceremony an informal luncheon was served at the bride's home for the families and out-of-town friends of the young couple. Shortly thereafter the bride and groom left for a week's motor trip to Florida. Her going away costume was a suit of navy blue light wool crepe.

Mrs. Smith is the second daughter of the late Mr. Robert Lewis and of Mrs. Lewis. The Lewis family has been connected with the history of Woodville for more than a hundred years. Soon after the War Between the States, her grandfather, Capt. John S. Lewis, assumed the editorship of The Woodville Republican, a newspaper in continuous existence at that time for almost fifty years. At his death her father succeeded him, successfully editing the paper for thirty-five years. Since that time Mrs. Smith has been the associate editor, the third generation in the management of what is now the oldest business institution in Mississippi. Mrs. Smith is a graduate of Newcomb college and a member of Chi Omega sorority.

Mr. Smith is the son of Mrs. P. A. Poag of Monroe, La. After graduating from the Monroe high school he attended the University of North Carolina for two years and was graduated from the law department of Tulane university. He is a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. He is now connected with the Universal Credit corporation of Jackson and will have his week-end headquarters in Woodville where he and his bride expect to make their home with her mother.

Attending the wedding from Monroe were Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Poag and son, P. A., Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kellogg, Mr. James Cox, Mr. Henry Bernstein and Mr. Lealis Hale.

Personalities

THINGS I PARTICULARLY LIKE . . .

Soft patter of rain and the fragrance of honeysuckle on the night air.

The orderly row of crimson tulips along the walk at the power plant.

The first sweet peas with their glorious rainbow colors.

The purring sound of big black automobiles gliding along wet pavements.

Mrs. Walter Bubb's happy little family and the return of "Buddy" to the fold.

To hear water splashing in garden pools hedged in with dense shrubbery.

White catalpa blossoms drifting down on the velvety lawn in the John Fox gardens.

THINGS TO LOOK FORWARD TO . . .

Presentation of sparkling musical comedy, "Bon Voyage" at Neville auditorium.

SHIFTING SCENES . . .

Symphony of hammering in every section of the city where new buildings are being erected . . . swish of water along the river front where pleasure craft bob up and down . . . nautical minded men in greasy dungarees getting house boats ready for the summer season . . . crunching of peanuts in the grandstand at Forsythe park where the crack of the bat is now being heard . . . urchins storming from the classroom to the open lots with bat and glove . . . housewives chasing dust and shifting furniture . . . odor of fresh paint . . . happy animals at the rebuilt zoo at Bernstein park, where there is more room, more shade and more visitors . . . children begging for nickels to buy peanuts from the venders plying their trade every Sunday afternoon at the zoo . . . housewives busily engaged in storing up shining glasses of mayhaw jelly . . . dime letters flooding the mails.

CHARMING YOUNG MATRONS . . .

Mrs. Nathan Gaston wearing brown ensemble with brown "off-the-face" hat.

Mrs. R. C. Sparks, Jr., wearing blue flowered print with blue accessories.

Mrs. Janette Powell in white sport outfit.

Mrs. Archie Melgren wearing a crimson velvet evening coat.

"CUTIE", I THINK YOUR SYSTEM FOR PREVENTING THE BULLS FROM SURPRISING YOU IN THE NIGHT IS GREAT.

SURE! I LIVE IN MY HOUSE IN THE DAYTIME, AND SLEEP IN MY WILDCAT-GUARDED CAVE AT NIGHT.

CHESTER GOULD

GEE, I'M ANXIOUS TO SEE HOW IT WORKS AGAIN.

YOU SEE, WE CAN SLEEP IN PERFECT SAFETY IN THE CAVE BECAUSE THE ONLY ENTRANCE IS THROUGH THIS DOOR.

LOOK AT THOSE BABIES! EACH A REAL MAN-KILLING OZARK WILDCAT, OR BOBCAT, AS SOME PEOPLE CALL 'EM.

THE BARS ON EACH SIDE ALLOW US TO WALK THROUGH TO THE SLEEPING ROOM OF THE CAVE.

THEN WHEN I'M INSIDE, I REACH UP AND PULL THE ROWS OF BARS RIGHT BACK LIKE THIS, SEE?

NOW ANYBODY THAT COMES INTO THIS ROOM BACK HERE HAS GOT TO WALK THROUGH THAT ROOM OF WILDCATS FIRST! VICIOUS KILLERS THEY ARE TOO. I KEEP 'EM HALF-STARVED SO THEY'RE GOOD AND HUNGRY.

"CUTIE"- IT'S GREAT! IT'S ABSOLUTELY PERFECT!

YOU'VE GOT BETTER PROTECTION THAN IF YOU HAD THE MARINES OUT THERE, "CUTIE"!

BUT THOSE CATS! HOW CAN YOU SLEEP WITH THEM SNARLING AND JUMPING OUT THERE?

MEANWHILE, LET US GET BACK TO DICK TRACY, PAT AND YELLOWPONY.....

OUR SPLITTING UP AND SCOUTING THE COUNTRY IN THREE DIFFERENT DIRECTIONS WAS A GREAT IDEA! NOW WE KNOW WE'VE GOT OUR QUARRY SPOTTED.

AND YELLOWPONY WAS THE LUCKY ONE. HIS TERRITORY WAS THE ONE THAT YIELDED FRUIT.

FOR HOURS ME LAY ON BELLY WATCHING THE HOUSE. FIRST, NO SEE ANYBODY-THEN SOON YELLOWPONY SEE ARSON, HIS SISTER, AND ANOTHER WHITE MAN - THEY GO IN THAT CAVE OVER THERE IN HILL... ..NO COME OUT!

YEAH? WELL... WE'D BETTER TAKE A LOOK IN THE HOUSE FIRST, ANYWAY.

MAY 5:

HOUSE EMPTY- NOBODY IN ROOMS. ME TAKE RIFLE FROM BEDROOM.

SEE, TRACY! YELLOWPONY'S RIGHT. THEY MUST BE IN THAT CAVE.

WE MUST BE CAREFUL BOYS - IT MAY BE A TRAP.

WELL-THEY MAY BE IN THERE.. BUT IT LOOKS SCREWY TO ME.

HEY IN THERE.. COME ON OUT IN THE NAME OF THE LAW- UNDERSTAND? HEY-YOU IN THERE!

LET'S PUSH THE DOOR DOWN!

YELLOWPONY GO IN - SHOOT 'EM OUT.

TAKE IT E-A-S-Y, BOYS - TAKE IT EASY!

Observance Of National Music Week Reminds Us Love Of Music Is Universal

The merrie month of May when all nature is in tune and even the stars make harmony as they revolve in their spheres, is indeed the fitting time for observance of National Music week.

It has been said that one is scarcely sensible to fatigue while he marches to music. This no doubt explains the stirring music of war time and the beating of drums in time to marching feet. "Music is a universal lanugage." It is an irresistible language. In associations, in memory, a snatch of a song or a few bars of a melody will create almost any emotion. That warm, pleading hymn, "Lead Kindly Light" came to be the symbol of the tragedy of Preisdent McKinley to the last generation. It was his favorite hymn; a nation listened to its somber tones at his funeral. When the Titanic sank, another hymn achieved a new memory and a new immortality to a new generation. The ship's band playing "Nearer My God to Thee" as the great ship lowered slowly into the icy waters of the Atlantic made it an eternal musical symbol of the greatest marine tragedy of modern times.

"Tipperary" to all England and "Over There" to Americans have an eloquence in reviving war memories that words can never achieve. The rousing, vibrant qualities of "John Brown's Body" is one expression of the militant, marching spirit. "Onward Christian Soldiers" is still another, different in mood somewhat. As a few bars of music they express a feeling that might not be achieved in pages of dialogue. Behind the swinging rhythm of "East Side, West Side" who fails to see the face of Al Smith? Who fails to see the drunk in the melody of "How Dry I Am?" People believe that Roosevelt was elected on the strength of "Happy Days Are Here Again." Exaltation and jubilation and deep religious fervor is reflected in Stainer's glorious masterpiece "The Crucifixion."

Music will vibrate in every corner of this city during observance of National Music week. Rousing choruses, plaintive organ music, brilliant recitals, musical comedies, will round out one of the most complete programs ever presented in this city.

The week's activities will be climaxed by announcement of the winners in the Louisiana Federated Music Clubs contest over the radio at 5:45 p. m.

Marriage Of Miss Ferguson And Mr. Davis Will Be Lovely Event Of The Month Of June

Miss Ferguson, a young woman of distinctive personality and a general favorite in this city where she was born and reared, is one of the loveliest members of Monroe's younger social world. She was graduated from the Monroe high school and Sophie Newcomb college, New Orleans. Miss Ferguson is a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority and the Monroe chapter Pan Hellenic society.

LITTLE THEATER NOTES

On Tuesday, May 14, at the Central Grammar school auditorium, the Little Theater of Monroe will present "Hay Fever," a decidedly clever and sophisticated play by Noel Coward.

It is always fascinating to play with titles, and "Hay Fever," because of what the name implies, may deceive you a bit. We can assure you that there are no sneezes in it, and whether we have interpreted its meaning correctly or not, remains for Noel Coward to tell us.

We do know, however, that hay fever, in reality, is a most annoying affliction that occurs in the spring, and certainly the Bliss family is annoyed individually and collectively, when each member casually announces that he has invited a guest for the week-end, and there is only one guest room!

Judith Bliss, the mother, is a retired actress to whom all the world is literally a stage. David, her husband, is a novelist, and Simon and Sorel, their ill-mannered children. Judith invites as her guest a youth who has been smitten with her celebrated actress glamour; David asks a flapper, a type he wishes to study for a novel; Sorel, a suave, middle-aged diplomatist, and Simon, a woman of the world. The outcome of the situation is most amusing, with Clara, Judith's dresser, the only maid that this ultra-Bohemian family has ever been able to keep, doing all the work.

The characters of the play are: Judith Bliss, Lailage Feazel; David, her husband, Herman Chapman; Simon, their son, James Cavaness; Sorel, their daughter, Edith Townes; Sandy Tyrell, an infatuated youth, Hammond Worrell; Jackie Coryton, a flapper, Sitty McNeil; Myra Arundel, a worldly woman, Cora Mae Calder; Richard Greatham, a diplomatist, John Daniel; Clara, Judith's dresser, Gladys Rhodes.

Black and White Holds Sway Morning, Noon and Night

By Adelaide Kerr
(Associated Press Fashion Editor)

PARIS—(AP)—Black and white is the "dernier cri" in springtime chic. The combination long loved by French women is smarter then ever this season and appears in every type of clothes for every hour of the day from luncheon to supper.

White collars and neck touches which appear on this year's crop of frocks are modern and distinctive. Flat little schoolgirl collars of white pique finished with small neat bows, organdy collars which curl out from the throat like the petals of a flower, star-shaped linen collars, "paper" collars made of a new glazed linen cutout to resemble lace and even white rubber jabots are all seen.

Capes Are White, Too

The vogue for black and white goes on by night. Crisp black taffetas splashed with white dots or flowers fashion evening frocks, black dinner suits are topped by white jackets and white evening gowns are accompanied by sheer black tulle capes.

Musical Play 'Bon Voyage' To Be Presented

Considerable interest is manifested by the public generally over the presentation of the sparkling musical comedy, "Bon Voyage," at the Neville high school auditorium Wednesday night under the direction of Mrs. Minnie Ruffin and Miss Beryl Madison.

The public is requested to bear in mind that this musical will be in the form of a benefit and are requested to put forth every effort to be present. The proceeds will be devoted to the fund for the beautiful concert grand piano placed in the auditorium and at the disposal of the entire city.

Blanche Oliver, writer, composer, and dramatic entertainer, was inspired to write the following lines in regard to the piano fund:

In the Neville auditorium,
That's big as an emporium,
A lovely piano sits upon the stage,
That was bought for all the city,
And the theme of my poor ditty
Is—that piano must be freed from its mort-gage!

Now the music clubs they proferred
All the help that could be offered,
But a lack of ready cash has been their curse,
And for culture we are striving
Ev'ry day to keep arriving,
And not to let ourselves run in reverse.

Here's your chance—we beg you take it,
For that payment—we must make it;
Don't forget—that piano, it was bought for you.
So on Wednesday night at eight,
Come to Neville—don't be late,
To the operetta "Bon Voyage"—please do!

Mrs. J. T. McMaster of McComb, Miss., is spending the week-end in Monroe as guest of her sister, Mrs. George Ratchford, and brother, J. E. Thomas.

Month Of May Dedicated To Child Health

May day may have been a day of communist parades, of labor rallies, or flower baskets hung on door handles, or it may have been just another first of the month with a new leaf on the calendar and a sheaf of bills in the mail. But to those who value the well-being of children—and what American does not?—it was a day dedicated to child health.

No more babies strangled to death by the thick gray membrance of diphtheria in their throats, no more children tossing feverishly with aching throats in their struggle to throw off the poison of the diphtheria germ—in short, no more diphtheria is the aim this year of the groups that sponsor May day as child health day.

The means of accomplishing this aim are at hand. The prick of a hypodermic needle, one or two doses of safe and potent toxoid injected into the arm or leg of a susceptible child or baby, and lasting protection against diphtheria is gained.

"Immunize Now—Stamp Out Diphtheria" is the slogan. What does it mean? It means that in a little over fifty years ago two scientists, Klebs and Loeffler, discovered the diphtheria germ and grew it on artififcial food mediums; that shortly after, Von Behring in Germany and Roux in Paris developed antitoxin, the antidote to the poison of the diphtheria germ; that since then there have been developed a test (the Schick test) for telling whether or not a child is susceptible to diphtheria, and two substances, toxin-antitoxin, more recently, toxoid, for giving susceptible children resistance to the disease.

Diphtheria can be wiped out completely, health and medical authorities state. In some localities the goal is already in sight. The American Child Health association started its final drive to victory on the first of May this year.

Enpassant

The paintings of Mrs. Virginia Thurman Cole, of Columbus, Ohio, will be on view in the Herbert Levy studio, North Third street, corner of Jefferson street, today between 3 and 5 o'clock. The public is invited to attend the exhibition. Fourteen canvasses, including Louisiana and Cape Cod landscapes, in addition to portrait and character studies, are included in the showing.

Miss Kay Powell completed a visit of several weeks with Miss Florence Ziegler and returned to her home in Chicago Friday night. Miss Powell delighted Monroe audiences with her beautiful mezzo-soprano voice and charming dramatic ability on several occasions and also appeared as guest artist on the Shreveport Women's Department club program and as soloist for the Shreveport Symphony orchestra.

Mrs. R. C. Boswell and daughter, Martha Jean of Bristol, Virginia, are guests of Mrs. Boswell's father, Judge Charles Schulze, and sisters, Mrs. Clyde Sanders and Mrs. Fred Culpepper.

Miss Dorothy McComb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Parker McComb of this city, writes in the most enthusiastic college girl manner of the sail boat race in the annual regatta at the College of Industrial Arts at Denton, Texas, where she is a member of the freshman class. Miss McComb and Miss Elma Cochran represented the freshman class in the regatta and captured the cup.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Jacobs had as their house guests for the past week Mr. Jacob's mother, Mrs. Myrtle H. Jacobs, her sister, Mrs. J. L. Patterson, and daughter, Betty Colleen, and niece, Miss Virginia Lee Jacobs, of St. Louis, Mo.

Mrs. Patterson will be remembered in this city as Miss Elberta Jacobs.

Noble Work Is Being Carried On By Group Of Women Under St. Francis Auxiliary Banner

The annual observance in this city of National Hospital day reminds us that a great work is being carried on in Monroe at St. Francis sanitarium where a children's free ward is being conducted by members of the St. Francis auxiliary. With the advent of National Hospital day it is well to bear in mind that every donation made on this day goes toward the maintenance of this ward without which dire distress would exist in countless homes in Monroe. Children are cared for free of charge in this ward . . . they are given excellent care, expert medical attention, and nursed back to health by the loving ministrations of St. Francis nurses and the band of noble women known as St. Francis auxiliary members. Mrs. Lizzie Morris is the guiding spirit in this great work. She is just as much an angel of mercy to these suffering children in the free ward as Florence Nightingale was to the wounded soldiers of the Crimean war.

In the face of great emergencies great souls arise to meet them. Thus it was with Florence Nightingale in the long ago and thus it is with the St. Francis Auxiliary in this city today. National Hospital day is dedicated to the memory of Florence Nightingale.

All along the track of the centuries, far before the coming of Christ, the hospital, in some form, existed. One of these was the "House of Sorrow," for the sick and injured, in Ireland three centuries before the appearance of the star over Bethlehem. Hospitals were maintained by the rulers of India, Persia and Arabia before Christian civilization blessed the world. Several of the hospitals in London are centuries old. The oldest is St. Bartholomew, founded between 1128 and 1133 A. D. The famous St. Thomas has been there since 1215, and there are others almost as ancient. What is said to be the oldest hospital now in operation in the world is the Hotel Dieu, in Paris. It was founded in 660 A. D.

The oldest hospital now in existence in the United States is the Pennsylvania hospital, which was established more than 180 years ago, and grew out of the medical work done at the Philadelphia alms house, that was begun twenty years before. The City hospital of New Orleans was endowed in 1780, and the New York hospital was founded nine years prior to that date.

Speaking in round numbers, it is estimated that there are seven thousand hospitals in the United States, with nearly one million beds, and the average number of patients about eight hundred thousand. There are said to be at least ninety thousand physicians regularly connected with these hospitals. There are more than one hundred thousand graduate nurses in this country.

The public is cordially invited to visit St. Francis sanitarium next Sunday at which time open house will be observed. Every department will be thrown open for inspection and a festive atmosphere will be created by the myriad blossoms that usually flood the corridors and parlors sent by loving friends and business associates.

Miss McKoin Honored

Miss Dean McKoin, lovely daughter of Dr. and Mrs. B. M. McKoin of this city, was one of the ten students at Agnes Scott college elected to membership in Mortar Board national honorary society. Election is made by the faculty and based on the excellence of scholarship.

Folk Dances Of Great Charm To Be Seen Here

Always on the alert to present something of educational advantage to the community, the P.-T. A.'s of Monroe and West Monroe are presenting Marietta Johnson of the school of organic education to the public. Three years ago Mrs. Johnson was here under the auspices of the council and gave a most interesting description of her school in Fairhope, Ala., and explanation of the methods being used to carry out her theories of the educational growth of the child.

Mrs. Johnson will present pupils of her high school in English folk dances, directed by Mr. P. A. Frederick in charge of the Folk Dancing Department of the physical education program of the Fairhope school. The folk dance music, which has been the chief cause of the revival of the dances among English-speaking peoples, is played by Mrs. Augusta Magehan, whose skill in the interpretation of folk music is extraordinary.

Cecil Sharp, English musician, is responsible for the collection in recent years of the music and dances used in the development of the people of England in the past several hundred years. Mr. Sharp's first interest was music, but in his research he found that dancing was so interwoven with the old folk music that he decided to include descriptions of the dances of the people with the music. Two of the dances were found to have traveled to America and were being used by the mountain people of Kentucky in their holiday festivals; Mr. Sharp had been unable to find them in any part of England. The work of Mr. Sharp has been made permanent by the preservation of the music and dances collected in the British museum.

This charming program will be given at Neville Hi auditorium Monday evening at 8:15 o'clock. The program will present a very fine interpretation of English culture in the serious Morris dances, the festive country and sword dances, and the dances depicting the industrial life of the people.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Ned H. Easterling will regret to learn of their departure for Phoenix, Ariz., where Mr. Easterling has accepted a position as manager of a store. Mrs. Easterling and small son will visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Goldsmith, at Bastrop before joining Mr. Easterling in Arizona.

Miss Mary Nell Carlyle, a representative of Camp Carlyle, Hendersonville, N. C., is the attractive guest of Miss Martha Jane Hill in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bridger Thornhill on St. John drive.

CHAPTER VII

Millicent's nerves had suffered too many shocks that day. This was the last straw. She wanted to scream, wanted to fling herself on the bed and break into tears. Instead, however, she faced the steady, blue eyes of the young man and said in a voice whose casual calmness amazed her. "Will you kindly tell me who you are, and just what you're talking about?"

"I'm Robert Caise," he said. "You're the new secretary Jarvis hired, aren't you?"

"Yes," she said, "and the fact that you're Robert Caise doesn't give you any excuse to come breaking into my room in this manner, and as far as your talk about murder and a notebook is concerned, I don't know what you're driving at."

Caise looked at her with a speculative frown. His eyes were defiant, challenging. His mouth was somewhat petulant.

"Perhaps," he said, "you're telling the truth, but I'd bet money Jarvis was working on the Drimgold case, and when he brought you home with him . . ."

His voice trailed off into speculative silence.

"Say," he said, "that could be a black wig, you know. Or you could have dyed your hair and . . ."

Once more he became silent, in the midst of a sentence, took two swift steps toward her.

Millicent drew back her hand.

"Get out," she said, "or I'll claw the skin from your face."

"No," he said slowly, almost judicially, staring at her, "it wouldn't be the skin of a blond."

Abruptly he smiled and the smile transformed his countenance. He seemed to have lost all the surliness of his manner.

"Frightfully sorry if I bothered you," he said, "but I knew I had to take you by surprise if I was going to find out anything."

She kept her dignity, but there was something disarming in the smiling friendliness of the young man.

"Come on," he pleaded, "snap out of it. If you're going to be secretary to Jarvis Happ, you're going to be in the house with me and there's no sense getting away to a bad start."

"Under those circumstances," she said coolly, "I think it would be best for you to leave the room at once."

"Not a bad idea, that," he agreed with smiling acquiescence. "After all, you know, the mater is frightfully strict, and she's got ideas . . . oh, you'll find it out in time."

He opened the door a crack, stood listening, then thrust a cautiously appraising head out into the carridor, turned and grinned at her.

"Coast's clear," he reported. "Your good name is still intact. I'll be formally introduced to you later. See that you don't let on you've seen me before. Au revoir."

He slipped out into the corridor, closed the door.

The door clicked shut.

Millicent faced it with a sinking sensation in her stomach, a feeling of perspiration oozing from every pore of her skin. Good heavens! What did the man know? What was she getting into? And, come to think of it, what had she done with that notebook? She remembered taking it from Drimgold's office. She must have had it with her when she went to the hotel. She remembered that she must put it in a safe place . . . yes, she had it now . . . she'd slid it in back of a shelf in the closet, then when she'd gone out in the morning she'd forgotten to take it with her. And now, what would happen? Would they find it?

Millicent Graves dropped into a chair, crossed her knees and started thinking the situation out.

She concluded that the notebook was safely hidden. It would be almost impossible for anyone to find it, unless they were making a careful search. Certain it was that the hotel employes, in cleaning up the room, would never stumble upon it.

A knock sounded on the door of the room.

Millicent clenched her hands.

"Who is it?" she asked.

The door opened. Millicent saw the butler and the chauffeur laden with boxes. Standing slightly to one side was a woman dressed in black, who surveyed Millicent with black, lackluster eyes and said, "I'm Mrs. Eaton, the housekeeper. There are clothes for you."

The men deposited the boxes on the bed and withdrew. Mrs. Eaton stayed behind, helping Millicent open the boxes, listening to her exclamations of delight as she saw the complete wardrobe which had been provided for her.

"The coast's clear," he reported. "See that you don't let on you've seen me before."

"How wonderfully complete," Millicent said. "There are dresses, gowns, lingerie—everything."

"Mr. Happ," Mrs. Eaton said in a tired, expressionless voice, "never forgets anything."

"But these evening gowns . . ."

"You will need them. You will dress for dinner. It's at 8. I was instructed to tell you that you will eat with the family, except when guests are present. When there are guests, you can either have your meals served in your room, or eat with the servants."

She surveyed Millicent and said, "I presume you'll have your meals in your room. And if you want some advice from me, don't let either one of the young men start making eyes at you. You're pretty and Master Robert never overlooks a pretty face or a pretty figure. You've got both. But his mother doesn't know what goes on in this house. She did fire the second maid, but none of us will ever know whether it was because she found out . . ."

"Really," Millicent said, "I'm not interested. I think if you'll excuse me I'll take a bath and clean up for dinner. You're sure that I'm to eat with the family?"

"Oh yes. It isn't as much of a privilege as you think, and there's company most of the time. Of course, they may invite you to eat when there's company, but that'll only be when it's some business acquaintance of Mr. Happ's. The rest of the time . . ."

Millicent got to her feet, smiled her thanks and dismissal.

"Thank you ever so much, Mrs. Eaton," she said.

The housekeeper sighed, paused at the door.

"Remember," she said, "I've been here a long time. I've seen them come and I've seen them go."

Much to Millicent's surprise, dinner proved to be a very agreeable affair, and at dinner she had an opportunity to see Mrs. Happ in an entirely different light. The woman had perfect poise, was ideally fitted to preside over a dinner table.

Jarvis Happ was very much in his element—sparkling, magnetic, witty. Robert Caise had a certain sullen air of defiance, as though he objected to the manner in which Jarvis Happ and Mrs. Happ enjoyed the semi-formality of the occasion. Norman Happ seemed to devote much of his attention to making certain that Millicent was placed at her ease. Whereas Robert Caise seemed to be far more selfish, interested more in the impression he was making, and from time to time Millicent caught him studying her surreptitiously.

Watching Mrs. Happ, Millicent realized that no matter what differences of opinion they might have, whenever Mrs. Happ seated herself at the table she would at once become the perfect hostess—a queen of the house, ruling with regal air.

When the meal was finished, Cynthia Happ tucked Millicent's arm through hers, and said, "Wouldn't you like to see the house?"

Without waiting for an answer she piloted Millicent through a series of rooms. Her manner was graciousness personified. She paused to comment on a tapestry here, a painting there, or, perhaps, an antique or some curio.

When they returned to the library she said, "And now I suppose Jarvis will want to tell you something about your duties, but, in the meantime, I want to tell you something about myself."

Millicent looked at her in perplexity.

"About yourself?" she asked.

"Yes," Mrs. Happ said, smiling, "if you listen to the gossip that runs around the servants' halls you will find that I'm a thoroughly selfish, unscrupulous, spoiled woman. Please remember that you're not to be treated here as a servant. You will be more like one of the family. And remember that it will be just as well for you to form your own conclusions about things rather than to listen to servants' gossip. You know one can only maintain discipline by keeping a certain underlying enmity alive. After all, you know, familiarity breeds contempt."

Millicent nodded.

"And now," she said, "I'm going to turn you over to Jarvis. I see that he wants to talk business with you and he has Dick Gentry with him."

* * *

Millicent turned to meet the smiling eyes of Jarvis Happ. Walking at his side was a man of approximately 45 years of age—a man who seemed faultlessly groomed. His hair was streaked with gray at the temples. He had a close-cropped mustache, quick, alert eyes, nose glasses with a prominent bridge.

Mr. Happ performed the introductions.

"Mr. Gentry," he exclaimed to Millicent, "is a business partner of mine. We have been carrying on joint operations together. They started as a side line and I've been letting Dick keep the books and attend to most of the details and correspondence. Now the business is getting too big to be treated as a side issue, so we're going to turn the books over to you. If you wouldn't mind going up to my study we'll follow you in a few moments and make some preliminary explanations—I believe my wife showed you the study."

"Oh yes," she said. "You wish me to go now?"

He nodded.

She turned and left the room, conscious of the eyes of Dick Gentry taking in every motion of her lithe body.

She entered the study and had barely closed the door when Robert Caise flung it open and rushed into the room, his eyes glittering with triumph.

"Now," he said, "I've got it."

"Got what?" she asked, irritation in her voice.

He whipped a photograph from his pocket.

"This," he said, "is a photograph of the Murder Girl."

Millicent Graves schooled herself to hold her face without expression as she stared at her own picture.

"Well," she said, "what about it?"

"Blonde, you see," said Caise, "but all that we have to do is touch up the hair and the complexion a little and we have this."

He whipped another photograph from his pocket, in which the hair had been colored with photographic oil paints, and the complexion of the skin had been made slightly darker.

She met the young man's triumphant grin.

"I might have known," he said, "that Jarvis would pull a fast one on Mom. I figured it out for myself and figured out just about what he'd do."

"I don't understand you," Millicent said, her voice strained.

Miss Haas And Mr. Snyder Are Complimented

Graceful sprays of beautiful blue delphinium and fragrant pink Radiance roses formed the floral plaque centering the handsome imported lace covered buffet supper table in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Isadore Leibreich Friday night when they entertained informally in honor of a lovely Junetime bride, Miss Shirley Haas and her fiance, Mr. David Snyder.

The guests, with Miss Haas wearing a smart navy blue ensemble, the central figure, enjoyed cocktails in the living room before supper was served, buffet style in the dining room. Silver salvers held the delectable viands arranged in attractive manner along the board.

Enjoying the hospitality extended by Mr. and Mrs. Leibreich in addition to Miss Haas and Mr. Snyder were: Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Haas, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Haas, Mr. and Mrs. David Kaplan, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Cahn, Mr. and Mrs. Samson Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Sol Snyder, Miss Julia Kern Leibreich.

New Elixir Of Fun At Paramount

Humorist, As a Country Editor, Furthers Romance, Has Good Time

THE town is still shaking its sides with the mirthquake that blew up yesterday. It happened in connection with the opening of Will Rogers' comedy, "Life Begins At 40." Normal conditions are not yet restored. Nor will they be until this laugh producer has completed its successful engagement at the Paramount theater.

This Fox film picture surely uncorks a new elixir of fun. The audience was in an unrestrained uproar. Laugh succeeded laugh. Fun came in storms, in gales, in a veritable tornado. The funny-bones were overworked.

After this, one may return to a studied understandment and report that "Life Begins At 40," is the season's blithest screen comedy, Will Rogers' crowning triumph, and the entertainment event of a lifetime.

Rogers is the quaint country editor who furthers romance, breaks his enemies of their enmity, and has a good time in the meanwhile.

As an unconscious humorist, he stampedes two hundred hogs by his coy hog-calls. You simply must see Will as a porker siren. The pied piper of Hamlin had nothing on America's one and only comedian.

Funny-bones were splintered in another situation, where Will and his favorite enemy iron out their differences with pistols.

Throughout the picture, homely wisdom falls from the lips of America's beloved commentator on the thousand and one foibles of the human comedy. They are bright, apt, good-natured.

But the romance in "Life Begins At 40," is as compelling as the humor.

All in all, this picture, suggested by the Walter B. Pitkin book hit, has wide appeal. It is being enjoyed by young and old.

Self-Reliance Derived In Home For Children

By Walter L. Butler

"Being reared in an orphanage has its advantages. One of the most important is that children learn early to 'give and take' in life; they learn to help others and expect to be helped; they acquire unselfish and unspoiled natures and dispositions."

That is the statement of Rev. Robert Cooke Buckner, superintendent of the Louisiana Baptist Children's home, located on DeSiard road.

Another special advantage that comes to children of the home is manifested in their play and school and work, and in virtually all of their activities. No one of them can say to other children: "This thing, this spot of the playground, this area of this cottage is mine. Keeps your hands off, stay away from here!"

The superintendent was making a plea for better public understanding and appreciation of the work that is being done by the Baptist Children's home in developing the boys and girls under its care to take their places as citizens of the state and the community in later years. Though bearing a denominational name, the home is conducted from a purely undenominational standpoint, the superintendent emphasized.

"That is not merely a principle," he said; "it is a fact. The home is receiving and rearing children of all denominations.

Comparatively few people know that the home has no endowment, nor is there any methodical appropriation from any source for its operation. It is supported entirely with contributions made voluntarily.

Financial conditions of recent years have greatly curtailed the funds made available to the home, and as a result the buildings have been in need of repairs for some months.

The home was established at Lake Charles at the turn of the present century. About ten years ago, the present buildings of the home were erected and it was established in Monroe.

It is one of the institutinos of the Louisiana Baptist convention, its trustees being elected by that body. Local trustees are Mrs. L. T. Hastings, T. C. Drew and E. H. Murrell.

Located on a 432-acre tract, of which 333 acres are used for farm purposes, the home has five two-story brick cottages, a brick building used for the office and for the residence of the superintendent, a chapel and school building, a concrete and corrugated iron dairy building and several barns and sheds. There are 25 cows and 15 calfs in the dairy herd. Only three farm teams are now available for use.

Many more cows could be used advantageously by the home for providing ample milk for drinking purposes and the making of dairy products. More farm teams and mechanical equipment are also needed.

General farming and dairying at the home are in charge of Frankie Stevens, one of the employes. Truck farming is in charge of Jim Allen. It is the duty of the boys of the home to work on the farm and in the dairy, and also to make building repairs and do miscellaneous jobs.

A matron, or house mother, is located in each of the five cottages, which are occupied by a total of 150 children. This total is 25 more than the housing total for which the cottages were designed.

A mothers' job, as is well known, is the greatest job in the world. Consider then, the task of the cottage matron, who must mother a brood of more than 25 children. Of course she must have help.

The children must do their share of work; they cook, wash the dishes and do all manner of jobs. All of them work for the best interests of their community, each sharing alike and impartially in work and play.

The jobs are rotated, so that each child or young person will share alike in the various tasks.

Names of the cottages and their respective house mothers are: "Monroe cottage," for small girls, Mrs. Woodard; "Smitherman cottage," for small boys, Mrs. Allen; "Compere cottage," for large girls, Miss Ponder; "Oakes cottage," for large boys, Mrs. Stevens; "Mary Goss Cottage," for babies, Miss Merritt.

Ages of children accepted for rearing at the home are from two to 12 years. When the children reach the age of 18 years, they are assisted in locating a niche in which to begin their work in the world so that they may be self-supporting.

This year, eight young people who had the orphanage as their home are attending Louisiana college, three are attending Louisiana State university, and one is attending Louisiana Tech, and three are student nurses at the St. Francis sanitarium—all working and making their own way in life, with the expectations of filling excellent positions.

The home maintains its own school system on its campus, classes up through the seventh grade being held in a frame educational building. Miss Blanche Ware, Miss Leamon Arrington and Mrs. Dyson are the instructors.

Because the building is inadequate in size, half of the children attend classes from early in the morning until noon, and the other half from the noon hour to late in the afternoon.

The educational building is also the Sunday school and church building. The church is an organized institution, with Reverend Buckner serving as pastor.

Children of scohool classifications above that of the seventh grade attend classes at the Ouachita parish high school, traveling to and from the school in the large bus owned by the institution.

Incidentally, each summer the home's singers, who are trained by Miss Ponder, make trips over the state, appearing in programs at churches, the school bus affording transportation about the state.

One of the home's students of the high school, Miss Odessa Brazille, won first place in English in the district high school rally held two weeks ago at Ruston.

Operation of the home is maintained with a small employe personnel. The employes, besides those already mentioned, are: Secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Evelyn Cole Swayze, daughter of the late Rev. L. M. Cole, who was superintendent of the institution; personnel secretary, Miss Lula Mae Cole, also a daughter of Reverend Cole; field representative, Rev. L. R. Morgan, whose home here is located at 513 Calypso street, the property being owned by the children's home.

The task of rearing 150 or more children to young manhood and womanhood and equipping them for their journey through life is, obviously, a great and important task. Officials of the home are justifiably proud of the success of their efforts.

Last year 450 of the 800 Baptist churches of the state made voluntary contributions to the support of the home. Of the churches which did not make contributions, many were in rural areas where hardly any money was available.

One hundred and thirty-seven of the 450 churches made at least nine contributions to the home during last year.

Railroads of the state have given an important service to the home, without charge, in transporting to Monroe food and feed stuffs and various other gifts made to the orphanage by people of the state. Substantial contributions of these goods, with canned foods included, have been received from people who till the soil, but who have had little cash.

Recently, the Missouri Pacific railroad brought here for the home a freight car load of corn and other feed stuffs picked up at communities between Sicily Island and Rayville. This contribution was especially appreciated, because the home's barn containing its feedstuffs burned last January 27.

With its children adequately and comfortably housed, clothed and fed, and receiving the advantages of self-help training and school advantages, the orphanage fulfills its important mission in the world.

Movies May Re-Awaken "Emmy Lou"

MANY grown-ups will remember as one of the treasures of childhood days the charming book by George Madden Martin, "Emmy Lou; Her Book and Heart." The book had a tremendous vogue among children a generation ago, and, for the matter of that it still has an extraordinary hold on young minds, because of its simple but appealing narrative of the wrestlings of a little girl with the problems of childhood.

To those who remember the book with affectionate regard, it will be of more than passing interest to know that "Emmy Lou" bids fair to take on a new lease of life for the benefit of the present generation through the medium of the movies. A scenario based on the trials and tribulations, the joys and the accomplishments of the little schoolgirl as she grew up into young womanhood is being developed. For thousands of persons who remember how, in their childhood they laughed and sobbed together with "Emmy Lou" in her experiences, there will be something of the same eagerness to see their little heroine on the screen as there was to see "Little Women" similarly portrayed.

There is nothing intricate about "Emmy Lou." Its author has attempted the construction of no plot, but has recorded with an adroit and charming facility in the use of words, the story of the experiences of the average normal child in making her first contacts with life in the home, in the school, in developing a religious feeling and estimating her childish companions. The story—or rather series of episodes—lends itself to a happy development as a subject for picturization, because each phase of the child's life has its own climax. The dialogue is delightful in its naivette and quiet humor.

"This," said Mr. Cato, "is A," and he pointed to a dot. Then he looked at Emmy Lou. "Now, what is it?" said Mr. Cato.

"A." said Emmy Lou, obediently. She wondered. But she had met A in so many guises of print and script that she accepted any statement concerning A. And now a dot was A.

"And this," said Mr. Cato, "is B, and this is C, and this D, and E, F, G, which brings us naturally to A again," and Mr. Cato with his bow went up the stairway punctuated with dots. Emmy Lou wondered why G brought one naturally to A again.

But Mr. Cato was tapping up the dotted stairway with his bow. "Now what are they?" asked Mr. Cato.

"Dots," said Emmy Lou, forgetting.

Yes, Emmy Lou's friends of a generation ago will be glad to know there are hopes of seeing her come to life again, in the movies.

DUAL ROLE DILEMMA

Should he play the dual role of Sidney Carton and Charles Darnay in "A Tale of Two Cities"? Ronald Colman thinks not and his argument is that when one man plays two parts the story loses conviction.

In this Dickens story, in case you've forgotten, Darnay is mistaken for Carton, due to their great resemblance. Colman thinks "The Masquerader," in which he played the two parts, was not a good picture for that reason. He now is trying to convince the powers at M. G. M., to whom he has been loaned for "The Tale," that the picture will be a better one if some other actor plays the part of Darnay.

"RHUMBA" IN A NEW SETTING

Entertaining Study Of Modern Life

DEALING chiefly with the problem of making a go of marriage in these days of financial uncertainty, Columbia's "I'll Love You Always," which plays at the Capitol theater today, is an absorbing, entertaining study of modern day life.

Nancy Carroll and George Murphy are featured, and once again Miss Carroll proves herself a dramatic actress of real talent, while Murphy, a comparative newcomer, further establishes his ability, drawing sympathy from a role that might easily have been otherwise.

Murphy is cast as an egotistical youth who graduates with honors from an engineering course. Rushing Nancy Carroll into a hasty marriage with promises of placing the world at her feet, he sets out to conquer New York. Too proud to accept menial labor in the engineering field, he confidently waits for something really good to turn up. Nothing does.

The family resources ebb rapidly, and Nancy Carroll tries taxi-dancing as a means of supporting her husband and herself. When Murphy discovers the source of income, there is a quarrel, but he goes back to accept one of the jobs he has turned down and finds that the opportunity has passed. In desperation, when he finds his wife is planning to leave him, he steals some money to show her one last good fling. Ostensibly he's off to Russia for an important engineering job, and while he serves his term in prison, his wife patiently waits to hear some news from him.

The theme attains a powerful climax, and the surprise ending is cleverly done.

The dramatic scenes are superbly played by Miss Carroll, who gives all the fire and depth of emotion necessary to the role. Her "Nancy Clegg," the wife who sacrifices everything for love, is a convincing portrayal.

Leo Bulgakov's direction is excellent.

RIALTO

SELDOM, if ever, has there been such a combination of elements which mean good entertainment as there are in "Imitation of Life." Manager Fortenbury has booked it for the Rialto theater starting today.

Fannie Hurst's great novel will interest millions of women. "Back Street" proved that Fannie Hurst understands thoroughly what women like to see in a moving picture. John Stahl in that picture proved that he knew how to transpose to the screen every last ounce of interest which lay in a Fannie Hurst story. There is no director in the world who has this faculty in the same degree that John Stahl possesses it. And he directed "Imitation of Life" also.

Then there is the popularity of Claudette Colbert, who is an ideal heroine for Fannie Hurst's story. John Stahl searched for three months before he was satisfied even with Claudette Colbert. The minute her tests were seen, however, he knew that she was the "Bea" Pullman. A dozen leading men were discarded before John Stahl decided upon Warren William. These two are just now being acclaimed for their work in "Cleopatra."

PATTERN DRIVE AFTER L. A. PLAN

BAKERSFIELD, Calif.—Following closely the example set by the Los Angeles plan, a group of 65 leading business and industrial executives of Bakersfield have launched a $2,000,000 program of modernization and repair in their community, the Federal Housing administration is informed.

Taking the lead by pledging immediate individual building programs, the Bakersfield committee is actively inaugurating city-wide modernization and repair. The city is approximately 100 miles north of Los Angeles in Kern county, with a population of 26,015, and the local program is similar to that instituted in Los Angeles two months ago by a committee of 100 industrialists to develop modernization and new-building activity in the Los Angeles area. The example set by business leaders is expected to produce marked impetus to modernization and new building in California. As in the case of Los Angeles, the Bakersfield program began with the issuance of a manifesto signed by the participants on the committee.

Issue Manifesto

"Prompted by a sincere and sober sense of our individual responsibility as citizens of this community, we proposed that the Federal Housing activities be backed up by the solid and decisive cooperation of business, industry and finance; and with this end in view we propose the immediate initiation of a $2,000,000 construction program in the Bakersfield area.

"We urge every householder, every merchant, rancher, professional man, business man and manufacturer who is able, to associate himself with us in this enterprise. We call upon the chamber of commerce, civic groups, service clubs, and business organizations to enter wholeheartedly into expanding this plan of pledging those who are financially able, to do needed modernization or new-construction work now.

"As an assurance of cooperation and as an incentive to others, the members of this committee of citizens have agreed among themselves forthwith to undertake certain improvements to their properties; and to urge their friends, associates and employes to do likewise and avail themselves of the privileges of the National Housing act.

"This agreement has been entered into by us, not merely to insure re-employment and the resurgence of business that will come from the modernization and new construction projects to which we are individually pledged, but also in the hope that the community as a whole will rise to the challenge which is offered and that a campaign of liberty loan proportions will be instituted to make the Federal Housing administration's plan popular, not only with those who need it in order to repair the ravages of deterioration and obsolescence, but with those financially able to do needed new and remodeling work without it."

GARAGE REPAIRS

Not infrequently is a garage door bumped and damaged by an automobile when driving it in, or taking it out of the garage. This often results in a loosened hinge, a split stile or rail, loosened panels, and broken window panes. Such repairs are commonly neglected during the cold winter months but they may be quickly and easily repaired during balmy spring days. If neglected, deterioration occurs and, if bumped again by the car the door may be broken off necessitating installation of a new one at considerable expense.

Calls Housing Big Weapon In War Against Depression

DETROIT, Mich.—War against the economic forces which bring unemployment, want, and misery is being waged successfully by American business and private citizens through the better housing program, Federal Housing Administrator James A. Moffett stated on a recent visit to this city.

Mr. Moffett first cited many evidences of improved business throughout the country, especially in the industries benefiting directly from the better housing program, which he called "a mighty force in bringing back good times."

"But the better housing program is not a force that moves by itself, automatically," Mr. Moffett said. "It is not a government subsidized procedure. It is purely and simply a cooperative movement between the citizens and industries of this country for which the government supplies only the plan.

"The working out of the plan rests with private initiative. And private initiative, realizing both the selfish and patriotic benefits of the better housing program, has already created a record for hard work that can stand comparison with our country's united effort in the last war.

"We are in reality waging another war. It is a war against the economic forces that bring unemployment, want, and misery. One of the greatest weapons in our war is the better housing program, and I am happy to be a citizen of a country which has shown such a magnificent effort in wielding that weapon. It has made me proud of the name 'America' to see the way in which our citizens have answered this call to the colors."

Mr. Moffett stated that the better housing program can be made increasingly successful only by individual collective work of three chief factors; the private citizen, industry, and the credit resources of the country. Upon the amount of labor and cooperation they display, he said, depends the amount of success.

"In this endeavor," he continued, "private industry plays an increasingly important role. Every business firm in the country should be solidly behind this program. Industry can help in several ways: One is by advertising the program by every conceivable method; another is by contributing to the funds of local better housing campaigns; another is by cooperating in exhibitions. Since every business firm will profit directly or indirectly, every business firm should be on its toes in promoting the plan."

Shows Restaurant Man How He Can Modernize

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—E. C. Fiedler, state director for the federal housing administration, recently convinced a restaurant operator of the values of modernization while having luncheon in the establishment.

With a party of friends, Mr. Fiedler was having lunch in Carl Zeiler's restaurant. The proprietor stopped by the table to inquire as to the quality of the food. Mr. Fiedler said the food was excellent but that he could find some criticism to make of the general appearance and decoration of the restaurant. Mr. Zeiler said he agreed with him, but that he knew of no way to obtain a loan adequate to modernize his place of business. Mr. Fiedler suggested that Mr. Zeiler call at his office. Mr. Zeiler did.

On April 1, work of modernizing the restaurant and installing an air-conditioning system was begun after Zeiler had obtained a modernization credit from a local lending agency.

TREATING HOUSES AGAINST TERMITE

Dreaded Pest Is Greatest Menace To Preservation Of Home

A disease is dreaded in direct proportion to the inability of the medical profession to counteract it. Smallpox—until Jenner discovered the virus with which to inoculate the human body against it—was considered incombatable. During recent years vaccinating has boomed, and we who benefit thereby need no longer fear pneumonia, diphtheria, whooping cough, infantile paralysis, scarlet fever, and even the common cold, according to the Terminex Co. of Monroe.

Likewise, a "disease" which affects the life of lumber is also to be dreaded only in proportion to our ability to cope with it. Termites in homes and buildings—until Bruce developed "Terminix "inoculation"—were considered an unavoidable evil. People began to evade the use of lumber, fearing termites.

Today, through the work of the nationwide Bruce Terminix organization, the wood in more than 15,000 structures has been saved from termites.

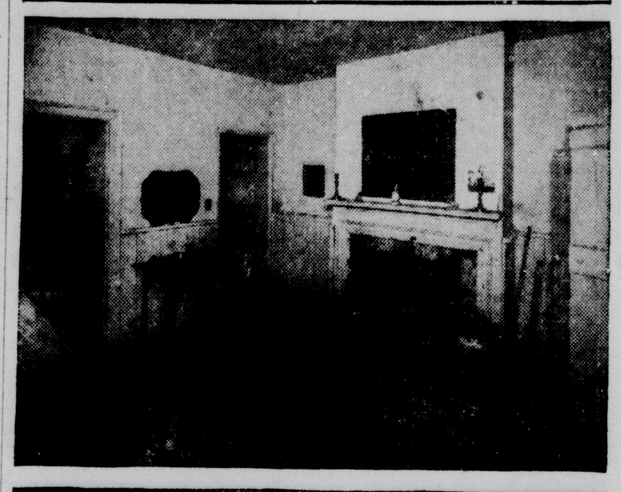
That lumber may be safely used in building is the story that Terminix tells.

No matter what is said by different lumber producers, we know that no wood is immune to termite attack. The termite is just like any other feeder, in that there are certain woods that he prefers. In such cases he will attack the preferable wood first, but when that is consumed he will go to the less desirable.

Now, I am not discussing the damage being done in a direct way. A great many people have and are paying for termite damage and do not know it yet. This damage is really getting into quite a figure. There are literally thousands of homes in this country that are being badly damaged by these pests. Unless you are conversant with the situation you would doubt any figures given you. If you became really interested it would not take you long to find out what the situation is.

The only suggestion we can make to you is that you find out whether or not your property is infested. Remember that is you wait until the repair must be made to find out yourself, you will have both a repair and a treating job to pay for. If you can catch it before any structural weakness develops you can avoid the repair job.

Wallpaper Improvement



The above two photographs illustrate how wallpaper was utilized to effectively modernize a home, formerly owned by George Washington. Located in Alexandria, Va., the house was erected by Washington as rental property. The present owner recently modernized the structure to attract new tenants. An appropriate, washable, sun-tested wallpaper was selected for the living room. A colonial pattern of silver and blue stars on a peach field was chosen to harmonize with oyster-gray paint on paneling and trim. Additional light and charm were thus added to the room. Several other rooms in the house also lost their outmoded appearance by the addition of new wallpaper. The top photograph shows the living room prior to improvement. The lower picture was taken after the new wallpaper was placed.

Baseboard Shoe Rack Designed For Closet

A narrow wooden cleat is nailed on the board a few inches from the top and forms a heel rest, preventing the shoes from slipping to the floor.

The use of this shoe rack keeps the shoes, with their inserted trees, in good order and off the closet floor, always within sight and easy reach. The closet presents a far neater appearance with this arrangement, which also saves valuable shelf space.

An accumulation of dust in the corners of the closet is prevented by the slanting sides of the rack, as the broom more readily reaches the entire floor surface than with the regulation corner.

J-M Roof Coatings make old roofs absolutely water-shedding

WATER runs off a roof treated with Johns-Manville Roof Coating like water off a duck's back. Even leaky composition or metal roofs may become absolutely water-shedding when treated with J-M Roof Coating. Not a drop of rain, sleet or melted snow can seep through!

When the roof has cracks or small holes, use J-M Fibrous Enamel. Its heavy asbestos fibre content bridges gaps and forms a protective membrane over the entire roof area. Regal Roof Coating, a similar material, but without the asbestos, can be used when the roof is in better condition.

All J-M Roof Coatings can be applied with a large brush. A simple treatment—yet it will make your old roof good for many more years. Full directions on every container.

NEW METHOD OF APPLYING FINDS FAVOR

Revised Application Procedure Swamps D. C. Office With Queries

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Revised application procedure under terms of the insured-mortgage plan of the Federal Housing administration has resulted in an unprecedented increase in the number of preliminary commitments granted by the District of Columbia office of the Federal Housing administration. If properly employed by Better Housing headquarters throughout the country, this method will result in creating a tremendous increase in the national volume of new building, according to J. K. Gilchrist, director for the District of Columbia.

New applications at District headquarters totaled $582,000 in 11 days after the new plan was put into effect.

By the new procedure, applicants may now apply directly to any office of the Federal Housing administration for preliminary interview, appraisal, and tentative approval of their requests for mortgage loans before approaching a bank or other financial institution authorized to make an insured-mortgage loan. Heretofore applications first were made at approved financial institutions before consultation with the Federal Housing administration.

Proof of Method

The effectiveness of the new procedure was pointed out by Mr. Gilchrist in glancing over his records. From January 1 to March 25, 1935, under the old procedure, 59 applications for insured mortgages, totaling approximately $375,000, had been approved by the District of Columbia offices of the Federal Housing administration. On March 25 the new procedure was instituted, and in 11 working days the total of $582,000 in new applications for insured mortgages poured into the offices of the director for the District of Columbia. Of this figure $187,600 represented new building.

"There is no doubt," Mr. Gilchrist explained, "that the practice of making first application to a Federal Housing administration office reveals thousands of dollars of potential new building that heretofore has not been discovered because of the difficulties and complications presented by the old method.

Much Detail

"Primarily, there is a certain amount of detail connected with the investigation of an application that can best be handled by trained workers such as are found in a Federal Housing headquarters. Each application requires approximately 45 minutes of an expert investigator's time before it may be determined whether or not the application should be eligible or not. Individual banks as a rule have not the same facilities to perform this service for the applicant. By the new set-up we eliminate a wealth of lost motion and greatly accelerate the approval of mortgage loans.

"Our trained investigators and appraisers thoroughly acquaint themselves with the details of each separate application, and, when tentative approval is granted, the applicant then goes to an approved financial institution of his own choice, having taken all preliminary steps toward obtaining a mortgage. Our new procedure is of great assistance to the potential mortgagor, as well as to the lending agency.

"Our own tremendous increase in volume of applications convinces us of the worth of the new method. If every Federal Housing office is having the same results, the national volume of new building and refunded mortgages under the National Housing act, in my opinion, should reach tremendous proportions by the end of the year."

Sunflower Seed Sales Make Crop Profitable

BISMARCK, N. C., May 4.(AP)—The lowly sunflower is becoming a profitable crop for the North Dakota farmer and home gardener.

Sunflower seeds have been placed on the market and are sold for eating purposes, being most popular among the Russian population.

F. W. Christensen of the livestock feeding section of the North Dakota agricultural college says sunflowers can be grown profitably as an ensilage crop instead of corn retired from cultivation by corn-hog contracts.

Modernized for Only $755

Courtesy Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co.

Above is shown "before and after" views of the grocery of Sam Friedman, Leeds, Mo., from which can be seen how economies in space and construction may be obtained from careful designing. The old store (shown above) was transformed into an attractive, sales-compelling establishment for an outlay of only $755. Mr. Friedman has stated that he can trace a 25-percent improvement in his business since making the repairs and alterations. Note how the smart modernistic store front sets off the merchandise on display, as contrasted with the haphazard appearance of the old store with its makeshift sidewalk racks and awkward appearance as a whole. The new grocery is of the "California type", with large doors supported on overhead rails that swing in behind the shelving on the left side of the building. The center doors are regular store-front type and are hung in the usual manner. A smart new sidewalk adds to the attractive appearance of the grocery. Modernization credit, as provided by the provisions of the National Housing Act, allows similar improvement opportunities to grocers throughout the country.

Architectural Group Is Important Concern

The firm of J. W. Smith and Associates, architects, as recently organized, will consist of the following members: J. W. Smith, D. Curtis Smith, Merl L. Padgett, and Wm. King Stubbs, all registered architects, licensed to practice in the state of Louisiana.

Mr. J. W. Smith, senior member of the firm, has been a practicing architect in the city of Monroe for the past 31 years, and the firm which he founded is one of the oldest in the state.

Mr. D. Curtis Smith has been a member of the firm since graduation in architecture from the University of Pennsylvania in 1923, and has had experience in every phase of architectural practice for the past 12 years.

Mr. Padgett has been connected with this office for seven years in the capacity of chief designer.

Mr. Stubbs has been in the employ of the firm for the past four years as designer and draughtsman.

Both of the new members of the firm are college graduates with degrees of bachelor of architecture, Mr. Padgett from Kansas State college '22 and Mr. Stubbs from Tulane university '31.

New Home Construction Aided By Title 2 Of FHA

Under the provisions of title 2 of the national housing act, the homeowner and prospective home-owner is given the simplest and cheapest financing that has ever been available. He is given an 80 per cent (maximum) mortgage, with interest at 5 per cent, and twenty years to retire it. This type of loan eliminates the dangerous and expensive second mortgage, and is available now.

About Article 2

Before considering the mechanics of loan procedure, it would be well to understand something of the facts concerning title 2.

First and foremost, it should be understood that the government is not advancing the money for these loans. It comes, rather, from properly qualified and approved local institutions—referred to as mortgagees; and all applications for loans should be directed to them.

Title 2 made into a law, a device known as MUTUAL MORTGAGE INSURANCE, whose function is to insure the payment of principal and interest of mortgages. This is an instrumentality of the federal government, and is operated under the supervision of the federal housing administration. It is a permanent measure and is designed to give both security and "turn-over" to the real estate mortgage market. Now for the details of the financing set-up.

Approved Mortgagees

All loans will be made by local institutions that have qualified under the requirements of the federal housing administration.

Procedure

For those wishing to apply for an insured mortgage loan, application must be made at the office of an approved mortgagee. Complete working drawing and specifications covering the proposed new home will be necessary; and a detailed application blank, setting forth facts pertaining to the applicant and the proposed new home, will be filled out.

Borrower's Requirements

The borrower must show a "reasonable" ability to make the payments called for under the terms of the mortgage. He will not be allowed to burden himself with an indebtedness which he cannot comfortably handle. His credit references will be investigated carefully.

Costs

Compared to the mortgage loan costs of the past, the expense to the borrower is most nominal. He will pay interest at the rate of 5 per cent, computed on a decreasing monthly balance; a service charge of 1-2 of 1 per cent per annum, based on a decreasing monthly balance; and a mortgage insurance premium of 1-2 of 1 per cent computed on the original face value of the mortgage. In addition—but for his benefit—he will be required to deposit, monthly, with the mortgagee, 1-12 of an amount estimated for annual taxes and special assessments; and 1-12 of his annual fire insurance premium.

There will be the ordinary charge which accompany any new mortgage, such as: continuation of title and legal opinion; appraisal fee—fixed by the FHA at $3 per $1,000 borrowed; and any reasonable brokerage fee which the mortgagee or leading agency may require.

Amortization

Twenty years is the maximum time allowed to pay off an insured loan. Because of the variation in time taken to repay the loan, the amounts required for payment of principal and interest will vary.

It will take a payment of approximately $9.80 per month to pay off a $1,000 loan in twenty years—including principal, interest, service charge, mortgage insurance, taxes and fire insurance. It will take a monthly payment of approximately $11.10 to pay off the same amount in 15 years.

Standards

Because the federal housing administration, through its instrumentality—the mutual mortgage insurance, is guaranteeing payment of principal and interest on the mortgages; it has a logical interest in the house that secures the mortgage. For that reason, the applicant's plans and specifications will be subjected to careful scrutiny by competent architects in the technical division of the FHA before a loan commitment is given.

Sound construction, good design, and neighborhood conformability will be the main requirements.

Londoners Bid Briskly On Early American Coin

LONDON, May 4.(AP)—An American three-penny piece, coined by New Englanders in 1652, was sold for $105 at auction here when several hundred early American coins were disposed of.

A "willow" shilling of the same year brought $75 and a sixpence $100. Most of the other coins, which sold for much less, were "oak tree" and "pine tree" shillings, coined in Massachusetts.

Hawthorne's tale, "The Great Carbuncle," recalled that the rich merchant, Ichabod Pigsnort, possessed a bin of pine tree shillings in which he rolled twice a day in order to enjoy his wealth to the full. Hence the phrase "rolling in wealth."

E. CARROLL TO BACK PROJECTS

Leaders Discuss Plans At Meeting Of Chamber Of Commerce

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., May 4.—(Special)—Presiding officers and members of the governing bodies of East Carroll parish, at the chamber of commerce meeting here this week, agreed to support any government projects that might be obtained for East Carroll parish.

The parish governing bodies, the police jury, town council and school board united in the interest of securing projects. Speakers urging cooperation among the various bodies were C. A. Ross, parish farm agent; W. T. Mitchiner, president of the police jury; R. M. Alderholdt and W. A. Gibson, members of the police jury; Dr. T. G. Biggs, mayor of Lake Providence; and Judge F. X. Ransdell. Interested citizens who pledged their support were Mrs. A. S. Hill, Dr. J. P. Davis, J. B. Erwin, R. M. Amacker and George T. Hider.

Mark T. Goldstine, Red Cross representative, informed those at the meeting of the work rendered by the Red Cross to sufferers in the recent storm that swept this section and listed other steps to be taken for their benefit. J. Martian Hamley, parish assessor and delegate of the people of East Carroll to Washington to oppose the proposed Eudora spillway, told of the success of the trip.

LA. TECH OFFERS SPECIAL COURSE FOR WOMEN ONLY

RUSTON, La., May 4.—(Special)—Following requests from various sections of the state, the second annual short course for women will be held at Louisiana Tech from June 11 through June 20, Miss Alma Burk, director of the short course, announces.

The short course was inaugurated here last summer, and as the many women attending the school were very enthusiastic, it was decided to repeat the course, according to Miss Burk.

The women's course is being sponsored by the local branch of the American Association of University women with the cooperation of the federated clubs of Ruston.

There will be no fee charged those who wish to take the course and all women in this section of the state are invited to attend the daily lectures. Rooms in the girls' dormitory will be furnished free to those who have to come from any great distance. All applications for rooms should be sent to Miss Burk.

Courses will be offered in food and nutrition, dress designing, art, current affairs, family relationship, economic conditions, and nature study.

The T.E.L. Class held its regular monthly social meeting at the home of Mrs. J. C. McCann, with Mrs. C. B. Colvin and Mrs. Fred Emory as cohostesses. A lovely program was rendered. After the reports were made, contests and games were enjoyed. At the close, refreshments were served. The next meeting will be with Mrs. J. H. Frasier.

Those present were:Mesdames. Gipson, N. L. Walpole, W. A. Sanderson, L. K. Hammons, J. H. Frasier, McKenzie, H. M. Bagly, McCann, R. L. Terry, Fred Taylor, Lee Hester, O. W. Hogan, T. B. Alderson, Lumpkin Hogan, M. E. Kidd, C. B. Colvin, Fred Emory, Roane, Minnie Hammons, J. C. McCann.

The Woman's Missionary society of the Alabama Presbyterian church sponsored a very successful entertainment at their church when they were hosts to the Methodist and Baptist Missionary societies.

There was a good representation of the membership present. "Brotherly Love" was the topic of the afternoon.

Police Jury Advocates Passage Of 'Ford Bill'

TALLULAH, La., May 4.—(Special)—In response to a communication from the Police Jury Association of Louisiana the Madison parish police jury at its regular monthly meeting held here this week adopted a resolution advocating the passage in congress of the "Ford Bill" relative to the loan of RFC funds to counties or parishes. Copies of the resolution were sent to the house of representatives committee on banking, Chairman Jesse Jones, of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the American County association and to the Louisiana senators and representatives in congress.

Claiborne Farmers Will Talk AAA Abandonment

HOMER, La., May 4.—(Special)—For the purpose of entering protests against the abandonment of the AAA program, a parish-wide mass meeting of Claiborne parish farmers will be held at the city hall here Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, according to an announcement made here by Brodie Pugh, parish agricultural agent.

Speakers will be present to discuss the strength of the agricultural adjustment act and to determine the strength of its support.

Production Facilities Greatly Increased By Stewart-Warner Concern

According to information received by Monroe Furniture company, local distributors, Stewart-Warner corporation has prepared for 1935 business with greatly increased production facilities, having doubled the enormous amount of floor space used in the manufacture of 'Safety Zone' refrigerators. Stewart-Warner refrigerator volume for 1935 is confidently expected by factory officials to far exceed figures for 1934, greatest year in Stewart-Warner history, stated Manager Joe Isaacman of the local concern.

New models for 1936 are being developed and prepared to undergo "life" tests, a proving grounds where every model will be subjected to usage far more strenuous than normal use before being accepted for the regular line, it was stated.

A telegram from Frank A. Hiter, general manager of all Stewart-Warner and Alemite divisions, dispatched to Mr. Isaacman, expresses the enthusiasm for the new program felt at the factory, Mr. Hiter's telegram reads:

"We have doubled floor space used for manufacturing refrigerators. Our 1936 models are now developed and are being prepared for life tests. Based on these definite facts and material increase of our investment in this department of our business we can assure you of our plans for being bigger than ever in the refrigeration business in 1936 and beyond."

WESLEY UNION TO MEET

TALLULAH, La., May 4.—(Special)—The monthly meeting of the Wesley union composed of the Methodist young people's organizations of the churches of this section will be held in Tallulah Sunday afternoon. Miss Olive Emory, president of the union, will preside and a program in honor of Mothers' day will be rendered.

KATHRYN CARSON CONTEST WINNER

The weekly prize of $5 cash awarded in the Sally Myles comic cutout contest was given last week by decision of the judges to Kathryn Carson, Morningside addition. The winning entry was one of hundreds received last week as more and more young folks throughout this section realized the opportunity to win one of one thousand cash prizes in the easy comic coloring contest.

The winning coloring was simply colored and represented just a few minutes fun. In just the same way one thousand people are going to win valuable prizes, including a first prize of $1,000 in the Sally Myles comic cutout contest which you can read about in the Monroe News-Star or World. It is necessary only to cut out five comics in accordance with the rules of the contest printed in the News-Star-World and you will have a wonderful opportunity to be one of the prize winners.

There is still time for you to win. Just send two colorings before Thursday of this week.

See the Myles salt advertisement in this newspaper Thursday. It gives you the complete rules, so make up your mind not to wait any longer to join in the fun but be one of the prize winners.

"Put it into a Trust Fund"

The grand old man, Oliver Wendell Holmes, Justice of United States Supreme Court, died several weeks ago, leaving a will, in which he bequeathed one half of his $550,000 estate to the United States Government, to dispose as they saw fit.

For two weeks Congress has been buzzing: "What shall we do with it?" Five different bills for disposition of the fund have been entered—some to buy law books for Supreme Court—some to buy portraits of former Supreme Justices—etc.

So this week President Roosevelt enters into, and perhaps settles the controversy. He sends a message to Congress, urging that the Holmes' bequest be put into a Trust Fund, and be not spent "until after ample deliberation."

BOHGDU'S MADNESS.

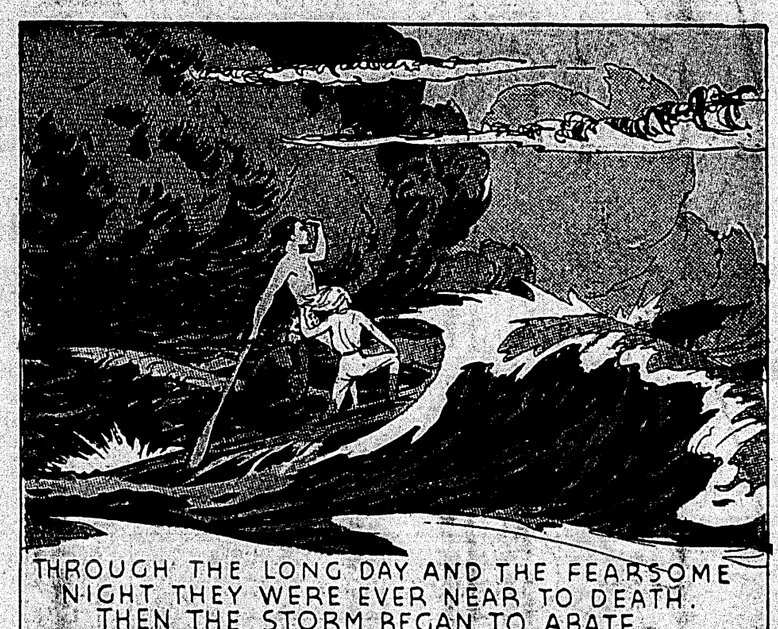
THE STORM ROLLED SWIFTLY OVER THE HORIZON AND WHIPPED DOWN FURIOUSLY UPON THE FRAIL RAFT OF THE THREE FUGITIVES.

THUNDER CRASHED, LIGHTNING SPLIT THE LEADEN SKIES, AND MIGHTY WINDS SET THE SEA A-BOILING.

THE PUNY RAFT WAS TOSSED DIZZILY FROM CREST TO TROUGH OF TOWERING WAVES WHILE TARZAN, SYBIL AND BOHGDU HUNG ON DESPERATELY WITH ACHING HANDS.

ONCE SYBIL LOST HER HOLD. ALMOST SHE WAS SWEPT INTO THE FOAMING SEA. BUT TARZAN REACHED OUT AND SAVED HER.

THE APE ROARED IN A FRENZY OF TERROR. THOUGH HE WAS BRAVE IN BATTLE, FEAR OF THE STORM WAS IN THE BLOOD OF HIS RACE.



THROUGH THE LONG DAY AND THE FEARSOME NIGHT THEY WERE EVER NEAR TO DEATH. THEN THE STORM BEGAN TO ABATE.

BOHGDU, NOW MADDENED BY HUNGER AS WELL AS TERROR, STARTED TO GNAW THE VINES THAT HELD THE RAFT TOGETHER.

HIS MASTER CUFFED HIM SHARPLY, AND THE REASONLESS APE SNARLED. "POOR FELLOW," SAID TARZAN. "ANYWAY WE SHALL ALL STARVE TOGETHER."

SYBIL SMILED WEAKLY AND DREW SOME FRUIT FROM HER POCKETS. "I GATHERED IT WHILE YOU WERE BUILDING THE RAFT," SHE SAID PROUDLY.

HALF OF IT SHE DIVIDED EQUALLY AND RESTORED THE REST TO HER POCKETS. BOHGDU GULPED HIS SHARE AND CRIED FOR MORE.

SYBIL MADE A NEGATIVE GESTURE. BOHGDU UNDERSTOOD, AND NOW HIS EYES BLAZED WITH MURDEROUS FURY. HE WAITED HIS CHANCE.
